HYGIENIC FIBRE CO. IN MERGER; HEAD OFFICE TO BE IN BRIDGEPORT

Announcement was made Sunday by the Hygiene Fibre Co. of Versailles of the merger of three allied manufacturing concerns, viz; the Bay company of Bridgeport, manufacturers of surgical dressings, the Hygienic Fibre company and the Comfort Powder company of Boston. Through the merger the Hygienic Fibre company, which has specialized in the hospital field, joins forces with the Bay company, whose endeavors have been in the retail drug field.

For the present there will be few manufacturing changes, but ultimately certain operations will be concentrated in Bridgeport and others in Versailles. It is expected that all of the adhesive and medicated plasters and bandages will be manufactured, put up and shipped at Bridgeport which will be the main plant and head office, while the cotton and bulk gauze products and sanitary napkins will be manufactured and shipped from the Versailles plant in most instances.

The Hygienic Fibre company dates back to about 1905 when it was organized by John H. Flagler, also prominent in the organization of the United Drug company. This company was the first to manufacture a cotton sanitary napkin and to this day holds a dominant position in this field by virtue of automatic manufacturing equipment and progressive merchandising methods. In addition to the napkins, the Hygiene Fibre company manufactures a complete line of surgical dressings including bandages, surgical gauze and absorbent cotton.

In the Hygiene Fibre concern, the Bay company secures a modern cotton and gauze bleachery in addition to a volume of business almost equal to its own. The Bay company, up to the present time, has purchased its gauze in the grey state and contracted for the bleaching and has purchased bleached cotton in header rolls to be converted into smaller put up. Now it will bleach the gauze used and manufacture and bleach absorbent cotton in its own bleachery and absorbent cotton plant at a great saving in cost. Operation of its own plant will also insure a uniform and better quality of merchandise.

The Hygienic Fibre company does a large business with the hospitals throughout the country, while the Bay company up to the present time has made little or no effort to secure this business, confining its activities more to the wholesale and retail drug fields and hospital and physician supply dealers.

Branch offices are maintained by the Hygienic Fibre company in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco. These will be consolidated with the Bay company offices and the two sales forces will be combined and coordinated.

Flint Brayton treasurer and general manager of the Hygienic Fibre company, will remain with organization as manager of the Versailles plant. He brings to the organization a wealth of experience and knowledge of textile mill production and bleaching, through his own experience. J. J. Brady, will remain with the Versailles plant as superintendent, J. S. Britton, vice president and sales manager, and B. R. Lehman, works manager of the Bay company, formerly held similar positions with the Hygienic Fibre company.

The Comfort Powder company was organized in 1888 by Dr. Sykes of Hartford, although prior to this time the well known Sykes Comfort Powder had been put up under a doctor's prescription. Later this business was purchased by Boston interests and moved to that city. The Bay company now purchases, in addition to the other assets, all formulas, trademarks, and good-will of the nationally known Sykes Comfort Powder, a soothing medicated toilet powder for adults, children and infants; Paxtine, an antiseptic hygienic powder; Sykes After Shaving Powder; Sykes Foot Powder; Comfort Soap; Mrs. Mason's Old English Hair Tonic and Mrs. Mason's Shampoo Cream. This business has already been moved to Bridgeport and housed in the Bishop avenue plant where production will begin as soon as new equipment is installed. After years of public acceptance of these articles, there is a constant national demand which the Bay company expects to gradually increase through adequate advertising and general sales promotion which this line has lacked in recent years.

As a result of the merger of these three companies which has been possible without the necessity of additional financing, the Bay company will more than double its sales and at the same time will reduce manufacturing costs on its original volume. Other economies of the consolidation will be effected by reduction in overhead and sales expense.

The Bay company was originally organized in New York ten years ago by Charles U. Bay, now president and general manager of the combined companies. It was then known as the Atlantic Surgical Cotton company. The company purchased the plant of the Whiting Manufacturing company and moved to Bridgeport in 1925 and the following year was incorporated as the Bay company. Since organization, the company's business has increased annually from twenty-five to sixty per cent until today, with the present acquisition, it holds a dominant position in the surgical dressing field having now rounded out its line of manufacture and opened up new channels of distribution.

SIX SMALLPOX CASES AT DOYLE'S CROSSING

Six cases of smallpox have cropped out in two houses at Doyle's Crossing, in the town of Groton, about half-way between Mystic and Noank. In consequence of this free there are vaccination clinics for adults at the offices of Drs. Allyn, Hill and Douglass, physicians in the town of Groton. Clinics for vaccinating children are to be held in the school houses.

The first victim of the disease was Elmer Doyle, aged 34, who on April 13 showed signs of becoming ill. A physician, after making a diagnosis decided the man did not have smallpox. At the time he was working in a large meat market.

He was allowed to go out again and during the next week or two, he traveled in New London, Mystic, Noank and Groton. He demonstrated the operation of automobiles to persons and drove a number of persons about.

Recently Mrs. Doyle, 33 years of age, a clerk in the Noank post office was taken ill. Her case was also not recognized as smallpox and she was dealing with the public and handling mail that came in and went out.

The next person to show signs of illness was Elizabeth Doyle, aged 39 sister of Elmer Doyle. Then the family changed doctors and Dr. W. H. Hill of Noank was called in. He immediately became suspicious that smallpox had its grip on the three persons and this belief has been verified by state authorities.

Frank Fish, 20, afterwards came down sick and his wife, aged 34 now has symptoms. Mildred Eccleston, 13 also is developing the disease.

All six cases are in two houses at Doyle's Crossing but the physicians find that the whole region has been exposed.

COMMISSIONER M'LEAN COMING FOR FARMER-CITY MEETING

S. McLean Buckingham, commissioner of agriculture for the state of Connecticut, has accepted the invitation of the Norwich chamber of commerce to act as toastmaster at the Farmer-City meeting to be held on May 20 at Lyman high school building in Lebanon. Mr. Buckingham has also agreed to make a few remarks on Connecticut agriculture.

Invitations are being extended by the committee in charge of this event to practically every farmer in New London county as well as the 477 members of the Norwich chamber of commerce.

The League of Women Voters in the town of Lebanon have agreed to feature a chicken pie supper and it is reasonably certain that this will prove an added attraction. Inasmuch as the capacity of the hall is limited to 200, reservations will be filled in the order of their receipt. The price of the dinner is to be $1.00. Transportation will be provided for all those who do not own a car. Reservations for transportation should also be made through the chamber office.

The principal speaker on this occasion is to be Fred Kammler of Dubuque, Iowa. Mr. Kammler is the second oldest breeder of Guernsey cattle in Iowa and while he has an enviable reputation as a farmer, he is also noted as an accomplished public speaker having spoken in over 2,000 places from Vancouver, British Columbia, to Syracuse, New York, and from Galveston, Texas, to Regina, Saskatchewan. He is a director of the Dubuque chamber of commerce and chairman of its agricultural committee. He is a member of the Rotary club and in a letter addressed to the secretary, he requested him to arrange for his Rotary attendance during the week he is to be here in the east.

Several competitive entertainment features are to be put on by the 4-H clubs of the county under the leadership of R. W. Whaples. Prizes are to be awarded by a committee of judges of the chamber of commerce for the most entertaining number presented in a period not to exceed three minutes. It is expected that several towns will enter this competition. Already assurance has been received from two boys in Franklin who are quite adept in playing the harmonica.

Walter T. Clark, secretary of the New London County Farm bureau, is the chairman of the agricultural committee of the chamber which is sponsoring this dinner. It is the first move made by the committee in an effort to create a better understanding between the business interests of Norwich and the problems of agriculture as faced by the farmer. It is also a move to promote better acquaintance.

Already several members of the chamber have enthusiastically endorsed the plan of the meeting in the country and it is anticipated that a large attendance of both men and women will take advantage of this meeting.

A committee toured the territory and visited several halls which might be used to advantage for such a meeting. The towns visited included North Stonington, Preston, Norwich Town and Lebanon. It was finally decided that the first meeting of this character would be held in Lebanon an invitation having been received from Fred Abell strongly urging the chamber to come as the people in Lebanon were very anxious to cooperate in this event. On some future occasion it may be possible to hold another such dinner in one of the other towns.

Burgess Bedtime Story

One Thing After Another
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The willful one who disobeys
In fright and trouble always pays.
—Old Mother Nature.

That was a lucky little Duckling over there in the pond of Paddy the Beaver. If Rattles the Kingfisher had not frightened him with a harsh cry when he did, there would have been no more stories about that little Duckling. As it was, he just missed going down inside the white-and-yellow waistcoat of Old Mr. Bullfrog, who had leaped for him just as he turned to swim away. No little Duckling was ever more scared. That great Frog had been a monster to the little Duckling, who never before had seen a Frog.

Mr. Frog swam back and climbed up his big green lilypad. The little Duckling hid among some weeds and, oh! how he did wish he had not thought of disobeying Mother Wood Duck. How he did long to be back with his brothers and sisters, close to Mother Wood Duck! He didn't make a sound. He didn't dare to make a sound. But he shivered and shook inside his little downy coat.

"I didn't know there were such dreadful things in the Great World," said he to himself. "I guess I don't want to see any more of the Great World. I just want my mother. But I don't know where my mother is. I hope there are no more monsters around like that one which so nearly caught me. Oh dear, what shall I do now?"

The little Duckling remained quiet as long as he could and he really did very well for a little fellow. But when he could remain still no longer, he began to swim very slowly and carefully. By this time he hadn't the least idea in which direction Mother Wood Duck had gone. He was all turned around. And it suddenly came to him that now he must look out for himself and that he didn't even know where to go to look for food. In among the weeds he found some insects, and these he ate greedily. He felt better then. His spirits rose. "I guess I can take care of myself after all," said the little Duckling boastfully, and started to swim out to the open water. But just then he happened to look up and sailing low above the water was a great broad-winged bird. The Duckling stopped swimming. He remained motionless. Fortunately, the weeds grew rather thick where he was.

The shadow of those broad wings passed over him. He didn't know why, but a feeling of great fear took possession of him. Something inside him told him that that was an enemy. It was. It was a hungry hawk, who would have liked nothing better than to discover that little Duckling. But the Hawk didn't discover him and passed on, disappearing above the tops of the trees. Once more the Duckling drew a long breath. But once more he wished with all his might that Mother Duck was at hand.

"I want to get away from here! I want my mother! I don't want to be alone!" cried the frightened little Duckling. Then he stopped crying. He froze. That means that he kept perfectly still. Just outside the weeds someone was swimming. He could see a little brown head with the brightest of bright eyes. He felt sure those bright eyes must see him. He didn't know who the stranger was, but once more something inside him whispered that he should keep still. And so he did. The swimmer suddenly turned and went out farther into the pond. Then the brown head disappeared. The swimmer had disappeared under water. Have you guessed who the swimmer was? It was Billy Mink. Yes, sir, it was Billy Mink. It was well for that Duckling that Billy hadn't seen him. Billy would rather have had young Duckling for dinner than anything else in the world.

"Oh, dear! It's one thing after another!" sobbed the little Duckling when he finally started on again.

MOTORCYCLIST STRUCK AND KILLED BY A TRAIN

BUSINESS AND TRADE CONDITIONS REMAINED SATISFACTORY LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, May 12—(AP)—General business and trade conditions remained satisfactory last week, with factory industries generally maintaining the high rate of activity reached during March and held through April. Retail trade, however, was again hampered by unseasonable weather in many sections and a sharp break in wheat prices to the lowest levels in five years was somewhat unsettling.

The steel industry showed practically no signs of a seasonable decline, and the U. S. Steel corporation reported a slight increase in unfilled orders during April, despite the fact that mills were operated practically at capacity during the month. This was the first increase reported for April, unusually a month seasonal slack, since 1922.

The automobile industry continued its record operations, with decreases in production at some plants offset by increases at others. The heavy export demand was reported as well maintained.

All eyes are now turned on the motor industry, as the high rate of output has been largely responsible for the extraordinary activity in steel and many other lines. Preliminary estimates of April motor production indicate a slight gain over March and a new high record, and many observers feel that a sharp decline must come before July 1.

A more cheerful attitude prevailed in the petroleum industry, as gasoline consumption gained rapidly and prices were firmer.

Building contracts let during April were largest reported since June of 1928, and the largest for any April since last year. Operations during early May, however, still failed to reach the 1928 level.

Wheat prices broke to below $1 a bushel, a decline of about 20 cents from the best prices of the year, as result of the large export surplus in leading exporting countries.

Cotton lost much of its gains of the previous week, and the primary textile markets turned quiet. Hides were again under pressure, with resulting unsettlement in the shoe industry.

FAST ACTION EXPECTED AT BOUTS AT NEW LONDON ON TUESDAY EVENING

The bout that every boxing fan in Connecticut has been longing for and one that every promoter has tried to make for the past year was clinched yesterday when Promoter Ernest Fakourey of New London signed Al Beauregard of Taftville to box Al Gillette of New London, in the star bout of eight rounds for the bantamweight championship of Connecticut at the Hamilton street arena next Tuesday night.

These boys are natural rivals both being French and possessors of a knockout punch in either hand with each having scores of admirers who are willing to back their favorite to the limit.

This bout has all the earmarks of being the most vicious ever staged in these parts as there is no doubt but that one or the other will score with the big punch before the eighth round as there is no love between them and both have a world of confidence in their ability to outpunch the other. Both boys have a long list of knockouts with Gillette leading having scored 16 in his last 22 bouts.

Another star bout of the eight rounds featuring Pete DeGrasse, sensational French-Indian of New York, who in two bouts broke even with Hughie Devlin, and Jimmy Picardi of Boston who lost a close decision to Devlin last summer has been arranged by Promoter Fakourey. This bout brings together a very fast and shifty fighter in DeGrasse and a clever fighter with a punch in Picardi. The winner of this bout has been promised a match with the winner of the Gillette and Beauregard bout.

One bout that will bring out some heavy punching is the six round bout between Ralph Kid Wagner who made a successful comeback last week and Rene Lubear of New Haven, the boy that made a hit with his punching last summer against Young McCarthy of Norwich and Gene Pecheeni also of Norwich.

Both of these boys depend upon their sock to win and as both are out to climb the fistic ladder they can be depended upon to provide thrills galore.

Four bouts of four rounds complete the card bringing together Vic Darr of Norwich and Art Polowitzer of Hartford, Dutch Whitley of the Coast Guard and Eddie Novack of the Submarine Base, Julio Rossi of Westerly and Jack Vogart of New Haven and Johnny Bedell of New London with Tim Connors of New Haven.

GIANTS AND CUBS BATTLE TO 6 TO 6 TIE SCORE

NEW YORK, May 12—(AP)—The Giants and the Cubs played a spirited 6 to 6 tie in eleven innings here today as the series ended. Rain and approaching darkness ended the combat, played before a capacity crowd of 50,000.

Home runs played a major part in the battle. Nine of the twelve runs were directly due to four-base pokes, Kiki Cuyler and Hack Wilson hit early homers for the Cubs while Mel Ott retaliated for the Giants, the bases being empty on each occasion. Fred Lindstrom then caught one of Art Nehf's benders on the nose in the sixth with two aboard, only to have Gabby Hartnett do the same thing to Carl Hubbell in the next round with Gonzales and English on base. Hartnett was serving as a pinch batsman.

A wild throw by Hornsby put the Giants ahead again in their own half of the seventh, but the Cubs tied it again in the eighth on Wilson's double, an out and Heathcote's sacrifice fly. Cuyler got three singles in addition to his homer, but had to retire from the game with a wrenched leg.

Jonnard, Bush and Cvengros followed Nehf into the box for the Cubs, while Mays relieved Hubbell.

The failure of the Cubs to win dropped them back into second place. The Cardinals moved to the front by half a game due to their victory over Brooklyn. Score:

REDS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF ERRORS BY BRAVES

BOSTON, Mass., May 12—(AP)—Cincinnati rushed through to a 9 to 3 victory over the fumbling Braves before a 25,000 Sunday crowd this afternoon. The home warriors made five errors and although they hit Rixey hard, were unable to hit them both safely and in clusters. Swanson, Allen and Clark made better than ordinary outfield catches and Boston used up four pitchers. Delaney, Leverett, Greenfield and Hearn, in that order. Boston made 2? assists and had a total of 57 chances in a nine inning game. Victory gave Cincinnati a 2 to to 1 edge over the Braves.

Didja ever have a severe attack of auto salesmanitis?

Gosh, I'm right in the midst of a very severe case. You can't eat, you can't sleep and you can't get nothing done around the house.

Your head is in a whirl and all you can think of is ignition, pistons, carburetors, cross members, shock absorbers, pick-up and acceleration, etc. Gosh, I thought I knew a lot about an automobile but I guess I'm a washout now.

Them salesmen have been on my trail for two weeks now and I ain't even got 'em breathing hard. For patience and persistence them boys are champs.

When you say "No, I don't want to buy no car" they think it's an invitation to bring around another buggy to show you. When they see you riding in another car they're hot after you the next day.

They call you on the telephone before you are out of bed in the morning and they won't let you go to bed at night. They just want you to look over this new model and then they buzz in your ear for two hours.

Believe me, those babies are high pressure and I don't mean maybe. Every time I hear the bell ring now I run and grab my hat I'm so sure one of 'em is going to take me for a ride.

During the past coupla weeks I've ridden so much that if you put each mile end to end I'd have crossed the continent and would now be out in the Pacific ocean somewhere.

And the ice cream and pop-corn, etc., that I've consumed at their expense would make a real party for an orphan asylum. Those boys can be mighty generous when they think they are going to hit the old bank roll for a coupla grand.

The only time I got real sore was the other day when one called when I was ironing and I forgot and left the electric flat going and when I come back there was a nice hole burned in the ironing board. Not on y that but hubby's shirt was between the flat and the ironing board.

Now if I want to go out by myself I sneak out the back way for fear I'll find one camped on the front porch.

I feel like a girl who is being courted by a lotta beaus. When I make my decision there's going to be a lotta boys who will be disappointed.

Well, they're a great bunch of boys and I've had a lotta fun even if I am all tired out.

Don't forget folks, that there's a red hot caucus on at the town hall tonight. Come and see the fireworks, for there's sure to be some. The more the merrier.

YANKS DROP TO FIRST PLACE TIE BY LOSING TO DETROIT

DETROIT, May 12—(AP)—With a crowd of 45,000 making life miserable for outfielders, the Detroiter Tigers today showed the Yankees down into a tie for first place in the American league with the Athletics, who were rained out in Cleveland. The score was 9 to 7.

Waite Hoyt was maltreated to the tune of 16 hits in seven innings before Miller Huggins substituted Ed. Wells, who once was a Tiger himself. Six of the Tiger blows were "ground rule" doubles. Earl Whitehill suffered even more from the special rules, however, for of the Yankees eight hits, seven were doubles into the crowd.

Lil Stoner quelled a Yankee uprising in the ninth which threatened to overrun the three run lead with which the Tigers entered the inning. Whitehill walked Ruth and Gehrig and then let Bob Meusel single, scoring Ruth. With two on base and Lazerri up Bucky Harris inserted Stoner. Lazerri sent a fly to Harry Heilmann.

CARDS CONTINUE TO WIN. BEATING ROBINS BY 13 TO 7

BROOKLYN, May 12—(AP)—The Cardinals swept their three games in Brooklyn, defeating the Robins in the final clash here today by 13 to 7. Brooklyn played ragged ball, making seven errors, and suffered its sixth successive defeat.

Willie Sherdel southpawed his way through the Brooklyn batting order of the entire distance, although he was combed for thirteen hits the while. He never lost an early lead the Red Birds piled up for him. The Cardinals larruped four Brooklyn pitchers for 15 safeties, including a home run by Taylor Douthitt and four hits by Frankie Frisch. CORNELL CREWS GIVEN WELCOME AT ITHACA

ITHACA, N. Y., May 12—(AP)—Several thousand Cornell undergraduates gave the victorious Red and White crews a hearty reception this afternoon when they returned after winning two out of three races with Harvard and M. I. T. at Cambridge, Mass., yesterday.

Headed by the cadet band the students paraded to the station where they cheered and serenaded the oarsmen and coaches. It was the first celebration of its kind here for many years, and Cornell navy enthusiasts heralded the occasion as significant of Cornell's start to regain its lost rowing supremacy.

Billy Tirrell is Now a Catcher

Billy Tirrell, former Academy outfielder, caught for the Wesleyan freshmen as they lost their second game of the season Saturday to Pomfret school at Pomfret, 7 to 6.

SLUGGING ACADEMY TEAM SWAMPS WINDHAM IN LEAGUE GAME, 22 TO 3

The Academy went on their wildest batting rampage of the year Saturday at the campus and they slammed three Windham high pitchers to all corners of the lot for a 22 to 3 win. Windham's 8 errors also helped mount up the score. Seventeen hits for a total of 23 bases was the toll of the Wildcat bats as they drove Warren, starting pitcher and Levine from the hill and treated Lamson rather rudely.

It's the Tenth Straight

This was the Red and White team's tenth straight victory of the year and it further boosted them in the lead of the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic league race. They now have won four games in this circuit and are the only undefeated team. Chapman Tech being their only dangerous opponent. Tech plays here Wednesday in probably the most important game of the league season.

A big fourth inning was what made Saturday's game such a one-sided affair. The Wildcats ran wild in this frame, almost batting around twice and scoring ten times. They had six runs previous to this, one in the first and five in the third and then they finished up with four in the fifth and two in the seventh. Windham scored its runs in the sixth when Merrill, centerfielder, hit for the circuit with two on.

Weisgraber Has It Easy

Butsy Weisgraber coasted along in easy fashion to his fourth victory of the year. With a 20 run lead he let down a bit and Windham was able to get five of their six hits made off him in the sixth and seventh frames. (G) McGuinniss pitched the last two innings and got by in good shape.

Hal Cummings led the Wildcat hitters with a perfect day, three singles and a double in four trips to the plate while Buck LaCroix had three out of six, including a triple and two singles. Alec Arico, Chubby Gibbs and Anso Tombari hit safely twice each.

Big Crowd Out

A big crowd turned out for the game and most of them stayed to the end principally to watch the state champs fatten their batting averages. The box score:

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

Two games this week, both with New London teams. Wednesday Chapman Tech, which probably came the closest to trimming the Wildcats this year, faces them at the campus. Saturday the state champs meet their ancient rival, Bulkeley, at New London. There is talk of making Wednesday's game a twilight affair.

Such a game was relief to Academy nerves after the close tussles of the past two weeks.

Weisgraber seems to be a good all-round man. Not content with pitching perfectly well, he slammed a double to the scoreboard in the fifth, scoring Pepin and also figured in a squeeze play, laying down a perfect bunt on which Tombari scored. Weisgraber batted in four runs.

Chubby Gibbs contributed the fielding sparkler with a stop and throw on Warren in the eighth.

The crowd jammed the bleachers to capacity and there were quite a few standing. There were probably around 2,000 all told.

The Academy's only error was charged to Buck LaCroix when he dropped Merrill's hoist in the first. It was an excusable one for Buck had to come in back of second after it and there was also some misunderstanding as to who would take it.

Runs were batted in by: Arico, 1, Cummings, 2, LaCroix, 4, Fagan, 2, Tombari, 3, Fontaine, 1, Weisgraber, 4.

Les Crowell again got into the game, catching McGuinniss the last two innings. Crowell looks good behind the plate.

Bud Fontaine caught the game without stockings not for a fad but because he lost them.

Capt. Jack Marks returned to the lineup, batting for Fontaine in the seventh. After fouling off a couple of long ones he fanned. Jack got a big hand.

There was a first-base "gang" Saturday and they had some fun with Zenhoff, Windham first baseman. The third base delegation took Levine for the "ride" Saturday.

Merrill's home run was a looping fly into right that bounded under the autos.

MISS COLLETT EXPECTED TO MEET MISS WETHERED IN FINALS

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 12—(AP)—Interest in the British women's golf championship, starting over famous St. Andrews course tomorrow, centers largely in the bids of Glenna Collett, American champion, Marion Hollins and Marion Turple to take the title to America for the first time.

Placed in opposite halves of the draw, Miss Collett and Joyce Wethered, famous British star, probably will clash in the final round Friday.

Emerging from several years retirement from championship competition, Miss Wethered, thrice holder of the title, has come to St. Andrews and her place last week in the Scottish-English international matches showed her game has lost none of its effectiveness. During these matches Miss Wethered disposed of her opponents by such ample scores as 9 and 7 and 4 and 3.

The American champion, who has found the English championship a jinx in previous years, has had a week's practice at St. Andrews in all sorts of weather and her game is at its best.

CHARLEY ROSEN NOW AT SCHILLER'S CAMP

Charley Rosen, bantamweight of New York, is at Schiller's camp up on the Colchester road for a few weeks. Charley is recuperating from a recent illness before returning to the pugilistic wars in the metropolitan rings. The kid looks hale and hearty and as though the country air up at the farm was doing him a world of good.

ACADEMY SECONDS CLASH WITH BULKELEY TODAY

The Academy second team starts off today on a six-game schedule, meeting the New London Bulkeley Junior Varsity at the campus at 4 p. m. Coach Earle E. Brigham of the Wildcat baseball forces has lined up a few games for this squad in the hope of giving them experience for future seasons. Practically all of them are under-classmen and may, some day, represent their school on the varsity, in fact several of them have a good chance of doing that little thing.

Monday, May 13, Bulkeley (N. L.) at Norwich.
Thursday, May 16, Bacon Academy at Colchester.
Monday, May 20, Lyman high at Lebanon.
Wednesday, May 22, Bacon Academy at Norwich.
Monday, May 27, Bulkeley at New London.
Monday June 3, Lyman at Norwich.

The games with Lyman and Bacon are with their first and only teams. The start is being made at 4 o'clock today as a sort of experiment. The sun at the campus is bad for twilight ball and Coach Brigham is desirous of seeing what effect it will have on the players today. If it pans out well the Chapman Tech varsity game Wednesday will start at that time, thus allowing many more to see it than at the usual 3 o'clock starting time.

BROWNS POUND OUT EASY WIN OVER BOSTON

ST. LOUIS, May 12.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns went on a hitting rampage today and lambasted three Boston hurlers for 18 blows to win the final game of the series, 15 to 3 in seven innings. The game was called before the seventh inning was over because of a downpour of rain.

The Browns fell upon Russell in the first inning for four hits and seven runs before he was sent to the showers. Bayne who succeeded Russell, was nicked for 10 hits before he gave way to Durham in the seventh. Schang and McGowan hit for the circuit, accounting for four runs. Roth Rock, Red Sox outfielder, also got a homer. Collins held Boston to 6 hits

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

"The Desert Song," Warner Bros.' latest Vitaphone novelty—a complete screen operetta, with music, songs, choruses, dances, dialogue — scored a magnificent success last night upon its first presentation in this city at the Broadway Theatre. It is a novelty, but an enchanting one, and points the way to still greater triumphs for talking and singing pictures—the production of entire grand operas upon the screen.

"The Desert Song" retains all the charm, color, action, romance and tropic love of the stage production, but greatly enhanced by the motion picture camera's power of motion. The desert scenes were made in a desert and not in front of painted backdrops. The desert castle of the Caid, with the splendors of its Oriental architecture, would fill several stages. The story gains in dramatic power and picturesqueness because of the natural backgrounds.

Warner Bros. were fortunate in being able to select a cast of such excellent singers, most of whom have had both stage and screen training. John Boles, tenor lead, sang the same role in the stage presentation of "The Desert Song" and has been a screen leading man for several years. Carlotta King, lyric soprano, is a concert and radio artist of note. Their voices register perfectly on Vitaphone, are true in tone and sweet in quality. Marie Wells, Robert E. Gueman also give splendid singing performances. Others in the excellent cast are John Miljan, Edward Martindel, Myrna Loy, Jack Pratt, Otto Hoffman and Del Elliott. The large chorus is well trained and possess fine singing voices. Roy Del Ruth's direction is splendid and the photography is magnificent.

"The Desert Song" is one of the best entertainments the screen has ever offered. Fast action and colorful drama are supplemented with all of Sigmund Romberg's delightful music and the vocal solos, duos and choruses that helped the stage version to its great success.

Five Liversedge (Yorkshire, England) mine workers are running their own colliery. When the collieries of the Low Moor ironworks closed down the men pooled their life savings and bought the Hartshead No. 1 colliery. After they had been working a month one of them said: "We started with 19 men, and now are raising 100 tons a day. We take our turn at the coal face and then look after the shipping, the sale, and the books. At present we run one shift a day of 50 men. We hope in time to get another shift working."

POETRY

A Voice to Burden-Bearers

Sometimes we find the world no place to live in,
Sometimes we feel that life cannot be borne—
The breaking nerve cries out beneath the burdens,
The heartstrings are too sickeningly

hold us,
One bond to keep us underneath the load—
If we lie down, the burdens we have carried Must still be borne along the endless road.

This means more weight upon the burdened shoulders
Of others, weaker mayhap than are we;
And purchased thus, our longed-for rest and freedom
Becomes too dearly-bought a luxury.
From Heaven, too, there comes a Voice that calls us
And bids us lift, and pull, and stagger on,
To square our shoulders just a bit more bravely,
To hope again when we thought hope had gone.

A Voice that whispers to the burden bearers
In understanding love and sympathy,
"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto Me."
—By Agnes S. J. Powers.

TWO

"I will do it," said a toiler
Who was worthy of his hire—
The same conscientious worker
Whom the world turns to admire.

'Twas a task which was unpleasant
To perform—hard, heavy work;
But he was a willing worker
Who was not inclined to shirk.

So, while others took it easy
And declared he was a fool,
He went in with pluck and did it;
For to do things was his rule.

And today he runs the business;
For the man of average skill
Can accomplish great attainment.
If he say—and means—I WILL!
—Charles Horace Meiers, in The Pathfinder.

TWO MARYLAND BOYS INJURED IN TRI-MOTOR COLLISION, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 12— Two sixteen year old boys from Chevy Chase, Maryland, William Rutley and John Birch, were injured this morning at 1.15 o'clock when the auto in which they were riding figured in a tri-motor collision on Town Hill. The former was seriously hurt. Upon arrival at the hospital he was unconscious, but revived after stimulants were given him. The accident occurred as Birch, who was driving in a westerly direction, crashed into the rear of a car being driven by John Lake, 524 Bank street, who was going in the same direction. Upon hitting this auto he swerved to the left and struck a car driven by Andrew Hanson of Pawtucket, R. I. All three cars were badly damaged and the one driven by Birch caught fire. The Niagara Engine company was called out on a still alarm to extinguish the blaze. The cause of the accident is laid to Birch, and as soon as he recovers from his injuries he will be arrested on a charge of reckless driving. John Birch and Rutley were taken to Lawrence Memorial hospital where it was found that the former was suffering from a fracture of the left arm and the latter had abrasions about the head and face and a possible fractured skull.

BLEEDING ARM AND JAIL ALL ICEMAN GETS FOR BREAK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 12—Charles Leaky, 28, and Harold Smith, 30, both of 71 Blackhall street, were in the police court Saturday charged with breaking and entering. Leaky, an ice pedlar, was held for trial at the next term of the superior court and in default of $3,000 bail was committed to jail. The charge against Smith, also an ice pedlar, was nolled.

Leaky was at the home of Smith between 12:30 and 1 o'clock Saturday morning when he left the house for the pretended purpose of purchasing cigarettes. Instead of making the purchase, Leaky went next door to the store of Jacob Lazerow where he smashed a window for the purpose of robbery. The breaking of the glass attracted the attention of a family residing in the same building with the store and they informed the police that a robbery was being attempted. The discoverers of the act of Leaky peered through a window and saw him as he emerged with the cash register, which he carried to the yard, removing its contents, but a small amount of specie. He then returned to the store and securing a quantity of eggs, a pie and several packages of cigarettes, returned to the Smith home. Patrolmen Frank Philopena, Thomas Lyden and Michael Dorsey arrived at the store after Leaky had left, but the residents who summoned them related what they had observed and the officers went to Smith's home where they found Leaky nursing a bleeding arm, which injury he sustained on the broken window. They found also the eggs, pie and cigarettes. Leaky and Smith were arrested, but it later was proven that Leaky alone made the break.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

An intimate, sophisticated revelation of newly-married life is contained in Universal's clever comedy, "Honeymoon Flats," which closes today at the Palace theatre with George Lewis and Dorothy Gulliver co-starring.

The story is well-directed, smooth and progresses evenly under increasing suspense to the very last scene. It is all about the young Claytons, the girl a daughter of wealthy parents and the boy a struggling young college graduate who insists that he support his wife on his own salary despite his mother-in-law's patronizing attitude.

Lewis and Gulliver are both very good in their roles. This pair will be remembered for their featured work in "The Collegian" series of short comedies. Bryant Washburn and Jane Winton are the other married couple, adding much subtle comedy. Kathlyn Williams and Phillips Smalley are the "in-laws." Eddie Phillips, another "Collegians" graduate has a Lothario role.

On the same program patrons at the Palace theatre last night got the thrill of their lives. They saw a scene showing live lions turned loose in an opera house filled with men, women and children. The terror, the panic, the actual injury witnessed among the trapped and struggling mass of humans is almost undescribable. It's a scene you can't forget.

The picture is "The Hero of the Circus," a Universal Thrill feature, made by the Pittaluga Film company of Italy. Maciste, Italian strong man and screen stunt idol, is the star. The story concerns the affairs of the Pommer circus, playing during the indoor season, in a big Roman opera house.

Breed Theatre

Nils Asther, who plays the leading male role in "Dream of Love," which is playing at the Breed Theatre as a new Metro-Goldwin-Mayer feature, has been in the United States less than a year but has made his mark in ten successful film portrayals.

Featured with Joan Crawford in the screen play, directed by Fred Niblo, the young Swedish actor wins new laurels as the royal pretender who falls in love with the strolling gypsy dancing girl.

Among Asther's film appearances since he began a career in this country are "Sorrell and Son," "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," "Our Dancing Daughters" and "The Cardboard Lover."

The new M-G-M feature is a modernization of "Adrienne Lecouvreur," famous old French stage play in which Sarah Bernhardt starred for many seasons. Dorothy Farnum is responsible for the scenario and the elaborate supporting cast includes Aileen Pringle, Carmel Myers and Warner Oland.

A Clarinda (Ia.) couple paid for a marriage license with 300 cents—saved during courtship, they said.

In the 227 Catholic churches and 45 missions of the state Sunday at all the masses there was read a circular letter from Bishop Nilan reminding pastors and people that Sunday next, the feast of Pentecost, is also the day when the faithful will make their offering of the traditional "Peter's pence." As the original Catholics made their offering to St. Peter, head of the church, so this ancient custom still obtains, and the collection is taken for the Vicar of Christ on earth, the Holy Father of over 200,000,000 Catholics throughout the world, Pope Pius XI. The offertory will have special significance this year, since it is the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. From these voluntary gifts the pope is able to meet the numberless calls upon his generosity for charities from every quarter of the globe. The present pope is referred to affectionately as "The Pope of the missions."

Naturally, this entails an enormous amount of work, as it is thoroughly done each year, so that when the census is completed and card-indexed, the rector of the parish, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May is enabled to acquaint his superior with the exact numerical and spiritual standing of the entire parish.

MOTHER'S DAY COMMUNIONS AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

At the three early masses in St. Patrick's church Sunday a great proportion of the men of the congregations received holy communion following confession the previous day—memorializing mothers dead, pleasing and honoring mothers living, although there was no announced or concerted action in this regard. At 9 o'clock, Rev. Myles P. Galvin who assisted Rev. John J. Reilly in administering the Holy Eucharist, was also the preacher, continuing his sermons on the sacrament of Confirmation.

This sacrament imprints upon the soul an indelible character, makes us soldiers of Christ. As in the physical world there are good soldiers and bad soldiers, brave, loyal, loving, obedient as contrasted with the disloyal type, cowards, traitors who traffic with the enemy, deserters, so in the spiritual world. Sin makes one an enemy of Christ, a bad soldier, by evil conduct deny Christ our leader, deserting His standard, entering into traffic with His enemies. Confirmation has the effect of endowing the soul with the seven gifts of the Holy Ghost, unless opposed and blocked by sin.

Father Galvin never has any leniency for weak-kneed Catholics and he referred vigorously to those who virtually deny the founder of their church through an ambition to climb, having the social inferiority complex not seeming to realize that God's greatest gift is faith. He urged every person in the crowded church to be proud of his Catholicity, to love his church, to be active in all that helps his religion, manifesting the effect of confirmation which make us perfect Christians, true soldiers of Jesus Christ.

EPWORTH LEAGUE'S PLACE AMONG METHODIST YOUTH

Youth has always had a place in our Methodism, but not all it should have and was destined to fill, said Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor, in his sermon on the topic, "Epworth League," at the service held Sunday evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Epworth league. Fifty years ago the growing intelligence and the social consciousness of our young people demanded a larger place of usefulness and power. All over the church the young folks were forming themselves into organized groups for study, social life, Christian service. Five of these groups sent representatives to the city of Cleveland in 1889 and formed the Epworth league.

Continuing Rev. Mr. Cooper said in part: What did the young Methodist people want?

Recognition. They were here and could be spurned no longer. Beyond the Sunday school the church made no provision for the needs of the young people. The broadening life of the youth demanded much more than this. All protessions were being crowded by eager feet. In other realms they were finding places of power. In business, social reform, education, young people were making good. The church had to face a readjustment of its attitude towards the young life.

The church needed the young people. Needed their energy, enthusiasm and splendid courage. The young people needed the church. Needed its sincerity, comfort and helpful inspiration. The world is bidding for our young people.

What place have we for them? The young people find life's companionship in the league. The gospel stands for all around personality. The church has at times misinterpreted Jesus Christ. She has frowned upon things lovely and of good report. The license of the middle ages swung to the severity of Puritanism. Makerism and Presbyterianism and then our own Methodism cut itself off from everything light and trifling. Look at the hymns we used to sing: "No room for mirth or trifling here." "What Am I Only Born to Die." I protest against such an attitude toward life. To me it is false, unhealthy and unChristian. Take the play instinct, properly guarded and directed is a rich means of physical and moral growth.

The league has its fun as well as prayer. It dines together, sings together. It makes a joyful noise unto the Lord. It goes out in the summer and climbs the hills and comes home and sends flowers to the sick and shut-in. The league gives opportunity for service. This is a well worn word, yet it is difficult to find a better one. Then there is testimony. The interplay of thought and experience is a great value. It provides fellowship. This is a perfectly rational idea, comradeship of their own age, tastes, longings and pursuits. The league offers this comradeship. It means a large family tie. It enlargers personal ideas and distributes experiences. It develops unexpected talents. It links up the energy of the young life to the life of the church.

75,000 BUILDING TRADES MEN ORDERED LOCKED OUT

Action Taken by the New York Building Trades Employers' Association—Lockout to Become Effective Wednesday at 5 p. m.—Result of a Sympathetic Strike in Support of an Electrical Workers' Union—Conference to Avert Lockout Failed.

NEW YORK, May 13—(AP)—Seventy-five thousand employes of building trades were ordered locked out by a vote of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers' association today. The action becomes effective Wednesday at 5 p. m.

The vote was taken after negotiations to end a dispute between the workmen and employers failed. The unions, which on May 4 won a five-day week for their members, refused to stop a sympathetic strike in support of an electrical workers' union which had refused to supply workers to three contractors who are members of the employers' association.

A conference to avert the lockout, held by the executive committees of the Building Trades Council and the Building Trades Employers' association, this morning failed.

The employers' association committee held a meeting this afternoon at which the lockout was voted.

The Building Trades Council held that the request of the employers for them to withdraw from the sympathetic strike was a "hostile move which drives right at the heart of the council."

A meeting of the council will be held tomorrow to debate the action.

Officials of the employers' association said that the 75,000 workers affected by the lockout order were employed, for the most part, on large buildings and other jobs in Manhattan and the nearer districts of surrounding boroughs. Fifty thousand workmen in outlying suburbs would not be affected, they said.

FAMOUS PEDESTRIAN, EDWARD P. WESTON, DEAD

NEW YORK, May 13—(AP)—Edward Payson Weston, famous pedestrian and veteran of more than 1,000 athletic events died today at his home in Brooklyn. He was 90 years ago.

Mr. Weston whose first claim as a long distance walker dated back to 1861, had been ill since he was struck by a taxicab here two years ago. Recently, after taking a ride out in a wheel chair on his 90th birthday, he had expressed the hope that he might be able to encage in walking in warm weather.

Twice in 1926 the aged pedestrian was found wandering through the streets of New York apparently in a daze, some time after disappearing from Philadelphia, where he then resided. Before his second disappearance his niece, Mrs. Anna O'Hagen, expressed the opinion that he had gone away because he was unable to bear the thought that he, all his savings gone, was forced to live on her slender income and might even become a public charge.

A little more than two years ago he was found nearly destitute in a tiny East Side flat. He had applied for a job as a messenger to save himself, it was said, from starvation. Friends contributed money and food and the New York Press club taking the initiative Wednesday evening had been a police reporter in New York organized a committee to administer a fund for the pedestrian and dedicated 100 newspapers throughout the country to receive public subscriptions.

Meanwhile, the man who had walked across the continent in 100 days, suffered a paralytic stroke in his little flat.

Later a $30,000 fund was set aside for him by Anne Nichols, playwright and producer, which assured him a $150 monthly income.

Two years ago, somewhat improved in health, Mr. Weston had a cheerful 88th birthday as guest of honor at a luncheon of the press club. On that occasion he was presented with a solid silver figure of a winged victory inscribed to "E. P. Weston, champion walker." A short time later he was struck by an automobile while on his way to church to give thanks in prayer for the aid that had been given him.

Although he was able to return to his home from the hospital, he never regained his strength, and friends said one of the saddest days of his life was his 90th birthday when he was unable to take his customary anniversary walk.

MUSSOLINI DESCRIBED THE RECENT LATERAN ACCORD

ROME, May 13—(AP)—Two sovereignties, sharply distinct and well differentiated, perfectly and reciprocally recognized, was the way in which Premier Mussolini described the recent lateran accord before the chamber of deputies today.

By the accord, the premier said, Rome had become the real Catholic capital of the world and at the same time the real political capital of Italy.

Commenting on the formula for conciliation: "A free sovereign church; a free sovereign state" Premier Mussolini said that by this they might find themselves faced with equivocation and it was urgent therefore to clear it up. Such a formula might cause a belief that there were two sovereignties co-existent. But they did not co-exist. On the one side there was the Vatican City and on the other the kingdom of Italy.

"We much persuade ourselves that between the Italian state and the Vatican City there is a distance which can be measured in thousands of kilometres even though five minutes suffice to go to see the latter state and ten to traverse its frontiers," said the premier. "There therefore are two sovereignties, sharply distinct and well differentiated, perfectly and reciprocally recognized."

The premier said the church was not exactly free because "in its institutions and its men, it comes under the general laws of the state and also is subjected to the special clauses of the concordat—for which reason the situation can be defined thus:—the state, supreme in the kingdom of Italy, the Catholic church with certain pre-eminence loyally and voluntarily recognized."

"Rome is no longer the capital of the empire or merely the political capital of Italy," he said. It is the religious capital of all the Italians of all the world and the political capital of that little pontifical state."

DETECTIVE HICKEY STILL STICKS ON SUICIDE THEORY

WINDSOR, Conn., May 13—(AP)—County Detective Edward J. Hickey announced tonight that, though his mind would be open to new evidence, he had closed his investigation into the fatal shooting of Walter Treadway Huntington. He reiterated his conviction that the 20-year-old Harvard junior died a suicide, but admitted the failure to find the pistol which killed the youth weakened his conclusion.

Dr. Henry N. Costello, medical examiner for Hartford, was still inclined to disagree with the county detective and his arguments prolonged a controversy which since early Wednesday has taken on the aspect of an official debate, with no human judge to decide the issue.

FATAL PLANE ACCIDENT IN PROVIDENCE YESTERDAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 13—(AP)—A pilot was fatally injured and his mechanic probably will die, as the result of the crashing of a Challenger biplane near the waterfront of the Washington park section of this city late this afternoon.

Major O. Caylor, of this city, formerly a Narragansett Pier hotel proprietor, was dead upon arrival at the hospital. Ralph Kirker, of Cranston, his mechanic, whom he had engaged this morning, is not expected to live, Rhode Island hospital attaches said.

Caylor was said by eye witnesses to have attempted to right his ship after it had failed, while attaining income out of an outside loop less than 400 feet above the ground. That the pilot realized he was unable to land safely was indicated when, at a short distance from the ground he wildly gesticulated to a 13 year old boy to run. The latter did and before he had gone 50 feet, the plane nose dived into the ground on the spot where he had been standing.

Caylor was to have begun passenger flying to Newport and Block Island Wednesday, operating under the recently incorporated Eastern Airways. He had been in the air today but 14 minutes when he crashed. The ship was demolished.

MRS. GENE TUNNEY HAS RALLIED FROM OPERATION

BERLIN, May 13—(AP)—Mrs. Gene Tunney, the former Polly Lauder, has rallied well from an operation performed under most primitive conditions to relieve an attack of acute appendicitis and is now out of danger.

Professor Arthur Wolf Meyer, the surgeon who performed the operation at the Tunney villa, was asked on his arrival here if Mrs. Tunney was definitely out of danger. "Well rather, otherwise no power on earth would have induced me to leave Brioni," he replied.

Dr. Otto Lenz, a German physician residing at Brioni, was first called in when Mrs. Tunney became ill. He summoned for consultation Dr. Fritz Meyer, who was vacationing there. Professor Arthur Meyer also was on a visit to the island and he was called upon when it appeared that a surgeon would be necessary.

It was agreed that a delay of a few hours might prove fatal and the case was so far advanced that Mrs. Tunney could not be carried to a hospital. Professor Meyer performed the operation at the Tunney villa, assisted by Dr. Lenz, Dr. Fritz Meyer and Mrs. Lenz. He found an abscessed formation on the appendix the size of a small apple which had already perforated into the peritoneum. The surgeon considered the case one of the gravest in his experience.

EFFORT FOR SETTLEMENT OF THE TEXTILE STRIKE

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., May 13—(AP)—The Tennessee federation of labor, meeting at Knoxville, today asked Governor Henry H. Horton to call a conference of employers and textile plant strikers here "for the purpose of adjusting any misunderstanding that prevents a peaceful settlement of this industrial controversy."

The peace move was the third made since the start of the strike and another, previous one that was settled with the granting of wage increases. An effort by a representative of the federal department of labor came on an end with his departure for another textile strike in North Carolina, and Major George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' union of America, told Governor Horton last week he would not continue to act for the governor until the four companies of national guardsmen acting as special peace officers are removed.

Several thousand employes of the American Bemberg silk mill and the Glanzstoff corporation rayon plant have been idle for two weeks, though the two plants, under the same management, have been trying to operate with a reduced force for a week.

MIDDLETOWN STUDENT SENTENCED AT NICE, FRANCE

NICE, France, May 13—(AP)—Cornwall Langton Smith of Middletown, Conn., a student, was sentenced today to six months in prison by the local correctional court. He was convicted of entering the dressing rooms at the Cannes club during the tennis tournament in March several times and stealing money, jewelry and trinkets from the clothing and luggage of the players. The total value was about $500.

EXECUTED FOR MURDER OF MARGUERITE I. STEWART

BOSTON, May 14—(AP)—Frederick Ellsman Knowlton, Jr., of Framingham was put to death in the electric chair at the state prison shortly after midnight for the murder of Marguerite I. Stewart, Beverly school teacher. He entered the death chamber at 12:03:05 o'clock and was pronounced dead at 12:13:45.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LYONS, France, May 13—(AP)—Edouard Herriot, former premier of France, announced he would relinquish his office as mayor of Lyons, his radical unionists having failed to secure a majority in the city council at today's municipal election.

VATICAN CITY, May 13—(AP)—Pope Pius XI is intensely interested in seeing a happy settlement of the Catholic church differences with the government of Mexico. He said this today to Bishop Emmanuel B. Ledvina of Corpus Christi, Texas, whose diocese lies largely along the Mexican border.

BRISBANE, Australia, May 13—(AP)—The general election for the Queensland legislative assembly resulted in a crushing defeat for the labor government which had held office for 14 years. Before the election the laborites had 43 seats and the nationalists 19. The new figures give the nationalists 44, labor 26 and independents 2. The speaker of the house was defeated as well as three and possibly four ministers.

LIMIT OF WATER DIVERSION FROM THE SWIFT RIVER

BOSTON, May 13—(AP)—The secretary of war today notified the Metropolitan district commission of Boston, as to the limit of water that might be appropriated by the commission from the Swift river in the Connecticut river basin above the Massachusetts-Connecticut state line.

"It is found that discharge of 4900 cubic feet per second at Sunderland, Mass., corresponds to average lower low tide gage heights of 2.1 at Hartford, Conn., and that discharge of 4,650 cubic feet per second at Sunderland corresponds to average lower low tide gage heights of 2.0 at Hartford," the secretary informed the commission.

"From studies of past records it appears there will be no substantial alterations of modifications of conditions or navigable capacity of the channel of the navigable portion of the Connecticut river if the flow of water from the Swift river as provided in the terms of chapter 321 of act of 1927 (Massachusetts) be augmented during the critical period from June 1 to November 30, both inclusive, so that the measured rates of the discharge of the Swift river shall be 70 cubic feet per second or such days as the U. S. geological gage at Sunderland indicates the discharge of the Connecticut river at that point to be less than 4900 cubic feet per second and more than 4650 cubic feet per second and shall be further augmented so that the measured rates of discharge past the impounding dam on the Swift river shall be 110 cubic feet per second on such days as the geological gage at Sunderland indicates the discharge of the Connecticut river at that point to be 4650 cubic feet per second or less. The rates of discharge as set forth above are subject to review based on more complete data which may become available in the future."

NO DEVELOPMENTS BY REPARATIONS EXPERTS

PARIS, May 13—(AP)—Spokesmen for the experts of the reparations conference were silent tonight as far as news of the experts' work was concerned. Everybody was cut off until tomorrow night when, it was admitted, there may be some information.

It was only known today that work on the report of the second Dawes committee went on under the direction of Sir Josiah Stamp, British delegate, with the collaboration of Doctor Hjalmar Schacht, chief of the German delegation.

Progress on the report does not necessarily mean that the experts are agreed on all points. The peculiar method of work adopted, which calls for incorporation in the report of contested points, was made obligatory by the fact that the Germans refused otherwise to put on paper the conditions under which they were willing to accept the annuities plan proposed by Chairman Owen D. Young.

CONGRESSMAN MICHAELSON BROTHER-IN-LAW INDICTED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 13.—(AP)—Walter Gramm, Chicago coal dealer and brother-in-law of Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson, was indicted by a federal grand jury here today on charges of violating the tariff act in connection with liquor found in trunks at the terminal station.

Specifically the indictment charged Gramm with one of the two counts on which the Chicago congressman was acquitted after trial in Key West last week.

Gramm, star defense witness at the Michaelson trial, testified that three of six trunks seized by dry officers here and resulting in indictments of Michaelson, belonged to him. He stood on his constitutional rights when asked if the trunks contained any liquor and the government promptly arrested him the day following the acquittal of the congressman.

Gramm's indictment charges he unlawfully and knowingly facilitated the transportation and concealment of liquor, knowing it to have been imported into this country contrary to law.

DIED FROM EFFECTS OF RATTLESNAKE'S BITE

NEW YORK, May 13—(AP)—Charles E. Snyder, head keeper of mammals and reptiles in the New York Zoological garden and one of the best known reptilian scientists in the world, died today in the Good Samaritan hospital at Suffern, N. Y., from the effects of a rattlesnake's bite.

Mr. Smith was bitten yesterday afternoon while on a rattlesnake hunting trip in the Ramapo hills. He was taken immediately to the hospital where injections of rattlesnake poison serum were given him. They seemingly did no good and Dr. Raymond L. Dittmars, Smith's former chief at the zoological gardens, started from here for Suffern with a supply of the famous Brazilian serum. He arrived too late, Mr. Smith dying a short time before Dr. Dittmars reached the hospital.

GOV. TRUMBULL GOING ON FISHING TRIP IN MAINE

HARTFORD, May 13—(AP)—The adjournment of the legislature having removed the necessity for hasty consideration of bills submitted to him for approval, Gov. Trumbull said today that he expected to take the bulk of the measures awaiting his action to Maine with him in the hope that he can give them more careful study there. He will leave Friday for a fishing trip and has set no date for his return, which he expected will be about June 1.

Opposition Develops To House Tariff Bill

It is Reported That the Measure Will Encounter Administration Disapproval.

WASHINGTON, May [illegible]—Administration disapproval of the house tariff bill as a whole, with a number of specific rates in it [illegible] is becoming more manifest [illegible] measure is studied by President [illegible]over's close advisers.

While general debate on the committee measure went forward today in the house, word went forth that the schedules proposed on building materials and sugar were receiving close scrutiny at the white house along with a number of others affecting manufactured products.

The transferring of cement, brick and shingles from the free to the dutiable list was said to be giving administration officers concern as they might result in increased costs in the construction of homes as well as other buildings.

A substitute sugar schedule is being studied by advisers to the president, who are seeking to work out a sliding scale of duties which would leave present rates undisturbed during any except abnormal times. One suggestion is that the higher duties would be imposed only when over-production in Cuba and other world fields threatened the American cane and beet industry.

There are suggestions that efforts be made to bring about changes during house consideration of the measure by amendments. Should these fail, the administration then would turn to the senate finance committee which is expected to rewrite the house bill at least in large measure.

The tariff question daily is carried to the president by congressional callers, some of whom seek higher rates, but most of whom advocate a much more limited revision than the house has proposed. In many instances the latter want decreases in the rates the republicans of the ways and means committee have proposed.

Suggestions for limitation strike a responsive chord with the president who, both in his inaugural address and his message at the opening of the special session, declared for a "limited" revision. In his message he proposed that secondary rates be left to a reorganized tariff commission.

Some of the senators who have been white house callers in recent days have told the president that the support the senators from the south and west gave to the export debenture plan has complicated the tariff situation, in that it has brought the germs of a revolt among eastern senators against some of the increases in duties proposed for farm products.

Some administration leaders in the senate who come from the east assert that they are giving special study to duties proposed on winter crops in Florida, in view of the support for the debenture plan which was given by the southern senators.

These senators also have told the president that they were opposed to a number of increases in duties proposed for manufactured articles on the ground that a sufficient showing to warrant advances in import duties was not made by those asking for them.

SENTENCED FOR PERJURY IN LIQUOR CASE TESTIMONY

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 13—(AP)—Samuel J. Racicot, 29, and William J. Ferrette, 35, both of this city, who pleaded guilty to three indictments charging perjury in testimony in liquor cases while acting as under-cover agents for the Springfield police department this afternoon were sentenced to from 12 to 15 years in state's prison by Judge David F. Dillon in superior court. The two men were arrested last week after three cases had been thrown out by Judge Wallace R. Ready in the Springfield district court when the defendants were able to furnish unassailable alibis.

Zeppelin To Start Ocean Flight May 15

The Mammoth Dirigible Will Carry 59 Persons and a Female Gorilla.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 13—(AP)—Fifty-nine persons and one female gorilla constitute the passengers and crew of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin on her second voyage over the Atlantic to America which is scheduled for the morning of May 18.

The Zeppelin Works made the announcement today and all is now ready for the start.

The gorilla bought from a zoological dealer in Hanover, is intended for the Chicago zoo.

Among the paying passengers there are two who are internationally known. They are the Arctic explorer Sir Hubert Wilkins and Alexander Von Kryha, Ukrainian inventor and engineer whose ciphering and deciphering machine enabled newspaper correspondents who held the monopoly of dispatches on the Zeppelin's first voyage to insure the secrecy of their messages.

Sir Hubert desires to make special navigation studies during the voyage.

Von Kryha, who also is an expert radio operator wishes personally to test the efficacy of his ciphering machine under adverse atmospheric conditions.

Present indications are that quiet weather may be expected over the Atlantic during most of the airship's crossing. Doctor Hugo Eckener, her commander, expects to take the route via the Azores.

A lone stowaway tried to smuggle himself aboard the Zeppelin but was discovered in the course of the day. He is an 18 year old painter's assistant.

The paying passengers for the Zeppelin's second American voyage hold regular tickets from the Hapag booking office which assigned each passenger's cabin and bed by number. They read "Good for first class passage Friedrichshafen-United States (Lakehurst)."

FOREST FIRES IN CENTRAL AND SOUTHERN MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., May 13—(AP)—Two thousand, five hundred acres of wooded land in central and southern Maine, were burned over by a half dozen fires which tonight were under control with firemen, college students and National Guardsmen watching for fresh outbreaks.

The greatest damage was on Sebascodegan Island, south of Brunswick, where 1,000 acres, much of it covered with good timber, was swept by three fires which started from sparks from a saw mill at Prince's Point. No estimate of the damage was available.

Three hundred Bowdoin college students who volunteered for duty at a group of coast guardsmen from the national guard were credited with saving Indian Rest, a settlement of 25 cottages.

A shift in the wind from north to south saved the village of Gurnet as the flames caught a small building on the edge of the town.

The change in the wind carried the flames back towards the ground which had been burned over.

Three cottages and a set of farm buildings near Prince's Point were destroyed.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY IN ENGLAND

LONDON, May 13—(AP)— Campaign speeches fell like autumn leaves today on the British electorate as the major parties joined battle for the elections on May 30.

Sir Austen Chamberlin, foreign secretary, made his election address along the "safety-first" line which the conservative party has taken. His was a rather formal summary of foreign affairs for he is seldom given to enthusiasms.

Ramsay MacDonald the labor leader, in a speech at Seaham today joined the liberal onslaught on the government policy of safe-guarding duties. He declared that long before election day the country must insist on a precise declaration from the prime minister as to what his tariff policy really is, since he has given no clear definition of the difference between safeguarding and protection.

The labor chief also assailed the communists. "Talk about arming the proletariat is criminal, childish rubbish," he said. "As for buying rifles to emancipate yourselves—If you use them you would be stretched in rows along your high street, your wives would be widows and your children orphans."

BANDITS ESCAPED WITH $5,000 IN CASH AT GILMORE CITY, IA.

GILMORE CITY, Iowa, May 13—(AP)—Bandits today held up H. S. Van Alstine, cashier of the Gilmore City Savings bank and escaped with $5,000 in cash after holding the Van Alstine family prisoners in their home all night.

The bandits, two men and a woman appeared at the Van Alstyne home about 9:30 o'clock last night. Each carried shotguns. Herding Mrs. Van Alstyne, who is mayor of Gilmore City, her husband, their son, Francis, and daughter, Mrs. M. Holland of Chicago, and her two children, in an upstairs room, the bandits kept watch over the family through the night, warning them that any outcry would result in death."

About 8 o'clock this morning Van Alstine, the son and daughter, were loaded into a car and taken to the bank, the bandits following them under the guise of customers. Van Alstine was ordered to open the safe. The currency was scooped up and the bandits escaped in their car.

FORMER GOV. CATTS OF FLORIDA REINDICTED

JACKSONVILLE, May 13—(AP)—Sidney J. Catts, former governor of Florida, was reindicted here today by a federal grand jury on charges that he aided and abetted an alleged counterfeiting ring.

All principals in the alleged counterfeiting ring also were reindicted. These were Julian Diaz, Tampa; Mateo Mir, Miss Madeline Leah Burwell, Diaz's secretary, and Armando Dominguez.

The new indictments were drawn to change the wording to the original indictments in some particulars, but closely followed those returned several weeks ago.

REPUBLICANS STILL LACK PARTY UNITY IN SENATE

Party Differences Were Brought Up For Discussion by Senator Brookhart, One of the Revolters Against the Administration Farm Program—Brookhart Took Senator Fess to Task For His "Pseudo-Republican" Utterance.

WASHINGTON, May 13—(AP)—With President Hoover striving to reunite his divided forces in the senate, the party differences were brought up for a temperate discussion in that branch of congress today by Senator Brookhart of Iowa, one of the revolters against the administration farm program.

Senator Brookhart was one of those recently condemned by Senator Fess, of Ohio, the republican whip, as a "Pseudo-Republican" for not standing by the president in his opposition to the export debenture provision of the farm measure. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, and Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, were the others mentioned by name in the Fess letter.

Brookhart replied today that "this psuedo business" is in the administration farm bill and "not in some of us republicans."

An expectant membership had awaited Brookhart's promised reply to Senator Fess, but the Iowan devoted his speech almost entirely to the agricultural situation.

After Brookhart remarked that the dictionary defined "pseudo" as meaning "lying, false, counterfeit and spurious," Senator Fess hastened to remark that he picked the phrase from a speech by Senator Johnson, republican, California.

Johnson, who also voted for the debenture plan, said the Ohioan would have done well to adopt "the entire speech of the senator from California as well as a single phrase." Senator Brookhart interjected that "this use of some of Senator Johnson's speech by Senator Fess is the first ray of light coming from the senator from Ohio."

President Hoover yesterday had both Senator Borah and Senator Fess as his guests at the white house, the former to lunch and the latter to dinner. The Idahoan was invited shortly after issuance of the Fess letter last week, and this was followed by published reports that it was intended as a rebuke to the Ohio senator.

Senator Fess was invited to Sunday night dinner, along with secretary and Mrs. Good, Senator Hebert of Rhode Island, Representatives Lehlbach, of New Jersey, and Mrs. Lehlbach, and C. Bascom Slemp, republican national committeeman for Virginia.

Addressing the senate, Brookhart said he had first suggested the calling of a special congressional session to Mr. Hoover.

"I talked to him when he was a candidate as far back as July 12," the Iowan said. "I'd been down in the south investigating some standpat maneuvers. I suggested upon my return that we needed an extra session.

"That was the first suggestion so far as I knew," Hoover and Dr. Work were present and they readily assented but suggested that in order not to ruffle the feathers of President Coolidge, a provision be put in that an extra session could be contingent upon the failure of the short session to enact a farm bill.

"I didn't give it publicly at that time and soon after, along came the governor of Nebraska and the senator from Idaho (Borah) with similar suggestions.

"Now, the senator from Ohio has done me an injustice. I am no pseudo-republican. I am a progressive republican and you will find that in the congressional directory. And I didn't want a pseudo extra-session for farm relief, but I am afraid that is what we have got."

SENATE VOTE OF FARM BILL WAS PUT OFF UNTIL TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 13—(AP)—Another group of amendments to the farm relief bill were acted upon by senate today but a final vote was put off until tomorrow.

At that time approval of the measure, containing the disputed export debenture plan is expected. The house then will be called upon to decide whether it will accept the senate measure or return it because it includes the debenture plan.

House republican leaders intend to ask that the measure be returned on the theory that the debenture plan constitutes revenue legislation, which the constitution directs the house to initiate. Leaders in the senate, however, have not given up hope of having the bill accepted by the house and sent to a conference between senate and house members for an adjustment of disputed provisions.

Refusal by the house to accept the bill was considered to be a certainty tonight, since only a majority is required and republican leaders have nominally in their control 104 more votes than commandeered by the democrats.

A long argument between the two branches of congress on the constitutional question involved has been predicted in congressional circles. Senator Watson, of Indiana, is expected to attempt to obviate any such discussion, contending it would delay enactment of agricultural legislation.

Prior to tonight's adjournment, Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, gave notice that he would endeavor to increase the amount of the revolving fund from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 and Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, announced he would seek an additional appropriation of $200,000,000 with which the president would be authorized to direct the buying up of wheat for the benefit of "starving people in China." The North Dakotan contended that this would relieve the surplus situation, which is held to have a leading part in the agricultural depression.

An amendment by Senator Waterman, republican, Colorado, which was described by its opponents as an attempt to weaken the export debenture plan, was rejected. This amendment would have eliminated a section providing for examinations of the proposed farm board's accounts, including any action of the treasury department in issuing debenture certificates.

Senator Waterman held the section gave the board too much authority in the matter of expenditures. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, asserted the amendment would "tend to destroy the value of debenture certificates and impair their negotiability."

Among the amendments accepted was one by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, providing that any cooperative association would be entitled to membership in a stabilization corporation upon fulfilling requirements set forth by the board. Chairman McNary, of the senate agriculture committee, contended that the board had been given an implied power to do what the Walsh amendment intended but said he had no objections to the proposal.

The senate also approved an amendment by Senator Walsh which would require cooperative associations to subscribe for stock in stabilization corporations upon applying for membership, a share for each cooperative member. A third amendment providing that the board should direct one of its members to be an ex-officio director of the stabilization corporation, was rejected.

NO DECISIONS HANDED DOWN BY THE SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, May 13—(AP)—After a two week recess, the supreme court met today but did not hand down decisions in any of the cases before it attracting national interest.

These include the Sinclair Dry-shadowing contempt case, the Ohio-Illinois attack on the methods used by the interstate commerce commission in valuing railroads and the validity of pocket vetoes by the president. Decisions in these as well as in other important cases may be handed down on one of the three opinion days remaining before the court ends its term on June 3.

National banks were interested in a case from Massachusetts which sought to challenge the validity of that section of the McFadden law under which national banks are authorized to continue to act in any fiduciary capacity occupied by a state bank with which they may consolidate. The Worcester County National bank sought to compel the courts of Massachusetts to recognize it in a fiduciary capacity under the will of Julia A. Leonard, in which capacity the Fitchburg Bank and Trust company, with which it had consolidated, had been acting.

The Massachusetts courts were sustained by the supreme court in an opinion by Chief Justice Taft, holding that under the laws of Massachusetts the courts of that state have control over the appointment and executors and administrators.

An important deportation ruling held that aliens shall be considered under the immigration act as "arriving" at the time they take up their regular residence ashore, and that the five years limitation in which they may be deported does not run if on their coming here they spend substantially all their time on ships at sea.

Among the cases which the court consented to review was one brought by the government arising from the abolition of breweries under the prohibition law. A proceeding won by the Haberle Crystal Springs Brewing company, in New York, is being challenged by the government, which seeks to prevent that company from deducting for the loss of good will in making their income tax returns.

COURT ORDERS DES MOINES UNIVERSITY TO REOPEN

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 13—(AP)—A court order today reopened Des Moines university, Baptist fundamentalist institution, after it had been closed indefinitely Saturday night by the trustees.

The district court granted an injunction on application of six students against the action of the board of trustees which resulted from a student bombardment with eggs and stones of the administration building as a protest against ousting by the board of the entire faculty, including President Harry C. Wayman.

Although classes proceeded in an orderly fashion today, the Student Ministerial association, including several ordained Baptist ministers, adopted a resolution protesting the "domineering attitude" of Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board, and advise all Baptist union churches, the resolution said, "to withhold support from the present board until Dr. T. T. Shields and Miss Edith Rebman resign or are removed from office."

Meanwhile at his home in Toronto, Dr. Shields, who was checked Saturday of rumors of indiscretions involving himself and Miss Rebman, the board's secretary, today said that marks received by students attending classes against the board's order would not be recognized.

Dr. Shields will preside tomorrow at the annual meeting of the Baptist Bible union of North America at Buffalo, N. Y., at which a future course of action toward the university probably will be decided.

DR. WAYMAN SHOWED LACK OF DISCIPLINE

TORONTO, Ont., May 13—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. T. T. Shields, chairman of the board of trustees of the Des Moines (Iowa) university, today said that Dr. H. C. Wayman, deposed Saturday as president of the institution had shown "absolute lack of discipline and control in administering the affairs of the university."

Dr. Shields, in a telephone conversation with the Buffalo Evening News had said the selection of Dr. Wayman as president "was the greatest mistake the university had ever made."

Dr. Shields said he had suggested Wayman's name when the vacancy occurred in the presidential chair at the institution.

WESTERLY

DR. KENYON SUES TROLLEY CO. FOR $30,000 FOR INJURIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 13.—Trial of the damage suit of Dr. Frances A. Kenyon, of Woodville vs the United Electric Railway company was begun in the Westerly session of superior court today. Dr. Kenyon sues for $30,000 as the result of an accident in which she alleges injuries which permanently prevent free use of her right arm and hand.

Judge A. A. Capotosto and a jury are hearing the case. The jury comprises Benjamin C. Gavitt, foreman, and John Breesford of Charlestown, Americo E. Monti, Isaac Greaves and Henry Lepper of Westerly, Leon A. Barden and Henry Smith of South Kingstown, Earl H. Place, Hector A. Lafreniere and David J. Marble of North Kingstown, William L. Taylor of Narragansett and Henry H. Thayer of Richmond.

Dr. Kenyon was the only witness heard today. The trial will be resumed Tuesday morning and is expected to require three or four days. For that reason the court excused all spare jurors. A new panel will be drawn the 17th.

Dr. Kenyon testified that Oct. 22, 1926, she was injured while boarding a trolley car in Providence. The car started suddenly and she was thrown partly out of the vestibule. Only quick action of the conductor who caught her by the arm saved her from going to the pavement. The shock, however, severely injured muscles of her right arm, hand, shoulder and back. Dr. Kenyon also declared that she has been unable to practice medicine as completely as before the accident, had been to great expense for treatments and suffered financial loss because of lessened practice.

Witness also testified that Mr. LaVoice of the trolley company's claim department had led her to believe that a settlement would be made and succeeded in keeping her from filing suit until the legal limit had been passed.

Counsel for the defense filed objections continuously because of this phase of the matter. Practically all objections were overruled and exceptions noted.

Dr. Kenyon was still under direct examination when the court adjourned for the day. She is represented by Atty. R. M. Greenlaw.

DANIEL HEFFLIN'S YARN OF HIS SKILL AS A HUNTER

From the new History of Griswold, by Daniel L. Phillips:

Daniel Heffiin was the prince o' story-tellers and many of his varns are still remembered and retold. The following is a free rendering of a Heffiin story told the writer by Moses Morse, himself a gifted story-teller, and was considered one of Uncle Daniel's best.

"I went out one mornin' early 'n the spring o' the year, over by the middle bridge (Pachaug river) and I took my gun along, thinkin' I might see some game," said Uncle Daniel, "and jest as I got there a dozen pizins flew by and lit on a small lim' of a maple tree, that hung over the water in good gun-shot. There they sot, all in line, and then I remembered that my gun was not loaded with shot but with a single ball and I stedied how I could git all them pizins with such a charge as that. At last I made up my mind to shute at the lim' they sot on and split it, if I could, and see what would happen. So I fired, and sure enough the lim' split, and the pizins toes dropped into the crack which closed agin before they had time to fly, and I had 'em all jest as I thought I would. Twitterin' and flopp'n', held fast by their toes. But they was up a tree, and I couldn't git 'em, and there I was. So I stedied agin as to how I was to get them pizins down.

"I spied at last a knot in the lim' near where it joined the tree, and it looked to me as if a bullet fired just right might break the lim' off in the knot.

So I loaded my gun agin with a single ball, fired, and down come the lim' pizins and all, right into the middle of the river.

Somethin' had got to be did, and that right sudden, for the river was high and runnin' fast. So I threw off my coat and waded in. I had to go up up to my armpits to git the lim' with the pizins on it, and my britches pretty loose on me, and holding lots of water. I worked along mighty slow. My britches was held up by only one gallus, which was fastened by a button in front; the weight on that gallus at last got to be so great that the button busted off, and flew with great force into the bushes, and it was all I could do to hold the britches up with one hand, while the other was towin' the maple lim with the pizins on it.

At last I got ashore, and then I found out why I'd had such a hard time. I hadn't thought of suckers, but suckers was runnin' plenty, and while I was a wadin' now and then, one had flopped over the top of my britches, unbeknownst to me. When I got where I could take a count of stock, as it were, I found I had towed ashore a half a bushel more or less of suckers.

As I sot there stringin' my suckers, I see in the bushes a piece ahead of me a dead patridge. When I looked her over I found she was fresh killed, and there by her side, lay my gallus button and its mark was on her head.

Well! I tied up my pizins so's I could carry 'em and with my suckers and my patridge started for home; and I thought I had done a pretty good mornin's work."

HENRY FORD BUYS ANOTHER ENGINE FROM QUINEBAUG MILL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 14—The Quinebaug mills is to supply another engine to be added to the collection that Henry Ford is accumulating for his antique collection at Dearborn. An agent of Mr. Ford has purchased an Armington-Sims engine that was installed in the Quinebaug mill nearly 50 years ago, and which was used to develop part of the power required to operate the plant for a long term of years, but which has been out of service, though ready to run, for a number of years past. While this engine is not particularly old as such engines go, it has been deemed worthy of a place in the Ford collection. It is to be taken out of the mill and shipped in the not distant future.

Penner Woodward in the town court this morning. Boucher was found guilty of operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. As he did not have the money to pay, he was committed to the county jail at Brooklyn. Boucher revealed to the court officials that he had been drinking hard cider obtained from the Magloria Bessette farm near Elmville, and a raid of the farm by state officers followed. Nearly six barrels of hard cider were seized and Bessette ordered into court, his second appearance of the day. A fine of $50 was imposed by Judge Woodward, with costs of prosecution, which Bessette paid. Earlier in the morning Bessette had been in court to answer to a charge that he had failed to grant the right of way when the car he was operating was in a collision with another machine Saturday morning near the junction of Main and Water streets. Brake bands on a big truck heavily laden with bales of cotton smoked and hissed early this morning and threatened to burst into flame as the driver stopped to let them cool off. Chief John McFarland, who was observing the smoke enveloped machine, was of the impression for a time that the truck and its cargo were likely to be damaged by fire.

Collections have been very good this year up to the present time but much money yet remains due be the grand list last completed.

As the work of surfacing the new highway westward from a point near the Brickyard brook on the Danielson-Brooklyn highway proceeds uncompleted parts are being torn up by the heavy traffic of the season. PUTNAM

DAY KIMBALL HOSPITAL USING NEW AMBULANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 13—The Day Kimball hospital in this city is now the proud possessor of one of the latest types of ambulances. The new emergency van arrived in Putnam on Friday morning was delivered to the hospital during the day and on Sunday afternoon was sent on its initial trip to the Gary district when Mrs. Joseph Larrow of that section became suddenly ill.

The new ambulance is a product of the General Motors corporation. The body is mounted on a six cylinder Buick chassis of the latest design and is hung in a set of suspension springs so that a patient is not subjected to road shocks while a passenger in the vehicle. The interior of the ambulance is upholstered with gray leather and the floors are inlaid with heavy rubber matting. Two comfortable seats are alongside the patient's bed, affording room for hospital attendants. The feature of the vehicle is the bed equipment. A steel cot, mounted on rubber tired wheels and equipped with precision built springs is within the spacious compartment. An electric fan, to be used in circulating air is built into the side wall within the body of the ambulance.

The exterior of the hospital van presents a beautiful picture to the eye, when compared to the inadequate ambulance previously used. Two large windows of non-shatterable glass are set in on either side, affording excellent lighting conditions. Bronze plates bearing the inscription "Day Kimball Hospital" are set into the glass windows on each side. A feature is the entrances on each side for attendants to enter and exit and a large door affixed to the rear to remove the patients. Compartments, directly in the rear of the driver's seat are complete with first aid instruments and other medical supplies.

Miss Nellie Bloxham, superintendent of the Day Kimball hospital this morning said that the woman's board of the institution realizing the need of the hospital for a new ambulance created the ambulance fund by a donation of $1,200. The gift of the woman's board became the nucleus and the balance of the cost has been met by the Day Kimball hospital. While no drive will be launched to subscribe the cost of the ambulance, Miss Bloxham stated that private contributions to an ambulance fund will be heartily welcomed.

The arrival of the new ambulance places the Day Kimball hospital in a position to meet any emergency that might arise and also increases the speed in which a patient may be transported from the scene of an accident to the hospital and in every way will increase the efficiency of the staff of the institution in coping with difficult situations which may arise.

Just another indication of the fact that Putnam is stepping forward is the announcement made by Manager E. L. Beebe of the local telephone exchange this morning, that Putnam exchange clinched the banner award given by the Southern New England Telephone company each year to the individual exchange for the greatest gain in stations during the current year. The award which was won by the Putnam division is a banner of blue and gold with the emblem of the organization upon it.

During the past two years the local exchange has forged ahead. While its progress has not been sensational it has been steady and consistent gains noted regularly throughout the community in telephonic commodities are attributed to the service and efforts being rendered by the local telephone authorities.

A cable rope on the new flag pole directly in front of the Civil war memorial on Grove street was removed from its position by an unknown person some time during the past week. The flag pole has always been easy prey and when an occasion arises when the flag should be flying the caretakers always report some part of the pole equipment missing. The loss of the rope, valued at about five dollars, was reported to Mayor Charles A. Richard today and an effort will be made to unearth it. It is believed that some motorist whose automobile became stranded in the vicinity of the war memorial resorted to the theft of the rope in order to tow his vehicle to a garage.

County Y. M. C. A. Secretary L. Edwin Hill of Danielson was in Putnam today with motion picture films and projecting apparatus in connection with the industry motion picture service. During the noon hour several employes of the Dean Pin factory witnessed the showing of several reels of movies.

The industry motion picture service is a "Y" feature. The work is being performed for employes in two Putnam factories, the Dean company and the National Rhea company, one day being devoted each week to each plant. The subject of reels this week are scientific, electrical and war photos.

John Smith of South Main street spent the week end in Waterbury.

Putnam is anxiously awaiting to become "air minded" and will become so on Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week, when the L. & H. Aircraft company of Hartford arrive in this city with a fleet of seven planes for the three day air circus that is to take place on Mantup field. The events now scheduled to take place at the air meet are of a nature that will be of greatest interest to the young and old.

At the county "Y" track meet held in Brooklyn on Saturday, Putnam took honors and a number of its foremost athletes will be represented in the state track meet to be held in Meriden this month. Gordon Winslow, who already is well on his way up the amateur track ladder, amazed the group of onlookers Saturday with his remarkable performances, easily outstripping all competitors in all events entered. A number of other local boys performed well and will take part in the state gathering.

HIGHWAY DANGERS.

At Derby last week there was a serious highway accident when an automobile which was being driven at a good rate of speed, crashed into a car that was parked along the roadside. It was at a curve and the parked car was not visible in time, considering the speed, for the driver to avoid the collision and some idea of the speed was furnished by the report that the parked car was carried about 70 feet by the impact while the other car went even farther before it was stopped.

At Monroe, Mich., Sunday a bus loaded with passengers struck the rear end of a truck loaded with auto tires resulting in the death of five and injuries to 10. The truck was parked at the side of the road for repairs and it was the claim of the bus driver that he was blinded by the lights of another car and did not see it.

These accidents disclose three prominent causes of highway fatalities, bad parking, speed at curves and bad lights.

Too often it is the case where cars are being stopped or parked that little or no consideration is given to the manner in which they are left on the right of way. It is bad enough when a breakdown comes so that machines have to be left where they occupy a good share of the traveled way, but it is unfair to other highway users when cars are not driven off the road even when such is entirely possible. This is especially bad when it is at a curve where other drivers cannot get a view of what is ahead.

Equally bad is that driving which fails to anticipate that all may not be well ahead while rounding a curve. He has reason to expect that other drivers who stop will do so off the right of way but he must know from experience that such is not always respected, and that safety lies in self protection.

In spite of the laws governing dazzling lights and legal lenses there are cars whose headlights blind. The situation is well taken care of when the lights are properly focused, but there are many instances when rounding curves or reaching the brow of hills that the full blaze of light is directed into the eyes in such a manner that it is a case of holding the wheel firmly and trusting to luck, for sight is temporarily blanketed.

THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The attendance at the republican caucus indicated the interest that was manifested in what was expected would be a lively contest over the nomination of a member of the water board. It is customary each year for the parties to nominate a member for the board to serve for two years, the nomination being equivalent to election, the fifth member of the board being named by the common council and in most instances determining the political complexion of the board for the ensuing year.

From the result the contest was apparently much overrated, but the nomination of Major Hazberg, who has been the council's appointee to the board the past year, indicates the upholding of the position which has been taken by the town committee and should put an end to the situation which has prevailed in the water board during the last 12 months.

The caucus has placed before the voters of the city candidates for those city offices which are voted for on an off year. They are put forth in the belief that they are men who hold the confidence of their fellow citizens and will faithfully discharge the duties of their offices if elected.

Norwich has had a commendable administration of city affairs during the first year of Mayor Robbins' term. The administration will remain republican during the coming year, regardless of the outcome of the election, but there is an opportunity for endorsing the good work of the past year through the election of the republican candidates and thereby give added assurance of a continuance of good city government. Norwich wants an economic and efficient administration of city affairs.

HOSPITAL FACILITIES.

When the plea is made for provision for greater hospital facilities, it is inevitable that it should get attention regardless of the size of the city in which it is made. It is to be expected that there will be more hospitals and greater facilities for dealing with the sick in large centers than in small communities, but the appeal deserves serious consideration wherever the size of the community.

Just at the present time attention is being called to the fact that in New York there are instances where the number of patients is 50 per cent. in excess of capacity. It means that there is a situation which ought to be taken care of in some manner. One might expect that it would come as the result of gradual extension of the facilities, but apparently such extension work should be provided for each year. In smaller cities the situation may not be as acute but the need of meeting hospital needs is none the less apparent.

As conditions have changed in other respects they have likewise changed in regard to hospitals. There has been a growing dependence upon such institutions. More and more are they meeting the requirements of the sick and for a great many there is no other place to turn in case of sickness or injury. This is one of the reasons for the overcrowding of hospitals and why those overcrowded conditions should be relieved. As long as there is public appreciation of such service and such a general reliance upon it there is a great need for supplying it in proportion to the requirements.

Such efforts as can be made for the purpose of teaching right living so that as little demand as possible will be made upon hospitals are most certainly aimed in the right direction. They can do much to relieve the demands upon hospitals, but until the full benefit of such endeavors are appreciated and grasped by the average person that relief will not be extensive. It seems to be a well established fact that too many people do not appreciate the value of good health until they have experienced the other kind.

ROAD BUILDING.

Great sums are going into automobiles each year, but there is also a large amount of money being spent yearly in behalf of good roads. The two expenditures go hand in hand. Without the automobile there would not be the same demand for modern roads, and without the present system of roads throughout the country there would not be the extensive use of motor vehicles.

According to figures which have been compiled by the American Automobile association, highway construction work has resulted in the issuance of bonds totalling almost $1,700,000,000 by 33 states. In other states a different method of financing road construction is being employed.

Every state is now engaged in or committed to a tax on gasoline for road building purposes. Last year there was collected in the 46 states and the District of Columbia, where the tax was in force, a total of more than $305,000,000 from this form of taxation and of that sum more than 98 per cent. went for the building and maintenance of highways.

While the distinction of being the first to resort to a bond issue for road work belongs to Massachusetts, it is Illinois which leads the list in total outlay through that method with $160,000,000. Next to it is Missouri, with $125,000,000, while North Carolina has indulged to the extent of $115,000,000 and the state of Pennsylvania and Iowa have each raised $100,000,000 for roads through bond issues.

Connecticut has gone through its experience with the issuance of bonds for road work and has long since been committed to the policy of pay-as-you-go and reliance upon the gasoline tax. It provides the roads without the heavy interest charge that goes with a bond issue.

Throughout the country states are yearly engaged in the construction of new roads or the rebuilding of others, so much so that there has been a marked effect upon transportation methods and road building has become an important field for labor and attractive for contractors and those supplying the materials.

DELAYED TOO LONG ALREADY.

The feeling prevails in the state of Pennsylvania that that commonwealth is being deprived of representation in the United States senate to which it is entitled. Two years ago William S. Vare was elected a senator. Since that time a committee of the senate has been trying to determine whether Mr. Vare should be seated, although there are those who figure the committee has been trying to keep him from being seated.

During the inquiry Mr. Vare suffered a stroke and his condition has been such that he could not appear. That has not prevented getting at the facts and now the committee after its long struggle has come out with the declaration that the matter should be decided by the senate itself.

This means further delay and Pennsylvania is justified in asking that something be done that will end the situation. The senate may have felt that Mr. Vare would resign, but he has no such intention. He should be given his seat or he should be denied it. If there is going to be a denial of his seat there should be a reason for it, but apparently the committee cannot find one.

In the meantime the state of Pennsylvania is receiving only half the representation it is entitled to in the senate. It amounts to an injustice both to Mr. Vare and to Pennsylvania which elected him. There are questions in which Pennsylvania's interest should be expressed by two rather than one vote and it is a fair plea when the senate is asked to do something, either seat Mr. Vare or, by denying him a seat, make it possible for another to be named.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, May 13. — Comments on the tariff bill came in slowly from New England members of senate and house, as they had only time for a somewhat hasty reading of the measure. But there is but little satisfaction expressed when specific portions of the bill are tackled, although every member of the New England republican delegation admits that "the bill as a whole is good."

Representative Merritt of Connecticut, in an interview with this correspondent today said that he realized that the committee on ways and means was composed of able men and that they were under great strain and pressure during its consideration, and had no doubt the bill was good as a whole. He expressed regret, however, that New England had not fared better under the revision saying, in part: "So far as Connecticut is concerned I suppose there will not be general satisfaction on the part of textile manufacturers with the textile schedule. Especially that part that deals with the silk industry. There are some slight advances in those rates but the main requests of the silk industry have not been granted.

"That committee had apparently based its action in this regard on the fact that the importations of manufactured silk in 1927 were only $44,000,000, against a domestic manufacture of about $646,000,000. This, on its face, seems a negligible amount, but when one inquires, the reason for such small importation seems to have been that prices in this country were so low that there was no inducement for foreign manufacturers to sell their goods at those prices. If domestic production should be controlled or diminished or the demand increased so that prices would rise, then the silk manufacturers claim, and I think with reason, that under existing duties or under proposed duties in the new bill importations would very greatly increase.

"There will also, I think be general regret throughout New England that the import duty on Cuban sugar is increased. It is quite doubtful whether this will benefit the domestic producer while it will pretty surely increase the price to the consumer. The committee acted wisely in declining very many requests backed by powerful interests, for increased duties on many raw materials such as oils and hides."

Mr. Merritt added that he did not desire to criticize the committee which had acted faithfully. "It appears to me now that it will be the best way, both politically and economically, to pass the bill as reported by the committee." Mr. Merritt referred to the changes that might be made in the senate, and expressed the opinion that after the bill had been in the hands of the conferees, a fair bill would be produced. He added "Any attempt to improve the bill by individual amendments on the floor of the house would result in inextricable confusion and produce a bill based more on politics than on economics."

Floor Leader Tilson of New Haven, feels the bill is "as good as could be expected" although he is not in sympathy with the higher tariff on sugar and on certain kinds of lumber.

The matter of the abduction and taking to Europe of little John Capp of New Haven, came into the foreground here when Attorney Fitzsimmons consulted Representative Tilson and members of the state department concerning the possibility of raising federal funds to bring the child back to his parents.

Col. Tilson expressed himself in perfect sympathy, but said he had ascertained that the case could not be regarded as one concerning the federal government and that there were no funds available to meet it. Moreover aid could not be asked of congress except in matters pertaining to the federal government. Col. Tilson deplores the situation, but those are the facts.

Col. Tilson feels that it is entirely a state of Connecticut case, and that the only way to raise a sufficient sum to bring the boy back, is through the state, or if that does not act, some charitable organization or person of sufficient means. The parents are very poor—they cannot raise the money, which if the child was sent home in care of a steamship company would amount to but a few hundred dollars, but if some one went for him, would be $700 or $800.

The boy has been taken from his kidnapper, and is in charge of the American consul at Dantiz. Money must be raised to pay for his board and care in Dantiz; and transportation home, also for telegrams and other expenses connected with the case.

Whether or not the blame for letting the boy out of the country rests with the state department, Col. Tilson feels "that is water already passed over the dam," and other means must be resorted to if the child is to be brought home to New Haven. The parents are Poles but not affiliated with any Polish organization.

The Fenn reapportionment bill seems to have gone to the bottom of the pile, since tariff and farm came to a clash and occupy jointly the center of the legislative stage.

When asked a few days ago "when will your bill come up?" Mr. Fenn replied, "Ask the senate." Beyond that he would not make even a comment. All the same, however disappointing it undoubtedly is to the man whose name the bill bears, reapportionment and census will probably get their heads above water and be brought out in the senate in one form or another before the extra session comes to an end. Just when the end will come is doubtful. "Guesses" range all the way from August 1st to November 1st with one man's guess as good as another's until the legislative snarl is untangled.

The temper of the senate and house is not improved by the row on between the regular republicans, and the coalition between democrats and insurgent republicans. Just what the result of the open break at the moment of presenting the first administration project, cannot be predicted, but it is a bad bread no matter how many efforts are being made to cement the pieces together.

Mrs. Walcott, wife of the junior senator from Connecticut and who returned home last week from a winter in the far west, is improved in health and expects to remain here for some time before returning to their home in Connecticut.

The Hoover home, which the Senator leased for a term of four years should be a delight to Mrs. Walcott, for it has a large garden, attractive terraces and plenty of sunlight. Mrs. Walcott spent the winter in the west, in order to take a long series of sunbaths and secure perfect rest.

The Hoover mansion, for it is a large and imposing structure, is located within a few doors of the home of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who continues to occupy the house on S street purchased by President Wilson when he retired from the presidency.

When the members of the International Conference of the Parent-Teachers association were received at the white house this week, one of the features was the singing of a campaign song, by little Nancy Daugherty of Maryland, who is just four years old and stands "only knee-high to a tree-toad" as they say way down East. The song ends with "And I voted for Hoover," so when Nancy trilled away at the last high note, every body laughed, including the Hoovers.

Mrs. Hoover gave a short talk to her guests, and after saying she belonged to the grandmother rather than the mother class just now, she paid a high tribute to the old fashioned rural school and said it depended on the teacher, adding "we must keep pounding away to get good teachers."

Mrs. Hoover, who is a ready speaker, is breaking all white house traditions by speaking at club luncheons, and addressing delegations that call on her at the white house. Heretofore it has been left with the president to "do the talking," while the lady of the executive mansion stood at his side and merely smiled.

MOMENT MUSICALE

"What on earth!" thought Dot, ripping open one end of a special delivery letter. She noted the contents with dismay. Moore company, Bob's cousin, Enid, and her daughter, Roxy, arrive-ink on the afternoon train. That was Enid not giving one a chance to say no.

Dot spent the remainder of the day in a cyclone endeavor to get ready. Before dinner the company arrived. There was Enid, doting and silly and Roxy her flapper daughter, having seemingly one purpose in life—to capture the attention of any of the male species that happened to be on hand. Roxy opened operations at dinner.

"Oh, Cousin Bob," she purred "Mother says you used to be a musician. Do get out your saxophone. I'd adore playing your accompaniments."

"Don't look me," laughed Bob awkwardly. But even eyes as young as Roxy's could see that he was pleased.

A cry of protest rose to Dot's lips, but she did not utter it because she banked on Bob's good taste. Sure, because in the prehistoric age of his youth he had tried to play the saxophone in the high school orchestra and had failed, he would have sense enough to laugh off such a wild suggestion now. But once in a long time Bob did the unexpected thing as he did in this instance.

After protracted insistence on the part of his young cousin he said, "If you can, stand it, it's a go, Roxy."

There followed the beginning of a hideous evening.

"Where in thunder do you keep my sax?" Bob glared at his wife from the kitchen door while she was slavishly stacking his relatives' dirty dishes.

"In the attic, behind your great-grandmother's bureau," she snapped. Before she had finished the work unmistakable walls began to fill the house. She went to all the windows, jerked them rudely down. Let the rooms get stuffy. She could not have sounds like that coming from her house.

Then she went out into the yard and found that there was no use trying to wall up saxophone strains, for Mrs. Ramsey was sitting on her front porch, Mrs. Ramsey, who had once invited her to join the Harmony club. The evening progressed from one dizzy height of mortification and discord to another. Bob puffed and Roxy flattered.

Then and there Dot decided to give an informal bridge party on the following evening, not to honor the guests but to hinder a repetition of musical endeavors. She made a special point of inviting several young unmarried men, and the scheme worked admirably as far as it went, for when the collegiate - looking gentlemen put in their appearance, so far as Roxy was concerned, Cousin Bob and the saxophone were as though they had never existed.

But for Bob, things were different. When the little company had almost finished with refreshments he called across the room to Roxy, "I say, we ought to give the crowd a little music," but Roxy, sandwiched between two bachelors, appeared not to hear.

Several male voices piped up, "Music, Perkins! What do you play, a phonograph?" There was a faint titter of laughter. Somebody else called, "Show me." Bob sprang to his feet.

"Come on, Roxy." But Roxy merely shrugged her shoulders.

"Music's such a drag," she said, and winked at the bachelor on her left.

Bewilderment, frustration, disappointment loomed in Bob's face. Incompetent Bob, making a fool of himself over that silly saxophone! It was so obvious that playing meant something to him. It was so obvious too, that it meant nothing more than a joke to the others.

Dot saw the smiles on the peoples' faces. Well, let them laugh; the guests, the neighbors, everybody that wanted to. And the Harmony club could go to thunder. Bob should not be hurt like this. She rose from her seat, two tiny spots of color burned in her cheeks, and a becoming sparkle of defiance danced in her eyes.

"I'll play your accompaniment, Bob," she said, and triumphantly approached the piano.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 13 — (AP) — When Crown Prince Olaf of Norway and Princess Martha of Sweden were married, none of the distinguished company present wished the royal pair well more heartily than Laurits Selmer Swenson, the American minister.

It was his function to present a wedding gift in the name of the diplomatic corps, of which he is dean, and to extend the felicitations of President Hoover.

And that he read in this royal union the same happy augury for the future of relations between the two Scandinavian neighbor states as did the governments and press of Europe is made clear in his mail dispatches telling of the ceremonies.

A True Veteran

Swenson is a veteran diplomat, although a non-career appointee. With only the eight-year interval of the Wilson administrations, a four-year spell at home after 1905 and a brief tour as minister to Switzerland in 1911, he has been on diplomatic duty in Scandinavia since 1897.

His first assignment was to Denmark, but he went to Norway as minister from 1911 to 1913 and returned there in 1921.

Aptly enough, he was born in New Sweden, Minn., some 64 years ago. So by ancestry and experience he is fitted to judge the march of events in Scandinavia and read meanings that lie below the surface.

"Crown Prince Olaf always has been idolized by the Norwegian people, and his charming bride has captured their hearts completely," the staid official report said.

When the royal pair drove through the city, people turned out to shower them with flowers, and the greeting was most marked "on the east side, which is distinctly the labor quarter," Swenson added.

Mere Gesture

As a matter of fact, the Norwegian labor party ordered that its members in the national legislature and on the city council of Oslo refrain from official participation in the wedding ceremonies.

It proved to be just a gesture, however, as many labor officials disregarded the injunction and occupied reserved seats in Our Savior's church during the wedding ceremony.

The labor-controlled council voted 30,000 kroner to decorate the city.

While Minister Swenson did not say so in so many words, it is clear he regarded all this as testifying to even labor approval of the royal union that tends to clear away bitterness lingering from a quarter century ago, when Norway voted to break away from Sweden and set up its own royal house in a democratically controlled monarchy.

The marriage gratified in both countries, according to a London Times editorial regarded as worth transmitting by Mr. Swenson, "not only romantic but patriotic sentiment."

YOUR HEALTH

What a Certain Census Would Reveal!

By G. W. Goler, M. D., Health Officer, Rochester, N. Y.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Slowly, very slowly, man changed his habits; he cut his hair, threw away his wig; began to wash and bathe; had his clothes washed more frequently—once in two or three weeks—and bathed his body occasionally; previously his only bath had been ceremonial at birth or death. He thus got rid of part of his vermin and also of the plague, typhus and other diseases that vermin brought to him. He learned to have his hair cut closely and to brush it. He hasn't yet learned that it is just as important to comb and wash his hairbrush as it is to brush his hair. Dandruff, which comes off the head naturally, is usually an exchange of dirt between a dirty brush and a dirty head and scalp. Vigorously brush the hair and scalp. Comb out the brush and wash it. Do this instead of using hair tonics. They are as useless as complexion creams.

If man has given little proper attention to his head, he has given much less to his feet. He doesn't even wash them daily. He cramps his feet into improperly fitting shoes, which results in the development of corns, bunions, blisters, hammertoes and foot distortions, even to distortions of the bones of the feet. And then he wonders why his feet get tired and why he gets tired. If a census were taken of Rochester or any other city to reveal how frequently man properly trimmed his toenails, that is, straight across, it would probably show a small percentage of men doing it properly. If a man is well and gets tired, let him bathe, change his socks and clothes, wash his head, brush his hair, trim his toenails, and he will get into good and vigorous feeling and do more for himself than any quack could promise to do for him. He says that he cannot afford the time. Well, is it baths or cigarettes? Do the service men remember the care of the feet, the washing of socks, the fitting of shoes in the army? Did they learn the army lesson of care of the feet and carry it home to others?

Man eats too much. Our people in the richest nation in the world eat too much food. They do not drink enough water. Man ought to drink three pints of water a day. He ought to drink milk because milk is now better and cleaner than ever before. He ought to eat fruit—apples, oranges, grapefruit, bananas. He ought to eat less meat, more vegetables, especially green vegetables, raw cabbage, radishes, onions and eggs and fish. He ought to have some liver, a little kidney, some marrow and tripe, even if only a little piece, as big as the end of a finger, once a week. He is warned against the food cranks and against the special foods with long sounding worthless. There is no food of any worthless. There is no fod of any kind that has anything more or even as much, health and strength-giving principles, as water, milk, meat in moderation, and some liver, kidney, sweetbread, tripe, green vegetables, cereals, bread and fruits. Anything else you buy for food you are just paying for a name.

Along with these things man should have recreation, too. Recreation away in the fields, in the woods where the air is cleaner and the sounds sweeter, more restful than in the dwellings, the rooms, shops and streets of the city.

There are many other things to do. Live a quiet and restful life; get air into rooms and work places; go to your doctor for a physical check-up at least once a year; take more baths; give more attention to the feet, head and mouth, and keep a clean body, a clean mind and a merry heart.

Little Talks on Thrift

Getting Ahead Means Overcoming Odds

The writer recently received a letter in which the following statement was made: "I frequently read your words of advice in my home newspaper and have tried to work out some plan of getting ahead, but it is simply impossible on my present income with rent and everything being so high."

This quotation bespeaks a state of mind which exists with many. It is doubtful, in fact, if any considerable portion of those who are drifting along from year to year without making provision for the future do so willfully. They are nearly all victims of their own points of view. Many of them expect at some future time to begin saving money and getting ahead.

The secret of success in thrift is decision. Temporizing and procrastinating mean only loss of time and opportunities.

If you were to study the lives of those great Americans who arose from poverty and obscurity to the eminence of business leadership—such men, for example, as Carnegie, Hill, Cooper and Wanamaker—you would find that they learned to save in face of fearful odds. Their earnings were small, the obstacles they had to overcome were tremendous. In their poverty and obscurity they seemed a long way from the heights of success. But they were not discouraged by circumstances. They saved little enough at first, but their small savings grew; their strength of character increased. By overcoming resistance, they became more and more capable.

Herein lies the great lesson of thrift. During the war we had a phrase: "Give till it hurts." That was a fine phrase. In these peace days we can say "Be thrifty till it hurts. Make sacrifices till it hurts. Save money till it hurts."

This is the spirit from which comes success. Those who feel they can save nothing simply because their incomes are too small must revise their methods. There are many things in life that must be done regardless of how hard it may seem. One of these is to spend less than we earn.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

CHILD TRAINING

CONCENTRATION

Lelie Munsell

I watched two boys of about the same age in the public library. They had entered together and both took magazines from the rack to read. One looked up from his page every time anyone entered. The other saw no one; he was lost in what he was reading. I predicted the second lad would outdistance the first.

He who can concentrate is on the road to success. A grasshopper mind is not a great mind. Concentration is not definitely included as a subject in any school curriculum, but the foundation for its mastery may be laid in the home university, in which the whole family should be enrolled. We teach it, in our family, by means of different games.

One game that the children enjoy is telling each other at bedtime everything that we have done from the first moment of waking. The principle is simple. If the mind is not "put" on the thing done, it is apt to be forgotten, unless it is quite an unusual thing. Hence our bedtime recital. Once, when we first began this game, a surprised voice interrupted me in the midst of my story. "But you're telling all the little things." I reminded him that he had the same privilege. He tried, but could not recall the "little things." The next night, however, he could. He had given attention to the "little things" as he did them, and was therefore able to recall them.

We ask one another questions that test our powers of observation. One such question was: "Are a cow's ears behind her horns, or in front of them?" Not one could tell. We made it a point, even the smallest member of the family, to slip around where there were some men and find out. The matter is not of much importance, but the "finding out" was a mental stimulus, teaching us really to see things when we looked at them.

Developing any one of the senses teaches concentration. To illustrate: We sit out-of-doors on a summer evening and vie with one another regarding the number of different sounds we can distinguish and name. The member of the circle who lets his mind wander will fall behind.

One of the children came in one evening quite proud of herself. "Mother," she exclaimed, "Viola and I passed that frog pond and she said: 'Don't those birds sing sweetly?' The very idea!"

My child had been trained really to listen to sounds and to recognize them. Viola had not.

Sometimes we play the game in a different way. One of us will say something and the others will try to repeat it word for word, or we give a list of names, or colors, and call on others to repeat it. Perhaps I recite a nursery rhyme and test the children on their ability to repeat it correctly the first time. This is not too severe a test. They enjoy it, just as they enjoy a physical test.

I avoid, as far as possible, interrupting a child when at some task in which he seems to be much interested. If all his energies appear to be concentrated on that task, it is generally best to let him continue at it. He is giving himself valuable training.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Memorial Day in Plainfield

Mr. Editor: The letters in Saturday's Bulletin on Decoration day are good. The Daughters of Civil War Vet is right to the point. It is the job of the sons and daughters of the Civil war vets to observe Memorial day, and theirs only. It was their war. The American Legion comes in only as guests of honor yet. The letter from Albert C. De Forge is illuminating at least. Who does he imagine the "Overseas Man" is, anyway? That friend of his, he tells of, who helped disabled men to get compensation, is probably the same man, Legion member, who robbed a totally disabled fellow Legion member of sick benefits from the Odd Fellows while he was almost dead in a hospital and a U. S. V. bureau hospital, at that. He appears to have been a good Legion man, and I wonder who he is, or was, as Mr. De Forge says, he went to a better climate. I thought I knew all the "overseas men" in Plainfield, but getting the compensation away from a disabled soldier is a new one on me. Maybe Mr. De Forge knows if he is still a member of the Legion and can give us his name, and why the rest of the members let him rob disabled men, if they knew it, and can prove it. I haven't seen any "overseas men" standing around on Decoration day except one total disability case, that couldn't get a ride—too many before him in the busses. Perhaps Mr. De Forge can supply the names of these hand-in-pocket chaps, too. Patriotic talk is cheap. Patriotic acts count, like trying to rob an ex-service man of his tax exemption and I can supply the name of that chap Mr. De Forge.

ANOTHER OVERSEAS MAN.

Stories That Recall Others

To The Rummies

It is quite the thing for organizations to give rummage sales, and little Robert was very much interested in them. The other day when he was teasing for new shoes his mother said his old ones were too good to throw away, so Robert replied: "Can't you give the old ones to the poor 'rummies'?"

Not Used to It

Annie, age five, was with mother at the club the other day. The hostess was whipping cream for the dessert. Annie, standing by watching, said: "Don't put any on my peaches."

"Why, don't you like cream?" the hostess asked.

"No, we are not used to it," Annie said.

Best-liked man in the club now yet once we barred Joe because of "B.O." (Body Odor)

MAYBE we seemed a bit rough last year—turning down a fine fellow like Joe P——t because of "B. O."

But actually, we did him a favor. For Joe grew suspicious—and somehow learned the real facts.

Today Joe rates big everywhere—in the club and out. He knows the easy way to end body odor now.

Sly! That's "B. O." Tricks us into thinking we're safe—then shows us up to others—"Guilty."

Why be fooled? Our sense of smell becomes deadened to a familiar odor. But all perspiration is unpleasant—and unavoidable. Even on cool days, pores give off as much as a quart of odor-causing waste.

Play safe—bathe with Lifebuoy. Mild, antiseptic, its deodorizing lather prevents "B. O."—even removes cigarette odors from the hands.

UNFINISHED 'DREAM HOME' WRECKED AFTER 25 YEARS

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—More than a quarter of a century ago, Francis Thomas Fletcher Lovejoy, once millionaire partner of Andrew Carnegie, conceived a "dream mansion" which would be the finest home west of the Alleghenies.

The dream long since shattered by financial reverses, the magnificent building, which has been a landmark, now is crumbling before the hammers of wrecking crews.

At the apex of his successful career, Lovejoy chose a lofty ridge near the city of steel for his mansion.

His romantic mind evolved elaborate plans. They included an elevator, an underground passageway to spacious barns, and gorgeous decorations.

Work went on nearly two years, Lovejoy writing checks for tens of thousands of dollars to cover the expense.

Then came an abrupt halt as the steel magnate's fortunes dwindled, due to unwise financial ventures. The house never was completed. It stood through the years as a grim and pathetic reminder of fate's uncertainty.

Lovejoy still is living. He has a position with a Pittsburgh firm and is forced to earn his daily bread as he watches his dream fade.

The fine old house is being torn down to make room for newer, but not nearly so pretentious, homes.

MEXICO WANTS TOURISTS, PROMISES NO RED TAPE

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Mexico has decided to cut governmental "red tape" to stimulate the tourist business this summer temporarily halted by the revolution.

The government has announced its intention of ordering the cessation of all "annoyances and inconveniences" to tourists caused by customs, health and immigration inspectors at Mexican ports and border points of entry.

If these instructions are carried out, visitors from the United States can come into Mexico with little or no formality.

A committee of government officials and others anxious to have foreigners visit Mexico secured the government's promises to remove border red tape, as an inducement to tourists.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness in babies and children generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

Some of the perch were displayed during the evening in the window at the Hanover-Curland store on Franklin street.

MASONS HAVE ANOTHER DAY OF HARD WORK AHEAD TO COMPLETE CAMPAIGN

A total of $15,100 from 50 subscriptions in the campaign for $50,000 in bonds on the new Masonic temple was reported Monday evening at the supper meeting at the old Masonic temple when the teams in the three divisions made their returns. Many of the nearly 100 workers on the teams have yet to be heard from and the leaders in the campaign urged the team members to get out and hustle for a big day of work Tuesday so that a substantial increase in the amount and the number of subscriptions may be made at the meeting at the temple this (Tuesday) evening at 6:30.

About 35 men were present for the supper hour Monday evening and were addressed by Arthur M. Brown, campaign chairman, who spoke in an enthusiastic and inspiring way of the necessity for putting this campaign over to complete success and urged the Norwich members of the Masonic fraternity to emulate and equal the record of their New Britain brothers, where a $300,000 temple has just been erected, towards which $100,000 was contributed in outright gifts. Mr Brown pointedly called attention to the fact that the Norwich appeal was different from that in New Britain as the members here are asked to subscribe to a bond issue which will be an investment upon which they will receive interest at 6 per cent. He appealed to the teams to clean up the work at once and have every man make a report on his work Tuesday night.

Others to speak were Charles L. Stewart, E. O. Rodier, Judge Nelson J. Ayling, George A. Keppler, H. M. Leron, Herman Stelzner, and N. Eugene Smith.

James L. Case, campaign manager, then made the report for the day and earnestly urged the team members to put the campaign across with the utmost dispatch.

The results for the day showed $4,800 subscribed at the morning report, $6,300 more at noon and $3,400 more at night.

The results by divisions were as follows:

Division A—Morning, 7 for $4,400; noon, 8 for $5,400; night, 6 for $1,300.

Division B—Morning, 1 for $200; noon, 7 for $900; night, 5 for $700.

Division C—Morning, 2 for $300; noon, 5 for $500; night, 3 for $800.

Out of town division, 1 for $100.

A varied programme of entertainment was provided by well known Norwich entertainers, Edward T. Connelly with songs and jokes, James Mullins, recitations and Horace P. Corning with vocal selections. The committee in charge of the affair, which all voted a huge success, comprised Thomas P. Sears, Taftville; P. J. McMahon and Harry L. Lathrop, Norwich, and Richard Davidson, New London.

GAVE INSTRUCTIVE TALK ON LIFE IN AFRICA

An address on the life in Africa given by Rev. Arthur C. Adams son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adams of East Great Plain, who is on furlough from Johannesburg, Africa where he is in charge of social work under the American Board of Missions, was a feature of the monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church held at the Community house Monday evening. Rev Mr. Adams, ordained at the United Congregational church had an interesting display of curios from South Africa in connection with his talk, these comprising pictures, depicting his social work among the natives skins, bead work, shield, wooden carved work native musical instruments, blanket of silver jackie skins, etc., all having to do with the natives. Two unusual pictures were of a Johannesburg street with a three inch-layer of hail, an exceptional sight there.

Rev. Mr. Adams, in his enlightening address, gave his listeners an insight into the conditions and life of the natives, with whom he has done wonderful work during his stay there and for which he received a gift of the natives' appreciation on his leave-taking.

Previous to the address a roast beef supper was served at 6.15 o'clock by the Haviland class of the church and a business meeting was held with the president, Harold E. Robbins, presiding. It was reported that there was a large sale of tickets for the Brotherhood series, which is being presented by Rev. A. H. Abbott, pastor. For the second of the series, Rev. Mr. Abbott will give "Selected Readings" and for the third and final, "Mixtures." The object of these entertainments being held by the Brotherhood is for the purpose of raising money towards the Brotherhood's pledge for church repairs.

A nominating committee comprising Charles I. Smith, chairman, Nicholas C. Pierce and Herbert M. Lerou was chosen and their slate of officers to serve the Brotherhood for the ensuing year will be presented at the June meeting. The treasurer's report showed that the club was in excellent condition.

Joseph Henk.

The death of Joseph Henk, 72, of 157 Otrobando road, Norwich Town, occurred Monday night after a long illness. He had been engaged in farming for most of his active life. He leaves his wife, Agatha, two sons and five grandchildren.

Mrs. Katherine Roessler Miller.

Relatives in this city have received word of the death of Mrs. Katherine Roessler Miller at Omaha, Neb. She was a former resident of this city and previous to her marriage was employed in the household of the late Frank Ulmer.

The following obituary and funeral notice appeared in an Omaha paper:

Katherine Caroline Roessler was born in Bavaria on Aug. 21 1858 and was taken home on April 30, 1929.

She came, as a child, to America and lived at Norwich, Conn. August Miller came to Nebraska in 1884 and took up a homestead in Franklin county. He was united in marriage to Katherine Roessler March 2, 1886.

The bride returned with the bridegroom and together these two endured many trials and hardships on the homestead.

Mrs. Miller is to be classed with those good women who "held lanterns in their hands." It has been the influence of pioneers, like Mr. and Mrs. Miller, which has made Nebraska a great state.

One child, Charles, of Omaha, two grandchildren, La Reine and Lynn, and two brothers, Fred and George Roessler, who live at Norwich, survive her. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were honest and industrious people and respected by all who knew them.

In her youth, Mrs. Miller was baptized and later confirmed in the German Lutheran church. Of late years they attended Wheeler Memorial.

Dr. Leon C. Hills, the pastor, took for his text, Mark 13:31, "Heaven and earth shall pass away (or will change) but my words shall not pass away." Mrs. Leon C. Hills sang, "The City Four Square" and "It is Well with My Soul" accompanied by Mrs. W. W. Hill. The service was held at the home of the son, Charles and the burial was in Graceland Park cemetery under the direction of William Kunold. There were many floral offerings.

REALIZED $60 FROM BENEFIT MASQUERADE

A successful benefit masquerade social and dance, which netted about $60 was held Friday evening in the Norwich Town Community hall, with an attendance of seventy or more young people. The affair was sponsored by George Durr, and was held in the upper room of his business establishment on New London turnpike. A three-piece orchestra, comprising violinist, pianist and drummer provided delightful music for the modern and old fashioned dances. William Austin prompted.

Among the costumes were sailors, ballet dancers, a colored mammy, Spanish dancers, old fashioned girls, a young woman dressed as a child, a cowboy and others. Prize winners for the best costumes were Miss Bertha Lathrop, who received a bottle of bath salts and James Graw who was presented an ash tray. Ralph H. Marsh dispensed ice cream and soft drinks during the evening. The hall was attractively decorated. Dancers were present from all sections of Norwich Town and many came up from the city.

HISTORIC COAST RANCH TO BECOME BIG GARDEN

ANAHEIM, Cal. (AP)—The historic rancho Cajon de Santa Ana, the original 6,000-acre land grant of Santiago de Santa Ana made in 1809, now is in the process of transformation.

A botanical garden containing practically every plant, shrub or tree native to California is the ultimate aim of its owner, Mrs. Susannah Bixby Bryant.

A complete botanical library and a herbarium containing pressed or preserved specimens of every native growing thing are being developed along with the ranch.

The ranch extends from the seashore to a range of small mountains, with desert stretches as well as fertile valleys, through which flow the Santa Ana river and its tributaries.

ICE ASSISTS READING OF HIGH TEMPERATURES

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Temperature changes of one-tenth of a degree in a furnace heat of 3,000 degrees fahrenheit are recorded with a device described by Dr. F. M. Jaeger of Cornell university.

Dr. Jaeger is the George Fisher Baker non-resident lecturer in chemistry, coming from the government university of Groningen, Netherlands.

The heat is recorded through a loop of wire, with one end in the furnace and the other in a block of ice. The loop is made of two kinds of wire, one sector platinum and the other platinum-rhodium aloy, both hard to melt. Their ends are soldered.

The difference in temperature at the junctions sets up an electrical current in the loop that varies with the difference. Knowing the temperature of the ice, the experimentor can compute the heat at the other end of the loop.

COMMERCIAL FERTILIZER REACHES PEAK OF SALES

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Announcing a total consumption of 7,934,000 tons of fertilizer last year, the National Fertilizer association declares farmers used more commercial fertilizer in 1928 than in any other year of the country's history.

The increase was nearly 16 per cent over 1927 consumption.

The average content of plant food in each ton of fertilizer also reached its greatest concentration. It is estimated at 17.5 per cent, as compared to 16.5 per cent in 1925.

The association says concentration is increasing as rapidly as consumers can be influenced to buy fertilizer on the basis of plant food content instead of price per ton.

INSECTICIDES STUDIED IN CORN-BORER PROGRAM

The likelihood of effective control of the European corn borer on a large scale by direct applications of insecticides is remote; nevertheless, the possibility of such control is worth investigating in the hope that something of value in this direction may develop, says the United States department of agriculture. Moreover, there is some chance of securing a control which may be practical for the protection of small plots of corn grown for the production of roasting ears for market or table use. A study of the possibility of the use of insecticides and moth attractants has been a phase of the corn-borer research program almost from the start.

In the 1929 research program for corn-borer control there will be close co-operation between the insecticide division of the bureau of chemistry and soils and the bureau of entomology, and also with various state workers and the dominion of Canada. The development of new insecticides for corn-borer control is one of the primary objectives of this division, which has already made many analyses of insecticidal materials and of plants which have been sprayed or dusted with insecticides, to determine the residue left thereon.

The bureau of entomology plans to make a number of experimental tests with the usual insecticidal materials and the newer ones recommended, including tests of toxicity, adhes

SCORES OF IMPORTANT ISSUES FELL 3 TO NEARLY 10 POINTS YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—Comparatively easy money appeared to have come to Wall street too late today, for nerves were so frayed by the persistence of 14 per cent, call money last week that bears were unable to drive traders into a headlong rush to sell, although funds were in adequate supply at only 7 per cent, all day.

As measured by The Associated Press indices, the prices broke more sharply than at any time since the money crisis of last March. Scores of important issues tumbled from 3 to nearly 10 points, and total sales were carried to 4,620,000 shares, the heaviest turnover in a fortnight.

Several of the large commission houses sent out precautionary advices over their wires, one making the rather alarming observation that it looked like inside selling and outside buying. Wall street was buzzing with bearish rumors all day—all unconfirmable and most of them emphatically denied by late afternoon. It was said that President Hoover had called a conference of the federal reserve board. Another, reserve board warning on credit was said to be forthcoming.

An unsettling development over the week end was the Burcess-Sprague report to President Hoover's committee on economic changes, stating that the proper functioning of the New York money market is being hampered by the insatiable demand of the stock market. The return to Washington of Governor Young of the reserve board after a visit to the Pacific coast, also engendered nerve-wracking rumors concerning credit.

As a matter of fact, the ease in call money was not very convincing, for time money was loaning as high as 9 per cent, for 30 and 60 day maturities. Also, bankers pointed out that a heavy drain on the money market will soon be felt as rights recently offered to large issues of stocks and bonds are exercised.

A conspicuous point in the day's news were the copper statistics for April, showing that while production was nearly up to the March total, shipments declined to 156,753 tons, from 185,906 in March indicating a slackening of demand. The California State Oil umpire ordered another reduction in crude oil output.

Copper stocks sold off rapidly, Anaconda dropping more than 3 points. Greene Cananea and Kennecott lost about 3 each, but made up some of their losses toward the close. Prices generally came back a point or two from their lowest levels in short covering in the last half hour.

Aviation stocks were hard hit. United Aircraft dropping about 14 points to 137, but closing just above 141. Radio tumbled about 6 points to 92, and closed at 94. Case Threshing dropped 24 points to 297 in a small turnover.

Utilities encountered heavy profit taking on their recent advance. American and Foreign Power and Consolidated Gas selling down 5 and 4 points. In the motors, Chrysler dropped more than 5 points to a new 1929 low.

General Electric, which reached a new high last week on rumors of a splitup, dropped 6 points to 258, but closed at 262. American Can, a recent strong point, made an extreme loss of about 7 points. Chemicals were under heavy pressure, Commercial Solvents losing 18 points.

Allied Chemical, Allis Chalmers, Bethlehem and U. S. Steels, Electric Auto Lite, Houston Oil, Johns Manville, International Telephone, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck, Western Union and U. S. Industrial Alcohol were among issues selling 4 to 8 points lower.

A few of the rails were supported for a time, Boston and Maine rising 4 points on talk of a possible resumption of dividends.

The buying in this group, however, was largely in expectation of a decision in the St. Louis and O'Fallon case, and when this failed to appear, support was withdrawn. A couple of the specialties moved upward against the general trend, Airway Electrical Appliance and Kelsey Hayes reaching new highs. South Porto Rico Sugar sold up about 5 points to a new top, in further buying on the prospect of a higher tariff.

In contrast to the stock market, commodities generally were firmer. Wheat rallied about a cent a bushel on a decrease in the visible supply, better tone at Liverpool and freight rate reductions. Corn was firmer on bullish weather, and cotton was helped by bullish crop reports and heavy rains.

Foreign exchanges were fairly steady, although sterling cables were a shade lower at $4.85 2-16.

Johnny Peden vs. Tim Connors.
Dutch Whitley vs. Benny Novak.

Plenty of action is promised for tonight at the Hamilton street arena in New London when Promoter Eddie Falkowitz stages the second outdoor show of the season.

Promoter Falkowitz is serving up several appetizing dishes for the pugilistic appetites of the fating fans of eastern Connecticut. The eastern part of the state is well represented as a number of local favorites are appearing on the card.

For the main attraction and one that is shot through with local interest is the Al Beauregard-Al Gillette bout. Beauregard is a local favorite while Gillette has a strong following in New London. In fact the interest is so high that many substantial wagers have been made on the outcome of this bout. Beauregard is very popular in both Norwich and New London and those that saw him fight Pete DeGrasse at New Haven a week ago are confident that he will take the verdict. On the other hand those that have been watching Gillette the past few days are equally as sure that he will win either by a knockout or a decision. The general opinion is that the bout will not go the limit.

The other main bout brings together Pete DeGrasse of New York clashes with Jimmy Picardi of Boston. This will be a real fast bout as both youngsters are clever boxers besides being able to hit very hard.

Kid Wagner, who made such a fine showing in his fight last week, takes on Rene Lubeau of Fall River, in a six-round semi final. This is bound to be another of those slashing bouts as both Wagner and Lubeau are noted for their slugging.

Norwich interest outside the main attraction centers in the four round preliminary between Vic Darr, local favorite and Art Polowitzer of Hartford. Vic is in the pink of condition for his bout and, in his workouts during the past week has shown a world of speed and punching power. He tapered off Monday and is in great shape. Polowitzer is a clever boy who should give Darr a pleasant four rounds.

In the other three preliminaries Johnny Peden is pitted against Tim Connors of New Haven, Dutch Whitley clashes with Benny Novak in a service bout, and Jack Vogant meets Julio Rossi of Westerly in the last.

On the whole it is a nice looking card and should pack the arena to the doors.

Burgess Bedtime Story

The Duckling is Missed
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

In all the world there is no other
Who suffers like an anxious mother —Mrs. Wood Duck.

While the disobedient little Duckling who had slipped away by himself was having a lot of, to him, very frightful adventures, his eleven brothers and sisters were following their mother, Mrs. Wood Duck. The runaway hadn't been missed. No one saw him when he slipped away, so no one thought of him. Twelve children are a lot to keep track of. Mrs. Wood Duck was finding it so. It was not until the end of the pond was reached that Mother Wood Duck suspected that one of her family was missing.

She called all the Ducklings around her. They came hurrying to her, as well-trained Ducklings should. Anxiously she looked them over. But they wouldn't keep still. They would move about. So she was never sure that she had counted all of them. But after a while she became certain that one little Duckling was missing. Such a worried little mother as was pretty Mrs. Wood Duck! You would have thought that she had but one Duckling and that was the one that was lost. You would have thought that the other obedient little Ducklings didn't count at all. Of course, they did. Yes, indeed! But they were all there, so the only one that Mother Wood Duck could think about was the one that wasn't there.

"Oh, dear, what shall I do?" exclaimed Mother Wood Duck. "Whatever shall I do? I don't dare leave these eleven babies to go hunt for the one who is lost, yet I can't leave him without trying to find him."

Then she made up her mind what she would do. She would take the whole family back the way they had come. So she told them to follow her and to hurry as fast as they could. She warned them not to lag behind.

"Something dreadful is sure to happen to you if you do. You'll have to hurry. We must all hurry. Now follow me and keep close."

So Mother Wood Duck started back and because she was anxious, very anxious, she swam so fast that the Ducklings, though they tried their best, could not keep up with her. They did their best, but it was of no use. First one and then another would fall behind.

"What's all the trouble?" he demanded.

Now, their father was, as you know, Beauty the Wood Duck. Presently Beauty came along. "What's all the trouble?" he demanded, as he noticed how anxious Mrs. Wood Duck seemed.

"One of the babies is missing," declared Mrs. Wood Duck. "It is time you did something besides looking handsome. You stay here and watch these Ducklings and don't you let one of them wander away. I'll go look for the missing one."

So Beauty agreed to watch out for the family, and Mrs. Wood Duck started back up the pond, swimming as fast as she could and calling continually as she looked this way and that way and every way among the weeds and around the flypads. Presently she saw a brown head moving along the edge of the weeds and it seemed to her that her heart stopped beating. She recognized Billy Mink instantly. She knew Billy Mink as far as she could see him. She knew, too, a great deal about him.

"Probably he's caught that baby of mine," thought she. "It must have been somewhere along here that the little scamp became lost, and if Billy Mink has been hanging around here long, I'm afraid that my little Duckling is no longer alive. Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Why didn't I keep a closer watch?"

PUTNAM VOTERS UNABLE TO AGREE ON NEW ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 13.—About 35 voters of the town of Putnam were present at a town meeting tonight to decide upon the path of a new state road within the limits of the town. The voters met in the municipal building on Church street. Newton A. Ballard was elected moderator and Arthur Tourtellotte was appointed clerk. Resolutions as drawn up outlining the situation were read by Selectman William P. Warren. A sum of $45,000 will be required to complete the new water macadam state highway from cemetery curve at the intersection of Killingly avenue and Grove street to Warren's Four Corners on Putnam Heights. Due to a difference in opinion among the voters as to which way the highway should continue, a motion was entertained to adjourn for two weeks until a definite path of construction had been decided upon.

Several voters living at points beyond the Four Corners attempted to swing the balance of opinion into a vote that would direct the construction of the highway in the direction of their home. It was because of these arguments that the meeting was continued for a fortnight.

The total amount required for the construction of the prospective highway is to be taken from the town treasury but will be returned through state aid afforded by the state legislature within a period of five years.

THEO. FITZGERALD, NEW LONDON, HAD NORWICH GIRL PAL IN STOLEN CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 13—Theodore Fitzgerald, 30, of 47 Ann street, married, who was arrested in Detroit, a week ago charged with the theft of an automobile owned by the Hire and Drive It Company of this city, was in the police court this morning, having been returned to New London last night by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh. Fitzgerald's demurrer to the complaint was overruled and he was held in bail of $3,000 for trial at the next term of the superior court. In default of a surety on his bond, Fitzgerald was committed to jail.

With Fitzgerald, when he was arrested, was a young woman from Norwich and she is being held a prisoner by the Detroit police pending it being determined whether she is wanted in the former city. She and Fitzgerald were residing as man and wife in Detroit, the woman having accompanied Fitzgerald to Detroit when the latter stole the car.

It is possible that additional charges will be made against Fitzgerald for prior to his stealing the auto he secured a loan from a Norwich savings society in the sum of $100. Fitzgerald secured the loan by assigning the furniture in his home to the savings society when, in reality, he did not own the furniture as it was purchased on a conditional bill of sale and all the payments had not been made. It is understood, also, that Fitzgerald negotiated a fraudulent check for $200 on a New London merchant a day or two before he left the city.

Fitzgerald, several weeks ago, rented a Buick auto from the Hire and Drive It Company, and with his companion, left for Detroit. When the auto was not returned, complaint against Fitzgerald was made to the police. He was traced to Detroit and there taken into custody. In Detroit Fitzgerald represented at the Hanna Auto Sales company that he was the owner of the car and desired to sell it. He showed fraudulent receipts, which purported to show that he had paid $1,400 for the car. The receipts were made in favor of himself and the alleged payments represented that the money had been paid "R. P. Smith." Fitzgerald also displayed a registration, which he claimed was his property, but which, in reality, was the registration of the owners of the auto. Fitzgerald had cleverly pasted the typewritten name and address on his license over the name of the owners of the auto, intending to show that he was the rightful owner. The sales company purchased [illegible] of Fitzgerald $350, of which [illegible] was paid in cash. The balance was [illegible] check and Fitzgerald at once negotiated for the purchase of a Diana roadster of the Rine Motor Sales company for $695 and tendered the check as first payment. In the meantime the Hanna company discovered the fraudulent registration and stopped payment on the check.

The continued case of Joseph Naples, until recently proprietor of a drinking resort at Woodland Grove, Waterford, was called in Waterford town court today. Another continuance was granted, this time until next Monday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

"The Desert Song"

The most remarkable chorus ever assembled for a musical production appears in the Warner Brothers' Vitaphone production, "The Desert Song," the first talking and singing operetta ever shown on the motion picture screen, and a screen play which marks a new milestone in the upward progress of the sound film, at the Broadway theatre. With the possible exception of New York city, nowhere else but in Hollywood could such an array of singers be obtained for chorus work. The roster includes former stars of comic opera and musical comedy, both men and women, as well as many soloists who are well known to radio audiences of Los Angeles broadcasting stations. A number, indeed, have made regular appearances over KFWB, the Warner Brothers' radio station in Hollywood.

One hundred singers comprise the chorus of "The Desert Song" and were rehearsed for three weeks prior to the beginning of actual production of the picture by Ernest G. Grooney, the well known English conductor, who was assisted by William McGann. As a result of the superior quality of their voices these singers render the most magnificent chorus work ever heard in America, and impart additional thrills to the production. Sigmund Romberg's complete score is played by the Vitaphone Symphony orchestra.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Some Little Thing to Love

Sometimes I wonder how people can live
Without the glad friendship that animals can give;
Some little thing, no matter how small,
To love you is better than nothing at all.
Some little kitten, a stray, humble thing,
Or some little bird with a droop to its wing;
Some little something, no matter how small—
Isn't it better than nothing at all?
Feed the lame bird and then bind up its wing—
Soon it will perch on your finger and sing!
Tuck the starved kitten up under your chin—
Hear it purr "Thank you" for letting it in!
So many tables and so many scraps;
So many timid paws begging for laps!
Some little something, no matter how small—
Isn't it better than nothing at all?
—Phyllys Fortune.

To a Purple Martin

You purple pilots of the sky,
With speed so deft and airy!
'Tis folly then to question why
You're like unto a fairy;

On shapely wings the bright sun gleams,
As in the sky still mounting
To reach the very clouds it seems
Where vision fails from counting.

At will, they sail out o'er the lake,
Now, dart along the river,
'Tis naught for them such risk to take
Where tallest aspens quiver.

Like feathered arrows from on high
Though strongest winds are blowing,
They seem to drop from out the sky
When to their houses going.

O! purple pilots of the sky,
With twittering sounds of glee
Each morn I hear them passing by
It seems they're calling me.
—Eugene Knips.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

Beating a dog does not correct his shortcomings. It only makes him afraid of you and savage and if the practice is kept up the dog will become unmanageable. Do not whip your dog unless he is starting to do something which you do not approve. If he is whipped hours after the offense, it does no good; the dog will not know the reason. If you catch him in the act or running away, a mild switching will help.

Accompany the switching with orders, always in the same words, to stay home, and then lead him back. This done repeatedly will be beneficial for he will finally realize that he is not to leave home. Never, under any circumstances, kick or beat your dog. If you should happen to lose your temper let your dog alone until the following day.

Do not tie up your dog. This only makes him worse when he finds himself free. Tying up a dog injures his disposition, makes him cross, ugly and snappy. A dog, just as a human being, needs exercise, and if his owner does not provide exercise for him, he will try to get it on his own hook. His kennel must be comfortable. If it is too hot or too cold, or infested with fleas he will when the chance presents itself, start out on a search for better quarters.

Feed your dog regularly. If he gets hungry he will become restless, and that will oftimes cause him to run away if he has a chance to break loose. If you want to keep your dog with you, and keep him good natured, give him enough exercise to make him tired, give him enough to eat and provide him a clean, comfortable bed.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES.

The Autobiography of a Book.

Dear Uncle Jed: I was first a very pretty blue dress owned by a girl who was very proud of me. Life with her was pleasant. She wore me often but always with care. Like all things I grew old, and was thrown away. Just as I was wondering what would become of me, a poorly clad girl came along. She took me home with her and wore me until I was in tatters. Then, with some other pieces of rags I was sold to a man.

He took me to the paper mill where I was washed in an enormous caldron until I was clean and to my great astonishment, found I was not blue any more but white. Then I was boiled once more with soft wool until I became a soft sticky paste or pulp. I was then spread out and a great roller passed over me leaving me flat. After this was left to dry. Then I was put in a press machine which printed words over me. After this on my blue cover in gold letters was printed: "Billy Bunny and the Friendly Elephant." I did not tell you before that I liked the color blue very much, and was highly satisfied to think that chose a blue cover for me.

I was then taken to a store and put into a window. A lady passing by came in and bought me for her daughter. She took me home and to my surprise and joy I found I was in the same house where my first mistress had me. She took me with intense joy and read me through. Here I lived happily ever after.

If only I could speak and tell her that I was the blue dress she had a few months before.

Camp Mowsen.

Dear Uncle Jed and the Wide-Awakes: I hope you will enjoy my story very much. It is entitled Camp Mowsen.

The camp is situated off the Colchester road on a beautiful lake which is also called Mowsen. There are about twenty canoes and ten rowboats in the camp. Every morning the bugler would blow reveile. This would awaken us. After we were dressed the flag was raised and a shot fired. We would next go to the mess hall for breakfast. This done the boys would go for a half-hour swim. Another bugle call would bring us to the different studies we had such as: Nature study, reading, or wood craft. We were once more summoned again to the mess hall for dinner. After the conclusion of dinner we make a hasty retreat to our shacks. In the afternoon we sometimes took another swim bought candy or some sweets to eat. A third time we were again in the mess hall eating supper. The bugler for the last time blew his bugle and then all would stand at attention for the flag would be lowered. With much excitement we hurried to prepare for bed. At last the day was over. It was a day at Mowsen.

Likes Price Book.

Dear Uncle Jed: Your lovely prize book I received and certainly was pleased to receive it. Thank you very much.

I was very much pleased to read the stories of my little Wide-Awake friends but was more pleased when I read the letters of Alfred and Gladys Perkins and Dwight Hill's. Lou see they lived near me when I lived in Hallville and they were schoolmates of mine.

Some of my friends in this neighborhood asked me if they could join the Wide-Awake circle and I told them they could. So you will hear from them soon I hope.

I am writing this before I go to school as mother said I could, so I will not write a big letter this time, but will later on. Best wishes to my Wide-Awake friends. I am

My Trip to Hartford

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes about my trip to Hartford. It is a very big city. We went to a few stores and then we saw the capitol. It is a large building and very beautiful, with large cement walks and trees. Around the building are many statues and the grass is very green. It looks very much like a park. Many people are sitting on benches around. I think it is very pretty and hope all the Wide Awakes will see it. Now Uncle Jed and Wide Awakes, I hope you will enjoy my letter.

Fluffy

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. It is a narrative that happened only a few months ago. It is entitled, "Fluffy."

"Oh, the cute thing!" I exclaimed as a lovely little puppy came down the street, sniffing here and there, as he went. "Why, Avery, he looks as though he were lost. See, he has prickers in his hair and there is no one with him." "Why, that's so," said my brother, "let's take him home." I next found myself on the way home, carrying the puppy in my arms. When we reached home I gave the dog some milk. He proved to be quite hungry and drank it all. While Avery and I were waiting for mother to come home (for she had gone out) we thought that it would be best to have some name by which he could be called. My brother suggested a few names but I did not like them. As I sat with the dog in my arms, combing out his hair, an idea suddenly occurred. Why not call him Fluffy, because he had such fluffy hair. My brother agreed, so Fluffy it was. The dog also seemed well pleased with his new name and came when he was called.

Saved By a Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter and I hope you and all the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading it. I was staying with my friend who lived near a lake. We were talking about dogs and she was saying she hated dogs. Just then I heard a dog's bark and turning around saw a white puppy. I took it in, although my friend did not want me to at first.

When I was going swimming about a month later this dog followed me as usual. While in swimming a sudden pain came to me. I cried, "Help!" and before I knew it I was on shore safely. The next day I came in the parlor and saw her petting the dog.

"I thought you didn't like dogs?" I asked, teasingly.

Only a laugh was the reply I got.

My First Fish

Dear Uncle Jed: I thank you very much for the book. It was very interesting. I am going to tell you about my first fish. On the morning of April sixteenth I woke up very early and looked out of the window. It was starting to rain but I thought I would go fishing. I dressed quickly and went downstairs. I did not stop for any breakfast. I put on my raincoat and hat, got a cane and my fishpole and went out and dug my fish worms. Then I was off for the brook.

I went down a lane till I came to the brook where I stopped and put my bait on the hook. Then I threw my line into the water. In a short time I felt a pull at my line. I pulled it out and I had a good sized trout. I tried again and again but the fish didn't like my worms and finally at it was getting towards the time when I should start for school. I had to hurry home with my one good-sized trout which my mother fried for my breakfast.

Building a Radio

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written to you before. I hope you will enjoy reading my story. The name for my story is Building a Radio.

One day my cousins came to my house. They wanted to go for a walk. While we were going for a walk we found many wires. One of my cousins said, "Let's build a radio."

So we went home. We got some lumber and we were building the radio. We needed a battery. I soon remembered that there was one in the garage that my father had taken out of the car. We ran to the garage and took the battery. We put it in the radio. We painted the radio dark red color.

We took the wires and tacked the wires from the house to the barn. We bought a round copper thing that has the stations on it and put it on the radio. We got a bulb and put it in the radio. We started the radio but it didn't work. We started it again and it worked good. The next morning we had the children's hour and it was very good.

Japan

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about Japan. The Japanese people live the different houses than we do. In their homes are white mats on the floor. They don't want to dirty the mats so they take off their shoes before going in the house. The girls wear their hair combed up and tied on the top of their heads. They use chopsticks for forks and knives. But we don't use chopsticks. The Japanese girls wear kimonos and we wear dresses. Their sleeves come away down to their knees and they use them for pockets also. The Japanese people are very clean.

My Pet

Dear Uncle Jed: I enjoy reading the letters from the Wide Awakes. Would like to write them about my pet cat, Tommy. He was a big cat when he was given to us about one year ago and very cross. He would growl when anyone came in our house. After keeping him about two months we managed to make a pet of him. Now he is always looking for attention. Every time we sit to our meals he takes his place at the corner of the table, stands on his hind legs with his front paws at the edge of the table, that's a stretch of 29 inches that he keeps all the while we're eating. He's well behaved for he never cries. Tommy is a very good ratter. He has caught some big ones in the barn. Today he brought a big striped adder that he killed at our back door. His reward was a big supper.

My Fishing Trip

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you and the Wide Awakes and I hope you all enjoy it. Last Saturday I went fishing with my father at Snake Meadow brook. I could not fish right away for I had no permit and had to wait until the game warden came to get one, because in a state stocked brook I cannot fish without a permit. He soon came and after he had given me a permit I took my pole and line and fished under a bridge. I was there only a few minutes when I felt something nibble on my line. I quickly pulled and reeled in the fish and threw it on the bank, and to my surprise it was a twelve-inch trout. That was the largest one I caught that day. I certainly enjoyed that trip.

A Carrier Pigeon

Dear Uncle Jed: The Saturday before Easter we were sitting in the house. My mother stepped out for a minute and called to us to come out. When we did, what do you suppose we saw? A carrier pigeon! He was very tired and hungry, so my brother-in-law picked him up and took him in the house. We got some corn and gave it to him. He ate a whole handful. Then we gave him a drink of water and put him in a box. Easter Sunday we brought him in the house and fed him and also gave him something to drink. He had a small band around his leg so we wrote a note and put it inside the band. Then we let him go. We have not heard anything from the owner yet. I do hope he got home safely.

FIRST GIRL CHOSEN IN THE MISS NORWICH CONTEST

Last evening at the Palace theatre before a large gathering the first selection in the elimination contest to choose Miss Norwich was held with a dozen of the local young ladies competing. The large audience made the selection with their applause, the decision being given to a contestant only after several minutes of thought because of the fact that two of the girls were very nearly tied. Miss Sophia Balcun, a very chic little lady of 268 Prospect street was declared the winner of the evening. Miss Balcun, who is just 17 years, is a very pleasing brunette, five feet two in height, and weighs 105 pounds, with pretty blue eyes. The contest continues during the entire week at this theatre and there is yet time for the local young lady to carry off the proud title of Miss Norwich together with the beautiful wardrobe provided by the finest stores in this city. Send in your name to the manager of the house and who knows, but you may be the winner. The young lady who wins the title of Miss Norwich represents this city at the New England Beauty Pageant to be held at the beautiful Spanish Gables, Revere Beach, Boston, during the week of July 29, all expenses paid, the winner of this contest to receive a beautiful wardrobe, valued at $5,000.00 together with a diamond studded wrist watch to the value of $1,000, and a 23 week theatre contract at $250. per week.

The beautiful wardrobe that goes to the winner of the local contest at the Palace theatre, is made possible by the following high class merchants: Wrist watch, by Malove, the Jeweler; hand colored portrait, by DeMarris, the Main street photo shop; a beautiful gage hat, by Mandelis; a pretty picture hat, by the Princess shop; evening slippers, by the Model bootery; an electric curling iron, by the Gas and Electric dept.; sport shoes, by Mandelis shoe shop. Carons will see that the stockings for Miss Norwich will be the best, so this store will provide a box of Gotonns V. line silk stockings; Max's women's shop will provide a complete wardrobe of the best in silk lingerie. No outfit is complete without custom jewelry so Plaut and Cadden Co. will see to it that Miss Norwich is outfitted with this requisite. Hawkins, the florist, is to provide the flowers for the young lady. These with the rest of the outfit to be announced will make a pretty wardrobe for any young lady; so while there is yet time to enter the contest just drop in to the theatre and give in your name.

Into the life of a bored young man walks a beautiful girl—the one of his dreams! He believes her to be the daughter of a dead friend of his father's who has come to his plantation on a South Sea island after she has been left an orphan.

But, strangely, the arrival of the girl breeds disaster. Though beautiful and charming, she carries a curse. Evil faces peer at her. The boy imagines he sees an unexplained look of guilt on her face even while she tells him of her love. In the midst of her visit, the natives on the island rise up in savage warfare. Is she a bad omen? What is the answer? What possesses her to run from the safety of his love and protection into the heart of the native insurrection on the very eve of her marriage?

The answer to the great climax of "The Devil's Apple Tree," a Tiffany-Stahl production showing today at the Palace theatre, Dorothy Sebastian is featured in the role of the mysterious girl who wins the love of the plantation owner's son, played by Larry Kent. Others in the cast include Ruth Clifford, Edward Martindel, George Cooper and Cosmo Kyrle Bellew. Elmer Clifton handled the megaphone.

On the same program, a band of crooks, among them a beautiful girl, who are determined to steal a valuable painting from the library of an exclusive golf club, and a millionaire sportsman who, for the love of the girl, allows himself to be branded as a thief, constitute the ingredients for Universal's newest thrill feature, "Slim Fingers." This picture of underworld adventures, in which William Cody is starred, will be shown at the Palace theatre today and tomorrow.

With Cody and pretty Duane Thompson enacting the leading roles under the expert direction of Josef Levigard, "Slim Fingers," with its rapidly moving action and human appeal, is certain to be one of the most successful underworld pictures of the year.

Breed Theatre

She is introduced in the picture as a strolling singer who sings her way into the heart of a gallant young officer. In this sequence she wears a lovely costume consisting of a full graceful skirt worn with a linen blouse elaborately embroidered in a peasant pattern. Flowers are worn in her hair, and earrings, necklace and bracelets give the finishing touch to her costume.

In a highly dramatic scene Miss Crawford appears in a pink satin negligee with long pointed train of marabou. Marabou also appears on the collar and cuffs.

Velvet frocks in blacks and browns are worn with small, close-fitting hats and lovely furs and matching purses, shoes and gloves.

Appearing with Miss Crawford in "Dream of Love" are Nils Asther, Aileen Pringle, Warner Oland, Carmel Myers, Harry Reinhardt, Harry Norton. Fred Niblo was the director and the story is an adaptation by Dorothy Farnum from "Adrienne Lecouvreur," famous old French play.

LINDY WAS ONCE EAGER FOR PRESS PHOTOGRAPH

CHICAGO (AP)—Eddie Johnson, a Chicago newspaper photographer, recalls when Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was interested in the efforts of a camera man to make his picture.

Lindbergh, then a "mister," had jumped overboard from an air mail plane when fog blinded him. Helicopted near Ottawa, Ill. When a picture was taken of the proceedings, Johnson said Lindbergh remarked:

"Do you suppose your paper will print that picture?"

"You never can tell. Why?" the photographer answered.

"If they don't, would you give me one for my scrapbook?" the pilot explained.

MOTHERS' DAY SERVICE AT THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday at the Third Baptist church special Mothers' day services were held. At the morning service several mothers of the church took part. Mrs. A. Cousins read. "Our First Mother—Eve." Mrs M. A. Maynard read a poem, "Mother Love." Mrs. J. Spicer read the scripture lesson from Proverbs 31. The pastor, Rev. Harry Brothwell paid a tribute to the mothers of the land in his sermon which took the form of an acrostic, which was as follows:

Ministers of Mercy, Overseers of Order, Teachers of Truth, Heralds of Hope, Existing to Enoble, Ready to Receive, Saviors of Souls.

At the evening service the subject of the sermon was "A Devoted Mother." The Syro Phoenician woman with the sick daughter was presented by the pastor as a model mother because she exemplified what every true mother should concern for her child, humility, persaverance during trial, bravery, wisdom, reverence and greatest of all faith in God. "Mothers hold the destinies of nations in the hollow of their hands," said the pastor. "If the mothers of this country would live prayerful, reverential devoted lives before their children there would not be much difficulty in making this nation law-abiding."

MISSION HOURS ANNOUNCED AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Notwithstanding the inclement weather the opening of a mission to continue all this week, the first three days for the women and the three last days for the men, found a fairly large congregation of women present for the opening exercises in St. Mary's Memorial church on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The exercises opened with the offering of the holy rosary and litany by Rev. William A. Keefe, the pastor, and closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament given by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan. The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. O'Brian who took for his subject, "Seek ye first therefore the kingdom of God and His justice and all things will be added unto you." The preacher's remarks dwelt on the value of the human soul and the enormity of sin which stands in the way of a person's losing his soul. The hours for the women's mission were announced as follows: Morning masses at 5 and 7 o'clock, followed by a short instruction; evenings at 7:30, closing with a general holy communion at the masses on Wednesday morning. The men's mission period opens Wednesday evening, services at 7:30 with the same morning hours as the women. The men's mission closes Saturday morning with a general holy communion. The masses Monday morning were offered by Rev. John O'Brian at 5 o'clock; at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. Father Keefe. Following the mass there was a short instruction on Prayer by Rev. Fr. O'Brian. The mission is being conducted by Rev. John O'Brian O. M. I. of the Oblate Order with headquarters at Lowell, Mass. All in the parish are urged to make the mission at the masses offered on Sunday morning. Congregational singing will be featured.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY HAS ENACTED 804 MEASURES

The 1929 general assembly will have enacted 804 measures into law if no vetoes are forthcoming from the governor's office, a check-up completed by William M. Harney, engrossing clerk, shows.

Prior to adjournment last Wednesday Governor Trumbull had given his approval to 171 chapters of public acts of 1928 and to 268 special acts, a total of 439 bills. There are now ready and awaiting the executive's signature 194 house bills and 128 senate bills and sixteen engrossed chapters of public acts and twenty-four special acts, a total of 362. The legislature also passed three resolutions which do not require the governor's signature, but are included in the count of 804 measures enacted.

Mr. Harney said that, although the total number of bills passed is fifteen less than the total number passed at the 1927 session, the task of reading the bills is no lighter in his office this session. It is, in fact, harder for the 1929 measures are in the majority of instances longer, or contain more reading matter, than bills of the 1927 session.

Many a man's conscience troubles him only when his neighbor does something wrong.

MITCHELL MEETS WATERLOO IN REPUBLICAN PARTY CAUCUS

By an overwhelming vote, John A. Mitchell, lost to Major Charles A. Hagberg, the republican nomination for water commissioner at the republican city caucus in the town hall Monday evening. The opposition to Mr. Hagberg was ineligible, as there were but a few scattering votes in Mr. Mitchell's favor. Failure to secure the party's endorsement for nomination means that Mr. Mitchell will retire from the board of water commissioners when his present term expires, May 15th, the close of the city's fiscal year. Mr. Hagberg will succeed him on the board, as nomination automatically elected him, each party being entitled to send one commissioner to the board.

The caucus, with an attendance of about 500 men and women, was called to order at 8 o'clock by George M. Charbonneau, chairman of the republican town committee. Mr. Charbonneau called for nomination for a chairman and Weston C. Pullen named Judge H. H. Pettis for the chairmanship. Mr. Pettis was chosen to preside over the caucus and the choice was greeted with a burst of applause.

After thanking the caucus for the honor conferred on him, Judge Pettis spoke of the large gathering of men and women. "I am glad to see it," he said. "It promises well for election. Our democratic friends held their caucus the other night. They are our friends, with the possible exception of two days in the year. We had six years of democratic rule," Judge Pettis then referred to the extravagance, high taxation and waste that he said marked the democratic administration during that time. He went on to say that he thought the city election a year ago had taught the democrats a lesson, but that at their caucus they nominated two of the gentlemen that made up the former council. "The democratic party has not changed," said the chairman, "and if they go into office we will have the same extravagance, high taxation and waste." In closing Judge Pettis said that he felt sure that in the coming election Mayor Lee, Roy Robbins will receive the endorsement to which he is entitled.

John R. Bowman named Harold S. Burt as clerk of the caucus and after the clerk had read the warning Judge Pettis again briefly addressed the caucus. He said he had heard some rumor of a contest, and that it was perfectly all right for anyone to be nominated. He expressed the hope that the voters would support the majority candidate at the polls. "I see some of my democratic friends here," said Judge Pettis. "I am glad to see them here; I hope it will do them good." The judge then went on to remark that it was a republican caucus and said he believed it would be conducted on that basis. He then called for nominations and they were quickly made, without opposition, as follows:

For city clerk, Weston C. Pullen, nominated for re-election by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts. In nominating Mr. Pullen, Rev. Mr. Ricketts said it was his pleasure to nominate him eight years ago and that he has made good. He said it was a great pleasure to place him in nomination to succeed himself once more. The nomination was greeted with applause.

For tax collector, Harold T. Robinson, the democratic encumbent of the office, nominated for re-election by Richard P. Gregson. "He has conducted the office with credit to himself and to the city," said Mr. Gregson, in making the nomination.

For city sheriffs, Charles H. Raynes, nominated by Paul H. Zahn; V. Roath Allen, nominated by George Breen.

The only contest of the caucus was over the final nomination, that of the party's representative on the board of water commisioners. Judge John H. Barnes, after telling one or two humorous stories, in his usual entertaining manner, said "I am here to place in nomination a man I have known a great many years. I also know his opponent. Both are gentlemen," Judge Barnes said that he felt that his candidate was more entitled to the position in view of circumstances now existing. He has been engaged in business in this city for 30 years, ever since the Spanish-American war, in which he took part. He served in the court of common council for two terms, and served on the water board for three years. He is faithful and honest. I leave him in your hands for endorsement said the judge, as he named Charles A. Hagberg. There was a tremendous burst of applause, at the mention of Mr. Hagberg's name.

After rapping for order, Judge Pettis asked if there were any other nominations. Wesley J. Calkins nominated John A. Mitchell. The chair called for a vote by acclamation. The result of the vote was more or les of a surprise, even to the supporters of Mr. Hagberg, as there were but a very few scattering votes in favor of Mr. Mitchell's nomination. Mr. Hagberg was declared nominated as the party's choice for commissioner, after which the town committee was authorized to fill any vacancies that might occur on the ticket between now and election day. As this completed the business of the caucus, adjournment was taken at 8:25 o'clock.

Boucher of this city against Fred Herman of this city, Barney Gordon of New London and John R. Kaplan of Montville. The suit is returnable in June. NORWICH TOURISTS WERE FLORIDA CITY VISITORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., May 13. —This city will bring its greatest season to a close with the end of this month when the last of the tourists will start off on the homeward trek following the gayest and the happiest "winter" in the history of the resort. Every state in the union every Canadian province and 24 foreign nations were represented here among the 190,000 vacationists who were entertained from October through to June.

At the chamber of commerce, nine Norwich residents registered their names and addresses for the season, most of them now having returned to the north. Many own their own winter homes in St. Petersburg, and will return here earlier next fall. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Beausoleil, 183 Broad St.; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Beausoleil, 183 Broad St.; T. C. Murphy, 161 Broadway; Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Otis, 159 W. Thames St.; Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Sweeney, 21 Spalding St.

A fine trout weighing 2 pounds, 1 ounce, was on display Monday in the window at the Hanover-Curland store on Franklin street. It was caught by George Hatch of Voluntown while he was fishing in the Mt. Misery district.

A poor man may be able to point with pride to rich relations, but he seldom does.

STORRS HENS SET NEW RECORD FOR A WEEK

With a lay of 4,954 eggs in the 27th week of the laying contest at Storrs, the birds piled up a total exceeded by no other week since the contest started November first. The highest score that had been obtained up until this week was for the 23rd week when they produced 70.4 per cent. The yield this week was 70.8 per cent. An increase in egg production at this time of the year was unlooked for by the management of the contest, as ordinarily the peak of production comes in the month of April. The hens in the present contest evidently are going to repeat their performance of last year by making May the month of greatest yield. The birds now have a grand total of 115,096 eggs or an average of 115 eggs each. The yield this week was 107 eggs more than last week's and 277 eggs more than the corresponding week last year. At the end of the 27th week the hens in the present competition have gained 13,473 eggs over last year's laying trial.

SIREN SIGNAL TO CALL FIREMEN WHEN OFF DUTY

A large siren to call out the firemen who are off duty, will be installed on the tower at the central fire station within a short time and will be given a tryout within the next month, it was learned Monday. The siren, if it proves satisfactory, will probably become a permanent signal.

Whenever a bell alarm is sounded, three short blasts, sounded twice, will be blown on the siren, to call in the firemen on the off shift. It is understood that the siren blasts carry a distance of about seven miles.

The small siren erected at the Shannon corner to warn traffic of the approach of fire apparatus, was given a tryout Monday noon and proved very satisfactory.

To Repeat Play.

At 7.30 in the auditorium of the Congregational church, eight characters in Oriental costumes presented in pleasing manner, a Bible drama, "The Prodigals Return". Because of the thunderstorm Sunday evening when it was time for people to assemble at the church, it has been decided to repeat the drama next Sunday evening.

FORTY-NINE ATTEND HOME CHAPTER MEETING

The leader, Mrs. William E. Manning, presiding, the May meeting of Home chapter of The King's Daughters held Monday afternoon at Johnson home, was attended by forty-nine. Two members were admitted to the chapter. The sewing society is to hold an all-day meeting Thursday, May 16th, at the home of Mrs. Charles Cross, 70 Maple street. Announcement was made of the New London and Windham counties King's Daughters' conference of which Mrs Manning is county president to be held Tuesday, May 21st, at Jewett City Baptist church. This is to be followed shortly by the city union meeting of K. D., to be held this year in Norwich Town Congregational church.

Attending the meeting Monday was a former beloved leader of Home chapter, Mrs. Haywood of New York who is visiting relatives at her former home in Greeneville. Mrs. Haywood spoke briefly when called upon. With Mrs. John Olsen playing the piano accompaniment, two Mothers day hymns were sung. A member of the home, Miss Barber recited, "Remember the Sabbath Day." For the next meeting of the chapter, Monday, June 10th, the bible study will be the 91st Psalm. This will close the meetings until September. The meeting Monday, was called a Get-Acquainted meeting. Mrs. Manning made a good suggestion, that those who could originate something each to represent her name were asked to do so. Some of the responses were: Miss Barber, red and white barber pole; Mrs. Fulton, picture of a steamer to represent the first steam boat; Mrs. Weaver, a loom; Mrs. Olsen, a tiny rug pinned on her dress, representing a business firm of that name; Mrs. Christman wore a picture of Christ pinned on her dress, written underneath was the word man; Mrs. Cross, a fancy cross, on a chain about her neck; Mrs. Miner, a large paper on which was printed "I keep you warm"; Mrs. Fillmore carried a glass nearly filled with water; Mrs. Keen had a glass cutter; Mrs. Grant displayed a picture of President Grant; Mrs. Branche had a twig pinned on her dress; Mrs. Hanson displayed a picture of Han's son; Mrs. Washington showed the picture of a washing on the line and a ton weight; Mrs. Bode had pictures of trunks and satchels on her dress, while Mrs. Manning's idea was the picture of a man in a large G. The scheme proved very interesting.

POETRY

Spring Harbor

It's foolish to bring poetry
To any spring wood,
Jewels won't help you,
Gold's no good.

Silver won't buy you
One small leaf,
You may bring joy here
—You may bring grief.

You should look for Tufted moss
Marked where a light fire
Ran across.

Where the old rose blue
Shrinks brown
And frost clematis
Bloom hangs down

There you will find what
Every man needs,
With religion
Without any creeds.

Green that lifts its Blossoming head,
New life springing
Among the dead.

You needn't bring money
To this market place,
Or think you can bargain for Wild flower grace.

"To The Whippoorwill"

When fall the shadows o'er the Western sphere
And vanished is the day and all is still,
Then from the woods and meadows we do hear
His melancholy lay, the whippoorwill.
"O bird, thou mystic chanter of the night,
Who sings at dawn or by the fading light,
How often have I heard thee by the rill
And wondered why you utter whippoorwill."
In darkest hollows filled with deepest gloom,
Midst weird forms and phantoms of the tomb,
Dost thou not fear? I hear thee singing still,
O thou most lonely bird, the whippoorwill."

AUTO PRODUCTION NOW AT HIGHEST LEVEL IN HISTORY

Announcement Made by Federal Reserve Board—Reports the Demand For Automobiles Has Not Been Sufficient to Absorb the Output—Production of Tires Has Exceeded the Demand and Stocks Are Larger Than They Were a Year Ago—Building Construction Has Declined Steadily Since November of Last Year.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The federal reserve board announced today that automobile production in the United States reached the highest level in history in the first three months of 1929 and that the demand for automobiles had not been sufficient to absorb the output.

This production, the board said in its monthly bulletin, was the chief factor in the rise of industrial production to its present record level of 10 per cent more than in the same period of last year. The board found that the automobile output had increased the demand for other materials, chiefly iron and steel, textiles and rubber. The production of tires, was said to have exceeded the demand and stocks were larger than they were a year ago.

"Output of automobiles," the board said, was more than 50 per cent. larger than in the first quarter of 1928 and more than 25 per cent larger than in the first quarter of any earlier year. Production in March was proceeding at a rate of over 24,000 cars a day, the largest output ever reached in the industry."

The board said that the increased production of the country, while participated in by most industries, reflected, chiefly the gains in iron and steel, automobiles, copper and petroleum and had been under way for 15 months, some industries showed declines, including building construction, cotton and wool textiles and coal.

The board said that the increase in copper production appeared caused chiefly by growth of consumption by the end of 1928 to a point where refineries found difficulty in meeting the demand and to a shift by consumers from a hand to mouth policy to one of forward buying.

Building construction, the board stated, has declined steadily since November of last year and in the first quarter of this year was 15 per cent lower than for the same period a year ago. The largest decline was in the New York district, the board said, while small increases were shown in the Cleveland, Richmond, Minneapolis and Dallas districts.

While awards for industrial building showed an increase, those for residential building were said to be well below those of the same period of the three previous years. The decline was attributed to reduction in house rates, increased money rates and the difficulty of floating bonds.

The growth of the steel output, the board said, "has been in response to increased activity in a wide variety of industries. These included the large demand from the automobile industry, increased orders from railroad, and manufacturers of machine tools and agricultrau implements as well as a fair demand for structural steel.

THREE BODIES RECOVERED FROM FLOODED AREAS

LIVINGSTON, Tex., May 14.—(AP)—Bodies of three victims were recovered today as rescue parties rushed into the flooded areas of Polk county in an effort to save persons marooned after a sixteen inch rain yesterday.

A Negro woman and her two children were found drowned on the west bank of the Trinity river near Long Cane creek.

Reports that a family of four persons was lost when swept from a tree top three and a half miles from here had not been verified.

Communication in the flooded districts was demoralized.

An appeal was made today for outboard motorboats at Houston. Two were sent from Lufkin.

Fear was expressed for a man named Wells, his wife and two children, who lived in a cottage on the bank of the creek near Goodrich. Searchers were unable to make their way to where the cottage stood.

Automobiles with licenses from states as far away as New York and Illinois were stranded along a highway.

Telephone crews swam out and repaired lines, which in places were broken by floating logs.

A. L. Young of Livingston, who was in the party that found the bodies of the three Negroes, said cries of marooned persons could be heard along the river. Residents were powerless to aid until a few skiffs were found.

CRISIS IN REPARATIONS CONFERENCE COMES TODAY

PARIS, May 14—(AP)—The crisis in the work of the reparations conference, which had been expected for today, will come tomorrow or Thursday in the opinion of most of the experts tonight.

Sir Josiah Stamp, chief British delegate and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief German delegate, were unable to finish their work on incorporating in the draft report the conditions under which the Germans are willing to accept the annuities proposed by Owen D. Young, in time to present a text to the conference this afternoon.

There are only three persons who know exactly what the German conditions as inserted in the report are. It was declared emphatically at headquarters of the second Dawes committee this evening that only Sir Josiah Stamp, Dr. Schacht and Mr. Young were cognizant of the matter.

The other experts will learn of the conditions when the complete text of the draft report is distributed tomorrow.

Since it will be necessary to allow at least one day for the creditor experts unfamiliar with the text to study the German conditions, consideration of the text in plenary session will probably be no earlier than Thursday.

CONDEMNS CHURCH PRESSURE IN LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, May 14—(AP)—Attempts by church agencies to exert pressure in legislative affairs were condemned tonight by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington, addressing the annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Washington.

"The maintenance of any organized system designed to coerce legislators or to dictate legislation, state or national," he said, "is utterly foreign to a right conception of the church's function. We have condemned, and rightly so, the influence brought by organized lobbies to affect legislation in the interest of certain corporate bodies that are seeking a selfish advantage. It is equally reprehensible for the church or any of its chosen agencies to use like methods."

The bishop said the church had "lost prestige and signally weakened its influence" whenever it had attempted through organized effort to direct and control political action.

600 ACRES IN EAST HARTFORD FOR PLANE AND ENGINE PLANT

HARTFORD, May 14—(AP)—Approximately $2,000,000 will be involved in the purchase of 600 acres of land in East Hartford and the construction there of an airplane and engine factory for the United Aircraft and Transport company, it was estimated today by Charles W. Deeds, of the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft company, a subsidiary of the United.

The purchase price of the mile-square tract of land, split into 50 parcels on each of which the company has secured an option, will be about $700,000, Mr. Deeds said. Developments beyond the confines of the factory are not included in the estimate.

TO VOTE ON GOV. LONG IMPEACHMENT TODAY

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14—(AP)—Presenting himself at the bar of the state senate today to answer impeachment charges, Governor Huey P. Long threw the case into the maze of constitutional argument by attaccneys gave the constitutional lawyers ing the legality of the procedure.

Two demurrers filed by his attorneys gave the constitutional lawyers a field day, counsel on each side dragging up the state constitution and impeachment precedents in other states to prove opposite contentions.

The demurrers charged that the house of representatives voted impeachment while it was illegally in session and that the present senate was acting in violation of the state constitution in sitting now as a court of impeachment.

John Overton of Alexandria, leading counsel for the governor, made an appeal to halt the whole procedure as being contrary to constitutional provisions.

Shortly after six o'clock, counsel for both sides concluded and Chief Justice Charles A. O'Neill, presiding, made ready to call for a vote but it was blocked by a motion to recess until tomorrow.

NEGLIGENCE CHARGED IN FILMING "OLD IRONSIDES"

LOS ANGELES, May 14—(AP)—Evidence gathered by the United States attorney's office allegedly revealing the death of one man and the injury of three others in the filming of the famous historical picture "Old Ironsides" today was turned over to the Los Angeles county district attorney's office for investigation and possible criminal prosecution.

In submitting his findings, United States Attorney Samuel McNabb declared he believed there had been "criminal negligence" in making the picture at sea, in which an extra worker was killed. The production was supervised by James Cruze, Hollywood, Calif., motion picture executive.

McNabb said that inasmuch as the death had occurred within the three mile limit, the question of prosecution was taken from his office and placed with the State District Attorney Buron Fitts, who held the proper power.

"MAIL ORDER BRIDE" HELD FOR POISONING HUSBAND

COLUMBIA, Cal., May 14—(AP)—Mrs. Eva Brandon Rablen, "mail order bride" from Texas, was bound over for trial here today on a charge of poisoning her husband, Carroll Rablen, World war veteran and farmer, at a dance several weeks ago.

The proceedings were short. Three prosecution witnesses told of circumstances surrounding Rablen's death, one of them, Walter Routy, drug store clerk, identifying Mrs. Rablen as the woman who bought a bottle of poison from him a few hours before Rablen died and signed for it as "Mrs. Joe William."

Publisher McLean Files $2,000,000 Suit

WASHINGTON, May 14—(AP)—An article published yesterday by the Philadelphia Record was made the basis of a $2,000,000 libel suit filed against that newspaper today by Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post.

The article, a photostatic copy of which was included as a part of the McLean brief, had purported to describe circumstances of a social breach between McLean and Prince De Ligne, the Belgian ambassador. It said a story was current that the publisher had been requested by the diplomat to leave the Belgian embassy after he had dined there "not wisely but too well."

The Record article said that the next day McLean's Washington Post "began printing outbursts against Prince De Ligne," and that the Belgian ambassador had called at the state department "to find if he really was persona non grata with the government."

"Secretary of State Stimson," the article continued, "immediately wrote him a public note expressing 'sincere regret for the editorial discourtesy.'"

"But it was President Hoover who completely stemmed the breach and put the publisher in his place. To the outsider it was highly diplomatic, but to those in the know it was a blunt squelching of McLean."

The McLean brief declared the publisher:

"Did not attend a dinner at the Belgian embassy referred to".

"Did not at such a dinner dine 'too well'".

"Did not annoy any guests at such a dinner nor shock said guests".

"Did not subject the Belgian ambassador to embarrassment by reason of his conduct" and "Was not requested to leave such dinner."

The brief asserted further that the Washington Post "did not print any outbursts against Prince De Ligne at the instigation or request of the plaintiff nor as a result of any alleged conduct of the plaintiff or action of the said Belgian ambassador at said alleged dinner."

The brief said McLean "was not 'squelched' by President Hoover by reason of any misconduct or any action on the part of the plaintiff and was not by any action of said President Hoover put 'in his place.'"

The Record was charged in the brief with "wickedly contriving and falsely and maliciously intending" to bring McLean into public disrepute and to injure him as a publisher, and "to cause it to be suspected and believed that he attended a dinner at the Belgian embassy in a disgraceful and drunken condition and that at such a dinner he had annoyed and shocked guests of the Belgian ambassador, and that the Belgian ambassador was perplexed and ordered the plaintiff to leave in order to save his other guests from further embarrassment."

Senate Has Passed Farm Relief Bill

The Vote Was 54 to 33—Measure Will Now Be Sent Over to the House.

WASHINGTON, May 14—(AP)—A farm relief bill unacceptable to President Hoover because it contains the export debenture plan was passed today by the senate, 54 to 33, after a full month's labor.

Both branches of congress now have accepted upon agricultural relief legislation, but the greatest uncertainty surrounds its final enactment because of the sharp difference between the senate and the house on the debenture action. The President early in the session strongly objected to that method of farm relief.

The senate measure will be messaged tomorrow to the house where administration leaders are inclined to refuse the bill. They base this on contentions that the senate had no right to initiate the debenture proposal on the theory that it is revenue legislation and therefore constitutionally must originate in the house. Strong opposition to this opinion was expressed today in the senate and administration leaders have been working to prevent a deadlock.

The farm bill was passed in the senate largely by the same combination of democrats and republican independents who voted for the debenture plan.

Thirty one administration republicans including Senator Watson of Indiana, the party leader, voted against the bill as a protest of the debenture section. Two democrats, Wagner of New York and Walsh of Massachusetts, also voted against the bill.

Nine senators who voted against debentures, however, voted for the measure, but even if they had cast their ballot with the administration group, the bill would have passed. These senators were Capper of Kansas, Cousens and Vandenberg of Michigan, Cutting of New Mexico, McNary and Steiwer of Oregon, Shortridge of California, and Thomas of Idaho, republicans, and Ransdell, of Louisiana, democrat.

The senate measure would create a farm board of 12 members—the house bill provides for one of six—which would be vested with broad power to study, direct and control the multitude of factors which go into the production, storing and disposition of farm commodities.

Commodity advisory councils would be authorized to assist the board in disseminating information and to advise the board on the needs of the various crops. Stabilization agencies would be created upon request by cooperative associations to buy up, store, process and sell surpluses with the intention of maintaining a comparatively even price level.

The debenture plan would be invoked only when the board deemed it necessary to bring it into use as a result of failure to cope with the farm problem in any commodity by means of the structure devised in the bill. Under this plan, an exporter of surplus crops would receive a debenture certificate whose value would be equal to one-half the tariff on imports of those commodities, the certificates would be redeemable at par for the payment of import duties.

The farm board would be given a revolving fund of $500,000,000 to carry on its operations.

This money would be loaned to cooperatives and stabilization corporations for the construction of facilities, the formation of stronger organization and the marketing of crops.

NO CHANCE IN HOUSE FOR DEBENTURES FARM BILL

Declaration Made by House Leader Tilson—Two Courses Open to Defeat the Measure—Any Member Can Make a Point of Order Against It on Grounds of Constitutionality—Says There Are Plenty of Votes to Kill the Bill Outright.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, May 14—"The farm bill with the debenture clause hadn't any chance of being passed in the house," said House Leader Tilson how the house deals with the bill will be settled on the floor and not by any republican caucus. Mr. Tilson emphasized, pointing out that two courses are open—one, to kill the bill outright, as there are plenty of votes to do it; or, second, to make a point of order against it, on grounds of constitutionality, as can be done by any one member. There are any number of precedents to guide the speaker in recognizing this point of order, which will be made by Chairman Snell or some other member of the house rules committee.

TARIFF INCREASES MADE BY PRESIDENT HOOVER

WASHINGTON, May 14—(AP)—While a number of republicans and democrats were finding fault with the pending tariff bill in the house today, President Hoover took advantage of the flexible provisions of the existent law to proclaim increases in duties on flaxseed, milk, cream, and windowglass.

On recommendation of the tariff commission, the executive raised the tariff on flaxseed from 40 to 56 cents a bushel, the same rate proposed in the lawy bill. Some western republicans, however, are not satisfied with the 56 cent rate.

The milk duty was increased from two and one half to three and three quarters cents a gallon. The bill provides a duty of 5 cents.

The rate on cream was raised from 20 to 30 cents a gallon. The bill proposes an increase to 48 cents.

The duties on window glass were boosted by varying degrees from the present rate range of one and one quarter to two and one half cents a pound. The bill provides similar increases.

Asked what effect the presidential increases would have on the duties in the bill, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the house republican leader, said the president—acting on cases which have been pending some time before the tariff commission—merely was giving relief now without waiting for the pending bill to be enacted into law.

In announcing his intention to make the proclamations, President Hoover said he had consulted with congressional leaders on the desirability of those steps. He said they agreed "that the farmers and others should have the benefit of the tariff commission's determinations at once."

"Some of the reports of the commission," he added, "on which there is either no majority of the commission or where new facts appear to have developed have been sent back to the commission for reconsideration."

Meanwhile representatives from western states who are dissatisfied with the bill appeared before the republicans of the ways and means committee, which drafted it, to press amendments to the bill designed to increase further the proposed duties on agricultural products. Other groups met to plan additional appearances before the committeemen. These conferences will continue for several days and proposals finding favor will be proposed on the floor as committee amendments.

Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, a republican member of the committee, informed the house that he disagreed with his colleagues on the proposed duties on cedar, maple and birch lumber now on the free list, the proposed Cuban sugar duty of 2.40 cents a pound; on retention of the free list of hides, leather and shoes and on the decision to make no changes in the tobacco duties.

"The differences with my colleagues," he explained, "consist of a few major features. The great bulk of the bill, however, meets with my hearty approval."

Among the proposals presented to the ways and means committee republican was one by Representative Burtness, republican, North Dakota, seeking a raise to 70 cents a bushel in the flaxseed rate as against the 56 cents rate proclaimed today by the president.

He argued that Argentina could buy down flaxseed at New York 45 cents cheaper than his state's growers and that while 56 cents was the original rate requested at the tariff hearings last winter, the 70 cent duty was proposed as a compromise.

Representative Swing, republican, California, proposed a duty of 7 cents a pound on long staple cotton to meet Egyptian competition. The pending bill leaves this commodity on the free list.

An amendment to raise the two and one half cents a pound tariff on casein, left unchanged in the bill, to 3 cents was presented by Representatives Olsen, republican, Minnesota, while Representative Barbour, republican, California, proposed a raise to 4 cents a pound in the present rate on lace which is not increased in the bill.

Representative Hickey, republican, Indiana, offered a proposal to permit wool used in the manufacture of felt and felt boots to come in free, the same privilege now accorded wool going into carpets and rugs.

The hearings today took care of chief five members of the group representing ten western states who are seeking increases over the bill rates. Others will appear tomorrow, along with some eastern representatives if time permits.

ROBBER SENTENCED TO PRISON 18 TO 20 YEARS

BRIDGEPORT, May 14—(AP)—Watson Mouthrope, 24, native of Springfield, Mass., was sentenced to state prison for a term of from 18 to 20 years by Judge Isaac Wolfe in criminal superior court today when he pleaded guilty to one count of robbery while armed; three counts of burglary and nine counts of statutory burglary.

His activities in and about Danbury from June 1, 1928 to the date of his apprehension on December 4, 1928, had caused considerable worry to the Danbury police department and the state police department of New York, who hold warrants for his arrest for burglaries committed in that state.

His two younger companions on as many nocturnal ventures were treated leniently by the state, the one because he suddenly departed from Mouthrope's company and sought a more righteous life and the second because at his apprehension he informed the Danbury police of the activities of his "boss," Mouthrope.

These two were Nelson Davis, 18, of Danbury, the police informant who was sentenced to nine months in jail and Stanley Denton, 23, of Danbury given a suspended reformatory sentence and placed on probation for one year.

FELTOVIC MURDER TRIAL ASSIGNED FOR MAY 23

BRIDGEPORT, May 14—(AP)—Trial of John "Spirite" Feltovic, 19, of 83 Bradley street, indicted for murder in the first degree was assigned for Thursday, May 23, by Judge Isaac Wolfe, in criminal superior court today.

Judge Wolfe assigned May 21 as the date for the trial of Edgar Kane, New York city, charged with shooting with intent to kill Officer William McCormick of the Greenwich police department. McCormick is a cripple from a bullet fired into his back on the night of April 24, 1925 by an accomplice, whom the state claims was Kane, pal of "Boston Billy" Monahan and Arthur Barry, nationally notorious burglars now serving long terms.

NEW HAVEN, May 14—(AP)—The arrest of Clementino Piscatelli, 40, of this city, was made by police today in connection with the death of Mrs. Marcella Stasko, 35, of Bridgeport, whose mangled body was found last Sunday on the Derby pike. Persons walking along the pike came across the body Sunday morning. It was revealed that she had been dragged 115 feet by an automobile. It has not been learned by who happened to be walking along the roadway at the time of her death, she disappeared from the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Fox, of Bridgeport, Saturday afternoon, saying she was going to a dance store.

NO DEVELOPMENTS ABOUT DEATH OF HUNTINGTON

WINDSOR, Conn., May 14—(AP)—The return of state's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn spurred County Detective Edward J. Hickey to renewed activity today in the fatal shooting of Walter Yeomans Huntington, Harvard junior. Authority on orders of the state's attorney for the tactics made a second and futile search for the .32 calibre automatic which he believes was used in the shooting and for the slug that passed through the student's head.

Hickey had announced his inquiry was virtually closed. But he had a conference with Mr. Alcorn last night and though the details of the information are not known, it is understood that he was told to make another probing of the marshy ground of the Murphy farm, around the spot where Huntington's body had been found, for the missing pistol and the slug. Hickey and his assistants, working with spades, shovels and picks, sought valiantly to draw from the earth the weapon and the piece of lead which had been in the empty shell found beside the dead body. They dug a hole three feet in diameter on the spot and sifted the clay loam carefully, even carting much of it away in boxes.

State's Attorney Alcorn, who has taken active charge of the investigation, refused to comment on the case. He said that since he was running the inquiry he would not be "intimidated into talking." He shut out newspapers at his office and his home in Rutfield, near here.

MORE THAN 300 ARRESTS FROM STRIKE DISORDERS

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., May 14—(AP)—Disorders in connection with the strike of several thousand textile workers here reached a climax today with the arrest of more than 300 strikers on the charges of intimidating employes intent on turning to work in the two rayon plants, and tonight talk of martial law was heard.

National guardsmen and special officers redoubled their vigilance to prevent a recurrence of the near riot in which several fist fights occurred and there was frequent use of sticks by angered strikers and loyal workers. Threatening bayonets were fixed by the guardsmen.

Bill Fair, special policeman, sworn in secretly with many other officers, recently arrested 150 of the strikers this morning after he said, they showed buses filled with workers either in the plants. The crowd began swarming and threatening him, and a company of guardsmen rushed to his aid.

Since the jail was too small to accommodate them, the strikers were held in the Carter county court room for few hours. They were released by Attorney General Ben Allen, after he promised them to leave other workers alone or threatened them with reserves if disorders occurred again.

VOTE TO REMODEL WILLIMANTIC SAVINGS BANK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 14—Plans for remodeling the Willimantic Savings Institute building at the corner of Main and Bank streets into elaborate banking quarters for the institute and offices on the second floor were approved this afternoon at a meeting of the corporators and directors of the bank. These plans, which call for an extensive outlay of money, are subject to the approval of the bankinr commissioner and will be placed in his hands at once.

The improvements call for the entire renovation of the brick structure, including the lowering of the bank floor to the street level by the elimination of a basement mercantile space and removing the stairs leading to Odd Fellows hall to a new location through a vestibule at the bank entrance, which will allow additional room for the A. and P. store now occupying the east floor. Several offices will be provided on the upper story. It is also planned to entirely modernize the banking quarters themselves and to reface the building with modern material of attractive design.

The plans were originally approved by the directors and officers. The officers are: President, Lewellyn J. Storrs; vice president and treasurer, Sherwood B. Potter; secretary, Noah D. WOMEN'S CLUBS OPEN STATE CONVENTION HERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 14—Some 800 delegates arrived here today for the opening of the thirty-third annual convention of the Connecticut State Federation of Women's clubs which will continue until Thursday evening with the Willimantic and Storrs Women's clubs as hostesses. Registrations were in order during the day at the First Congregational church where the sessions of the day were held and in the Nathan Hale hotel where Mrs. Harvey H. Bronson received delegates stopping there.

Official greeting from the city was extended at the forenoon session by Mayor Charles A. Gates. The chamber of commerce, acting on behalf of the civic and business interests of the city extended a warm welcome to the visitors. Each delegate received an attractive folder descriptive of Willimantic and pointing out things of interest concerning it and a box of thread given through the courtesy of the American Thread company. Agent Don H. Curtis readily consented to a request of chamber officials for this souvenir which consists of a box containing three spools.

Prior to the opening of the convention at the church this morning Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor, offered invocation. This was followed by the greeting by Mayor Gates and assembly singing with Mrs. Mabel Anderson of this city at the organ and Mrs. F. J. Morrison of Greenwich conducting.

Mrs. F. R. Noble, president of the local club then extended a welcome on behalf of the organization. Response was made for the federation by Mrs. Lucy Byles Wilson of Wethersfield, formerly of this city, third vice president of the state federation.

The convention was declared formally open by Miss Emily Louise Plumley of Glenbrook, state president. The assembly songs, Federation Song and Connecticut, which were rendered by the group during the day, were commenced by Miss Plumley, who is recognized as a talented musician.

The convention program was adopted upon motion of Mrs. Harvey C. Brainard of Thompsonville and Mrs. Sumner A. Dole, president of the Storrs club led the delegates and their friends in the recital of the club litany.

Following the appointment of tentative committees by President Plumley, former federation presidents, Mrs. James R. Bolton, of New Haven and Mrs. George H. Stoughton of Hartford extended greetings.

Reports of officers were then read and accepted as follows: Miss Harriet C. Davenport of Stamford, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Wayne C. Smith of Meriden, recording secretary; Mrs. Will N. Thomas of New Haven, general federation director; Mrs. Robert F. Gadd of Hartford, Mrs. F. M. Pessley of Cheshire and Mrs. Lucy B. Wilson, vice presidents and the president respectively. Miss Florence L. Sutton of Greenwich made the first report of the credentials committee.

At the opening of the afternoon session at 2 o'clock a musical program was rendered by Miss Carolyn Cummings, 'cello, accompanied by Clarence W. LaFleur, piano. Both of these artists are local residents and made a very favorable impression on the gathering. Miss Plumley assisted by Mrs. Wilson, presided at the session.

In a discussion of county and club problems the following county presidents took part: Mrs. Walter Abbe of Windham; Mrs. A. E. Wilkinson of Tolland; Mrs. Charles R. Lund, of New London, and Mrs. Robert E. Wyatt of New Haven. County vice-presidents participating were: Mrs. Ernest R. Knopf of Middlesex; Mrs. John Addis of Litchfield; Mrs. Stoughton of Hartford and Mrs. F. M. Card of Fairfield.

Announcement was made of the appointment of Mrs. Charles Templeton of Waterbury as chairman of the committee on appreciation for the convention.

The keynote of the convention was sounded in the main address delivered at this evening's session by Dr. Robert W. McLaughlin, whose topic was The Quest for a Pair of Slippers. The quest and its goal are being stressed during the convention.

This session was a brilliant affair. Mrs. Morrison conducted singing and Mrs. Mabel Anderson presided at the organ. The reception of the colors was carried out with Miss Lisle Scripture and Miss Helen Pollard, local young ladies as color bearers. The salute to the flag was then given. The entertainment consisted of delightful numbers by the Brahma quartette of New York. The quartette is composed of Lyl Barker, Nadine Conner, organ, Nancy High, Elinor Marker, vocalists and Florence Brady, accompanist.

Wednesday's program will be held at Storrs and will feature Quest and Question Department for Representatives of the various committees will be held in the afternoon which will be held here in the Nathan Hale hotel and Mary Anna Tea room. The regular morning session will open at the Storrs Community church at 10:15 o'clock, where Charles E. Gentry, acting president of Connecticut Agricultural college will give the greetings of the institution. During the afternoon session the Connecticut Agricultural College Glee clubs, Mrs. Henry Dorsey, director, will render the music.

Wednesday's evening session will be held at the Elks' home, upon the invitation of the B. P. O. E of Willimantic and will be in the nature of a reception in honor of the state president and executive board of the Connecticut federation. The Willimantic Woman's clubs will be host to all delegates and visitors with their friends.

Session will be resumed Thursday in this city and final adjournment will take place on that afternoon.

At the church today members of the Willimantic club appeared in Colonial attire to act as ushers. The church was attractively decorated with flowers.

ONE DIVORCE GRANTED IN SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 14—Two divorce cases were heard, one of them being completed, at a session of the Windham county superior court held here today following the hearing of a number of naturalization cases. Of 48 cases listed, Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin admitted 30 to citizenship. Attorney J. R. McGorry of Boston was examiner and the oath of citizenship was administered by Miss Marjorie C. Bradford of Putnam, assistant clerk of the court. This was followed by a brief talk on citizenship delivered to the class by Judge Marvin.

In the uncontested divorce case of Mildred R. Ross Rathbun vs. William J. Rathbun, Judge Marvin granted the decree on the grounds of intolerable cruelty and gave the complainant the custody of her two minor children. Testimony by the plaintiff was to the effect that she had been subjected to much suffering, including physical pain, by her husband and witnesses testified to scalp marks on her arms and neck. Elizabeth Brixey of Chaplin testified that Rathbun had placed the children in her care but that he was very negligent about paying for their board and that he now owed her considerable after virtually deserting the youngsters. She said that when Mrs. Rathbun learned of the true condition of the children she came for them at once. The Rathbuns formerly resided in Windham Center, the woman now making her home in New York. Attorney H. S. Gaucher represented the plaintiff and Attorney J. B. Harvey the defendant.

Several witnesses were heard in the uncontested divorce case of Mary A. Griffin Vertefeuille vs. Moise Vertefeuille. Mrs. Vertefeuille testified that they were married in Willimantic, October 31, 1922. She said that her husband, who was then 51 years of age, drank a great deal some months after they were married and that he finally became unbearable. She testified that he struck and swore at her. Mrs. Vertefeuille also seeks alimony based on a suit which she brought some time ago in superior court for damages of $1800 to recover money which he received from her. She left him in August 1924, while they were residing in this city and she is now engaged in conducting a rooming house in Norwich. Witnesses on her behalf were Mrs. Mary Yuschalk, her daughter and the latter's husband, John Yuschalk, both of Norwich and Mrs. Charles Carpenter of this city. The case will be resumed Wednesday.

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1876, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892 as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

D. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

Many is the family today that makes it a rule always to have a bottle of this perfect preparation in the house. Keep it handy and observe these three simple rules of health; keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

Why not try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today?

The next time you see VERA REYNOLDS, lovely screen star, notice how smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her skin. She says: "A star has to have the smoothest skin in the world—make-up shows so in the close-up. I keep my skin like satin by using Lux Toilet Soap."

Even under the great brilliant incandescent "sun-spots" used for making a close-up, SEENA OWEN'S skin is exquisite. She says: "I always use Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps my skin so wonderfully smooth."

NO MATTER how lovely a girl's features, she is really attractive only when her skin is beautifully smooth.

"The most appealing of all charms is a lovely smooth skin," says Howard Bretherton, director for Warner Brothers—and voices the experience of 39 leading Hollywood directors.

Bretherton goes on to say: "A screen star's skin must be genuinely exquisite to triumph in the searching close-ups. Smooth 'studio skin' is the outstanding factor in screen success today."

It is because flawlessly beautiful skin is absolutely essential for stardom in motion pictures that 442 of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, use Lux Toilet Soap. And all the great film studios have made this white fragrant soap the official soap in their dressing rooms.

You, too, will love its generous, caressing lather—the way it leaves your skin so satin-smooth. Ask for Lux Toilet Soap—today.

Dear Dot:—

There was an old belief that milady's shoes must entirely sacrifice Comfort in order to be Stylish. The Maid of Yesterday will probably tell you that there was some truth to this belief, too, for verily, she knows that it was not so long ago that one had to deliberately cramp five pink toes where there was room for but one in the stylish shoe of a decade or so ago.

The combined efforts of scientists and style experts directed in making Treadeasy shoes have, however, paved the way for the "Eutopia" of the shoe industry.

Treadeasy Shoes are the result of Perfection in Shoe Design and Shoe Making. The glove-fitting instep and snugly fitting heel gently but firmly hold the foot back in the shoe and prevent creeping. The wide, springy steel arch gives flexible but firm support to the longitudinal arch of the foot, while the resilient pad under the ball of the foot holds the metatarsal arch in normal position. Here, briefly, we have four outstanding reasons for Tread easy Comfort.

The Treadeasy manufacturers, a New England concern, realized that in order to give Treadeasy a popular appeal, Style must be incorporated in Comfort and the result is an assortment of Shoes of unmatched smartness in all modern color combinations—shoes of distinction that give that final touch of Completeness and Good Taste to the wearer.

Treadeasy Shoes are created in several good-looking patterns from the conventional street type of corrective shoe, embodying grace and charm to the dainty afternoon pump and season models reflecting the whims of prevailing fashion.

The Union Shoe Company is sole agent for this famous Shoe in this vicinity, and back of assurance that these shoes will give utmost satisfaction is the long and creditable reputation of this concern. Let me suggest that you try Treadeasy Shoes at once.

Sincerely,
JANE.

POETRY

Abbie Ben Adams

Abbie Ben Adams may her life be prepared,
Awoke one night and fell a little scared;
For, on her shirt-waist box, covered with legged sat
A vision writing on a little slate.
Exceeding nervousness made Abbie quake,
And to the vision timidly she spake:
"What writest thou?" The vision looked appalled
At her presumption and quite coldly drawled:
"The list of our best people who go part
For watering-places, sumptuous and smart."
"And am I in it?" asked Miss Abbie.
The scornful vision said, "You're not you know."
"I know," said Abbie; "I go where it's cheap,
I can't afford mountains or prices steep.
But ere you leave, just jot this down down;
I never leave my cats to starve in town."
The vision wrote and vanished. Next night late
He came again, and brought his little slate,
And showed the names of people really best,
And lo! Miss Abbie's name led all the rest.

The Toad

The shower has ceased; the patient toad
Elbows his way across the road
And feels upon his wrinkled skin
The quenching moisture sinking in.
He watches with unwinking eyes
Through the tall grass the red moon rise
And into every rain-drop throw
An image of itself below.
A mirrored moon in miniature,
Of itching dust the air floats pure
And the wet earth and leaves exude
Rich sweetness, and he finds it good.
From hemlock and from nettle-tip
Opaline beads of water drip
On his bossed back, and slithering round
To his pale belly, sop the ground.
Like a swart totem he squats low,
With arms akimbo, legs abow,
And maple-mottled hide—a god,
A god in some dim period
Of kindly folk; in precious stones
His eyes were shaped; his head, his bones
By long dismembered hands were hewn
Uncouthly 'neath an Ethlop moon.
Those leathery lips, those scaly lids
Are older than the pyramids.
Beneath a dock-leaf now he lies
Perdu, and snaps at passing flies.
(Eric Clough Taylor in the London Mercury).

He went on to say, in this letter found a few years ago in a second-hand shop, that wages were $17 a day, rooms $150 a month, "and a building not considered for a barn at home rents here for $30,000 to $100,000 a year."

Hunting coyotes by airplane, an unusual adventure in Montana even in good weather, was introduced in stockmen of the snowbound regions by Charles McGuire, Highwood rancher and aviator. When deep snow made landing impossible, McGuire equipped his plane with skis in order that he might continue hunting predatory animals and save losses to the herds. The skis, six feet long and six inches wide, were designed and made by McGuire. With them he is able to soar over the wilderness, confident of his ability to land on the open range if his motor fails him. The skis have alleviated the necessity of clearing snow from his landing field at Highwood.

BAD BRAKES PREVALENT.

While it is possible to note from time to time the bad results of driving automobiles with defective brakes, there is nothing like finding out by careful test about how many cars are so equipped. It is one of the first steps for the correction of that condition.

Over a period of several weeks Rhode Island authorities have been making a test of automobiles with a view to learning what kind of equipment they have for stopping the machines and the result has been illuminating. It has been found that there were cars being driven which had no brakes and others with such a poor apology for them that they might as well have been without them, as far as being able to stop the car in an emergency is concerned. Such cases were considered proper for prosecution.

But that was not all that was disclosed. Since the investigation began there have been more than 29,000 cars tested with the result that 1044 of them were found to have defective brakes. Such a number may appear to be rather small in comparison with the total examined, but it should be realized what it means to have more than 1000 cars using the highways of city and rural districts without being able to properly control them in case of trouble.

Too many of the accidents in which motor vehicles are involved are due to the poor condition of their brakes. There are those who drive with full knowledge of the fact that their car is seriously handicapped in that respect. They may even trail closely the car having four-wheel brakes, and get a surprise when they are unable to avoid a rear end collision. The wonder is that they are not creating much more trouble than they do, but for the good of all concerned, it is important that that part of an automobile equipment should be in good condition all the time.

The tests which are being made in Rhode Island, are furnishing enlightenment to the authorities, but they are also giving much needed warning to the owners of cars with bad brakes. They should not only act for the purpose of passing inspection, but with the idea of being properly prepared to avoid accidents. The tests are justifying all the time that is being required.

WHAT THEY DESERVED.

Sentenced to 12 to 15 years in prison, it will be felt that the two Springfield men, employed by the authorities of that city, to act as spotters in liquor cases but who caused the conviction of innocent persons through false testimony, received what they deserved. Even thought they pleaded guilty to the charge, after they had been found out, it was necessary that an example should be made of them.

Those who would commit such a reprehensible act were entitled to no consideration. They had double-crossed both the police and the public. They were not satisfied to carry out such d[illegible] as they had been hired for, and bring law violators to justice, but they were ready to swear that persons who had not broken the law so far as they knew were engaged in selling liquor and testify to something which never took place in order to obtain a conviction.

With such persons at large, anyone was liable to be sent to jail. They imposed upon the police and they imposed upon the court. The guiltless were the object of their activities rather than the guilty. They were making a joke out of enforcement, but they will have an opportunity to spend a considerable time in reflecting on the folly of their course. It is believed they will have been taught a lesson by the time they get their freedom and that their treatment will serve as a warning to any others similarly inclined.

On the other hand, it shows the need on the part of the police of making doubly sure, when forced to engage spotters, that they obtain men upon whom reliance can be placed and even then maintain a check that will prevent any such repetitions as has stirred Springfield. Perjury is a crime that cannot be lightly passed over.

WOODLAND FIRES.

Due to the frequent and soaking rains there have been fewer woodland fires in this vicinity than usual this spring, but what havoc can be caused by them is fully illustrated in Maine where 1300 acres of woodland were burned over this week. Not until college students and national guardsmen were called out, was it possible to check the spread of the flames. They helped to save one settlement and the shifting of the wind was the means of saving another, but not until valuable standing timber and sawed wood had been destroyed.

Sparks from a sawmill fire were responsible for the largest fire, but at another burned-over area, it was reported that the fire there had been started by a cigarette which had been thrown to the roadside by a passing motorist. This resulted in the destruction of 120,000 feet of sawed wood.

This explains the cause of too many woodland fires. It is not the intention of the smoker who discards his cigarette to burn up someone's property. That would probably be the last thing he would be willing to do, but it represents the thoughtlessness with which some people surround their acts. They get to the point where the firebrand is no longer wanted and instead of seeing that it is put out or dropped where it can cause no combustion, it is nonchalantly tossed to one side and may land in the midst of tinderlike material which soon bursts into flame.

By that time the person responsible may be miles away. He never knows anything about it. The chances are that he never puts two and two together and realizes after such a fire, that it was at such a spot he threw away his butt. Whether he ever recognizes his responsibility sufficiently to avoid doing it another time is a question. The fact, however, that there are so many of these woodland fires started in a very similar way, either by trespassers or motorists, ought to be sufficient to inspire the exercise of greater care on the part of such people. Even if they have no direct concern the welfare of others is sufficient to be given some consideration.

DES MOINES UNIVERSITY.

Much publicity has been given to the trouble at Des Moines university, where charges have been presented which the trustees have declared to be unfounded, where students have resorted to mob tactics in order to have their way, and where the trustees have deemed it necessary to discharge the whole faculty, followed by an appeal to the courts and the reopening of the institution.

It seems to be a case in Des Moines, as to whether the institution is going to be run by the trustees or by someone else. The university is owned by the Baptist Bible Union of North America, and it might be supposed that the organization, or the trustees which it has named to manage it, would have the right to say how it should be run and what should be taught.

In connection with the trouble, it is claimed that the trustees require that it should be run as a fundamentalist institution, as against modernistic teachings. So far as learned the trustees are not exceeding their authority in reaching such a decision. In being responsible for the university, it rests with them to set forth what should and what should not be taught. As the agents for the owners, they are setting forth what is expected and apparently intend to insist upon it. Just why the faculty should consider it had the right to dictate to the trustees, or why the students should undertake to control affairs through mob rule, has not been made clear. With such conditions prevailing it would appear that the trustees had good cause for their action.

It is another one of those cases where the faculty is not obliged to remain, and the students are not obliged to attend under the rulings of the trustees, if they do not wish to. Under such conditions there is always the great American privilege of going somewhere else, where the curriculum may be more in harmony with their ideas.

It is a case, however, where the trustees insist upon directing affairs while the responsibility rests upon them, especially since that is what they were put there for. They will get plenty of sympathy when they indicate that the tail is not going to be allowed to wag the dog. It will probably mean many new teachers and quite a change in the student body, but the university will be what is intended.

EDWARD P. WESTON.

From one end of the country to the other the name of Edward Payson Weston has been frequently displayed in large letters. Public interest has been developed because of his accomplishments as a pedestrian and on his transcontinental walks he was as closely followed in his daily progress as any of those who are making new endurance records in other ways today.

Edward P. Weston was one of those New England Yankees who had grit and determination. In his best days he didn't know the meaning of fail. He was frail as a youngster, but he outgrew it, and there is no doubt but what he greatly influenced his long life by his devotion to walking. He was, throughout his life, an exponent of "hoofing it." He was brought up in the days when it was necessary to walk. He recognized the value of such exercise and he was proficient as a walker. By his long distance walking he directed much attention to the benefits of pedestrianism. He has many followers but there are today many more who are ready to preach the good points of walking, than are actually willing to practice it, until conditions require it.

Mr. Weston went from humble conditions to international fame. He attained great success and popularity. His friends were legion and yet there came the time when he dropped out of the picture, went into obscurity and experienced many hardships because he had failed to provide for the rainy day. Friends came to his aid and his last days were brightened. Adversity did not, however, take away his longevity. He had a right to claim that his 90 years were due in large part to his walking and he would be alive today but for being run down by an automobile.

LADY'S CHOICE

"Friday night, then, and you won't let anything come up!"

The decidedness of Helen Surrey's manner pried a positive reply from the other three at the bridge table.

"No," said Ruth.

"No," said Alice.

"No," said Dot.

"There's no reason why married girls shouldn't have an evening's jollification together once in a while without masculine adornment," added Helen. "Now," I hope none of you are so soft that you'll go back on your word." Dot went home, making plans.

"I'll leave cold meat, Bob's favorite salad and some peach tarts in the icebox," she thought. "It won't be any trouble for him to set them out on the table and he'll have a nice, long, undisturbed evening to read."

But when Bob came home he said: "I bought some tickets today. They're having a jamboree out at the Piney Ridge Golf club next Friday night. I knew you'd like the idea, so I just got the tickets while I had the chance."

Dot's face clouded, but instead of saying directly, "I have made other arrangements," she asked, "What are they going to do at the Piney Ridge Golf club?" Bob grinned good-naturedly.

"To tell the truth," he said, "I don't know, and as a matter of fact I don't care. I got the tickets on your account, Twinkles. I know you always enjoy that sort of thing."

His incoherence was distracting. How could he know that she would enjoy the evening when he did not know what the evening would comprise? And yet, by this very vagueness, Bob seemed to score a point. Surely a woman could not help appreciating her husband's doing something for her, even though she did not know exactly what it was that he was doing.

At least, he was displaying a magnanimity of spirit, and this was a trait of character to be encouraged, not rebuffed. No need to rush the news about her promise to Helen. Something might come up. Sometimes Bob had to work on Friday night. But Friday approached and Bob said nothing about working.

Then Dot considered another possibility. There was Ruth. Ruth frequently was called home because her father had spells with his heart. He might have one Friday. In that case Helen would put off their foursome until another evening. Any minute Helen or Ruth or Alice might call her. But the minutes passed and the girls did not call.

Friday arrived and it was plain to Dot then that she had let herself in for trouble. Soon she would be forced to take a stand. She could not go to the Piney Ridge Golf club and to Helen's also. She knew perfectly well that there were plenty of women in the world who had husbands who never wanted to take their wives anywhere, and since Bob was not that type it seemed a moral obligation on her part to accompany him.

On the other hand, she was sure should she confront Helen at this late hour with an excuse that she would bring down the wrath and scorn of three woman friends upon her head. And what could not the ill will of three woman friends do to one? Dilemma started at Dot from all directions.

The morning wore away. Bob called at noon.

"I'll be home early this evening, sweetheart, so we can get a good start."

"Yes, dear," she returned faintly. After she hung up the receiver she sat by the telephone a long while wondering what to do. Finally she put in a call for Helen. While waiting she experienced a clammy hysteria creeping over her. Then Helen's voice came briskly over the wire.

"Hello."

"About this evening," stammered Dot. "I'm sorry, but things have come up. I can't possibly make it." Helen's reply ripped boldly into Dot's ear.

"This evening—my dear! Didn't Ruth tell you? I asked her to. She must have forgotten. This evening's all off."

"Look," whispered Bob. "Everybody's here. Even Tom Surrey brought his wife."

Dot looked and saw Helen in her best evening gown, standing beside Tom. And coming toward her across the dance floor Dot perceived Ruth and Alice chatting gayly with their husbands.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 14— When a pair of political gladiators, such as Jim Watson of Indiana and Joe Robinson of Arkansas, lock horns on the senate floor to discuss each other's political inconsistencies, you can expect entertainment.

Both are quick witted debaters and they are very good friends of long standing, aside from their party differences. Also, they are field marshals of their respective parties. Yet you would not expect them to get into a scriptural argument.

They did that very thing the other day. It was incidental to a Watson rejoiner to a Robinson assertion that the republican leader, a former ardent exponent of the equalization fee, now was as ardently opposed to the fee or the debenture farm relief plan.

Watson countered by reading Robinson's previous assaults on the equalization fee as compared to his later support of it and of the debenture scheme.

Paul and Saul

"I have tried to be reasonably consistent but when I find I am wrong I change," Robinson said.

"Good," applauded Watson.

"The senator from Indiana, when he finds he is right, changes," added Robinson. "Why should the senator from Indiana go wrong when the senator from Arkansas gets right?"

"The conversion of Paul on his way to Damascus was no more astounding than the conversion of the honorable senator," said Watson.

"The senator is wrong again," Robinson shot back. "It was not Paul; it was Saul."

"I am looking at the senator after his conversion," Watson parried.

"I would rather be Paul after conversion than Saul before," said Robinson.

"The senator ought to know, because he was both," said Watson, and the galleries rejoiced at the hit.

Lunch Time

A moment later Robinson asked if "the senator from Indiana will not suspend shortly to take lunch with the senator from Arkansas," a frequent sight in the senate cafe.

"Almost thou persuadest me," said Watson, but added he had further remarks to make, although "not about my friend from Arkansas."

So Robinson stayed on the job, and Watson asked if "looking me in the eye across the aisle" he could say he had been influenced finally to vote for the equalization fee "because of speeches I made for it."

"Oh, no," Robinson said. "The speeches he makes against it. Nobody but the Almighty can comprehend them and He does not choose to take notice of them."

And presumably they did lunch together after all.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Prayer Meetings

Mr. Editor: Please will you allow me a space in your valuable paper to express my opinion on prayer and our prayer meetings and cottage meetings of long ago. They have been the main spring of our churches in the past and the uplift of many a sin sick soul, but it seems to me that this generation is loving pleasure more than they love God. Now what we want to get to is our prayer meetings and cottage meetings if we have to win the race which is set before us. Life is a race with every living soul included and each must have the necessary qualifications if he is to win the desired goal. Just as our Olympics demand that certain abstinence and training be followed by the runners so in the race of life must we have the necessary discipline, schooling, abnegation and denial if the victory is to be ours. There are certain weights that are excess baggage to the runner in the life race, many harmless and innocent enough but when engaged in extensively are not only harmful but sinful. When pleasure demands too much of our time and attention we live a disproportionate top-sided life, live in pleasure to the exclusion of the affairs of the home, business and the church. Our pleasure must be moderate and temperate and bear the right reaction to the other values in life else they are excessive baggage, drazging us behind in the race of life. When we are so absorbed in business and the affairs of office are the only entries on the ledger book of life and our days are spent only in efforts for material gain we are throwing other life values out of proportion and, adding to our excess baggage. Friends too may hinder in the race to victory. Nothing is more contributory to one's uplift and happiness than good friends, but we should select them discriminately and give thought to the kind of person with whom we associate. This is especially applicable to young people's habits. Many of them if carried to excess devitalize our will power and often dissipate our best efforts. So, too, our besetting or taproot sins, wrong influences toward which we have an undue weakness or inclination prove excess baggage on life's road.

If we can break the shackles of sin, overcome its temptation and become master of self we can run the race successfully. We have Christ as an example of the man of perfectness with the right elements of character in their true proportion. With Him as our example and inspiration we run to a victorious goal.

Recollections

Mr. Editor: I note in The Bulletin a letter which is signed "Admirer" and he wonders if I may not overlook his letter. Let me tell you, brother, I miss but little in my old home paper, and I read the columns devoted to the happenings in all the surrounding villages, and particularly from over around Voluntown. You may recall in one of my early letters I spoke about Rufus Dagget, and his splendid team of horses. You will please note I call this a team although in my day they called them a span, and no matter what they may have been called they still were a pair of fine horses.

The name Bitgood is very familiar to me for going back some 60 odd years I recall a very picturesque man by the name of Bitgood, who would come in to the "Landing," always dressed in the costume of the early colonials, with silver buckles on his shoes. He would take up a position at a convenient place and the best place at that time was in the front of the store of the one time mayor of your city the late Increase W. Carpenter, and here Bitgood would hold forth, and hand out a line, regarding the wonders of a drink he had for sale—root beer. As he extolled the merits of his drink, he told the listeners who gathered around, that it was concocted from roots and barks, and the extract of a thousand flowers. Do any of you old timers recall him?

Another one of the family of Bitgoods, that I recall, his name was Elmer Bitgood; is that correct? He was one of the world's strong men, so strong that if his team of horses were to get stuck with a heavy load he would distain to hitch on another horse, but would get under the load and by the force of his powerful shoulders would lift it out of the rut. Yes, brother, I recall early days in Voluntown.

In my school days my conception of the place was that everyone was engaged in making charcoal. It was natural to think so for there was often seen the charcoal peddlars. But what a difference when you see the real Volt untown, as of today with the well kept lawns, the beautiful homes. The air of repose! The very air breathes hospitality. All this is typical of those rural villagers of New England, where everyone seems to know every one else, and each one is ready to lend a helping hand in times of distress. At least that was the condition in early days.

I want to tell you a little incident that was an experience of mine. I was walking to the city one day and a little ways this side of Maplewood cemetery. It was a very warm day and I saw a man guiding a scythe. I hailed him and asked for a drink of water for there was a pump in front of his door and he told me, "Why bless your heart, come right up and help yourself." And just when I got to the pump, he said, "I have some fine cold milk in the cellar, would you like that? Say, brother, did I say, No? But boy that was good—I offered to pay and he answered, "No, sir, I gave you that," and how I like it.

To you "Admirer" I want to say this, the story may be a little bit homely but it shows they are all alike. One thing I hope is that this good samaritan reads this and accepts my thanks once again.

In those early days the times were just a little devoid of amusements, and as a natural sequence the young men were compelled to create their own sports. Their greatest line was athletics, running, jumping and other feats of strength such as wrestling. How well we recall the story of the Immortal Lincoln, who lived many years previous to our day. He indulged in those sports such as wrestling. Do you not recall that the champion wrestler of his locality, Dan Needham, insisted on wrestling with Lincoln? A refusal to meet the challenge was paramount to being called a quitter, and Lincoln who was a man of phenomenal strength put the bully down on the ground and won amid the taunts of the onlookers. We know, as we read that Lincoln was a giant in strength as well as in intellect. This is germane to the subject matter of this letter for we had in our day many strong men.

Do you not recall many strong men who lived in and near to Norwich? I note one man in particular. Although he lived in Occum still he was called the champion of Ireland for he had beaten the one who claimed that rather dubious title in a glove contest. Perhaps this man may be still living in Occum. He was a powerful man, a great wrestler, nationality, a French-Canadian and the name was Gus Lambert. If he is living today he must be quite old, but in his day and time he was a physical giant.

No doubt there were others whom I do not recall at the moment. The simple life that those people led laid the foundation for their strength and longevity, but these early people are slowly but surely moving on and making the way for others, who do not or will not conform or obey the laws of the country that guarantees them protection and the right to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience. I do not make this as a random assertion but I form my opinion from noting the names of the ones who are the violators of the law.

YOUR HEALTH

Stories of Actual Cure of Physical Ailments by Proper Attention to Teeth

By P. H. Phillips, D. D. S., Reno Nevada

Only a few years ago, the medical profession did not consider mouth conditions a very great contributing factor in undermining general health. Today, the physician and surgeon must look carefully into the mouth to correct ills in other parts of the body. The following cases should convince you how necessary it is to have a healthy mouth.

The first case I will describe is that of a woman patient, 45 years old. She had been treated by doctors for years weighed only 100 pounds and had been confined to her bed for over one year, was hardly able to walk on account of rheumatism.

She had a bad case of pyorrhea. Her gums did not look very bad or cause any pain, but the X-ray revealed a recession of the process. I removed all her teeth. In one month she gained forty pounds in weight and discarded her crutches and canes.

Another case was a man patient about forty years old. He had a pain in his head and was losing eyesight in left eye. He was receiving treatment from an eye specialist. An X-ray on the left side of the face revealed an impacted cuspid tooth. This I removed. The patient was relieved of the pain in his head almost instantly, and in two days he discarded his glasses.

Number three was a man patient, twenty-five years old. He had a very bad case of pyorrhea. His mind seemed to be affected at times, and he could not work. I removed his teeth, and in one month he was working at hard labor.

Number four was a woman patient, 22 years old. She had thirteen operations performed on her nose by a nose specialist, but still had a bad condition at the base of the nose. An X-ray revealed an impacted cuspid tooth lying across the roots of the upper front teeth. This patient would get despondent, and tried to commit suicide several times. She also had a bad case of pyorrhea. I removed all her teeth, and in one month she was in good health.

Case number five was a woman patient, 45 years old. She had a constant pain in the top of the head, and her left eye was getting weaker every day. An X-ray revealed an abcess on each of the upper first molars, and an infected antrum on left side. I removed the two first upper molars and treated the antrum, and in two weeks she was fully relieved, the pain left her head, and she discarded her glasses.

I could relate hundreds of cases similar to these, and my experience represents only a few of the thousands of such cases throughout the country. Until the teeth are given proper consideration in diagnosing the ills of the human system, patients will still go tramping from one physician to another looking for relief.

Burgess Bedtime Story

A Happy Reunion

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Experience will teach you more Than admonitions by the score.
—Old Mather Nature.

Billy Mink has sharp ears. Billy Mink is smart. It is not easy to fool Billy. Those sharp ears of his heard the anxious calls of Mother Wood Duck. Billy stopped swimming and listened.

"So that's it," said Billy, talking to himself. "So that's it. She has lost one of her babies and is trying to find it. Well, well, well, I guess I'll have to help her. I can think of nothing that I should enjoy more than finding that lost Duckling. Probably it is hiding in the grass here somewhere."

So Billy began to hunt around in the grass. From a safe distance Mother Wood Duck watched him. Such an anxious little mother as she was! She swam as near to him as she dared, that she might watch him better. She didn't dare go too close, for she knew that Billy Mink would be quite equal to killing her if he got the chance. Once in a while she called. What she said was: "Wherever you are, keep perfectly still."

It was a good thing that she did this. The lost little Duckling heard her and he obeyed. Once Billy Mink passed very close to his hiding place, but the wind was the wrong way to carry a scent to Billy and Billy's sharp eyes failed to pick him out as he lay hidden amongst the weeds. So Billy passed on. After a while he grew tired of hunting. Something caught his attention on the other side of the pond and he swam across. Not till he had disappeared did Mother Wood Duck venture to call again for that lost Duckling. When she did call, she called in a low tone. Almost at once there was a joyful little peep and out from among the weeds came the little Duckling, paddling so fast that he seemed to be almost walking on the water, or rather running on the water. Straight to his mother he went and what do you think he did then? He climbed up on his mother's back. Yes, sir, he climbed up on his mother's back. Oh, how good it was to settle himself there! To simple eyes, as among the feathers, Mother Wood Duck didn't say a word. She wasted no time, but turning, swam as fast as she could swim back to where she had left Peaceful and the family. All were there. The Ducklings had been somewhat in awe of their handsome father and they had cosied him. All were clustered around when Mother Wood Duck and the lost Duckling arrived.

She swam as near to him as she dared

The Duckling scrambled down from his mother's back. Such a happy Duckling you never saw! He had to go touch bills with each of his brothers and sisters. Still Mother said not a word. You see, she was a wise mother. She felt sure that he had learned his lesson. She felt sure, too, that he would tell his brothers and sisters all about it and that they would learn the same lesson from him. And this is exactly what did happen.

So there in Paddy's pond was the happiest of happy reuniens. Beauty the Wood Duck, Mrs. Wood Duck and the twelve little Ducklings were all together once more. Paddy the Beaver, watching them, chuckled. So did Mrs. Paddy. They were very fond of their pretty neighbors and they rejoiced in their happiness.

Would you — spend $1000 or more for the same value that $845 will buy?

Not if you knew the facts —you wouldn't.

—Not if you stopped to consider that De Soto is the only Chrysler-built six whose entire price range falls below $1000.

—Not if you understood and fully appreciated that the designers of De Soto Six are the identical group of engineers who created the first, and all subsequent Chrysler motor cars. The inference is plain and unmistakable.

—Not if you knew that the Chrysler principle of Standardized Quality continually operates to endow De Soto Six with features that enhance safety and comfort, and confer a performance ability comparable only with costlier cars.

—Not if you bore in mind that, as a product of Chrysler Motors, De Soto Six shares all the advantages of a common policy of engineering, purchasing, manufacturing and financing —and plainly reflects these advantages in the value it offers.

—Not if you followed the obvious and sensible plan of safeguarding your investment by permitting us to put a De Soto Six at your disposal long enough for you to prove to yourself that it represents a greater value at its price range than you could obtain from any other source.

BANKERS KEEP WATCH ON WORLD HOLIDAYS

The thousands of religious and political holidays which occur in one quarter of the globe or another during the year are important factors in the transaction of international business.

In May there are only five days which are "open for business" in all leading countries. These are May 11, 16, 27, 28 and 29.

There are other months which are crammed even tighter with legal celebrations. May 9 has a record for the current month, being observed as Ascension day in 59 countries and political divisions.

There are holidays of every variety, and commerce must take them a into account.

It may be the jubilee of the constitutional assembly in Latvia, the sultan's birthday in Malaya, Washington's birthday in Lichtenstein or Independence day in Norway, but the fact must be carefully noted on the banker's composite calendar.

Religious holidays rank first in number, political holidays next and labor days third.

WOMAN KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Two Pontiac machines, a sedan and coupe, came together in an almost head-on collision on Norwich avenue, Taftville near the city line, about 10 o'clock Tuesday evening, and as a result, Mrs. Paul J. Dumont of No. 99 Geer avenue, an occupant of one of the cars, was severely injured, having been rendered unconscious for half an hour. Her husband driver of the sedan suffered cuts on two fingers of the right hand and an injured leg, while the two occupants of the coupe are also believed to have been injured, but to what extent is not known as they disappeared after the accident. Blood stains were found in their car.

Mr. Dumont, who is a trolley conductor, had gone to Taftville to get his wife, where she had been visiting and was returning to his home in Norwich, when he noticed the coupe, said to have been operated by Nelson D. Theroux, a salesman, of this city, coming towards him. After crossing the trolley tracks which cross the road just below the city line the driver of the other car is claimed to have continued on the left side of the road. Dumont said that he kept on his right hand side within a foot of the shoulder of the highway, where he was struck on the right side of the machine in the front, forcing it over into the trolley tracks on the west side.

After the accident Dumont said that Mr. Theroux gave him his name and with the other occupant of his machine, said to be Leo LaPlante, of Taftville, disappeared in the direction of Taftville. The conductor claimed that the other driver had been drinking in reporting the collision to State Police Officer Arthur Wittmarsch of the state police barracks at Groton, who investigated. While the damaged machines remained in the highway Officer Paquette of Taftville directed traffic until they were removed by wreckers.

Mrs. Dumont was taken to the office of Dr. George Thompson in Taftville where her injuries comprising a cut on the lip, and a cut over the eyebrow were treated. After regaining consciousness she was taken in a machine to her home. Mrs. Dumont was knocked out from a terrific blow on the forehead. Her husband's injuries were treated by Dr J. W. Callahan, who appeared following the accident.

Mr. Theroux, who is claimed to have been operating the coupe, had his license suspended sometime ago and had not as yet come into possession of it again.

The front of the sedan was bent up into accordion shape, while the coupe was also badly damaged in the front end. The cars had to be pried apart with the aid of a wrecker.

NEW YORK (AP)—Almost half of the pills and medicines shipped abroad last year went to South America and the West Indies. The chemical division of the department of commerce says that Cuba, Argentina and Mexico, with purchases of more than $1,000,000 each, continued the best customers despite a sharp drop.

MAY REQUIRE VACCINATION OF ALL EMPLOYES IN NORWICH FACTORIES

Indications that mill and department store employes who do not become vaccinated may be excluded from their employment by the health authorities were contained in a notice sent to all mills and department stores of the city Tuesday by Dr. E. J. Brophy, city health officer.

Dr. Brophy's notice was as follows: "You are hereby advised that there is danger of a further spread of smallpox on account of undiscovered cases being at large. It is considered necessary that all of your help be vaccinated at once. It may be required to exclude from your factory all people who have not been vaccinated."

This notice was sent out following a conference held Tuesday morning in the city health department rooms at the court house and attended by mill owners and store keepers who pleased Dr. Brophy by their willingness to cooperate with his suggestions and the advice given by Drs. Milton Knowlton and Howard Lamphere of the state board of health, who were present. The gathering of officials decided to take immediate action regarding the vaccination of persons in their employ.

Officials from the following concerns were in attendance at the conference: J. B. Martin Co., United States Finishing Co., Ponemah Mills, International Silver Co., Van Tassel Sole and Leather Co., Corticelli Silk Co., Werman Shoe Factory, American Woolen Co., Schwarzenbach-Huber Co., Versailles Paper Co., Reid and Hughes Co., Porteous and Mitchell Co., Lincoln store and other places.

Another Smallpox Case

Tuesday night at 10 o'clock another smallpox case was reported in the city by Dr. Paul F. Gadie, which, it is declared, is traceable to Mrs. Isabel Gunsalve of Edwards street, Hinckley hill. The new case is a 20 months old child, Shirley Fernandez of 160 Talman street, which makes the third case contracted from Mrs. Gunsalve, whose illness was diagnosed as an acid stomach by her attending physician.

Dr. Brophy believes that there will be still more cases develop from contact with the Gunsalve woman as she was circulating around while she had the disease and was a danger to all susceptible people with whom she came in contact.

There are now six persons in the city with active cases under surveillance of the health authorities, three of whom are at the Backus hospital. The Talman street child is at her home for the present and there are two cases in the Gunsalve house on Hinckley hill. Because of the limited space in the isolation ward at the hospital, the three last mentioned cases have not been sent there.

BOZRAH JEWISH WOMEN CONDUCT SPECIAL PROGRAMME

The Bozrahville Section National Council of Jewish Women observed Mother's day and International Good-Will day on Sunday with very appropriate programmes at Palmer's hall, Fitchville, which was filled to capacity.

The hall was attractively decorated with flags, flowers and dainty May baskets filled with goodies.

Miss Anna C. Brenner of New York, director of Farm and Rural department of National Council of Jewish Women and Max Hanover of this city were the speakers who were heard with much pleasure.

Guests were present from Jewett City, Montville, Colchester, Norwich and vicinity. A large delegation from the Westerly, R. I., section of the N. C. J. W. also attended.

Mrs. Nathan Gilman, president of the Bozrahville Section, presided as chairman, leading the exercises, which opened with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the reading of the president's proclamation inaugurating Mother's day.

At the end of the first part of the program Miss Anna C. Brenner was introduced by the chairman, bringing with her a message of greeting from the mother council. She then spoke in a very able and charming manner of the significance of Mother's day. She also touched upon the activities of the council and commended the Bozrahville section as one of the outstanding sections in active participation in every constructive and worthy cause for which the council stands—adult education, social welfare, civic grant aid, its program in rural communities, and its active participation in the peace movement.

The second part of the program was devoted to the commemoration of National Good Will day, opening with a brief reading of the origin of this day. A world wireless message of greeting and cheer from the children of Wales to the girles and boys of every country under the sun was also read.

This was followed by a playlet "The Dawn of Peace," written by Mrs Samuel Schaeffer, council member, depicting effectively the purpose which the Kellogg-Briand treaty aims to attain. The playlet was coached by Miss Ruth Golub. The different nations with their flags and costumes and a chorus singing the national anthem of each country conveyed beautifully the spirit of good will amongst all nations and the need for training the youth for peace.

Max Hanover, the next speaker introduced, received agreat ovation for his very inspiring address on "Peace." He emphasized that womanhood has a great mission to perform in the abolishment of war. It is the work and duty of the mothers of this generation to train and educate youth for peace. It is they alone because of their gentler nature who can exert that tremendous influence necessary to get that firm grip to push the movement of peace forward to the extent where it will become a reality, not a mere fantasy.

The following committees helped to make this program a success: Program committee, Miss Ruth Golub, chairman; Mrs. I. Telzorsky, Mrs. C. Gordon, Mrs C. Jacobson, Mrs. H. Libby; refreshment committee, Mrs Esther Schatz, chairman; Mrs. E. Caroline, Mrs. L. Miller, Mrs. A. Wechsler, Mrs. G. Herman.

The following took part in the international good will programme: Civilization, Sylvia Golub; France, Irma Zeigler; Germany, Sara Telzorsky; Italy, Esther Kessler; Spain, Alice P. Gilman; Japan, Flora Schwartz; United States, Ethel Telzorsky; war Libby Hertz; Israel, Ida Mendel; Boy Scout bugler, Lawrence Dueville. Chorus: Marjorie Sackowitz, Leah Crumb, Frances Libby, Fanny Breckman, Augusta Markoff, Minnie Schatz.

Those who took part in the Mother's day program are as follows: Violin solo, Miss Miriam Gordon, accompanied by Yosef Gordon; piano selection, Miss Esther Friedland; piano selection, Miss Helen Miller; Miss Goldie Fishbone, Beatrice Jaffer, Ida Schaeffer, Goldie Miller, Marian Jaffee, Ethel Schwartz, Pearl Miller, Saul Mendel, Henry Schiller, Howard Schiller, Minerva Schaeffer, Charles Gilman, Esther Berkman, Albert Cohen, Anna Schwartz, Meyer Mindel, Louis Mindel, Albert Mindel.

DOZEN PROPOSED SITES FOR COUNTY HOME VIEWED

During the past week, the county commissioners have been quietly looking over ten or a dozen suggested sites for a new county home, according to George H. Bradford of Montville, chairman of the board. Mr. Bradford indicated that the greater number were located in the vicinity of Norwich, but one or two were in other parts of the county, and he said that the commissioners intended to consider carefully the advantages and disadvantages in connection with each site before deciding upon any one.

The authority to make the selection rests entirely with the county commissioners, it is stated, so that having been granted the appropriation they are empowered to go ahead and make their selection without consultation with other officials or the necessity of submitting their choice to approval of a county meeting.

Patient Discharged At Hospital

GRANTS NON-SUIT IN TRIAL FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

In the superior court here Tuesday morning, Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury heard trial of the suit of Frederick Carlson of Waterford, administrator for the estate of his eight-year-old son, against Mrs. Johanna Wood, also of Waterford, in which the father sued for $10,000 for the death of the boy who was struck and killed by the motor truck Mrs. Wood was driving on Durfee hill, Waterford. The accident happened on the night of March 13, 1928, which was forgy. It was alleged that the Wood machine was driven at reckless speed, that the windshield wiper was not working and that the car had defective brakes.

After the plaintiff's case had been presented by witnesses, the attorney for the defendant moved for a non-suit which was granted by Judge Brown, who made a statement in doing so that this was all he could do in view of the law as at present in regard to contributory negligence.

Mrs. Wood did not see the child before the truck hit him and it was brought out in the evidence that no one could locate the little boy between the time he was seen crawling through a fence and the time he was struck by the truck. This made it impossible to say that the child was free from contributory negligence.

Attorney Arthur T. Keefe, counsel for Carlson, is to take the case to the supreme court, it is understood.

Tuesday evening's programme was devoted to readings, reflective poetry, dramatic poetry, ironic poetry and narrative songs. The programme, given in four groups, follows:

DECLARES IOWA MAN IS OUTSTANDING SPEAKER

In a letter addressed to Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the Norwich chamber of commerce from O. A. Reynolds, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Dubuque, Iowa, the highest commendation is given for Fred Kammiller who is scheduled to address the Farmer-City meeting in Lebanon next Monday night. The Iowa secretary says that Mr Kammiller is a practical farmer with the business man's viewpoint and has been a powerful factor in promoting a feeling of cooperation between Dubuque business men and the farmers in the surrounding region.

With Mr. Kammiller and S. McLean Buckingham, Connecticut commissioner of agriculture, as speakers, entertainment by the 4-H clubs, the opportunity for better acquaintance between city and farmer, and a real chicken pie supper, this meeting promises a fine program for the last of the special series by the chamber this year. Over 60 reservations have been made to date. Secretary Pilcher is looking for all who expect to go to make early reservations because the hall capacity is limited to 200 and the Lebanon League of Women Voters who are putting on the supper need to know this week approximately how many are coming.

HEARING DOUBLE SUIT OVER AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Trial was begun in the superior court here before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury in two suits brought against Caroline Berardi of New London in which total damages of $6,000 are sought because of an automobile accident there on Ocean avenue about midnight on Oct. 9, 1928. The plaintiffs are John Halperin, owner of the automobile, who sues for $1,000, and Jerry Northrup, passenger in the machine, who sues for $5,000.

Halperin, who was the first witness called to the stand by his attorney Morris Lubchansky, testified that he was driving south on Ocean avenue, near Gardner avenue, when he saw the other machine coming north and in the middle of the street. Halperin testified that he veered off to the right and his right front wheel was off the highway when the Carolina car hit his machine just back of the driver's seat and the Halperin car was rolled over three times. Halperin said he was thrown out but not hurt. Northrup was thrown out and so were two young women who were in the back seat. The automobile was so much damaged that it has not been repaired since the accident.

The following is the jury on the case: Frank W. Brewster, Thomas H. Beckley, James R. Mullin, Norwich; Willis C. Terry, Griswold; E. REPORTS ON CARE OF TREES IN THE CITY

A most encompassing report is made by Street Commissioner Herbert H. Wightman relative to the care of trees in the city. The tree report is part of the annual report of the street commissioner.

The present appropriation for the work is $1000. The Woman's City club is urging that this be increased to $1500.

The report for the year follows:

During last spring and summer Henry G. Gilbert, tree expert of Danielson, pruned and repaired 120 trees. These trees were located on Broad street, McKinley avenue, the park at the intersection of Franklin street and Boswell avenue and at the little park at the intersection of Broadway and Union street and others at various scattered points throughout the city. The average cost of this work being $17.87 per tree, including trucking.

No surgery was done other than cleaning out bad cavities.

Fertilizer was applied to the roots of 36 trees which appeared to be backward and under nourished at an average cost of $2.00 per tree.

During the spring 21 new elms and maples were planted throughout the city, where suitable places could be found. These new trees were planted at an average cost of $7.43. On account of the large number of wires on all our streets and the small grass areas between curbs and sidewalks it is now difficult to find suitable locations for new trees.

Anyone having in mind locations where trees are desirable would assist the street department very much if they would suggest such locations to the department.

During the summer 839 trees were sprayed, including elms, lindens and some Norway maples. This work is very necessary and the results have been quite satisfactory. The average cost of spraying was $0.81 per tree.

During the year 14 dead and dangerous trees were removed at an average cost of $52.00. On Park street at the Elks home two large decayed trees with the roots were removed.

It is the aim of the department each year to plant a few more trees than are taken down, when it is possible to find locations.

Throughout the winter during sleet, ice and wind storms two large limbs came down on Washington street and one large maple tree on West Thames street was up-rooted. Some small limbs and branches were also blown down, but no serious damage was done by falling trees during the year.

PARK BOARD SAYS MORE POLICING NEEDED

More adequate policing in the park is desired by the board of park commissioners, according to their 23d annual report, approved by the court of common council Monday evening. This can be accomplished only by having at our disposal funds which could meet the additional expense, the commissioners state in their report. The board of park commissioners comprise Henry F. Parker, William A. Norton, Henry D. Johnson, Alexander Jordan, Martin E. Jensen and Arthur L. Penla.

Their report follows:

The patronage at the park for the season of 1928 was greater than in the previous season of 1927.

The park has become a popular place for picnics. Many church schools hold their annual picnics at the park, not only those from local churches, but many come churches located in both New London and Windham counties.

Four band concerts were rendered during the season, on Sunday afternoons during the months of July and August, and were enjoyed by hundreds of visitors.

Progress was made in the construction of the road which is to encircle the lake, and it is hoped the road may be completed this year. The pens in the new enclosure are gradually filling with birds and animals which prove interesting and attract much attention. Skating on the pond made for that purpose was much enjoyed during the winter months.

The matter of naming the roads and paths is having consideration by the commission.

More adequate policing in the park is desirable. This can be accomplished only by having at our disposal funds which could meet the additional expense. The estimate for receipts from this department for the coming fiscal year is placed at $200. To meet the necessary expenses of the park for the coming fiscal year, which includes salaries, payrolls, insurance, feed for the animals and birds, and for further development of the completion of the road around the lake, $7,500 will be required, and the board requests that said sum be named in the estimates of city expenses to be submitted to the next annual city meeting.

A statement of the expenditures for the year shows that the commission just used up their appropriation of $7,500.

BOXING BOUTS AT NEW LONDON POSTPONED TO THIS EVENING

The all-star card at the New London arena last evening was rained out and the bouts will be held tonight at 8.30 o'clock if the weather permits. Rain that fell late yesterday afternoon caused Promoter Fakourey to call off the show until this evening when better weather is predicted.

Tuesday afternoon it looked like a sell-out for the show and tickets had been going in big blocks to New London, Norwich and Westerly patrons. With fair weather tonight the arena should be packed to overflowing.

The card, as has been announced, is one that will provide plenty of action for those who like their bouts fast and furious. The main attractions, of which there are two, bring to the boxing fans of eastern Connecticut four bantamweights who are noted for their fast boxing and hard punching.

Al Beauregard, Taftville boy, meets Al Gillette of New London in one of the two star bouts for the bantamweight title of Connecticut. This bout has worked up no little interest throughout the state as both Beauregard and Gillette are well known boxers. Beauregard rules the slight favorite to take the decision although Gillette is known to be a hard hitter. Many predict that if Gilette hits Beauregard on the chin the Taftville boy is going to take the count.

The other star bout brings together Pete De Grasse, clever French-Indian boxer, of New York, and Jimmy Picardi of Boston. This is an eight-rounder which should be a clever bout with plenty of hard socking.

The remainder of the card includes a semi-final between Kid Wagner of New London and Rene Lubear of Fall River. Wagner is fighting his second bout of the season in an effort to make a comeback after nearly a year's layoff.

There are four four-round preliminaries with the VicDarr-Art Polowitzer bout being the most attractive of the quartette.

BRAVES NOSE OUT CUBS IN TWELVE-INNING BATTLE

BOSTON, May 14.—(AP)—Doubles by Bernie James, a rookie infielder, and Al Spohrer with one out in the twelfth gave the Braves a 6 to 5 victory over the Cubs here today, and dropped the Chicago visitors into a tie with the Cardinals for the league leadership. It was Pat Malone's first defeat after a run of five victories.

The Braves raked Malone for fourteen safe hits, while the Cubs got six safeties off Ben Cantwell in seven rounds and only three off his successor, Johnny Cooney. Cantwell retired after Heinie Mueller took the pitcher's turn at bat in the seventh, and Cooney held the invaders runless for five more rounds waiting for the Braves to win for him.

George Harper drove in three of the Boston runs and George Sisler two. Three of the six Chicago hits off Cantwell were bunched into the fourth round, and were good for four runs, coupled as they were with two fielder's choices and an error. Freddy Maguire, Cantwell and Cooney fielded with brilliance.

PIRATES OPEN SEASON WITH WIN OVER BALTIC B. S. A. C.

The Jewett City Pirates opened their 1929 season Sunday beating the fast Baltic B. S. A. C. club by a score of 6-3. The Pirates played a whale of a game behind Juber's pitching, Toper being the hitting star of the game with three hits out of four times at bat, including two doubles. Stepon was the fielding star, when he caught the line drive off the bat of the Baltic catcher which would have come for a homer.

BENJAMIN AND DEMPSEY SHAKE HANDS AFTER FRACAS

NEW YORK, May 14—(AP)—The battle of "who hit Joe Benjamin" went into the records today as "no decision" despite the indirect admission of Jack Dempsey for the first time that a fracas of some kind took place between the former heavyweight champion and his "pal" in a hotel here Saturday night.

Through members of his staff, Dempsey admitted before leaving for a two day stay in Montreal that a "reconciliation" was affected last night between himself and Benjamin, a former lightweight boxer, as a result of the efforts of a mutual friend. The retired boxers shook hands and agreed to keep out of each other's way in the future.

The version of the Saturday night fracas now admitted by Dempsey's official spokesman laid the scene in a hotel suite where Gene Normile, who managed Jack for his first fight with Gene Tunney, staged a radio party. Dempsey and Benjamin, pals for many years, were among the guests along with several young women appearing in current musical comedies here. Dempsey, a former actor, has many friends among show folk.

At one point in the festivities, it became necessary, the latest explanation goes, for Dempsey "to quiet Benjamin", which he did "in a most restrained manner." Benjamin has declared that the split lip he carries resulted from collision with Dempsey's famed left hook and that Jack "did a Nurmi" immediately thereafter.

MOORTOWN, England, May 14—(AP)—A foreign legion of American professional golfers today launched a spirited attack on the Thousand Guineas tournament and finished the first qualifying round with a distinct threat against one of Great Britain's greatest professional competitions.

As was fitting the assault was led by Walter Hagen, who last week recrowned himself king of British golf. Remembering the loss of the Ryder cup on the Moortown course a fortnight ago, Hagen bore down with relentless skill and power today. He scored a brilliant 69 to lead the great field of the world's finest professionals. Not far behind came five compatriots and Jose Jurado, a sixth comrade from across the Atlantic, to make the day's play one of high American honors.

Al Watrous turned in a score of 70 to win undisputed second place and Leo Diegel, with renewed control over his putter, compiled 71 to equal the best British scores of the day, furnished by Archie Compston and Abe Mitchell.

Bert Hodson took the next place for Great Britain with 72 but Ed Dudley 73, Jurado 74, Horton Smith and Joe Turnesa 75, formed a second line attack and found few native sons to challenge them.

ATHLETICS TOP LEAGUE BY DEFEATING TIGERS

DETROIT, May 14.—(AP)—The Athletics regained the American league pinnacle by defeating the Tigers, 10 to 8, in the second game of the series here today while the Yankees sat idly about their hotel in Cleveland watching the rain. It required the efforts of two of Connie Macks' starting pitcher, Jack Quinn and Bob Grove, and his two best finishers, Bill Shores and Eddie Rommel, to halt the Bengals, who went down with three on base in the ninth when Grove fanned Hargrave and Johnson after permitting Phillips to single and Schulte to walk.

Al Simmons lifted the ball over the left field fence with one on in the third for his fifth home run of the season. Bob Fothergill got a homer in the eighth.

HARDING HIGH LIABLE TO CAUSE TROUBLE FOR ACADEMY

That the Academy baseball team may experience some difficulty in trouncing the Warren Harding high team here on Memorial day is evidenced in the game played between Warren Harding and Deep River yesterday at Bridgeport. In this game Harding shut out Deep River, 6 to 0. Linder pitched for Deep River while Dizenzo pitched for the Harding team. Linder fanned nine men of the Harding team while Dizenzo struck out 17 of the Deep River batsmen. Reports of the game from Bridgeport are to the effect that Dizenzo outpitched Linder throughout the entire game although Linder did not receive teh support that was accorded the Harding hurler.

Well, how's the old arm this morning, folks?

What, not vaccinated yet? Gosh, you'll lose that school girl complexion if that old smallpox gets you, sister.

And believe me, folks, we're going to see more of it before we see less. It looks like that woman with the acid stomach had peppered quite a good many people.

Yep, I got the needle yesterday afternoon and I ain't sorry a bit. It's better to be safe than sorry every time. As they say, I'd rather have one scar than many.

You folks who ain't been vaccinated are like the kid going to the dentist. The thoughts of it are worse than the real operation. Over 10,000 people have been vaccinated in our town and I ain't heard of anybody dying yet.

I goes down to the doct yesterday afternoon and I goes into the office. Gosh, there's quite a crowd waiting around to get jabbed and there ain't a smile in a roomful. You'd have thought it was a funeral.

What a cheerful gang that was. Everybody talking about this one and that one who'd been vaccinated and what a terrible time they had. Believe me, folks, if those people hadn't been jabbed in the arm they'd have been a darned sight worse if they got the smallpox.

Pretty soon it comes my turn. Yep I'll admit it, my knees were kind of shaky, but I was game. I walks right in with all the speed of a guy going to the electric chair. A snail could have beat me by three lengths at least.

Well, me being a woman the doc says: "Where do you want to be vaccinated?" I kind of blushes and answers: "Well, if it's all the same to you, doc, somewhere that it won't show."

He gives me the once over and then grins and says: "Take off your shoe and I'll vaccinate you on the bottom of your foot." Of course I knew he was joshing me so I laughed, too.

Well I got it in the arm all right. And say folks there ain't no trick at all to that vaccination—not yet. All the doc does is wash my arm with alcohol, me not having told him I'd had a bath that morning.

Then he put a drop of liquid on the washed off place and punches it into the skin with a needle. It didn't hurt a bit, honest. It was so simple I thought he'd been kidding me.

But I'll bet an old hat that you couldn't sew a button on a piece of cheesecloth with that needle.

Well I'm glad I had it did. And now when I have the hives or anacid stomach I won't think I got the smallpox.

You folks will feel better too when you get it done.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 14—(AP)—The heavy hitting Harvard batsmen today pounded three Lafayette pitchers for 14 hits while defeating the visitors, 16 to 7. The game was the second consecutive contest which the Eatonians, undefeated when they left home, have lost on their New England trip. Score by innings:

Harvard	353	013	10x	16	14	6
Lafayette	200	140	000	7	9	5

CHAPMAN TECH CAN TIE ACADEMY BY WINNING AT CAMPUS THIS AFTERNOON

Probable Lineups

N. F. A.	Chapman Tech
Arico, 1b	ss, Funk
Gibbs, ss	2b, Quinn
Cummings, 3b	c, Johns
LaCroix, 2b	p, Hewitt
Fagan, cf	cf, Snoesky
Tombari, lf	1b, Golart
Fontaine, c	lf, Gregory
Marks, rf	rf, Geer
Green, p	3b, Keenan

The Academy's undefeated Wildcat team goes after its eleventh straight victory in facing its real crucial game of the league campaign this afternoon at the campus meeting Chapman Tech of New London. The game will start at 4 o'clock, rather an innovation for local high school battles. The late start is expected to accommodate many more than would ordinarily be able to see the tilt, starting at 3 p. m.

The Academy, four times league champs and twice state titleholders, will meet its most formidable league opponent in Tech and its strongest riva. this side of the Connecticut river. The locals held a short practice session Tuesday afternoon at which time Coach Brigham brushed upon a few fine points and ended with batting and infield practice.

N. F. A. Lineup Changed

A change in the Academy lineup that has been forthcoming for some time was announced Tuesday for today's game by Coach Brigham. Buck LaCroix, brilliant centerfielder, will take over his old position at second base to make room for Capt. Jack Marks in the outfield. Marks returns to the Wildcat lineup today after a month's absence due to an injured ankle. Red Fagan will cover center field with Anso Tombari in left. This gives the Academy the strongest hitting team possible and on that will make life miserable for any pitcher. Marks was hitting over .400 when he was put on the shelf.

The Academy at present holds the lead in the race having won its four games played while Tech is second with three victories and one defeat for .750. Tech's only defeat was suffered at the hands of the Wildcats, by 4 to 3, in 11 innings in New London and in this game the Academy came the closest to defeat, tying the score with two uots and two strikes on the batter in the ninth. Many regarded this win as a fluke and the Academy will have to go out today and prove otherwise to some of them.

Tech Can Tie It Up

A victory for today will tie the race up as the following will show:

Present Standing

N. F. A.	4	0	1000
Chapman Tech	3	1	.750

Should Tech Win

N. F. A.	4	1	.800
Chapman Tech	4	1	.800

But Should N. F. A. Win

	W	L	PCT.
N. F. A.	5	0	.1000
Chapman Tech	3	2	.667

An Academy victory would practically insure them of their fifth straight league title for they would have then gone through half of their schedule unbeaten with each other club having lost at least twice. It looks like the turning point of the race.

Hewitt vs. Green

Green's last start was a one-hit performance against Westerly high when the Academy won, 6 to 0. Hewitt's last turn on the hill was against Bulkeley of New London when he stopped the Orange and Black dead to win, 10 to 3.

A large week day crowd is in prospect and with the late start, the stands will probably be jammed. Hank Morin will umpire behind the plate and Joe Cranker from New London, on the bases.

MISS COLLETT HAS CLOSE CALL WITH MISS BRYANT

ST. ANDREWS, Scot., May 14—(AP)—The best of golfers, men and women, expect one weak round during a tournament and Glenna Collett had hers today. She defeated Maude Bryant, three up and two to play, in the second round of the British women's championship, a comfortable enough margin, but until the last three holes of the match when she struck her stride and won them one after another the American girl never seemed safe.

Miss Marion Hollins, former champion of the United States, won her second round match from Miss P. Ramsay, 4 and 3, and Miss Gertrude Boothby, Rochester, Minn., defeated Mrs. J. A. D Bell, six up and five to play. Miss Joyce Wethered, former champion of British women, won today from Mrs. D. C. Madill, eight up and seven to play.

JIMMY QUINN NOT ENTERED IN STATE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Jimmy Quinn, state featherweight amateur champion, will not fight in the state championships which will be held at New Haven tonight and tomorrow night, according to announcement from New Haven yesterday. Bering Strait.

Bering Strait, where Asia and America nearly meet, recently was spanned by air when an aviator flew from Nome to a vessel lying in the Arctic ocean beyond the north shore of Siberia.

"Less than 300 years ago, Bering Strait had not been crossed by a boat with a civilized navigator in command," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "Since then, whalers, Arctic explorers, and adventurers have passed through and across the Strait.

"About twenty years after the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock, two Russian expeditions sailed along the western bank of Bering Strait without seeing the American side. Later a trading station was established on the Russian bank, but it was nearly a century later that Alaska was explored from the west.

"Rumors were current at the Russian trading station that there was an island in the Strait, hidden by the fog that envelopes the region, and that America lay to the east. The 'island' proved to be two islands now known as Diomedes. Today one of the Diomedes belongs to Russia; the other to the United States, for the International boundary line runs between them. They are inhabited by Eskimos who make their living chiefly as 'go betweens' for American and Russian traders.

"Bering Strait and Bering Sea take their names from Vitus Bering, a Danish navigator who enlisted in the Russian navy in 1703. Peter the Great ordered him to the east coast of Siberia in 1725. He went overland to Okhotsk and then to Kamchatka where he built a ship for his explorations. He sailed up the Bering Sea coast but America was hidden in the fog. On a subsequent voyage, in 1741, he saw the American continent for the first time. On his way back to Siberia, Bering's ship was wrecked on what is now known as Bering Island in the Commander group. Sailors who reached the mainland carried the story of the fur trade possibilities in Alaska and soon Russian trappers and traders moved to the new continent.

"If the interntional boundary line continued north and south as it does through the Strait, half of the Aleutians would belong to Russia. But at the south end of the Strait it veers southwestward, missing the western end of the Aleutian chain by about 150 miles.

"The Commander Islands form the only group on the Russian side of the line while the United States acquired the St. Lawrence, St. Matthew, Nunivak and the Pribilof islands when Seward paid Russia $7,000,000 for the famous 'Seward Ice Box,' as Alaska was called by critics of the purchase.

"Perhaps the most important and best known of the American islands are the Pribilofs where the United States bureau of fisheries maintains a sealing station and fox ranch. During the summer months, several hundred thousand seals inhabit the rocky shores of the Pribilofs, the world's largest fur seal breeding ground. Each year furs worth more than half a million dollars are shipped from the Pribilofs to the St. Louis fur market. A century ago the Bering Sea was also a whaler's paradise, but as in the north Atlantic, the supply of these huge mammals is scarce and the old whaling vessels are fewer in these waters.

"Bering Sea is 33 times larger than Lake Michigan. The Gulf of Mexico could be swallowed up in its area. If the Bering sea were placed on a map of the United with its northernmost point at Chicago, the Aleutian islands, which form its southern boundary, would dot the northern shore of the Gulf of Mexico. In the 17th and 18th centuries, without modern navigating instruments, the early explorers steered their frail ships over the vast sea, frequently imperiled by floating ice from the Arctic. During the winter months of the year a large portion of the sea is covered by its own ice."

ABOUT 60 GIRLS WORKING AT VILLAGE PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 14—Approximately 60 girls are now employed at the Connecticut village plant of Powdrell and Alexander. These girls are engaged in manufacturing curtains and for the most part have been transferred from the Main street plant of the company, where as many as 300 girls have been employed in the curtain manufacturing department at one time. Transfer of this department to the recently acquired plant of Powdrell and Alexander at the north end of Danielson and removal of the machines they operate will give more space in the Main street plant. As yet no shipments other than waste are being made from the new plant, where the shipping department eventually will be located, and where the curtain making department will be fully established within the next few weeks.

Townsend Ackerman of Goshen and Trenton, N. J., a well known trainer of race horses, was in Danielson today, en route to Charter Oak park in Hartford, where he will make ready and condition for the racing season a string of horses he has in charge. For several days past horse trucks have been running through Danielson bound from various parts of New England for Hartford. Another horseman here today and a visitor with J. Carl Witter was R. W. Longley.

Within a few days now there will be a guide for aviators who fly over Danielson. G. Rene Caron of a special committee of the chamber of commerce said this afternoon that he expects painters here to place the word Danielson on the roof of the Exchange block in the immediate future. It is possible that the letters can be no larger than sixteen feet owing to the limitations of the roof area, but that will be determined when measurements are made.

The public will have its first opportunity to hear the Killingly high school band of upwards of 80 pieces on the evening of May 27, when the organization is to give a concert, in conjunction with the high school orchestra, at the high school auditorium. The band is rehearsing diligently and individual members are doing much practicing at their homes. The manner in which the band has advanced in its ability to play is going to furnish a surprise for all that hear them for the first time. The first parade appearance of the band will be on Memorial day. It is probable that the members will appear in white, with the school insignia showing on the sweaters.

Following improvements to be made in the Baptist church building within the next few months, the golden anniversary of its construction and dedication is to be [illegible] next fall. Actually, the church was organized in the spring of 1874, with forty-eight members, and for several years services were held in Liberty hall on Oak street. The present church edifice was dedicated on May 1, 1879, Rev. W. C. Carr being the pastor at that time. The building cost just under $10,000, a far less sum than it would cost to duplicate it today, the lot $530, and the furnishings $804. Mrs. Annie Dexter, who died late in April, was the last of the charter members.

There will be 47 members in the class to be graduated from Killingly high school in June, this equalling in membership the largest class ever graduated from the school in the more than 50 years it has been in existence. June 13 is commencement day. The class day exercises are to be held in the afternoon and the graduation exercises in the evening. Both of these functions will be in the auditorium at the high school building. The baccalaureate service will be held on Sunday evening, this afternoon that the speaker for the June 9, Principal Ernest R. Warren said commencement exercises has not been selected as yet.

OBITUARY

James Gartland

James Gartland, a former assistant chief for many years of the Danielson fire department, died this afternoon just before 5 o'clock at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam where he was taken a few days ago after suffering a shock. The body was brought to his home on School street tonight in charge of Undertaker Martin T. Burns.

Mr. Gartland was born in Brooklyn 68 years ago, a son of Michael and Ellen Cassidy Gartland and had lived all of his life in Brooklyn and Danielson. He came here many years ago and for a long time was engaged in the express business and through that work became not only acquainted but an intimate friend of many hundreds of people in Danielson and vicinity. He retired from active work several years ago. Mr. Gartland was a man of splendid character and through his fine personality made and kept many friends. He was a member of St. James' parish. Mr. Gartland leaves his wife, a son, Frank of Bridgeport, a step-daughter, Mrs. James R. Walsh of Danielson; a granddaughter, Miss Mary Walsh, of Danielson, and a brother, Vincent Gartland, of Danielson, two sisters, Mrs. Ellen McLaughlin of New York and Mrs Catherine Murray of Fall River and a nephew, Benjamin Gartland of Saybrook.

First Selectman Charles A. Tillinghast said this morning that bids for the work of removing trees from the south side of Davis park will be advertised for within a few days.

Dr. and Mrs. George M. Burroughs and Miss Laura Jacobs have returned from a trip to Bermuda.

The death of Edward Payson Weston at the age of 90, recalls that the famous walker on his transcontinental walk from Boston to the Pacific coast, back in 1909, when he was 70 years of age, took him through Plainfield on the leg between Providence and Willimantic, and that many gathered near the Plainfield Congregational church to see him go by.

In advance of the oiling of borough streets, a work to be undertaken in the immediate future, sand was being distributed today.

There was an unending line of taxpayers at the office of Collector James R. Walsh today, and thousands of dollars in taxes were received.

The Danielson Rod and Gun club will have a five-man rifle team competing in the rifle match sponsored by the Connecticut State Rifle association at East Haven next Sunday.

A constantly increasing number of motor trucks carry the inscription "No Riders" as a discouragement to hitch-hikers, again appearing on trunk line highways in numbers in this territory.

There were reminders today that Wednesday is Straw Hat day, and that no one will shoot a man if he appears out in one, even if he wears it shoveling snow off the sidewalk.

George Bullard, who was killed at his farm near Trading Cove last Friday when his tractor overturned and pinned him down, spent his boyhood and youthful years in Danielson, being a resident on Franklin, near Carter street.

Mrs. Frank J. Gorman will leave Wednesday to visit for two days with friends in Boston and in Marlboro.

Sidney P. Marland is to be the interlocutor at the Danielson-Putnam Rotary clubs' minstrels, to be presented here and in Putnam during the latter part of this month.

Though Clean-up week has come and gone for Danielson, much remains to be done if the borough is to be made as tidy as those sponsoring the clean-up movement would like to see it.

Landlord Joseph Natorski of the Danielson inn was in New London today on a business trip.

This morning the funeral of Gloria Peloquin, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elzear Peloquin of Attawaugan, formerly of Danielson, was held from the home with a service conducted at St. James' church here at 9 o'clock by Rev. Antholeme Mollard, M. S. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. L. E. Kennedy had charge of the arrangements.

PUTNAM

TOWN TO EXPEND $40,000 FOR NEW ROAD WORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 14.— The sum of $40,000 will be expended by the town of Putnam for the construction of the state highway into the Putnam Heights section of the town. This was the ultimate outcome of a town meeting held last evening. The meeting was called to order by Selectman William P. Warren who read a resolution of what the town gathering was called for. Newton A. Ballard was elected moderator and Arthur Tourtellotte of Putnam Heights was elected clerk of the meeting.

It was voted that the proposed water bottom macadam road would commence at the intersection of Killingly avenue, and Grove street and would continue up over Putnam Heights to a point known as Warren's four corners, one and a half miles distant. There are three ways the road could go. By a northern path it would connect with the Providence pike road near the Windham county temporary home; by a direct eastern route it would link the state highway onto the Providence pike at a point near the Rhode Island line; and by a southern stretch over the present country road a loop from the Alvin Sweet farm to the Grove street intersection over the heights would be made.

There was an insufficient number of voters to sway the balance of opinion into anyone of the three paths, as three groups of voters, each about the same number, desired the road to take a different path and because of this a motion to adjourn for a period of two weeks was passed. At this time it is hoped that a definite route will be fixed and a vote will be passed.

The proposed road will be constructed from state aid and the sum of $40,000 to be expended by the town will be returned to the treasury within a period of five years, through the financial aid afforded the community each year by the state legislature.

Delegates to the recent national convention of the Elizabeth Porter Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution tendered comprehensive reports of the activities which took place at the convention during the meeting of the local chapter held Monday afternoon in Odd Fellows hall. Those who represented the Elizabeth Porter chapter at the Continental Congress were Mrs. Mary B. Bishop and Mrs. William H. Mansfield, Jr., and Miss Elizabeth Hayward as alternates.

Judge M. H. Geissler of this city was in Hartford today in connection with a case which he is soon to direct in supreme court.

Andrew F. Donovan of Worcester, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Donovan of Lyons street, spent the week end with his parents in this city.

Mrs. John Busch, formerly Miss Margaret Ryan of this city and now of Norwich, was a visitor here today.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian Place Selig, who died at the Day Kimball hospital Sunday following an operation, were held this morning at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock, Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's, officiated at a high mass of requiem. The members of the 10.30 o'clock choir sang the Gregorian mass.

The funeral mass for Mrs. Selig was largely attended by numerous relatives and friends who came from surrounding towns of Putnam. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery with committal services at the grave, officiated at by Rev. Father Bellerose.

The annual banquet of the members of the Putnam chamber of commerce is to be held Thursday evening at the Putnam Inn. A large attendance is expected to be present. The exercises following the banquet are not to be elaborate as in past years. No special speakers have been obtained and as little time as possible will be devoted to business matters confronting the organization.

The selectmen of the towns of Thompson and Putnam have cooperated and have placed suitable signs on the lines separating the two towns, on the Mechanicsville highway. These indicators replace the tattered signs of the Putnam chamber of commerce which were destroyed by vandals who hurled stones at them about a year ago.

An item of interest to the people of Putnam in general is the announcement made by Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin this morning that the system of teaching in Putnam high school has been approved for a period of four years by the New England College Entrance board. This recognition is to the effect that a student graduating from Putnam school is eligible to apply for entrance in any of the higher institutions of learning in New England.

Capt. of Police William J. Jarvis and A. Macdonald Jr., were in Willimantic today attending a session of naturalization in superior court.

Workmen engaged in razing the charred remains of the City hotel on South Main street nearly completed their work. The two upper stories of the building which were left in a dangerous condition by the fire of last March, have been torn down and it appears as though the remaining ground floor of the structure will be levelled with the street line before the end of the week. The removal of the fire ruins will mark the passing of one of the city's two business district eyesores.

Ubald Laurion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ubald Laurion of North Grosvenordale will be ordained a priest of the Roman Catholic church on Saturday, May 25, in St. Joseph's cathedral in Hartford. On the following day, Sunday, May 26, the new priest will celebrate his first mass in St. Joseph's church in North Grosvenordale it was announced by Rev. John C. Mathieu, pastor of the church today.

Robert Bruce, a student at Northeastern university in Boston, has completed the prescribed course in engineering at that college and will graduate in June. Mr. Bruce is a graduate of Putnam high school.

The Putnam teachers' club, the membership consisting of the combined faculties of Putnam schools, will hold a farewell banquet at the Arnold grill early in June, Supt. of Schools Farrin announced this morning. The committee in charge of the event consists of Miss Abbie H. Keith, head of the English department at Putnam high school, Miss Jessie Mitchell of the Israel Putnam school and Miss Angelina O'Flynn of Sawyer district school.

The Loyalty day parade, the only feature of Rotary boys week is to be held Wednesday. The parade is to be the greatest juvenile event ever to be staged publicly in Putnam and the student body of every school in the city will take part.

JEWETT CITY

PART RAT, PART SQUIRREL POSER FOR NATURALISTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 14—Adelard La Porte caught a strange animal in a barn Monday night on the premises where he is employed. The queer looking creature is part rat and part squirrel. Its head and legs are those of a common rat, not to be mistaken in any particular. Along its sides is long gray hair, while its tail is flat and bushy, like that of a squirrel.

Mr. La Porte had the animal in a pail and showed it to a wondering gallery at Jodoin's market today. Back of the barn, is a patch of woods where squirrels have been seen often.

Planting Dahlia Tops

Dahlia growers, all about the borough, are setting out some choice varieties. In recent season many who have waited until June first to plant their roots have lost the plants by early frost before they came into blossom.

Operators of two automobiles which collided at the corner of East Main street and Brown avenue, Sunday evening, agreed to square accounts between themselves, Officer Viegarde, let it go at that.

ELLWARD C. BURDICK'S FUNERAL LARGELY ATTENDED

Ellward C. Burdick, nearly 74, died at the home of his son, Wilfred Burdick, Thursday morning. He was born in Smithville, R. I., May 23, 1855, a son of Asa and Sarah Morey Burdick. Mr. Burdick and his wife, formerly Ella S. Searle, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday of the past week. They were married in Providence, R. I., May 7, 1879. Besides his wife he leaves eight sons: Asa of Hampton, Chester and Verein of Riverton, Everett of Pine Bush, N. Y., Clifford, Leon, Wilfred and Morton of Chaplin; a daughter, Mrs. Marion Laudon, of Chaplin, and 16 grandchildren. There are two pairs of twins among the surviving children. The funeral was largely attended at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Paul B. Sanger, the pastor, conducted the service. The tribute of flowers was especially beautiful. Besides the forms given by the children and grandchildren, there was a choice piece from Natchaug grange and another piece from neighbors. A quartet, Mrs. Charles Perry, B. M. Welch, J. Wilbur Lanphear and W. B. Gallup, sang Rock of Ages and Face to Face. The bearers were Clifton J. Church, Merritt Welch, Charles Perry, Frank Bebbington, T. Dwight Chandler and Joseph McQuaide. Burial was in the new cemetery at South Chaplin, where Rev. Mr. Sanger conducted the committal service.

Mrs. J. Wilbur Lanphear is home after spending the winter away among friends.

Rev. P. B. Sanger attended the meeting at North Windham church Sunday evening and dedicated in honor a C. E. society there.

Girls will appear in bathing costume Saturday night only. During the week all girls will appear in either afternoon frock or evening gown. So get your name in at once and get after all these wonderful gifts and the right to compete for the title of Miss New England at Revere Beach, Boston, next July when over forty girls from all over New England will vie with each other for the big title which carries with it the twenty-five week theatre contract and five thousand dollar wardrobe. During the shopping tour that will take Miss Norwich to all of the above merchants to receive her gifts from the managers she will make this tour in the finest transportation possible for the T. N. M. Lathron, Inc., will place at her disposal a beautiful Studebaker Champion. Palace.

The next best thing to getting first-hand information on a native uprising on a South Sea island is to take the safer course and see "The Devil's Apple Tree," the Tiffany-Stahl picture which opened yesterday at the Palace theatre.

Thrills and romance revolve around a girl who embarks on a matrimonial-bureau marriage and winds up fighting for her life while several hundred black men make preparations to burn her alive.

Dorothy Sebastian plays the role of the adventurous lady who sails to the South Seas to marry a stranger. On the way down she is quarantined on shipboard with another girl, a small pox victim. The girl is dying, so Dorothy seizes the opportunity to steal her personality when she finds the man she is scheduled to marry is a dissolute wastrel.

On the same program chock full of thrills and abrim with human emotions, "Slim Fingers," the Universal Thrill Feature which opened at the Palace theatre last night was enthusiastically received by a delighted audience as one of the best under-world pictures of the year.

Featuring William Cody and Duane Thompson, who are, incidentally, one of the most popular under-world teams on the screen today, and directed by Josef Levigard, "Slim Fingers" gave its audience thrill after thrill, climaxing with a deliciously exciting motor chase which was unquestionably the punch of this picture.

This absorbing and rapidly moving under-world melodrama is the story of a millionaire sportsman's love for a beautiful girl crook who is endeavoring to steal a valuable painting from an exclusive golf club. Before the millionaire finds out what the girl is he falls in love with her and is branded as a thief.

Breed Theatre

Nils Asther, who plays opposite Joan Crawford in "Dream of Love" which is showing today for the last time at the Breed theatre as a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature was born in Sweden and was a member of the royal diplomatic corps in Europe, the United States and Russia before entering the films. His first screen role was in the Swedish "Wings" production. He made seventeen pictures in Germany before appearing in American films the first of which was "Sorrel and Son." His most recent pictures were "Laugh, Clown Laugh," "The Cossacks," "Our Dancing Daughters" and "The Cardboard Lover." With Miss Crawford and Asther in the feature, which Fred Niblo directed, are Aileen Pringle, Carmel Myers, Warner Oland and others of note.

Bradley Theatre (Putnam)

Several talking pictures for immediate bookings are booked and patrons are requested to watch the newspapers for announcements.

SMOKE FROM CELLAR BLAZE FILLS MILLINERY SHOP

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 14—Fire, starting in rubbish in the cellar of the Beebe millinery shop, 49 High street, Westerly, gave the firemen a stiff battle late this afternoon and caused smoke damage to the amount of several hundred dollars. Flames were confined to the cellar but smoke filled the shop and adjoining stores of Michael Papalia, the Willard Hardware company and the Brucker Tailoring company. The fire was discovered by Miss Elizabeth Browning as she stepped from a rear workshop into the main store to wait on a customer. Smoke was issuing from the wall behind a safe. Miss Browning called to other employes and David Crockett, a passerby, turned in an alarm from Box 56. Chief George E. Egger and three companies of firemen responded. Three hose lines were run into the cellar and the fire was extinguished after a brief but stiff battle. This is the second time within eight months that the shop has suffered a fire loss. Last fall a fire started in the cellar of an adjoining store and worked its way into the millinery shop, doing heavy damage.

PERMANENT, SENIORS RESULTS OF DR. KENYON'S INJURIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, May 14—The case of Dr. Frances A. Kenyon vs. the United Electric Railways company continued in Westerly session of superior court today: Judge A. A. Capotosto presiding. Practically all the session of court was consumed in hearing testimony of physicians and attendants of the plaintiff during the period from the accident in October 1926 to the present.

Dr. Louis G. Howard, Boston surgeon, testified that in his opinion the injury to the plaintiff's right arm and hand would be permanent. The doctor described it as a "partial paralysis," due to some serious injury in the muscles and nerves.

Dr. Daniel R. McNally, of Providence testified to having treated plaintiff over a period of several months. He said his bill amounted to $560, no part of which had been paid. Dr. George B. Peck of Woodville testified briefly as to the physical condition of the plaintiff whom he had known for many years.

William Kay and Mrs. Maria A. Foster were presented by plaintiff's counsel as attendants of Dr. Kenyon during her illness. Kay testified that he acted as chauffeur because Dr. Kenyon was unable to drive her own car. He was obliged to assist the plaintiff in and out of her car and carry her bag. Mrs. Foster gave evidence that she had acted as nurse over a long period during which the plaintiff suffered much pain, was unable to dress herself, or even cut her food.

Atty. Early P. Sweeney is appearing for the traction company and Atty. R. M. Greenlaw for the plaintiff. The suit is for $30,000. The trial will continue Wednesday.

The meeting of the Westerly Players, many of whom are residents of Pawcatuck and Stonington, is scheduled for this (Wednesday) evening. It will be held in the public library building.

STOCK MARKET WENT UP WITH CALL MONEY RATE, CONTRARY TO CUSTOM

NEW YORK, May 14—(AP)—To the consternation of rule-of-the-thumb traders, the stock market went up with the call money rate today, although its perversity in selling off Saturday, with money the cheapest in more than a month, had in a measure prepared them for today's demonstration.

The ease in money which appeared on Friday was short lived, with the rate again renewing at 7 per cent. today, but mounting to 8 soon after noon, then shortly to 10. Prices fluctuated uncertainly until after the 10 per cent. rate had been posted, when vigorous pool operations in a few issues led the entire list upward. Trading, however, was in moderate volume, with the day's turnover reaching but 4,856,300 shares, about 1,000,000 less than yesterday's.

Leaders in the late rally were General Electric and Packard, soaring 15 and 16 points, respectively, the former to a record price at 277. The buying of General Electric was based on unconfirmed rumors of a forthcoming 4-for-1 splitup, or distribution of the holdings of Radio as a stock dividend. Packard was sent soaring by a report that its new Diesel aviation motor had flown 700 miles on less than 15 worth of fuel oil, and by announcement of record-breaking April sales of cars.

The credit situation was not without a dampening effect upon market enthusiasm, as was evident from the pace of trading. Time money was at 9 per cent for even 90 day funds, and rumors of a possible rise in the New York rediscount rate this week was given color by the backing up of the Minneapolis bank's rate to 5 per cent, leaving only San Francisco on a 4 1-2 per cent. basis. Wall street generally, however, was inclined to believe that an increase would be postponed a little longer. Now that the spring credit requirements are largely out of the way, however, several bankers believe that the New York rate might be put up to 6 per cent. and held there until fall without imposing any severe burden upon business.

The day's news was largely favorable. The condition statement of weekly reporting federal reserve member banks, showing a reduction of $130,000,000 in loans on securities, was particularly pleasing, as contrasting with the recent upturn in brokers loans. President Simmons' defense of brokers loans in his annual report to the stock exchange also tended to restore confidence. Steel mill operations were reported to have been stepped up again in the past week, with U. S. Steel once more operating above its rated capacity.

Much of the upturn was ascribed to short covering, particularly in Radio, which sagged to 82, then rebounded to 96 7-8, a net gain of 2 7-8. General Motors, after mounting about 2 points to 82 1-4, fell back to 80, met strong resistance at that point, finally sagged to 79 5-8, only to rebound to 81 3-8.

Utilities made substantial headway, led by Commonwealth Power, which rose nearly 7 points to a new peak at 183 1-4. A split up is said to be impending in this issue. Coppers were under pressure for a time, but firmed up in the late trading. Granby was a strong spot, mounting more than 6 points. Missouri Pacific was the leader of the rails, selling up about 6 points to a new top.

Westinghouse was strong in sympathy with General Electric, advancing about 5 points to a new peak. Ludlum responded to a good earnings statement. Such shares as American Can, Allied Chemical, By-Products Coke, Consolidated Gas, Chrysler, Goodyear, United Aircraft and Wright Aero climbed from about 2 to 5 points.

Soft spots were Baldwin Locomotive and International Paper, tumbling about 9 points each; Chile Copper, Borroughs and National Lead were among issues losing 2 points or so.

In the commodity markets grains again acted better, with wheat selling up about a cent a bushel on rumors of Russian buying and reports of floods in Kansas. Corn mounted 1 to 2 cents on delay in planting in the central west and better foreign markets. Cotton, however, lost about $1 a bale on better weather.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to ease, with sterling cables dropping to $4.85 1-8, near the gold point and the lowest since the bank of England raised its discount rate. French and German exchange, however, were firm.

MAKE PROTEST OVER WILLIMANTIC BILLBOARDS

(Special to The Bulletin).

WILLIMANTIC May 14—Nearly 40 residents of Bridge and Pleasant streets appeared before the common council at its May meeting last night to object to the presence of billboards at the corner of the streets. The billboards are on property adjoining a small grocery store and their erection some weeks ago sent the entire neighborhood into a furore. John R. McCarthy and Mrs. Alice D. Stoughton appeared as spokesmen for the group. A representative of the billboard concern addressed the gathering and after a lengthy discussion which resulted in a conference it was agreed the billboards would be removed not later than July first. There is an ordinance now in the course of construction that will provide for the erection of billboards in the future.

Three members of the town school committee appeared to request the council for police protection at the Natchaug and Windham street schools. Talks were given on the subject by Robert O. Snow and Dr. W. P. S. Keating, who with Walter R. King represented the school board and Alderman Eugene E. Lewis chairman of the police committee. It was finally voted to authorize the police committee to take action providing police protection at the corner of Valley and Jackson street, where the parochial children cross, at the Natchaug school, at the foot of Windham street and at the junction of Main and Jackson streets.

Leo Prue was assigned as a member of Hose company No. 1. It was voted that where water rents are in arrears that the water be shut off on June 13.

The memorial field committee was instructed to report on the purchase of the Manzola property to be annexed to the field.

A "Grand and Glorious Feeling"

Tune in on the OLD COMPANY'S SINGERS with SIGMUND SPAETH Sunday Even'g 7 p. m. E D T 6 p. m. E S T WEAF and Associated Stations

THE man who has his Winter's coal in—bought at the low Spring price—is justified in some self-congratulation.

He has saved money. In fact, he has made his coal investment pay better than bank-interest.

He is freed from the necessity of keeping one eye on the calendar and the other on the thermometer, as the cool autumn days approach.

His family is protected against the illnesses that may result from the combination of an early cold-wave and an unheated house.

Finally, he has given his dealer a fair chance to deliver his coal as the dealer wants to deliver it—promptly, carefully and free from snow and ice.

And if he has bought Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite he finds himself with a further reason for his satisfaction.

For this grand old fuel, with a hundred years of unfailing heat-service behind it, assures him of steady, easily controlled warmth, with a minimum of attention to his heater.

PRELIMINARY ARRANGEMENTS FOR WORK ON ALLYN MUSEUM, NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON, May 14—The projected Harriet D. Allyn museum, for which the late Mrs. Allyn left about a million dollars is to be on the triangular piece of land which begins at the junction of the New London-Norwich turnpike and Mohegan avenue. The Allyn trustees have purchased from Connecticut college for $22,000, two strips of land which carry the triangle back and the city is to abandon Valentine street, which crosses the property at the wide part of the triangle. The museum is to stand well back from the highway on either side. Severall knolls on the land must be graded. Already architects are at work on plans for the museum.

The chamber of commerce has elected Waldo E. Clarke, chairman of a committee, the members of which he is to choose, to arrange for some gathering, either a joint meeting of the Lions, Rotary and chamber of commerce, or a public meeting in Bulkeley auditorium, to which the trustees of the Allyn estate or those in charge of the building of the museum, are to be invited. This, it is explained, will give the public a chance to hear about the new museum.

Already Mr. Clarke has conferred with Mr. Scott, vice president of the Hartford Connecticut Trust Co., trustees of the Allyn estate, and plans will soon be made for such a meeting. Already bids for grading the land are out to various contractors.

THINK STEELE POLICE DOG POISONED BY NEIGHBOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 14—Mrs. E. D. Steele, of Oswecatchie, Waterford, is mourning the loss of her valuable police dog, which, she believes, was poisoned by some malicious neighbor. The dog had been taken for a romp a few days ago and upon the return of the animal and its master to the Steele home, the dog went to the yard where water was kept for the animal to drink and after quenching its thirst the dog expired. It is believed that a neighbor of the Steele family put poison in the water during the absence of Mrs. Steele from her home.

Dorothy Oliver, of 183 Willetts avenue; Mrs. Earl Merrill and infant daughter, Waterford; Mary McDonald, 17 Colman street and Beresford Cooper, 25 Haines street, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

STRIP OF LAND RENTS FOR $1,200 FOR FIVE YEARS

The Hotel Gibbison company has leased a strip of land which it recently acquired on Washington street, to James P. Sullivan, proprietor of the Monte Cristo garage and it will be used in connection with that business. The lease dates from June 1, 1929 and ends Sept. 1, 1934. The annual rent will be $1,200.

Goss Thought Too Speedy

Frank Goss, Groton, employed by Henry Markle, Mystic trucking contractor, was arrested yesterday afternoon charged with reckless driving and will be in Groton town court Monday next. Goss was driving a big truck through Noank when it sideswiped a Ford car owned and driven by Hazel V. McGrath, Groton. State Police Officers Dygert and Johnson who investigated the crash arrested Goss.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Max Eilonsky, 25 Moore avenue and Henry J. Kroth, submarine base. Commissioner Stoeckel also denied the right to drive to Mary Ballestrini, 14 East street.

TWO ANTENNAE USED IN DIRECTION FINDER

CHICAGO (AP)—To aid pilots in fog and heavy weather, the Transcontinental Air Transport company is equipping its planes with a radio direction finder, comprised of a delicate receiver and two antennae.

To determine the position of the pilot, a moveable loop antenna is rotated until the signals from the plane register in the headphones with minimum strength. Minimum, rather than maximum, signals are sought because of their greater accuracy.

When minimum signals register, the loop is known to be broadside to the plane. It is not known, however, which side of the loop the signals come from. Signals from a plane due north energize the antenna exactly as do signals originating in a due southerly direction. The second or "sensing" antenna then is placed in the circuit to determine on which side of the loop the pilot is flying.

An indicator on the operator's table points to the pilot's compass bearing from the station and that bearing is transmitted aloft to the pilot. The apparatus eliminates the necessity of the mathematical calculations involved in the triangulation method of radio direction finding used by ships at sea. Should a pilot desire to verify the compass bearing he may request a second station to indicate his position.

FAITHFUL CHAUFFEUR'S SERVICE APPRECIATED

Charles T. Ludwig, Jr., whose funeral was held Monday at St. Patrick's church, was for two years chauffeur for Julius W. Cadden and the Misses Cadden, of Broad street. He was a most careful and skilled driver, quiet, faithful, a model employe. When Mr. Cadden and his nephew, Rutherford C. Plaut left for Miami where the family spent six weeks they took their car along, thinking that the change might benefit Ludwig, whose health even then was beginning to fail. Everything possible was done for him and at Miami he was put in the care of Dr. Edward P. Brewer, from Norwich, and was given special treatment. However, tubercular trouble had developed and when the family was returning north, feeling that driving would be too great a strain for the chauffeur, the trip was made by steamer. From New York Ludwig was sent home by train, the family wiring to the A. C. Swan company for a chauffeur to take his place, and drive them to Norwich. Their care and consideration and solicitude did much to console and encourage the young man in his last illness and he frequently expressed to friends his appreciation of the fact that nothing had been left undone which was at all likely to help him. He leaves his wife and a young child.

NORTH FRANKLIN GIRL IN FIRE WATCH TOWER

Situated high on Shelton's Hill, Oxford, a high fire observation tower, which was erected last year, is in charge of a lone girl, who is watching over thousands of acres of woodland within a radius of 20 miles airline. The young woman is Miss Elizabeth Date of North Franklin. The tower is made of steel with glass encloned top, the entire height being almost 50 feet. A circular map with the various towns is on a pedestal. Directly in the center of this map is an instrument called an "alidate," which is similar to a compass needle. By turning this instrument to various positions, the exact location of a fire can be found. A telephone call from the tower is then made to the fire warden in that district. The tower is used from March until June for fire purposes, and through the efforts of Miss Date, thousands of acres of forests are saved from loss by fire.

NETTED OVER $300 FROM PROGRESS EXPOSITION HERE

Harry F. Powers, second vice president, presided in the absence of President J. C. Worth and First Vice President F. Russell Smith who are in Maine on a fishing trip.

Plans for the farmer-city meeting to be held Monday evening at Lebanon were enthusiastically discussed and each director present took six tickets apiece for the purpose of interesting other chamber members.

Secretary Walter H. Pilcher spoke of the activities of the various committees recently appointed by President Worth and the program of work now in process.

These included the work of the aviation committee looking towards the establishment of an airport in Norwich, the yard and garden contest, the community chest committee, the monthly business survey, this month's suburban day, the meetings of the credit bureau this month, the activities of the industrial commission on sites and prospects, the meeting of the park and playground committee, the growing interest and size of the Contact club, the monthly publication of Norwich Progress Magazine, the activities of the merchants bureau, meetings of the membership committee, the committee on good-will tours, summer camps and the results of the Norwich Progress exposition which netted the chamber over $300.

He stated that the aviation committee and agriculture committee had been most active and that the only committees that had not met at some time during recent weeks are the committees on streets and sidewalks which met Monday night and the committee on transportation and traffic which is meeting next week.

Several changes in the arrangements of the chamber offices were commented upon at the meeting.

The manager of the Thayer building, John A. Cunningham, has cooperated with chamber officers and the committee room has been painted and the floors restained. A new store room has become necessary and has been arranged in another room in the building. The shelving was erected by P. F. Sweeney. A new file has been installed by Cranston Co., in the credit bureau which will save considerable space and effect greater efficiency in operation.

A partition has been made, cutting down the size of the secretary's office which has provided additional space for the building and loan association. The building and loan association has caught the spirit and has recently purchased a new desk for Henry D. Johnson, the secretary.

Some discussion on the possibilities of a board of finance and control in Norwich and the needs of the public schools brought forth the action of authorizing the president to appoint two committees, one on board of finance and control, and the other on study of school needs.

93 PERSONS KILLED BY BROMINE GAS FUMES IN A CLEVELAND HOSPITAL

Fire Followed Two Explosions Due to Gas Given Off By X-Ray Films—First Blast Came When Films in the Basement Caught Fire—A Second Explosion Blew Out the Skylight and Filled Every Corner of the Clinical Four Story Structure With the Deadly Fumes—Among the Dead Were Patients, Doctors and Nurses Who Filled the Building at 11.30, the Busiest Hour of the Morning.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 15—(AP)—Deadly suffocating bromine gas, given off by two explosions of X-ray films, and an accompanying fire, killed at least 88 persons in Cleveland Clinic hospital today. The injured list may reach 100.

The dead were: Patients, doctors and nurses who filled the four story structure at 11.30 o'clock, the busiest hour of the morning.

The first explosion came when X-ray films stored in the basement caught fire releasing deadly fumes. The fumes penetrated to the waiting room on the floor above.

The hollow center of the building soon filled with gases. The intense heat below sent the fumes swirling upward. Before any one had opportunity to escape a second blast blew out the skylight and filled every corner of the building with the deadly bromine gas.

Occupants had no way of escape but the windows, and few were able to reach them. These were enveloped in the fumes which hung about the building and they collapsed.

The two street entrances were choked, and the stairways leading to the roof were heavy with the fumes. Every piece of fire apparatus available was centered at the clinic and every vehicle possible was commandeered to remove the bodies. An hour and a half later all had been taken to nearby hospitals.

The first blast was heard by Policeman Henry Thorpe, walking two blocks away. He turned in an alarm and ran to the building at Euclid avenue and 93rd street.

A block away he was blinded by the gas. The first firemen to arrive turned in a second alarm and police, hospital and county morgue ambulances were concentrated about the building.

Battalion Fire Chief James P. Flynn, with his driver, Louis Hillenbrand, were the first to enter the building. They reached the roof and chopped a hole leading to a stairway, then dropped a ladder to the fourth floor landing. Below they found sixteen bodies, one a doctor and another a nurse, strewn along the staircase.

The physician, Dr. J. L. Locke appeared to be alive and was taken out first. He was revived. Five of the others were taken to the roof and carried down ladders as arriving firemen battered in windows to reach those inside.

Ambulances and taxicabs were used to take them to hospitals. Dr. George W. Crile, head of the clinic, gave orders that all victims be taken to the closest source of oxygen, their only hope of life.

Some were taken to the Cleveland Clinic hospital adjoining the clinic building, the others were taken to Mt. Sinai, Huron Road and Charity hospitals.

Emergency equipment was set up outside the building as the fumes lifted and permitted rescuers to work in safety. Police lines were thrown about the district to re-route traffic and hold in check a crowd of several thousand onlookers.

Inside the building firemen found many lying in the spot where the blasts found them. Rooms set aside for clinical examinations were occupied by patients and physicians. Some sat in chairs of the waiting room, overcome as the first cloud of gas swept up from the basement. Others in the front of the building were stretched along the stairs.

The rescuers found evidences of the suddenness with which disaster came to those inside the building on every hand. Hats and shoes were scattered about, abandoned in the flight of those able to fight off the fumes long enough to make a frantic attempt at escape.

Surgical equipment lay ready for use in the examining rooms. In the X-ray developing room a roll of film was stretched to dry. A wheel chair with the blanket thrown aside blocked a balcony overlooking the waiting room. A stenographer's half finished letter was found in an office.

Everything was abandoned as the victims realized too late that the brown fumes curling through doorcasings and along the halls carried death.

Most of them were able to make an attempt to save themselves. No bed patients were kept in the clinic and many of those there had appeared for medical examinations and were able to attempt escape. But so sudden was the catastrophe that none had time to reach the open air and safety.

Some at unbroken windows, pounding weakly against the glass, and then dropped from sight as the gas choked them. Most of the victims lay clutching their throats, stifled and fighting at the last for air.

Stephen Weiser, elevator operator, was in his car in the basement. He shot the car to the fifth floor penthouse and escaped with burns about the face and hands. Two workmen in a coal bin below the X-ray film storage room were barred but not otherwise injured.

Some of those given oxygen immediately after their removal were expected to live. Hope was dispaired of for others where the noxious poison had destroyed the membranes of the lungs.

One policeman described the scene as worse than his experience in the World war. He had carried out 25 bodies, he said. Dr. Carl Helwig, an interne at another hospital, went to Mt. Sinai hospital to aid in resuscitation and came upon his wife, who had gone to the clinic for examination. She died as he worked to save her.

Louis Soboul, whose appointment was cancelled, walked from the structure an instant before the double explosions. Soboul said he turned to see victims with their clothes torn away, fighting at the windows for air. Billows of gas swept about them and he fled to Huron Road hospital to spread the alarm as the fumes filled the street.

The Cleveland clinic was established by Dr. Crile a few years ago and rapidly rose to a place of prominence in the city's medical centers. The surgeon, noted for his operations for goiter, associated himself with other physicians in the Cleveland Clinic foundation and in 1924 a hospital was built for the care of patients.

Official inquiry into the causes of the blast was opened immediately after the bodies had been cleared away.

Coroner A. J. Pearse prepared plans for an inquest as fire department officials attempted to learn the origin of the fire.

SACRIFICED HIS LIFE IN WORK OF RESCUE

CLEVELAND, May 15—(AP)—Policeman Ernest Staab, 30, of Number 1 emergency wagon, sacrificed his life to achieve the removal of 21 bodies from the blazing gas filled Cleveland clinic. Staab arrived while the fumes still clogged the entrance but time after time pushed his way into the darkened halls, facing almost positive death.

Some of those he removed were alive tonight, some died as he carried them to open air, but Staab worked away as the fatal gas slowly destroyed his lungs. He collapsed after carrying out his twenty-first burden. He followed those he rescued to an emergency cot and died a few hours later.

DR. JOHN PHILLIPS WAS ONE OF THE VICTIMS

CLEVELAND, May 15—(AP)—Dr. John Phillips, friend and colleague of Dr. George W. Crile, head of the Cleveland clinic, died tonight from the effects of gas inhaled during the blast and explosion in the building today, despite a blood transfusion performed on him by Dr. Crile. Dr. Phillips was personal physician to the late Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, and attended Mr. Herrick when he was stricken at his home near here last New Year's day.

FRANTIC SCENES AT THE NEIGHBORING HOSPITALS

CLEVELAND, May 15—Frantic scenes were enacted at neighboring hospitals today after streams of ambulances began taking victims away from the Cleveland clinic.

It was impossible to find space in wards and rooms for cots at Mt. Sinai hospital. Cots were hastily placed in the hallways and desperate efforts were made to cut down the growing death list.

Even janitors and scrubwomen were pressed into service to help apply artificial respiration to victims or treat them for burns to supplement the frantic efforts of every available doctor, nurse and interne.

A priest went from cot to cot giving unction to those who appeared dying.

So deadly was the gas generated in the explosion that many victims died on their way to hospitals or after they had been taken to hospitals.

RELATIVES MAKING IDENTIFICATION IN MORGUE

CLEVELAND, May 15—(AP)—Curious throngs tonight milled about the Cleveland clinic, scene of an explosion and fire which snuffed out the lives of more than four score persons—but they were only curious. The real scene of the tragedy had shifted to the county morgue, a sombre two story building facing on Lake Erie in another part of town.

There shortly before the dinner hour, 84 bodies, laid out in threes and fours, awaited identification. Both floors of the structure were utilized for the task.

In the middle of the afternoon long lines formed on Lake Side avenue awaiting admittance and police with difficulty restrained anxious relatives and friends seeking news.

Mothers and wives, tear-stained faces showing the anxiety through which they were passing, men bravely trying to bear up and children only barely realizing the tragedy milled around waiting permission to enter.

At length the morgue attendants had done their work, and the lines formed for admittance into the building.

A force of policemen and detectives allowed only those to enter who could assist in the identification of the dead.

A hoarse word by an officer that "those covered already have been identified," broke harshly into the quiet of the place.

Here and there a sob or a scream gave evidence that the end of the search had been reached for some relative or friend. A cover was pulled up by an attendant, a notation was made on a blank—and the lines moved on.

Some who found loved ones lying dead beneath sheets went into hysterics, and had to be led from the building; others bowed their heads silently, and with tears streaking their faces, moved slowly out.

DEATH OF HARRY ASHER, NEW HAVEN LAWYER

NEW YORK, May 15—(AP)—Harry Asher, 71, prominent lawyer of New Haven, Conn., and New York, died today at his local residence. He was a former president of the New Haven board of education and was secretary of the class of 1879, Sheffield scientific school at Yale.

Mr. Asher had been an invalid for the past four years.

His widow, the former Pauline Housman; a daughter, Mrs. Irving Engel and a son, Harry Asher survive.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, May 15—(AP)—The wool auction sales closed today with offerings amounting to 9,035 bales, of which 8,000 were sold.

LONDON, May 15—(AP)—It now appears that all three great political parties of England will go to the people in the general election May 30, with similar policies respecting unemployment, which is the paramount issue of the campaign.

COMPROMISE SUBMITTED TO GERMANY'S CREDITORS

PARIS, May 15—(AP)—Germany's creditors finally had before them tonight the reparations compromise proposed by Owen D. Young, with the main German conditions woven into the text of the report and what many described as the real negotiations of the reparations. Heretofore, neither the allied demands nor the German offer had been accepted by the other side as a basis for discussion.

A plenary meeting of the second Dawes committee to take decisive action may be called tomorrow afternoon, but it will more probably meet on Friday.

It is as uncertain as ever what will be the ultimate result of more than three months of labor on the reparations problem, but one expert said this evening that it seemed to him all the delegates were "casting sly friendly looks at the figures."

There is a general feeling also among the Americans and the British that the German conditions offer no formidable obstacle. The great difficulty continues to be the question of who will bear the burden of reduction from the allies' minimum demand.

It was evening before the French and English texts of the report were distributed and the Germans were busy until a late hour with their translation. Even now there are a number of wrinkles to be ironed out, because several German suggestions, rejected by Sir Josiah Stamp or Mr. Young as irrelevant or objectionable, are presented on a separate typewritten sheet and must be discussed.

The report drafted by Sir Josiah is a sixty page document of about 15,000 words with blanks for the figures, which Mr. Young had previously made known. It is based on the idea of reaching unanimity on the figures and conditions, although distribution of the payments among the allies might be left for the governments to settle.

If agreement on this report cannot be reached, the first report, which was prepared weeks ago, is in type and ready for printing.

MRS. CARR ARRESTED AS FUGITIVE FROM NEW HAVEN

NEW YORK, May 15—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Cressman Carr, former chorus beauty and screen actress, was arrested today and held in $500 bail as a fugitive from New Haven, Conn., charged with abducting her eight year old son, Paul Gugger, Jr., from her former husband.

She asserted at her arraignment that she had legal custody of the boy and that Gugger, a wealthy automobile dealer in New Haven, had visited the boy last Christmas as he had a right to do under a divorce decree, had taken him for a walk and "forgotten to bring him back."

From Christmas she did not see her son again, she said, until a few days ago when she drove to New Haven and met him at 594 Prospect street, New Haven. She said she invited him to go away with her and as he was willing, she drove him back to New York.

Mrs. Carr said she was divorced from Gugger in 1923 in Chicago, she charging him with "inhuman conduct" and non-support. The next year she married Alexander Carr, stage and screen actor.

Paul Gugger, Jr., was in court today, seated in an ante-room during his mother's arraignment and reading a newspaper comic supplement in childish ignorance of the legal machinery that was grinding out his fate. After a long argument as to what to do with him pending Mrs. Carr's hearing he was turned over to her care.

FARM RELIEF BILL BACK IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—The farm relief bill came back to the house today to meet a growing disposition on the part of the leaders to attempt to conciliate the differences that have arisen between the two houses over the export debenture plan inserted by the senate.

While the measure rested on the speaker's table, the leaders called a meeting of the republican steering committee for tomorrow to decide what course would be adopted to deal with the proposal.

Speaker Longworth indicated that in view of the emergency nature of the legislation there was a growing desire to accede to the wishes of the senate to send the bill to conference. In doing so, however, he suggested the probability that a rule would be presented to the house insisting that the senate had invaded the rights of the house to originate revenue legislation, but expressing the decision to waive that point in view of the emergency nature of the legislation.

ARMED DESPERADOES AT WORK IN QUINCY, MASS.

QUINCY, Mass., May 15—(AP)—Armed desperadoes descended on this city today, robbed two men, beating one of their victims probably fatally, and fired shots through an automobile in an unsuccessful attempt to halt an intended third victim. No arrests were made.

James P. Cahill, a milk wagon driver, was dying at the Quincy City hospital of a beating administered with blackjacks by thugs who set upon him as he was delivering milk in the Wollaston section.

Two bullets shattered the windshield of the automobile Patsy Venti was driving as he speeded away instead of halting upon the order of two highwaymen whom he encountered near the West Quincy line.

A third man reported to the police that he was held up and robbed, but departed without making his identity known.

BAPTIST BIBLE UNION SUSTAINS DR. SHIELDS

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 15.—(AP)—In a vote today on a resolution presented before the members of the Baptist Bible union in convention here, Dr. T. T. Shields, chairman of the board of trustees of Des Moines university, the trustees, won unanimous approval for their action in dismissing President H. C. Wayman and the entire faculty of the school.

The resolution was offered by Harold D. Hamilton of Minneapolis.

Both Branches Of Congress To Recess

Speaker Longworth Says the House Might Adjourn For Six Weeks or Two Months—Also the Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—Speaker Longworth said today that the house might recess for six weeks or two months after it has finished with the tariff and farm relief bills.

The speaker explained that he understood the senate might recess for three weeks or a month while its finance committee was working on the tariff bill.

Under the plan as outlined by the speaker, the house would consent to a recess by the senate and would ask for double that time for itself.

OPPONENTS TO TARIFF BILL GAIN SUPPORT IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—Forces opposing the tariff bill in general and those dissatisfied with many of the proposed rates gained further support in the house today from members of both parties, while additional pleas for tariffs above those provided in the bill were heard by the republicans of the ways and means committee.

Urging the membership to forget partisanship, Representative Ramseyer, of Iowa, a republican member of that committee, declared there were several "jokers" in the measure and that in a problem like the tariff it was "more important to be right than regular."

He discussed the rates on farm products, cement, lumber, shingles, sugar and other commodities and declared the question to be decided was whether the benefits given the farmer were outweighed by higher prices which he will have to pay as a result of increases in duties on manufactured products.

He also argued against the administrative provision, which would transfer from the customs court to the secretary of the treasury authority in determining valuation bases in reappraisement cases.

In a general criticism of the bill, Representative Crisp, of Georgia, a democratic member of the ways and means committee, declared that if the bill were passed as written it would mean waterloo for the republican party. He had little fear that it would pass in its present form, he said, contending that after it is returned from the senate its authors would not recognize it.

PROSPECT OF GOV. LONG OF LOUISIANA BEING FREED

BATON ROUGE, La., May 15—(AP)—By the slim majority of one vote, the senate court of impeachment sitting in judgment on Governor Huey P. Long was saved today from dissolution. Attacked on constitutional grounds the court for a time today was in danger of sudden demise but broke through the storm on a tide of a 20 to 19 roll call. The issue came in the vote on the governor's first demurrer holding that all charges except the first were illegal because they had been voted after the time limit of the governor's call for the extraordinary session of the legislature.

If this demurrer had been sustained the court of impeachment automatically would have been closed down and the governor freed. Now, however, the trial will proceed tomorrow unless Governor Long obtains an injunction to halt the proceedings, a course predicted in some quarters as probable.

Huntington Chauffeur Reappears In Windsor

Has Been Sought in the Investigation Into the Death of W. T. Huntington, Harvard Junior.

WINDSOR, May 15—(AP)—The mystery surrounding Claire Kennelly, 30 former chauffeur of the family of Walter Treadway Huntington, Harvard junior found dead with a bullet hole through his head in a swamp three miles from his home a week ago today, was cleared this afternoon, when for the first time in several days he appeared in town publicly.

Kennelly, sighted by newspapermen, eluded them, and a friend of his said that he had gone into seclusion to avoid being questioned, on the advice of County Detective Edward J. Hickey.

The former Huntington chauffeur was the first person sought in the investigation into the young student's death. Though reported having disappeared a week ago Tuesday night when young Huntington left home to meet death, his actions were checked by the county detective and he was eliminated. For a time, Hickey refused to deny reports that he had ordered Kennelly into seclusion, but last night he did so, and it was learned he had "advised" the chauffeur to go into hiding. It was understood that he remains at the Windsor hotel, where at least 30 newspapermen are housed, and his meals and newspapers were brought to him. Kennelley is now employed at Charter Oak park, but he still drives the "blue coach" owned by Mrs. Mary Clark Huntington, widowed mother of Walter.

Meanwhile, however, the investigation is virtually at a standstill. Hickey continued his search for the missing pistol, but without success. Coroner J. Gilbert Calhoun intimated a belief it would never be found, for he is inclined to accept Medical Examiner Henry N. Costello's homicide theory. Calhoun cannot see why the finding of the missing weapon would "clinch" the suicide theory as Hickey claims it will. At the same time, the coroner admitted he could find no motive for either murder or suicide. He will delay issuing a report of his findings until he is certain Hickey, on order of State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, rests the inquiry.

The Dirigible Carries Fuel For 130 Hours—Under Adverse Conditions the Former Flight Was Made in 111 Hours—Commander Says the Prospects Are Excellent For Good Weather—The Bare Cost of the Flight Over Was Estimated Somewhere Between $14,500 and $17,000—To Insure Comfort For the Passengers the Route Over the Azores Will Be Taken After Quitting France.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 15—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, giant dirigible, left Friedrichshafen at 5.57 a. m. (11.57 p. m. Wednesday, E. S. T.) on its second voyage to America.

In leaving, the Graf Zeppelin began a trip which it was expected would occupy between 65 and 75 hours, bringing it to Lakehurst, N. J., probably some time late Saturday. The distance was estimated at from 5,000 to 7,500 miles according to the route chosen by Dr. Hugo Eckener, the ship's master.

ZEPPELIN TO COMMUNICATE WITH NAVY DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin will communicate to the navy department its progress on its western flight to Lakehurst from Friedrichshafen, Germany beginning tomorrow, and news of the journey will be announced by the navy.

Navy officials today announced regular schedules on which radio communication will be maintained upon high frequency directly with Washington, or if necessary via the cruiser Raleigh, which is now at Antwerp. The high frequency communications will be supplemented by communications upon low frequency with Lakehurst toward the end of the voyage.

EXCELLENT WEATHER FOR GRAF ZEPPELIN'S FLIGHT

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Ger., May 15—(AP)—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin had a clear road ready across the skies of France as she lay in her hangar tonight waiting for "zero" hour for tomorrow morning on her second trip over the Atlantic to America.

The hour of departure was expected to be between 6 a. m., and 6:30 a. m., central European time (between midnight and 12:30 a. m., E. S. T.)

Dr. Hugo Eckener tonight requested passengers to be ready to enter the gondola at 5:30 a. m.

The Zeppelin commander declared that prospects were excellent for a good crossing as regards weather. To insure maximum comfort for the passengers he probably will take the route over the Azores after quitting France near the mouth of the River Loire.

He said that he expected rain over Germany and France, but that this had the advantage of assuring such "smoothness as though a Rolls Royce were speeding over a waxed floor."

Dr. Eckener referred to yesterday's misunderstanding with France over the permit to cross French territory with a chuckle, today.

Captain Lehmann said: "I am not as optimistic as Dr. Eckener concerning the time required for the flight. We have fuel for 130 hours." Former flight was made in 111 hours, under adverse conditions.

The captain said that with two tons of freight aboard, one and a half tons of provisions and drinks, a half a ton of mail and two tons of passengers, the Graf's carrying capacity was about exhausted. In addition to these the Associated Press learned there was 12 tons of benzine in the tanks. The lifting gas contained 25,000 cubic meters of Leuna gas, which, like Blau gas, was said to be non-explosive.

Captain Lehmann estimated the bare cost of the flight, one way, at somewhere between $14,500 and $17,000. This is more than covered by the $2,000 charged each of the twelve paying passengers. No figures were available on freight receipts but it was known that the carrying charge for the grand piano was $1,500, which was more than the cost of the instrument.

Wouldbe stowaways continued to bother the Zeppelin employes. George Scheurer, 17, of Freiburg, was found hiding in a big valve. Three others were arrested today. Captain Von Schiller, when asked what would be done with a stowaway discovered during the trip, replied:

"We have return tickets for each such person in the form of a parachute."

There was much discussion in technical circles as to whether the radio would work better on this trip than on the previous voyage to America. This time the ship will use wave lengths of 54 and 2319. Messages will be relayed via Norbeck, Germany, and Chatham, Massachusetts.

Dr. Eckener told the Associated Press this evening that he might decide to fly via Gibraltar. He said that some late weather reports had indicated that this route might be preferable.

WISCONSIN LEGISLATURE REPLACES STATE DRY LAW

MADISON, Wis., May 15—(AP)—The Wisconsin senate voted today 21 to 9 to repeal the state dry law, leaving only Governor Walter J. Kohler's signature necessary to wipe the measure off the statute books.

Passage of the Grob Schmidt bill providing for repeal of the state dry law by the senate followed similar action by the lower house of the legislature. The measure abolishes the state prohibition department and the dry laws but retains regulations that concern sale of liquor to minors.

Repeal of the dry enforcement law was generally expected, following a referendum on the prohibition question held in Wisconsin on April 2. At that time the voters favored repeal by a majority of 142,000. At the same time they voted to legalize the manufacture of beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol.

A handful of dry senators led by Senator Howard Teasdale, attempted to amend various phases of the Grob-Schmidt bill but their efforts were blocked by Senator Walter S. Goodland, the administration spokesman, spoke vigorously urged passage of the bill and denounced the efforts of drys to "cram the federal dry law down the throats of Wisconsin citizens and the citizens of 3 other states." Senator Thomas N. Duncan, Milwaukee socialist, led the fight for repeal of the dry law. The "wets" predicted Governor Kohler would affix his signature to the Grob-Schmidt bill without hesitancy.

EXPLANATION IN ADDRESS DELIVERED BY POPE PIUS

VATICAN CITY, May 15—(AP)—A contrast between the generally accepted conception of the fascist doctrine that the individual exists for the state and catholicism's conception of the role of the individual and family, notably in the field of education, was revealed today in an address delivered by Pope Pius.

The text of this was published in Osservatore Romano this evening directly quoting the pontiff as he spoke to pupils, alumni and the faculty of Mondragone college.

In his talk the pontiff, without mentioning the Italian government directly said:

"The state is not made to absorb, swallow and destroy the individual and family; that would be an absurdity which would be against nature seeing that the family comes first in society and in the state.

"The state, said the pope, cannot remain indifferent to the education of the masses. It should provide technical and material aid for this but only to perfect the action of the family and "to respect above all the entire divine right of the church."

TO SURVEY VETERANS AND PENSION BUREAUS

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—First steps in the direction of government reorganization have been taken by President Hoover in the creation of a special commission to survey the veterans bureau, pension bureau and other agencies dealing with government relations with former service men.

Colonel Campbell B. Hodges, military aide to the chief executive, already has begun a preliminary study of the situation and he is to be assisted by Frank Tea, director of the veterans bureau, and a representative of the interior department and he is to be assisted by Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans bureau, and a representative of the interior department under which the pension bureau is administered.

The immediate purpose of the inquiry is to determine whether more efficient service may be obtained through consolidations of division or in other administrative moves. This study will require many weeks and will be directed also to the administration of the soldiers homes and other agencies dealing with veterans of all wars.

The information thus obtained will be available for use in the general plan of government reorganization. It has been suggested that all of the affairs of the government touching the veterans of all conflicts, including the Indian wars, be brought under one division of government, under a cabinet officer or a general director.

ARRESTED FOR VIOLATION OF THE GAMBLING LAW

WATERBURY, May 15—(AP)—William P. Stapleton, of Naugatuck, was arrested on five counts of violation of the gambling law by County Detective Roland Alling today. The arrest was made on a bench warrant issued by Judge Ernest C. Simpson of the superior court at the request of State's Attorney Lawrence L. Lewis and is the result of an investigation conducted by the Watch and Ward society of Boston, working with the Connecticut Federation of Churches. Stapleton was released in bail of $5,000 for trial in the June term of the criminal superior court here.

It was agents of the Watch and Ward society hired by the Waterbury ministers' association, which a year ago secured evidence for the closing of a number of gambling places here.

The five counts against Stapleton include charges that he received bets on a horse race on April 25, that he sold 47 lottery tickets on May 1 and that he maintained a room where bets on horse races could be made on April 25, May 1 and May 2, each being the basis for a distinct charge.

JUDGE MARVIN RESERVES DECISIONS IN THREE CASES

WILLIMANTIC, May 15—Decisions were reserved in three cases, two were continued and one was declared off the docket list, at today's session of the Windham county superior court with Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin on the bench. Court adjourned at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon until next Friday morning at 9 o'clock, standard time.

Decision was reserved in the divorce action of Mary A. Vertefeuille vs. Moise Vertefeuille which was started Tuesday afternoon and completed this forenoon.

Decision was also reserved in the case of Alfred J. Goulet vs. Amede Prouix both of Brooklyn. This case was a suit for $3,000 damages, the plaintiff stating that he had purchased property, making a partial payment, from the defendant but that the property had not been turned over to him last year. Goulet, Attorney Harry E. Back and Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer testified for the plaintiff side. The defense testified in his own behalf. He was represented by Attorneys Earl Mathewson of Norwich, Elbert L. Darbie of Danielson and Samuel B. Harvey of this city.

The case of Fred Gee of Windham vs. Noel E. Millane of Middletown, a suit for damages of $200 was continued until after the short calendar session Friday. A continuance until the June term was granted in the contested divorce case of Mary Cremin vs. Daniel J. Cremin. The case of the Community Hotel corporation vs. Prague Brothers was declared off the list for the term.

The case of Abraham Silverstein vs. Jason H. Kingsley was then started. This is a suit involving the sale of a cow which the plaintiff claims was represented to him as being with calf. Silverstein, who is represented by Attorney John Harvey, said that he bought the cow for $105 on July 16, 1928 and that it was supposed to calf. He later sold the animal to Conrad Roethel of Jewett City for $135. The cow did not produce and the plaintiff had to withdraw the sale, selling the cow again later for $20. Silverstein said that he was a resident of Franklin and a cattle dealer by occupation.

Conrad Roethel and his wife, Mrs. Helen Roethel of Jewett City told of purchasing the cow from Silverstein last July and returning it to him when the terms of the sale were not fulfilled. All transactions were on a cash basis. Hyman Sedowitz and Alton Callander also testified for the plaintiff. Defense witnesses introduced by Attorney John H. King were Jason Kingsley, the defendant, Frederick K. Kingsley of Norwich, father of the defendant, and Earl Calkins of Hartford, brother-in-law. It was sought to show that no misrepresentation had been made as the cow had been served properly. Testimony was given that the cow had sustained a fall in the Silverstein truck when the machine was being driven away after the purchase of the animal. Kingsley testified that he had not said that the cow was bred by a pure-blooded bull but stated that if the cow had been bred by an Ayshire the calf would be worth $25 as soon as it was born. Following brief arguments by the attorneys, Judge Marvin announced that he would reserve his decision and ordered court adjourned until Friday morning.

Feel Like Something the Cat Brought In

If you wake up these mornings limp, weak, dopey and all let down, you don't have to look at the calendar to know that Spring is here.

What is there about spring weather that makes you feel terrible like that? Well it isn't so much the weather itself as the clogged condition of the blood that seems to go with the season. The thick blood discharges its druggy poisons into a body no longer able to fall back on the cold, bracing weather of winter.

To correct this condition start taking McCoy's Tablets. You will note an amazing difference in 30 days. These safe, pleasant tablets contain a wonderful ingredient that will bring back your pep and strength by first purifying and enriching the blood. The benefical effect stays even after you stop taking McCoy's. Get it today at Lee & Osgood's or any druggists.

When should I PAINT my HOUSE?

RIGHT NOW, sir! Not only because spring is the time for general housecleaning and redecorating, but also because it's the best time of year to paint. The paint gets many months to harden before the severe winter weather comes.

Bay State Liquid House Paint is best for resisting the ravages of weather. It also lasts longer, covers better, and takes fewer gallons per job. Come in and let us show you why.

DANIELSON

OVER $100,000 COLLECTED IN TAXES TO DATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 15—A golden flood poured into the coffers of the town of Killingly today as Tax Collector James R. Walsh rounded out his month of receiving tax money and completed the last day's work during which taxpayers may meet their assessments without paying interest charges thereon. All through his office hours today, and after they were supposed to be ended this afternoon, Collector Walsh had anywhere from half a dozen to nearly three times that many waiting to square their accounts with the town. Under the high pressure at which he was working Mr. Walsh was unable to say definitely just what the collections of the past month have totaled, but his estimate late this afternoon was between $150,000 and $165,000, out of a total of approximately $200,000 to be collected. Mr. Walsh said the money has come in very well indeed, all circumstances considered. It has been the experience of years that the balance due the town will continue to come in for weeks yet, and it is not unlikely that the total collected will be close to $190,000 within the next 30 days, though this is merely a forecast.

A death at the Backus hospital in Norwich just before noon today was that of Mrs. Lena Solomon Kohler, wife of Louis Kohler, of Hawkins street, Danielson. Mrs. Kohler became ill with erysipelas some time since, and her condition developed to such a serious stage that it was deemed advisable to entether as a patient at the Backus hospital. The body was brought here this afternoon in charge of Undertaker A. F. Wood.

Mrs. Kohler, a resident of Danielson for about a score of years, was a native of New York city, a daughter of Meyer and Bertha Solomon. She leaves in addition to her husband, two sons, Louis K. of New Brunswick, N. J., John of Danielson and a daughter, Mrs. Henry Thompson of New York. She also leaves three brothers, David Solomon of Brooklyn, N. Y., Joseph Solomon of New York city and Henry Solomon of Chicago.

This afternoon the body of Doris Melenson, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Melenson of Putnam was taken from an apartment in the Keystone block, where she died here yesterday of diphtheria, and conveyed to Putnam by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, a committal service conducted at the grave. The child came here with her mother to remain while her mother cared for a relative who was ill. The child developed a serious case of illness during her stay and died yesterday afternoon.

There is prospect just ahead of some good news for the dogs of the towns of Killingly and Brooklyn, though it may be difficult to explain it to them. However, their owners will be interested in the fact that the quarantine that has been in force on dogs in the two towns since February 25th, may be lifted during the coming week. Chauncey Genung, Hartford, special deputy of the commissioner of domestic animals, said while here this afternoon that he would confer with Commissioner Whittlesey about lifting the quarantine upon his return to Hartford this afternoon, and he hoped that the good news would be forthcoming within a few days.

To set at rest more or less discussion on the subject, it may be stated that there is no smallpox in Danielson, or anywhere in this section of Windham county, and, in addition, no case of the disease has appeared here for a number of years. Newspaper items of recent date have been misunderstood or misinterpreted and have led to a more or less widespread impression that a smallpox case had developed here within the past fortnight. In the instance referred to the patient was suffering from an entirely different disease, but one that required treatment in an isolation ward of a hospital in a nearby city, a fact that is held to account for the stories that a smallpox case had developed here, and that nothing was being said about it.

Members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., are to meet in the vestry of the Westfield Congregational church Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wilson of Antrim, N. H., are to be guests of Attorney and Mrs. Arthur G. Bill for a few days.

Information from California is to the effect that Joseph Martin, formerly at the Casino alleys here, is so seriously ill that his recovery is in doubt. He has been in failing health for months.

A meeting of Killingly grange is scheduled for next Monday evening, the program calling for the conferring of the third and fourth degrees on a class of candidates.

To prevent traffic congestion in Franklin street and the adjacent section of Dyer street, a state officer is to be on duty there Sunday mornings, and parking only at the curb will be allowed.

It was said today that some Sunday railroad excursions to Boston may be looked for during the summer season, an arrangement that will permit of baseball fans who are at work through the week seeing some big league baseball games.

Evidence that summer weather is expected some time is the placing in position for the season of the divine raft and tower at Moosup pond.

Thomas Day, to be graduated from Killingly high school next month, is to enter the Kirksville, Mo., college of surgery and osteopathy. Originally, he had planned to study at Oberlin college, in Ohio.

Captain and Mrs. Hugh Mason, after spending the winter in New Orleans, have reopened their summer home in Brooklyn. Captain Mason is a retired master mariner.

PUTNAM

LOYALTY DAY PARADE PROVED A UNIQUE FEATURE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 15—Over 5,000 people lined the streets of the city at three o'clock this afternoon to view the greatest juvenile event the city of Putnam has ever known, the Loyalty day parade which was sponsored by the Putnam Rotary club as a feature of Boys' week.

Banners, gala costumes of assorted colors, horrors, floats and clown bands featured the parade of the boys and girls. The parade formed at Putnam high school. The emblem of Rotary International, a geared wheel found in the Rotary colors of blue and gold mounted on an automobile headed the long column of marching children.

St. Mary's Boy Scout band of thirty-two pieces under the direction of Rev. U. O. Belleross, constituted the musical escort of the procession. The young musicians, an organized body scarcely a year old, amazed the mass of onlookers as they passed through Bugbee square marching to the tunes of the famous march king, John Philip Sousa. The first in the line were the various troops of St. Mary's Boy Scouts, headed by scoutmasters and patrol leaders. The girls of St. Mary's parochial school each attired in the costumes of Brittany in France formed a beautiful picture as they passed in review. Another group of parochial school children, mostly girls, equally as beautiful in their gala colored uniforms of black and gold, were headed by an older girl nattily dressed in a coat of mail, symbolizing the departure of Joan of Arc, the French heroine of Orleans.

The student body of the Israel Putnam school was represented in the second division. The youngsters of the primary department of the school clearly exhibited their ardent love for America's idol, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, since nearly every bicycle had been improvised into a float, replicas of the trans-Atlantic flier's plane "Spirit of St. Louis" One very noticeable incident was the fact that each youth had a different concention of Colonel Lindbergh's ship. Gaily decorated scooters, bicycles and wagons were in this division.

Even "Old Dobbin" had a place in the juvenile event, when two of the last of the dapple greys were called upon to haul tattered and battered one horse shays.

The Israel Putnam clown band, one that would have caused P. T. Barnum to lament as he gazed upon it, delighted the crowds as they sent their chords and dischords echoing and reechoing throughout the city.

The Smith street school presented a unique exhibition of horrors. Boys and girls hidden beneath the cloaks of lions, tigers, elephants and various other members of the jungle family brought hosts of applause from the crowds.

The Putnam high school led by a group of "Toonerville Folk," complete except for the trolley car (and this was missing because the Connecticut Company was unable to provide) drew laughter and cheers from the lined sidewalks. The various classes were represented, each holding aloft their colors.

Last but not least, came the State Trade school. A float containing various implements of the vocational trades taught at the school were represented on the large truck. The entire trade courses were present, even to a mason energetically building a brick wall. Each department in the institution turned out strong. Masons with their trowels and levels, carpenters with their saws and hammer, machinists with their wrenches, electricians armed with their implements of learning all took part in the celebration.

The line of march was from the high school to the center of the city, to Main street to Bridge, to Woodstock avenue, to Providence and back to the high school. State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford, William E. Wheaton, John M. Dean and County Secretary L. Edwin Hill of Danielson were to act as judges. Prizes were to be awarded to the group presenting the parsmount exhibitions.

The parade was one of the greatest demonstrations of loyalty ever witnessed in Putnam and all due credit must be forwarded to the members of the Putnam Rotary club whose efforts made the event so highly successful.

The emancipation of the dog, expected to come about today by the lifting of the three months quarantine, was threatened this afternoon when Deputy Chauncey E. Genung of the state department of domestic animals came to Putnam today to investigate conditions, following the mad dog rampages through Thompson and Woodstock, reported early this week.

The most recent rabid dog scare came last Thursday when Dog Warden Joseph E. Blanchard of North Grosvenordale shot and killed a suspicious dog, which since has been proven rabid.

On Sunday morning the city of Putnam was blessed with a perfectly normal baby mare, a dapple gray, the offspring of one of the recently purchased team of horses in the service of the highway department. While the mother of the mare is doing well she will be continued on the disabled list of the city street department for several weeks. "Jim" the faithful servant of the city department, who upon the arrival of the new pair of grays drew a sentence of death, miraculously escaped the execution of the sentence, when Supt. Frederick Dumas of the highway department recalled him to service.

Mayor Richard and the entire highway commission were "all a-twitter" when Eugene Migneault, chairman of the commission, informed the city fathers that they had cleverly procured three horses for the very low price of two.

Alderman Migneault stated this morning that the newcomer will receive the best of care until she reaches maturity and in the meantime an effort will be made to have the common council pass a resolution providing for a sum of money to be raised to defray the expenses that would be incurred to stage a public christening of "Baby Dapple."

Former Water Commissioner Ernest B. Kent has returned from St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester where he has been a patient for the past five weeks. Mr. Kent has greatly improved in health.

Operations for the repair of Farrows street were launched this morning by the city highway department. The street is to be repaved with gravel and will be oiled for the first time this year.

CENTERBROOK CONTRACTOR TO ERECT PUTNAM BANK BUILDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 15.—President Byron D. Bugbee announced this afternoon that Pieretti Bros. of Centerbrook, Conn., specialists in the construction of modern bank buildings, have been awarded the contract to erect the proposed granite and steel fire-proof modernistic banking house of the Cargill Trust company. The city's newest civic addition will be erected on the site of the present wooden building known as the O'Leary block. A. Stanley Miller of Brooklyn, N. Y., is the architect who designed the proposed structure. During his career Mr. Miller has designed over 400 bank buildings.

The new edifice is to be located in one of the most desirable business spots in the city. It will have a frontage of 37 feet on Main street and will have a depth of 100 feet, running east. The base is to be of red Westerly granite and the walls above this line will be of gray granite and will render a most delightful color effect. Entrance to the lobby will be gained through a vestibule entering off Main street. When completed the lobby and vestibule will be a work of art that may be compared with any banking house in the country. When a patron of the bank steps from the street into the vestibule he will walk upon a floor inlaid with imported travestine. The interior of the vestibule will be of marble, as will be the recesses for the radiators. All wood panelling in the lobby is to be of American walnut. The president's room and officers quarters are to be located on the right as one enters the lobby. On the left there is to be a spacious ladies' room and lavatory. Adjoining will be tellers' counters and windows and work space. In the rear will be a posting room and the safe deposit department. Aisle of the vault is a passage leading to three coupon booths and one coupon room. The vault is to be of modern reinforced steel construction with a heavy vault door. The floor in the vault is to be of marble. The vault is to be protected by the latest type of electrical sound protection. There will be 500 new and up-to-date safe deposit boxes installed for the use of customers. The semi-low counter which in every way tends to increase the efficiency in the handling of funds on the part of the teller and affords the patrons privacy in transacting financial business will grace the interior of the main banking room of the Cargill's Trust company's new home.

At the front of the building will be a mezzanine in which will be a directors room and a similar floor will be constructed in the rear of the building, which will contain a large posting room, a fireproof vault and a ladies' rest room and lavatory. Every possible detail to afford convenience to the banking patrons is contained in the building and when the Cargill Trust company formally dedicates its new structure Putnam will have a modern business block that will be surpassed by none. Work on the project will be launched on or about June 3. Preliminary engagements will consist of the razing of the O'Leary block, which, it is expected, will require about 12 days. The foundation for the new banking house will be started within a few days after.

PROTECTING THE CHILDREN.

For the purpose of giving protection to the school children of Philadelphia patrols numbering 4,000 pupils have been maintained near 185 schools. They have given valuable warnings to the pupils and have unquestionably been the means of preventing many accidents. It has been the cause of much satisfaction to parents and auto drivers to have some such restraint placed upon the school children who are in a habit of running into the street thoughtlessly regardless of what the traffic conditions might be.

The board of education is much in sympathy with the safety-patrol idea, but has received an opinion from its counsel that the board, being without authority to maintain such a patrol, would be liable for damages in case of an accident involving the patrol. This has resulted in the termination of a safety service that has been well rendered for several years, one which drivers as well as the children had come to rely upon, and it is not surprising that there is a move underway by civic organizations to so handle the situation that the patrols may resume.

It is a natural feeling that the withdrawal of such patrols will mean an increase in the death and injury toll among the school children. The Automobile club of Philadelphia takes this view and expresses the belief that as long as the safety patrols remain on the sidewalks at the schools to direct their fellow pupils they are legal.

The situation is evidently one which will be wrestled with and debated before the patrols are resumed, but there cannot fail to be recognized that there is a general recognition of merit in the plan and full regard for the good that it has accomplished since being put in operation.

It is gratifying to note that sentiment runs strongly in behalf of that additional safety which the patrols can provide and that there is a desire on the part of the public in general for the proper protection of the school children. When children are placed as monitors or members of patrols to guide the rest of the children there is impressed upon all of them the importance of keeping out of the street unless conditions are safe. Safety is thus promoted in the street much the same as good deportment is obtained in the school yards under similar arrangements.

UNCLAIMED FUNDS.

Although there is always a wild scramble for money, and some people are willing to do most anything to get it, there isn't always the same amount of effort to keep it.

Earning $48,000,000 means considerable effort; getting subscriptions for such an amount is even more difficult, and yet there is in the United States treasury such a sum which seems to have been overlooked or forgotten by the purchasers of Liberty bonds. They had the money at one time to make their subscriptions for the war loans and they received bonds calling for interest and the principle. They have received some of the interest, perhaps all of it, but the bonds have been called for redemption and no effort has been made to get their money. It is now drawing no interest but any interest due and the principle will be paid by Uncle Sam whenever the bonds are presented.

It doesn't make the government mad that the holders of such a large sum leave it at Washington without interest, but it is recognized that it represents poor business acumen on their part.

The whole story of these bonds will never be known but it is highly probable that a large part of them will never be presented for payment. Many have been destroyed in various ways, some have been lost and may be found some day, others have been intentionally torn up and there are those which have been forgotten by those who are not accustomed to such securities. Some probably do not know they have been called for redemption. It is in keeping with previous experience with government bondholders. It supplies cheap money for government use, but it too often represents losses by those who can ill afford to lose the money.

CUTTING VISA FEES.

Progress is being made by this country in negotiating the reduction of the visa fees among European countries. For a number of years there has been a charge of $10 for placing on the passports of American travelers. The fee was put up during the war period and has never been reduced until this country sought to other have it abolished or reduced under a reciprocal agreement.

This country makes a distinction between the fees charged immigrants and the visa fees. It insists that there are services rendered in connection with the immigration bureau which justify the $10 charge, but when it comes to tourists the situation is different and it is the visa fee which hits the American tourist in Europe.

It wasn't solely upon entering one European country that the visa fee was collected, but every time a border was crossed, and a person making an extensive trip about Europe was obliged to pay a substantial amount by the time he was through touring Europe. That has been relieved to some extent as the result of efforts made by this country. The latest addition to the list of countries reducing the fee to $5 is France. That country, like some of the others, has appreciated the advantage which a lowered fee would have in attracting visitors.

France is the country to which all tourists go, but it figures that the lower rates will be advantageous, even though it is estimated that it will mean a saving to the American tourists and business men of about $2,000,000. It is natural to infer, however, that if this saving is made in such fees it will be spent in other channels before leaving the country, with other millions added.

With one exception France is the last of the large countries to reduce or abolish the fee. Italy has removed it entirely. Great Britain is not ready to reduce the fee for tourists without having immigrants included. Hence the fee remains at $10 and even those passing through England to the continent are required to pay this charge. Action by France may have its influence upon the British.

SNAKE HUNTING.

Snake bites are the subject of more or less joking, but it is no joke when a person runs afoul of a rattler or some other equally venomous snake and becomes inoculated with the poison. It is a case then of getting an antidote as quickly as possible or giving up hope.

Regardless of the understanding which the professional snake handlers have of the habits of rattlers and their danger they occasionally get caught and sacrifice their lives. This is shown by the experience of Charles B. Snyder, a snake hunter near New York. He had gone in quest of rattlers, had located and pinned one to the ground with a forked stick preparatory to capturing it when he was struck by the mate which had not come under his observation. Although a companion had brought an antidote in case of such trouble, they were so far apart that his cries were not heard. He was obliged to resort to heroic first measures and hastened as quickly as possible to a hospital. There antidotes were given but it was too late and death followed.

Raising poisonous snakes for the purpose of making serums to deal with just such cases is a profitable business in some places. It has been found that they will invariably meet the requirements and save life, but they must be applied at once. Delays are dangerous and it cannot fail to be appreciated that each and every snake hunter ought to have such serum in his own personal equipment when going after dangerous snakes. That one of the party, who may be out of hearing, has it doesn't do him any good. He might as well be in another county. His needs are immediate and unless they can be served his death is a matter of only a little time.

Some will never understand why anyone should want to go after snakes. It is as much a puzzle to them as it is to find a reason for plunging into the frozen north with all the hardships when everything comfortable might be had at home. It is a case of everyone to his liking. Love for adventure takes curious turns, but each instance of snake hunters being killed by snakes emphasizes the need of more adequately meeting the peril of such expeditions.

NEW YORK CRIME.

Most people will be inclined to admit that the job of police commissioner of New York city is a big one. Attention was directed to it a short time ago when a change was made in commissioners. Commissioner Warren gave way to Commissioner Whalen and for a few days there were indications that not only were conditions there going to be better but the much discussed Rothstein case would be cleared up. The police were told they must fill their collars, must reduce crime, must use the night stick if necessary, must clean out the criminals. It looked as if there was to be a thorough housecleaning in the police department that would be reflected in better conditions, less crime and less murders.

Whatever was expected it doesn't appear that it has been realized. The Rothstein case hasn't been cleaned up and it may never be, but other conditions appear to have been relieved by the change and the flourish with which it was made. Those who have been making a check-up on conditions point to the fact that in the first three months of the Whalen commissionership there were 80 murders in New York while there were but 73 in the Warren control for the corresponding period of last year.

Whether that is a fair comparison or not, it serves to direct attention to the fact that the housecleaning that was advertised hasn't taken place to the extent of reducing the murders, and where there is an increase of such it can be expected that other crimes of violence will prevail to as great if not greater degree. This creates the impression that the bettering of crime conditions in New York city rests upon something more than a change of commissioners.

THE WORLD AT 14

"It's fine," Ernestine declared, throwing down an armful of books into a chair from which promptly cascaded to the floor. "It's certainly fine getting back to school again and everything! I think we ought to pay more attention to education and as for myself I can see where such a long summer vacation is practically a waste of time.

"Why, do you know I hadn't laid eyes on Bud and George since school closed last spring. Not of course that I wanted to see them any more than the girls, only I just happened to think of their names first when I spoke. I certainly was surprised at not hearing from Bud all summer because it seemed to me it would not have been much work to fill out a picture postal from the seashore where his family went.

"I certainly wouldn't have paid much attention to a card from him if I had found it in the mail this summer and probably at first I would not have recalled the name—only it was funny he didn't send one! Celine got a card from him in July and she ran right over to show it to me. Perfectly silly! Only she always was jealous after Bud and George the school football games and took me home from some parties. As though boys mattered so much!

"I had no idea I missed seeing the teachers and everybody so much this summer. Though even when we were on our trip down the St. Lawrence I kept remembering what fun we had last spring, when ud and George and Margaret and I used to drive around together. I often think trips would be nicer if the people that we really liked awfully well could be along with us.

Now, if Bud's family had happened to decide on a St. Lawrence trip instead of the seashore and had happened to take the same boat that my family took, what a splendid time we would have had! Bud really is congenial except when he gets conceited and uppish, and I can tell you I won't stand that sort of thing.

"It's remarkable how people you've been with such a lot can come to mean simply nothing to you. Why, by August Bud was just a faint memory and I practically never thought of him at all, except maybe to wonder what I could have found attractive in him. Perhaps that was because I was thrown a lot with really grown-up men while I was visiting Aunt Helen, who is so popular. Men certainly do make young boys like Bud seem perfectly foolish if you are mad at the boys and sort of compare them.

"When I went back to school last week I simply never thought of Bud at all. I was just crazy to see the girls and some of the teachers and to find out about my classes and it was utterly uncalled for when Celine told around that I nearly knocked her down trying to say hello to Bud.

"I just gasped for breath when Bud came along and said hello. I pretended at first that I didn't hear him because I don't believe when a boy is at all conceited in letting him get away with it. But the second time he spoke I smiled at him brightly, the way Aunt Helen does when she is thinking about something else, and said hello to him. Then I smiled again to show him I was just being polite and cordial and he walked clear down the hall with me talking just as though nothing had happened.

"He said gee, but it had been dandy swimming in the ocean and he'd learned a new stroke he'd teach me some time. So I guess he isn't mad any more. Celine saw us and was too disagreeable for anything. All of us know that Celine is perfectly crazy about him, though I don't expect he'll pay the slightest attention to her, so she might as well pick out somebody else to be interested in.

"I'm perfectly positive Bud's going to ask me to the football games again this fall. Won't that be glorious? It's so much more important sitting with a boy than with just a bunch of the girls. Though of course it doesn't make any real difference to me and I can have exactly as good a time with girls as with a boy. It'll serve Celine right after her being so snippy and everything!

"I never realized before how much and school this year is going to be. An education is certainly important and school this year is going to be just grand. Did I show you this cute snapshot of Bud? No, Bud's the one at the end—that's just George you're looking at."—Chicago News.

"Doctor, Should I Worry?"

By J. Victor Greenebaum, M. D., Cincinnati, Ohio.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

At a recent meeting of the American Medical association, a group of child specialists from al parts of the United States were informally discussing the problem of telephone questions from anxious mothers. It appeared that all the doctors present were similarly afflicted. An informal straw ballot of the question most often asked resulted in "Doctor, Should I Worry?" receiving the highest vote.

The telephone is undoubtedly one of man's and especially the doctor's greatest boons, but on the other hand its use is also much abused. Let us list a few of the most frequent daily queries:

"Johnny has fever and a rash. Is that anything to worry about?"

"Mary has a pain in her stomach and I gave her castor oil without relief. Did I do right?"

"Paul cried last night so we gave him paregoric and he is still sleeping. Do you think you ought to see him?"

"Billy has an earache, which is worse since we put oil in the ear. What more should we do?"

"Susie has had a cough all week and made a funny noise after the last spell. What do you think she has?"

"Baby vomited its milk this morning. What do you think is wrong?"

These are not intelligent or proper questions, although they are often asked by intelligent people, as each condition described might mean the beginning of a serious condition. For example, the first question about the rash and fever might indicate conditions ranging from a light intestinal rash to a severe and serious illness such as scarlet fever. Similarly, the other questions might indicate appendicitis, abscess of the ear, mastoiditis, whooping cough, diphtheria, or a severe stomach upset.

Doctors prefer to be asked what the mother should do in the majority of cases until he can arrange to see the child rather than to pass on the procedures already carried out. Mothers may derive a tremendous satisfaction from a pleasant "No," to the question, "Doctor, Should I Worry?" but they would be prompt to criticize the comforting doctor for neglecting the child if conditions later on became serious.

No detailed telephonic description of a child's illness is as scientifically accurate as a careful physical examination by the doctor. Telephone questions and reports in general after visits may be cheaper in the end, and also may prevent much needless suffering and heartache.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—At midnight, Oct. 21, 1922, a ruling for the guidance of government officials by Attorney General Daugherty went into effect. It required American ships to be dry everywhere, and even foreign ships to be utterly arid in American territorial waters.

The ruling, said Albert D. Lasker, then chairman of the shipping board, proved Daugherty to be "the greatest lawmaker of all time."

"Moses made only the Red sea dry," was Lasker's ironic comment, speaking that night at a banquet in Chicago. But he added that the ruling was the greatest blow the American merchant marine could have sustained.

Within 72 hours after its purport was known, he added, there were 54 cancellations of reservations for a Mediterranean cruise the board was arranging, one man who backed out being a New York banker who was prepared to pay $28,000 for his accommodations on the ship.

Germ of the Treaty

Right there lay the origins of the ship liquor treaties, scope of which now is to be tested for the first time in arbitration with Canada of the I'm Alone sinking case.

And speaking at the same Chicago banquet, Mr. Daugherty said his ruling merely was an answer to a "naked, legal question."

"I was obliged to follow the law," he said.

That ruling forbade sale or transportation of liquor on American ships anywhere and on foreign ships within American waters.

Yet two years later, in 1924, the ban on foreign ships had been lifted by treaty. They were permitted to bring in liquor stocks under seal. Ship bars could reopen for business as soon as these vessels were an hour's steaming off shore on their homeward voyages.

Rum Row's Day

Obviously, the advantages for the United States in the ship liquor treaties lay outside the field of competition for passenger traffic between American and foreign liners.

It is to be recalled that "Rum Row," just a bit more than three miles off New York, then was in its heyday. It vanished under the authority given by the liquor treaties to search or seize foreign rum running craft up to the distance a suspected craft could steam in an hour off shore.

In view of that circumstance, considerable interest is going to attach to arguments advanced in arbitration of the I'm Alone case. What will be said to support Secretary Stimson's contention that advantages of the treaty for the United States would be "illusory" unless it included the right of hot pursuit beyond treaty limits?

Suppose the arbiters find against that doctrine? Would the United States withdraw from the treaty? Or, vice versa, will Canada withdraw if her view is not sustained?

It would take only 30 days to end the pact in either case. And would "Rum Row" reappear if it was denounced? A lot seems to hinge on that arbitration.

The Rev. Jabez S. Swan, Revivalist

(From The Norwich Bulletin, Nov. 20, 1884.)

The Rev. Jabez S. Swan, renowned revivalist, died at his home in New London in the 54th year of his age. He has been confined to his house by a protracted illness for the past six months. Elder Swan was one of the best known men of his day, not only throughout New England, but in nearly every state of the union, where he engaged in religious revivals.

He began his pastoral career in Stonington, Conn., and thence went to Norwich, N. Y. After a successful career in other places he became, at different times, the pastor of several Baptist churches in New London. (He was also pastor of the Central Baptist church of Norwich in the 1880s—Editor.)

He was a man of real genius, and to the gifts of genius he added the impetus of industry and indefatigable energy. Endowed with an iron constitution, and encouraged by an inflexible purpose to do good to his fellow man, he preached and exhorted and traveled day and night with his great heart aflame with the word of God.

His voice and manner were all his own. No preacher in his time possessed such a voice, so full of inflection and intonation. It was a clarion, and yet he could moderate it to expressions of the most exquisite tenderness. For over half a century he labored for the salvation of others, driving about from town to town, serving his Lord. Who has now called the faithful worker home.

(From The Norwich Bulletin, Nov. 25, 1884.)

The Huntington street Baptist church, New London, was filled Monday afternoon on the occasion of the funeral of the late Rev. Jabez S. Swan. Nearly every Baptist clergyman in the county attended, and several were present from other portions of the state. The services continued for two hours and were of an impressive character. The casket containing the remains of the once great revivalist was borne into the church by the Rev. Messrs. Taft of Quaker Hill, Allen and Smith of Groton, Lester of Lyme and D. D. Lyon of Montville.

The remains were placed on the catafalque in front of the altar, and the funeral service was opened by the singing of an anthem by the choir. The scriptures were read by the Rev. P. A. Nordell, and prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Palmer of Stonington.

After an anthem was sung, the Rev. Dr. Palmer delivered the funeral discourse. It was a masterly effort and was listened to with great earnestness.

At the close of the discourse prayer was offered by the Rev. J. P. Brown, and the services closed with benediction pronounced by the Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the church. The remains were buried in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Peter Rabbit Makes a New Acquaintance

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When meeting strangers be polite;
It often saves both pain and fright.
—Old Mother Nature.

It was over at the Smiling Pool that Peter Rabbit received one of the greatest surprises of his life. Peter thought he knew all the water folk. Of course, he didn't. He didn't begin to know all of them, because there are many, very many, who do not visit the Smiling Pool or the pond of Paddy the Beaver, or even the Big River. But Peter knew Mr. and Mrs. Quack, Beauty the Wood Duck and Mrs. Wood Duck, Mr. and Mrs. Black Duck, Honker the Goose and his flock, Teeter the Sandpiper, Rattles the Kingfisher, Longbill the Woodcock and Redwing the Blackbird, all of whom are found on or near the water. He saw all these feathered folk every spring and some of them every fall. So whenever he visited the Smiling Pool, the Laughing Brook or the pond of Paddy the Beaver he expected to see some one of these folk. There were two others that he often saw, too, and these were Longlegs the Great Blue Heron and Qwack the Night Heron. But he never expected to see anyone else among the feathered folk.

So perhaps you can imagine his surprise when one spring morning as he sat peeping out from behind a bunch of grass to see a total stranger swim out from the Laughing Brook into the Smiling Pool. The stranger seemed to be very much at home on the water. It made no attempt to come ashore. At first Peter took it to be a half-grown Duck.

"I wonder where that young Duck came from?" said Peter to Grandfather Frog, who happened to be close by on a green lilypad.

Grandfather Frog looked up. "I don't see any young Duck," said he.

"Then there must be something wrong with your eyes, Grandfather Frog," declared Peter. "There he is swimming over where the Laughing Brook leaves the Smiling Pool."

"Chug-a-rum!" exclaimed Grandfather Frog. "Chug-a-rum! That doesn't look like a Duck to me. When did you ever see a Duck with a bill like that?"

Peter looked very intently and a queer expression stole over his face. "I never have seen a Duck with a bill like that," he confessed. "Instead of being broad and flat, this fellow's bill is pointed. But he swims like a Duck and if it were not for that bill he would look like a Duck. Do you know who he is, Grandfather Frog?"

"I wonder where that young Duck came from?" said Peter to Grandfather Frog

Just then the stranger swam over until he was right under where Peter was sitting. "Hello, Grandfather Frog!" said the stranger.

"Hello, Dipper!" replied Grandfather Frog. "What are you doing here?"

"Just looking around," replied the stranger.

Just then Peter Rabbit poked his head out from behind the grass. In the twinkling of an eye the stranger had disappeared. Peter sat up and stared. There was no trace of the stranger anywhere. "Where has he gone?" cried Peter.

"Down," replied Grandfather Frog. "That is where Dipper the Grebe always goes when he is startled."

"What did you say his name is?" inquired Peter.

"Dipper the Grebe," replied Grandfather Frog. "You've made a new acquaintance, Peter. When you get to know him better, you'll find him a very interesting little fellow."

"And my hands were whiter and softer after doing the dishes than before! Now I wouldn't think of doing dishes with anything but Lux—Lux makes it so much easier to be both home-maker and champion."

SETTLEMENT IN AUTOMOBILE SUIT BEFORE CASE REACHES THE JURY

Settlements in favor of the two plaintiffs, which were said to be in substantial amounts, were made in the superior court here Wednesday before the cases reached the jury in the suits of John Halpern and Jerry Northrup of New London against Caroline Berardi, also of that city. Halpern sued for $1,000 for damage to his automobile and Northrup, who was a passenger in Halpern's car sued for $5,000 for personal injuries.

The court case arose from an accident on Ocean avenue, near Gardner avenue, on the night of Oct. 8, 1928 when the Halpern and Carolina cars collided as they were traveling in opposite directions.

Before the case started an offer of settlement was made Attorney Morris Lubchansky, counsel for the plaintiffs and when the trial had proceeded some ways he made another offer at a smaller figure. Both offers were rejected by the defendant, for whom Attorney D. S. Pelgrift was counsel, but the ultimate settlement figure was more than both the settlement offers together, it was stated.

Plaintiff witnesses were Joseph Sullivan, Dr. E. John Satti and Jerry Northrup, who were heard after Mr. Halpern testified.

The plaintiff rested at about 11 o'clock and the first witnesses called for the defendant were Elwood Bailey and Thomas J. Leyden, two state policemen. They were followed on the stand by the defendant. After her testimony, a recess was taken and after conference the attorneys stated to the court that a settlement had been agreed upon so that the case would not go to the jury.

Guest Rider Brings Suit

After the noon recess attorneys in the next case assigned went into a lengthy conference and it was later reported that there seemed to be good prospects of a settlement. This is the $10,000 suit of Joseph Sinorina against Frank Paparella, both of this city, for injuries which Sinorina sustained in an automobile accident on Labor day, 1927, when he was a guest rider in Paparella's car. The accident happened on a road in Lyme. Judge Arthur F. Libby is counsel for the plaintiff and Attorney Pelgrift counsel for the defendant.

West Main Street Accident Suit

Late in the afternoon trial was started before Judge Brown and a jury in the suit for $5,000 damages brought by Carmella Barbetta of this city against Frank Hertz, also of Norwich. Brown & James are attorneys for the plaintiff with Tuttle & Day appearing for the defendant. The trial was begun after conferences between the attorneys had failed in reaching a settlement.

Mrs. Barbetta, who lives at 561 West Main street, sues Hertz because of injuries she received when struck and knocked down by a motor truck belonging to the defendant at about 7:15 on the evening of Oct. 18, 1928 on West Main street near Dunham street. She was crossing West Main street at the time.

It is alleged that she sustained concussion of the brain with injury to her left shoulder and back in consequence of which she is suffering from headaches and dizziness and is unable to work.

ROTARY LUNCHEON MEETING AT THE BACKUS HOSPITAL

About 37 members of the Norwich Rotary club were luncheon guests of the Backus hospital Wednesday noon and were royally welcome by the hostess, Miss Lucy B. Abbott, superintendent. A very delightful luncheon menu was served by the student nurses of the institution who made a very pleasing appearance in their natty blue and white uniforms.

President Edward W. Jewett presided at the meeting with Thomas E. Burdick as the songleader. During the musical part of the program there was a delightful chorus number by the nurses as well as a duet by Mrs. Harriet Frisbie Mitchell and James L. Case. Members of the Backus hospital auxiliary were introduced by James L. Case. The usual luncheon fee amounting to $37 was collected and turned over to Miss Abbott for the ambulance fund.

At the conclusion of the luncheon Arnold Smith, in charge of the program for May introduced Miss Abbott. Miss Abbott welcomed the Rotarians, thanked them for their gift and then gave a very interesting talk on the hospital work, what it is accomplishing and what the present needs are.

While discussing the growth of the W. W. Backus hospital, Miss Abbott brought out the fact that during 1927 the institution cared for 11 per cent more patients than the preceding year.

SUPT. L. B. ABBOTT

In 1928 the increase over 1927 was 16 per cent and for the first seven months of the current year an increase of 14 per cent for the same period in 1928 is shown. Continuing with her talk, the superintendent spoke as follows:

At the W. W. Backus hospital we have problems that are not found at many other hospitals. (1) Chronic patients in most states are cared for at institutions run especially for them. These patients include incurable cancer, celebral hemmorhage, chronic arthritis and tuberculosis, may be chronic cases.

We have some patients with these conditions at the hospital and at some times there are as many as three tuberculosis cases waiting to get into the sanatorium. At the present we have five patients that have been here over 1 1-2 years. The general hospital is not the proper place to care for them for one reason, the curable patients coming and going has a very depressing effect on the chronic patients.

There was a bill before the recent session of the legislature allowing towns to combine in building alms houses with an infirmary to care for this type of patients. I hope that before long there will be a bill passed compelling towns to do this.

Another department we point with pride to is our isolation department, which most general hospitals do not maintain. If we had refused to take smallpox cases and people who had been contacts it would have probably cost the town $1,000 to put the old pest house into a livable condition to say nothing of maintaining it for 4 months. While we have had smallpox cases we have also had tuberculosis, diphtheria, erysipilis and meningitis cases, taken care of by the same nurses, who eat and sleep in the nurse's home and live the same life they would have lived had they been on the regular wards.

One side of the hospital administration that always interests the public is the financial side. The rates at the hospital are very low, even the private rooms paying less than the per capita cost per day, which was $5.33 last year. We carry about $13,000 in unpaid bills on our books continually. However, 63 per cent of our income is from patients while 31 per cent is from endowments and the remaining 6 per cent from state subsidy. We are very fortunate in having our endowments as it enables us to pay our running expenses. Nothing, however, is left for improvements which we will need in the future. When I take you around I will show you improvements made in the past five years and also call your attention to improvements that are needed. Chief among them is a new elevator in the administration building, a new laundry and kitchen, and new operating rooms. It is not buildings and equipment that we are interested in but the service that can be rendered by these.

We are not only interested in the constant improvement of the facilities for the care of the sick and injured but in the building up of other services in the community. That nurses should not only receive the best nursing education that we can give them but that they should catch a vision of becoming a part of the community in which they live, to enter the civic life of their town or city as well as give efficient nursing service.

Hospitals all over the country are considering the part that they can take in preventive medicine. Dr. Doane, past president of the American Hospital association, recently said, "year by year preventive medicine must stem the current of public ignorance or antagonism in regard to the rules of right living and working." A department for the prevention of diseases should find place in the organization of our hospitals in which curvative and preventive medical principals are taught to meet this need for preventive medicine.

The American College of Surgeons is advocating health inventoriums. This means providing the facilities for physicians to give their private patients periodic health examination instead of going out of town for it. If these are done at the hospital the doctor can have the aid of laboratory X-ray and apparatus which they do not have in their own offices.

Besides health inventoriums there is need in Norwich for parental clinics. Three patients from one district in Norwich in six weeks time died from the complications of pregnancy. This need not have happened if they had been under a doctor's care. I do not know that anyone has arrived at the maternal death rate in Norwich, but for the United States as a whole it is higher than in any other country in the world where records of births and deaths are accurately kept. In 1920 the death rate was 19.4 in the United States compared with 4.6 in Denmark. I know of no other way to educate these people to the advantages of doctor's supervision, except by clinics.

The United Workers as well as the hospital workers hope that in the future public health nurses may make their headquarters at the hospital, holding the well baby and tuberculosis clinic here. By grouping our sick patients, developing our preventive medicines and with the help of the public health nurse's work we shall be able to make the hospital the health center of the community, which it serves.

At the conclusion of her talk Miss Abbott was given a hearty vote of appreciation and President Jewett expressed the thanks and pleasure of the club for the courtesy shown.

Following the meeting the members of the club were shown over the institution, inspecting all wards and equipment with the exception of the isolation ward.

Lions and Contact Club.

This was the second time this week that organizations of Norwich business men have been luncheon guests at the hospital for on Monday, which was the annual national hospital day, the Lions club and the Contact club held their noon luncheon meeting at the hospital.

Miss Abbott addressed the men upon national hospital week and the needs of the hospitals and the club members were taken on an inspection tour of the institution.

At the business session of the clubs, President K. K. Markoff of the Lions presided and the club members made up a purse of about $26 which was donated to the hospital and was presented by J. Fred Fleming treasurer of the Contact club.

Albert Brend of the Glen Woolen mills was the speaker for the meeting, giving an instructive talk upon the subject, The Marketing of Fine Woolens.

MAD DOG RAN FROM LEBANON TO THOMPSON

C. H. Standish, who is dog warden of the town of Lebanon, has been engaged since last Wednesday in trying to trace the course of a mad dog which ran from Lebanon to Thompson where it was killed Friday. Mr. Standish has been pursuing his search, accompanied by C. B. Genung, deputy commissioner of the state department.

The dog was a shepherd which left the farm of Stanley Yurczyk on the lower edge of the town and reached Thompson by some course which has not been determined. The animal had been suspected of having rabies before he broke his leash last Wednesday afternoon of the mad run which terminated at Thompson. So far no damage has been reported to either of the officials, but an analysis of the head has proved that the animal had a genuine case of rabies.

WILDCATS ARE FORCED TO HIT HARD TO BEAT TECH IN LOOSE GAME

The Academy won a wild and woolly game from Chapman Tech Wednesday afternoon at the campus and thereby established themselves as league champions for the fifth consecutive year. The score was 13 to 11. It was the undefeated Academy team's eleventh straight win.

All Kinds of Baseball

For those who enjoy plenty of hard hitting and loose playing yesterday's game was their dish. A total of 28 hits, including six doubles and a home run came from the opposing bats, of which the Academy made 15. Eight errors, five for the Academy and two more for Tech were also chalked up but there were probably as many more of the kind that don't go into the scorebook.

The Academy played in their worst form of the year but they were able to make up by hard hitting what they tossed away by loose work afield. Louie Green was nominated by Coach Brigham to start the game but he only lasted two and one-third innings, retiring in favor of Butsy Weisgraber. Green was in nowhere the same form as he showed against Westerly last week and with his support wabbly behind him, had it pretty tough. Weisgraber also was a bit shaky but managed to stick it out.

After the fourth inning the team pulled together and gave Butsy brilliant support. Chubby Gibbs and Alec Arico were the fielding brilliants. Arico made a beautiful catch off Johns in the sixth and another, on a foul in the fourth, off Geer, and Gibbs pulled off another beauty off Bucko in the ninth, the latter a backhanded bare-hand spear in short left. Chubby had to go off his feet to make the putout.

Fagan Clouts Homer

Gibbs and Buck LaCroix had the most hits, three apiece, but Red Fagan shared the hitting honors of the day with them when he poked one of Capt. Norman Geer's tosses through the gate in left field in the fifth for a home run, scoring Buck LaCroix ahead of him. These, the Academy's last runs, really decided the game, as succeeding events proved.

Geer started the game for Chapman Tech and somehow or other managed to last until there was one out in the eighth with two men on bases. Hewitt finished and got by without a man reaching base on him. Geer should have been removed long before he was for he was no puzzle at all for the Wildcats.

Tech got one in the second on Snoesky's hit, two stolen bases and an overthrow of home by LaCroix. The Academy came back with four in their half on singles by Arico, Cummings and LaCroix and Gibbs' double mixed in with a base on balls, sacrifice and stolen base. Tech got four in the third on passes to Funk and Johns, singles by Hewitt and Snoesky and Golart's double with two errors and a couple of stolen bases thrown in. The Academy scored two in their half of the inning on singles by Fontaine, Weisgraber and Gibbs, an error, sacrifice and base on balls.

Tech took the lead in the fourth with four more runs, scoring on singles by Hewitt, Snoesky and Silria, an error, sacrifice and a pass mixed in with a bum decision by Umpire Crunker at third base.

N. F. A. Score Winning Runs

The Academy tied it up in their half on Tombari's single and Fontaine's long double to the scoreboard. In the fifth the Wildcats really won the game with four runs coming on two passes, Tombari's single and Fagan's home run, also two stolen bases, a wild pitch and an error. Fagan's drive scored LaCroix, who had gotten on on an error.

Tech made a dying gesture in the eighth, scoring twice on singles by Johns and Snoesky and a double by Hewitt.

Hewitt and Snoesky had eight of Chapman's 13 hits, four apiece and both played fine games.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

Runs were scored as follows: N. F. A.—Arico, 3; Gibbs, 2; Cummings, 2; LaCroix, 1; Fagan, 1; Tombari, 2; Crowell, 1 (running for Marks, by permission); Green, 1. Chapman Tech—Funk, 2; Quinn, 1; Johns, 3; Hewitt, 2; Snoesky, 1; Geer, 1; Keenan, 1.

The game was started at 4 o'clock and did not finish until 7:05.

The crowd was a little better than the usual week day attendance. Probably around 1,000 altogether.

Joe Cranker didn't arrive until near the end of the first half of the first inning and Harry Mills had just been drafted for action on the bases.

Weisgraber started off with the usual red shirt but after he changed to a white one he went better. The red shirts are very warm and the day, being torrid, it made a big difference when he shed his.

Leo Crowell ran for Marks in the second and scored.

Four innings with four runs.

Capt. Jack Marks broke into the lineup after a month's absence. He and Louie Green were the only ones on the Academy side that didn't hit safely. The old eye is a bit rusty after the layoff.

The team worked its first infield double play in the sixth. It went, Gibbs to LaCroix to Arico.

After Tombari had lost a double in the sun he wore a pair of sunglasses and finished up all right.

Red Fagan seems to be the long-distance clouter of the bunch. His home run was a real smack that Silvia, Tech outfielder, had no chance whatever of getting. It landed outside the gate and rolled across the road under the automobiles. Fagan was given a big hand and it really decided the game, for Tech pushed over two runs in the eighth that would have tied the count but for the sorrel-top's blow. Fagan specializes in best-

Have you ever been in Backus hospital? No, I don't mean as a patient but just to look it over, and see what a fine institution it is.

I got a bid to go up with the Rotary club for free lunch yesterday, and I do love to eat when it don't cost anything. I don't know who's the cook but if I was a man and she was single—well, you can guess the rest.

Say folks, that's quite some institution when you give it the once over. I learned a lotia things I didn't know before about it. It's a real nice place to be sick in, if you have to be sick.

Oh, boy, and the nurses. I don't blame any young man for breaking an arm or a leg just to get up there for a few weeks. Looks as though a fellow would have pleasant company.

If you like blond nurses they're there. If you like brunettes they're there too. Brown eyes or blue eyes, gray eyes or green eyes, pleasing plumpness or sylphlike slenderness, they are all there. Some nursing staff, what?

And sing. Say you ought to have heard the girls in a couple of tuneful melodies. Of course I'll admit the volume was lacking but the quality was there.

And Miss Abbott. There's one nice woman who is doing mighty good work up there. She's one charming hostess and as a hospital superintendent she knows her hygiene.

I went around and saw some of the departments and learned a lot. The operating room kinda give me a funny feeling in my tummy but I stuck it out. No, I don't mean my tummy. I mean I just stayed around while the doc explained the different tools.

No, I didn't go into that isolated ward at all. I was vaccinated the other day but I wasn't taking any chances of a good healthy smallpox germ knocking me for a goal.

It's a grand institution and you folks should get acquainted with it. You know what I mean, not from a bed but as a matter of civic duty.

GILETTE POUNDS OUT SPECTACULAR EIGHT ROUND WIN OVER BEAUREGARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 15.—Al Gillette, local bantamweight sharpshooter, won a decision over Al Beauregard, Taftville mauler, in the eight round feature bout at the Hamilton street outdoor arena here tonight. The attendance was 1700.

Entering the ring at the short end of what little wagering was done Gillette surprised many local fans as well as out of town customers by his spectacular victory over the seasoned veteran, who, before the battle, had been installed as the favorite by odds which approximated 5 to 4.

Gillette found a solution to Beauregard's charging, headlong style in the fourth round when he began to hack out a margin for a victory on points with a sharp right hand uppercut. Spectators at the ring side generally agreed that Gillette took every round after the third with the possible exception of the sixth. Beauregard took the first and third rounds and the second was about even.

Starting in the fourth round Gillette found the range for his left jab and scored frequently in spite of Beauregard's crouching, weaving style. Constant flicking of the left hand brought Beauregard up standing somewhat and then Gillette cut loose with a barrage of uppercuts. Beauregard was bleeding from the mouth after the fourth round and in the seventh Gillette's uppercuts brought the crimson to the Taftville's entry's nose.

Beauregard's swinging right hand punished Gillette severely about the kidneys and ribs in the early rounds, but his roundhouse punches later lost their effectiveness under the constant fire of Gillette's long range attack. Gillette did not have an opportunity to develop an attack around his straight right hand, his deadliest punch, but he showed good judgment in switching to the uppercut.

According to the official weights recorded yesterday afternoon before the postponement of the show until tonight both boxers scaled 120 pounds. Both were slightly heavier tonight, however.

DeGrasse Beats Picardi

In the second eight-round feature bout Peter DeGrasse, New York Indian bantamweight, won a decision over Jimmy Picardi of Boston. It was a fast bout all the way. The referee had to warn Picardi four times during the first half of the bout for low punching. The referee stopped the bout momentarily in the third round to declare DeGrasse the winner by a foul, following a punch below the belt line, but the Indian preferred to continue. Later the referee had occasion to warn DeGrasse for hitting in the breaks. The weights were 118 pounds each.

Lubear Outpoints Wagner

Rene Lubear of New Haven won a one-sided decision over Ralph Kid Wagner, local featherweight in the six round semi-final. Lubear, a hard hitting long range puncher, was the master of the local boy from start to finish. In the first round Lubear charged Wagner and sent him to the floor with a straight right. Wagner arose without taking a count. Lubear never tried to press his attack after the spectacular first round but was content to coast along and win on points. The weights were Lubear 129 and Wagner 127 3-4.

Novack Gets Close Verdict

Benny Novack, submarine base lightweight, was awarded the decision over Dutch Whitley of the Coast Guard in a bitterly contested four round preliminary. The two boxers were evenly matched and if a draw decision was allowed in Connecticut this would have been the verdict. However, Novack through a slight superiority in aggressiveness was given the verdict on a point margin. The weights were Novack, 136, and Whitley, 138.

Sabatini Stops Rossi

Vic Darr Kayoes Polowitzer

Vic Darr of Norwich won by a technical knockout over Art Polowitzer of Hartford in the fourth round of a bout scheduled for four rounds. The first two rounds failed to develop any serious consequences for either boxer, but in the third round Darr opened up with a two-fisted attack and had Polowitzer groggy. Polowitzer staggered to his corner at the end of the round. Polowitzer came out for the fourth round, but it lasted only a few seconds before the referee saw that he was helpless and stopped the fight. They weighed, Darr 140 and Polowitzer 141 1-2.

In the first preliminary Johnny Bedell of New London knocked out Tim O'Connor of New Haven in the fourth round. Bedell sent O'Connor to the canvas in the third round and the count went to three, when the bell rang. Bedell pressed his advantage at the start of the fourth round and sent him down again with a left hook to the jaw. This time O'Connor took the full count.

Announcement was made tonight that Hughie Devlin of New London and Benny Tell of New York would come together in a ten-round setto at the next fight, which is to be held at the arena on next Wednesday evening.

GRIMES PITCHES HIS FIFTH VICTORY OF THE SEASON

BROOKLYN, May 15.—(AP)—Burleigh Grimes Pittsburgh ace hung up his fifth victory of the season and Brooklyn suffered its eighth successive defeat today when the Pirates romped off with the second and last battle of the series, 9 to 4. Grimes allowed 11 hits, but kept them scattered except in the fifth when Babe Herman's home run within the field with two mates aboard temporarily tied the score at 4 to 4.

The Brooklyn pitchers were utterly unable to halt the Pirates, each of whom made at least one hit. Glen Wright, crippled Brooklyn shortstop, departed today for his home in Harrisonville, Mo., where he will recuperate for a month under indefinite suspension without pay. Score:

INDIANS SCALP YANKEES FOR SECOND TIME

CLEVELAND, May 15.—(AP)—The Indians made a clean sweep of the two game series against the Yankees by turning back the champions here today, 7 to 1. Lou Gehrig's eighth home run gave him the dual lead, but did the Yankees little or no good other than to prevent Joe Shaute from registering a shut-out. It was the big left-hander's third successive victory, and the fourth straight defeat for the Yanks.

The Indians bunched hits off Geo Pipgras for three runs in six innings, and followed this up by mistreating Ed Wells and Wilcy Moore. Old Tom Zachary finally halted the tribe after the halting became unnecessary.

OWLS BEAT KILOWATTS IN DANIELSON LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 15—The Owls defeated the Kilowatts before a crowd of over 500 tonight by the close score of 4 to 2. Good pitching and hitting was displayed in the fray. The disastrous moment came to the Kilowatts when the Owls bunched in two two-baggers and a homer for three runs in the first inning. Schofield, the Kilowatts new pitcher, tightened up and then struck out the next two men. The Kilowatts made their two runs in the same inning. The remainder of the game was a pitchers' duel between Alec LaBelle and Schofield, the former being the victor. Jones, the Owls' new catcher, made three hits out of three times at bat, two two-baggers and a three bagger. A. LaBelle, the pitcher, made the first home run of the season. The score:

LOCAL KNIGHTS TEMPLAR AT WAKEFIELD CEREMONIAL

WESTERLY, R. I. May 15.—Nearly one hundred swords of Narragansett Commandery, No. 17, K. T., of Westerly, Em. Sir David A. Lowry, commander and sojourning Templars were in Wakefield Wednesday afternoon and evening for a Templar street parade which was followed by a dinner at the Masonic Temple and the conferring of the Order of the Temple upon a class of candidates. A special conclave was opened at the Westerly asylum of Narragansett Commandery, Masonic hall, at 3 p. m., when a dispensation was read from Grand Commander Clarence E. Burleigh, of Brookline, Mass., permitting the Westerly Templars to visit Wakefield and parade with banners and music. The commandery pilgrimage to Wakefield was made by private automobiles and at 5:30 Commandery lines were formed at Hope lodge Masonic Temple. A parade in full regalia followed through the principal business streets. Wakefield band, T. Clarke Brown, leader, recently formed, headed the line of march which ended at the Wakefield temple. At the conclusion of the parade the Sir Knights had a roast beef dinner in the temple banquet hall.

At 7:30, work in the temple was conferred by the commandery officers, a number of past commanders assisting. A social get-to-gether of Washington county Knights Templar and visitors characterized the evening. The committee of arrangement included: Em. Sir Arthur E. Thompson, chairman; Em. Sir David A. Lowry, commander, ex officio; Sir John Cirwein, Wakefield; Sir Samuel E. Gould, Wakefield; Sir Charles B. Clarke, Wakefield; Sir L. T. K. Stowell, Kingston; Em. Sir Arthur E. Thompson, master of ceremonies and Em. Sir Carle E. Burdick, recorder. The commander council beside Commander Lowry included Sir Francis M. Johnson, generalissimo; Sir George E. TESTIMONY FOR DEFENSE IN SUIT BY DR. F. A. KENYON

WESTERLY, R. I., May 15.— The defense opened Wednesday afternoon in the case of Dr. Frances A. Kenyon of Woodville vs. the United Electric Railways company, being heard before Justice A. A. Capotosto and a jury at the Westerly session of Superior court.

Howard L. Davis, conductor of the trolley car on which Dr. Kenyon alleges her injuries were suffered, occupied the stand for a considerable portion of the afternoon. Davis testified that he had spent 28 years in the trolley service. He said that the car stopped on Weybosset street without any signal from him and that no one was in sight at the rear of the car. He gave the signal to proceed and a moment later saw the plaintiff, Dr. Kenyon, stumbling on the step. He reached down and dragged her inside to safety. Davis said she must had come "around the end of the car." He was positive she was not in sight when he signaled the motorman to go ahead.

Amos E. Wilcox, motorman of the car at that time, was next called to the stand. Mr. Wilcox said he was 70 years old, had been in the trolley service 37 years and was now retired. He was able to recall the day of the alleged accident.

Both under direct and cross-examination Davis testified that he did not see Dr. Kenyon signal his car for the Weybosset street stop. He said he stopped the car at the point when the alleged trouble occurred because a team was in his way. He was positive about the team and described it as a single horse and open express wagon. It was backed up to the curb near the Pure Food market, he testified. Wilcox further testified that he started only after receiving the usual two bells and went about half a car length when he got a "sharp bell" to stop.

The defense presented Frederick A. LaVoice, a claim adjustor and investigator of the U. E. R. Mr. LaVoice testified to having seen the plaintiff on various occasions regarding the accident. At first, he testified, she showed no disposition to talk settlement but wished to await cure of her injuries. He emphatically denied he had made promises that the company "would do the right thing by her." The case, he said, was finally referred to Charles E. Redfern, claim agent. After that he had no connection with it.

When called to the stand, Mr. Redfern testified that the case had been dropped by the trolley company after a physical examination of Dr. Kenyon by its own physician, Dr. Cutts. He denied that any promises of settlement had been held out and said that the case had eventually been outlawed because settlement was not pressed by the plaintiff. Under cross-examination by Atty. Ralph Greenlaw, plaintiff's counsel, Redfern admitted that he had not sent a notice to Dr. Kenyon of the approach of the legal time limit. When the time had expired he wrote her to that effect. Pressed for a reason for his action he said he did not consider it his duty to so warn her.

The case will be resumed Thursday morning.

"Bond Bread keeps fresh longer"

F. J. BUCKLEY

E. L. BUCKLEY

Buckley Brothers, at 270 West Main Street, is the place "Where Quality Costs No More." Norwich housewives always receive courteous personal attention from these two brothers, F. J. and E. L. Buckley, when they telephone 722 for fine foods. Deliveries are always made promptly.

We have been in the grocery business long enough to know the likes and dislikes of our patrons. And we have come to the conclusion that when most of them buy a certain product, and continue to buy that product, it must be right.

It's that way with bread. Now we sell several kinds of bakers' bread. But most of our customers buy Bond and they buy it regularly. So we know Bond must be right.

Of course, Bond costs a few cents more than some of the cheaper breads. But our Bond customers tell us it's worth it. They say that it's more home-like—that its firm, close-knit texture keeps it fresh longer.

Also we have noticed that our patrons who have children are regular users of Bond. That's because the Bakers of Bond have pledged that it is made with the best ingredients they can buy. They want their children to have good, nourishing bread.

Bond Bread must be better or our customers wouldn't keep on buying it.

BUCKLEY BROTHERS

After all—
there is no bread like

15 PER CENT CALL MONEY RATE TODAY HALTED BULLISH ACTION IN MARKET

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP)— Once more the bulls were corralled by soaring call money rates today. Although operations for the advance were pushed forward vigorously as money rose to 10 per cent yesterday, a 15 per cent rate reached this afternoon was sufficient to check operations and induce rather heavy profit taking.

The money flurry, however, failed to precipitate any real liquidation, and the market turned dull, with the bank's rediscount rate tomorrow, shares. A few utilities and specialties made rapid progress during the morning, but their gains were substantially reduced at the close, and the Associated Press price indices indicated that losses were in the majority.

Call loans renewed at 10 per cent and rose successively to 13 and then to 15. The upturn was attributed to banking requirements incident to the mid-month settlements. Interest and dividend checks mailed out last night are estimated at more than $300,000,000. Time money was firm at 9 per cent for the shorter maturities, commercial paper and little was moving at this center at less than 6 per cent.

Wall street opinion was sharply divided as to the possibility of an increase in the New York Reserve bank's rediscount rate tomrrow, although the majority seemed to feel that such action would not be taken this week. Opinions were also widely divergent as to the probable showing of the weekly brokerage loan figures. Some of the large commission houses intimated that their loans had been substantially reduced this week, but there is fair amount of new or additional financing to be taken up, so that the result is uncertain.

A salient feature of the day's news was the announcement that Anaconda copper would curtail production 10 per cent. This was interpreted as indicating that the feverish demand for the red metal had definitely passed, but that producers were determined to stabilize the price around 18 cents a pound. Standard of New Jersey declared an extra dividend of 25 cents, somewhat less than had been rumored, and Sinclair paid a like extra, as it did the previous quarter. The Weekly Steel Trade Reviews reported that the long expected let up in demand had failed to appear, and that the continued heavy influx of new business was nothing short of surprising.

Packard was the bull favorite of the session, rising about 9 points to a record price at 153 3-4, but falling back to 150½ at the close, in a turnover of nearly 350,000 shares. Heavy buying was attracted by reports of tests of its new Diesel aviation motor.

The so-called Morgan stocks were heavily bought during the morning, but ran into considerable profit taking. General Electric fluctuated wildly, touching a new peak at 283, dropping to 274, and closing at 280 1-2, a net gain of 3 1-2. Johns Manville sold up about 5 points, then lost most of its gain. International Telephone started forward, then went into a decline, closing nearly 3 points off.

In the utilities, North American rose nearly 3 points to a new high, but lost most of its gain. American and foreign power made an extreme gain of nearly 6 points. United Corp. encountered heavy realizing, closing more than 2 points lower. Tobacco stocks were strengthened by renewed reports that an end of the cigaret price cutting war was in the immediate offing. American tobacco rose more than 3 points.

Otis elevator, in a rather mercurial issue, soared 15 points to within 2 points of its record. Hershey chocolate, Marlin Rockwell and F. G. Shattuck were among issues reaching new high ground. Chemicals were in brisk demand for a time, Columbian carbon and Commercial Solvents advancing about 3 and 7 points, but later cancelling most of the gains. Simmons was a strong spot, mounting more than 6 points on the statement of President Simmons that sales are running more than 12 per cent ahead of last year.

The selling embraced such important issues as Allis Chalmers, Goodyear, Radio, Westinghouse and U. S. steel, all of which sagged 2 points and more. Coppers were heavy, Anaconda slipping back about 2 points. United aircraft, Wright and Curtiss aeros lost 2 to 4 points.

Sparks Withington dropped nearly 8, and Adams express 5.

Commodities eased somewhat. Wheat and corn sagged about 1-8 of a cent a bushel on bearish weather reports. Cotton declined on lower Liverpool cables, but regained most of its loss on indications of less favorable weather.

Foreign exchanges were dull, with leading European currencies a shade lower. Sterling cables sagging to $4.85 3-32, which is near the incoming gold point.

VISITING NURSE ASS'N REPORTS FOR A BUSY YEAR

Nurse's Faithful Service.

Our nurse, Miss Wells, has had a break-down and is now trying to recuperate and get back her health. No words of mine can portray how deeply this association and her friends feel in having such an affliction come upon her. We all fully sympathize with her and hope that with a good rest she will regain her health. We were fortunate in having Mrs. Rainb with us and that she was able to come to our assistance. Mrs. Rainb was for quite a while our nurse, consequently became fully acquainted with the work and duties of what the association desired to do.

During the year we have had two entertainments that were financial successes: The Womanless Wedding given for two nights, netted $295.52. Our Daffodil Tea held at the residence of Mrs. Charles E. Wheeler was a success, netting $213.84.

Indispensable Braking Protection—
Safest—Surest—Easiest to Operate

DUPLEX-MECHANICAL FOUR-WHEEL BRAKES

No other brakes so powerful and positive in action. . . . Minimum of pedal pressure required to operate . . . . An invaluable safety factor found only in Cadillac-La Salle

In any traffic emergency no other brakes offer so great an assurance of safety as the Cadillac-La Salle Duplex Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes.

These brakes are a revelation in fast, sure and effortless responsiveness under all driving conditions. No other car can possibly give you this braking system because it is protected by basic patents.

The Cadillac-La Salle owner has better control of his car than any other driver. With his Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes, he can make a remarkably easy stop in the shortest possible space with slight pressure on the brake pedal.

A thorough examination would reveal also that when the brake pedal is released there is never any tendency to drag—the cause of much needless friction and wear in cars not so equipped.

Another Cadillac-La Salle protective measure that cannot be ignored is the quick, quiet, clashless Synchro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission. This, too, is protected by basic patents, so that you are afforded this protection only in Cadillac and La Salle.

With this transmission you can actually shift gears at any speed without the slightest hesitancy. With your finger tips you make just one gentle movement from gear to gear with the lever. There is never the slightest suggestion of clashing gears. The operation is positively silent.

Still another Cadillac-La Salle factor of safety is the equipment of all windows, doors and windshields with non-shatterable Security-Plate Glass. Here is protection from flying glass fragments with which no one (parents in particular) can afford to dispense.

These safety factors are standard equipment in all Cadillac-La Salle cars and are offered with no extra charge whatever.

Consider the delivered price as well as list price when comparing automobile values. Cadillac-La Salle delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

Next Week!
Cadillac-La Salle distributors and dealers all over the country have set aside the week May 20th-27th as a very special week—for women in particular. Details will appear in the newspapers of Monday, May 20th and will also be revealed during the General Motors Family Party the evening of the same day on nation-wide Coast-to-Coast radio broadcast.

LA SALLE—$2295—La Salle is just as easy to purchase as many cars of far less value and far less prestige. And it is far more economical to operate. It is priced from $2295 to $2875. Cadillac $3295 to $3995. All prices f. o. b. Detroit. General Motors Deferred Payment Plan enables you to enjoy your Cadillac or La Salle at once and pay out of income.

POETRY

Experience

I have not heard the robin's song,
Nor has my form my pleasure so shown
To learn where the cuckoos nest—
But I have heard a still small voice.

Though I've not seen the sun's bright glow
Amid a rugged mountain path,
Yet viewed Galilee lady below—
The lake that influences the mass.

I have not breathed the desert air
Nor quaked a Channel/Jungle blown,
But will my life much well answer
If I found a friendship's rare perfume.

I have not stood Egypt's grove
Nor drank of the Jordan spring,
And while my life much well answer
My soul is free and it can sing.
—Harry Hamlish, in The Pathfinder.

Love

Here's your rod
And we're in going
For the wind of Spring's
A-blowing.
And the silver waters break
Where a trout lazes
From the lake.
Leave your life that crowds you on—
Take your rod
And let us go—
We will hear the bluebird sing,
See the blackbird's flame-tipped wing,
Hear the whirring of the bee,
See the fly in the sunshine
Flick the water,
Splash—line taut;
Bending rod: Good luck! He's caught!
Here's your rod
And let's be going—
For the wind of Spring's
A-blowing.
—Dorothy Whipple Fry in Boston Transcript.

Young Lady (to old salt)—Have you ever seen the sea serpent?

Old Salt—No, Miss, I'm a teetotaler.—Detroit News.

Lattecake—What is your son taking in college?

Kupper Bier—Well, he's taking all I've got.—The Pathfinder.

The little girl looked up brightly as her voluble aunt finished a long monologue. "Now, Uncle Henry, you say something," she chirped, hitching back in her chair.—Boston Transcript.

"Come, have another drink. Your wife will never notice."

"But she has sewn six raw eggs in the lining of my coat and I have to reach home without breaking them."—Nagels Lustige Welt, Berlin.

Proud Golfer—They're all afraid to play me. What do you suppose my handicap is?

Girl—Oh, I don't know. It may be your face, or perhaps it's just your general appearance. Don't be discouraged.—Montreal Star.

"Oh, surely," said Dr. Straton, "surely girls have more character than that."—Boston Transcript.

Conductor—Fourpence, please.

Sandy—Fourpence? I thought the fare was tuppence.

Conductor—It is, but there's tuppence more for that big sack you have.

Sandy—Och, is that so? Well come on out, Jock, and pay your fare.—London Opinion.

The young man had been celebrating and a bobby had taken him up. In court the lad strenuously denied he had been drinking.

"But," said the magistrate, "the officer claims he found you half way up a light-pole. What were you doing there?"

"Well, you see, sir, I'd been chased all the way from Leicester square by a pair of elephants in blue silk dressing gowns, and I thought I'd give the beggars the slip and go home."—London Answers.

Almost any mid-afternoon in New York one may see well-dressed business women and girls riding on the top of the Fifth avenue buses from the Forties and Fifties up to Central park and then taking another bus down again. The answer is that they must have their mid-afternoon smoke and if they can't do it in their offices they surely can't take a walk down the street puffing a cigarette.

A Berlin engineer, Karl Dams, has invented a device which records the precise position of a motor car at any moment. The control apparatus consists of a mechanism arranged at the car's dashboard into which a map of the region in question is put. The map unrolls automatically in conformity with the car's speed; a pin registers the distance covered on the map, and thus fixes the car's place at any moment.

An alarm clock that went off 15 minutes earlier than usual probably saved the lives of seven members of a family at Milwaukee, Wis. Frank Smith, 55, father of the family, arose to shut off the clock. He noticed that the rooms were full of coal gas. Although he collapsed several times, he reached a telephone and then carried his wife and five children to the rooms on the lower floor of their home. All were revived by firemen.

Clang went the closing bell and the girl at the gift department took a hasty dive under the counter in search of the night cover for the merchandise. She found it, flung it over the gift display just as a desperate last minute shopper rushed up, a fur in her hand. "Marion's birthday present," she exclaimed. Thrusting her hand blindly beneath the counter cover, she clutched the first article she encountered. "I'll take this," she said triumphantly, even before she withdrew the gift from the impromptu grab bag. The salesgirl gasped and took her money.—Boston Globe.

ASKS CITY MANAGER TO DISCIPLINE GANG

A gang of youths, who persist in making a loitering place in front of the restaurant 123 main street, are paving their way for presentation in the police court at an early date and stand in good stead to serve a term in jail, which was the course taken by the court two years ago when youths who annoyed store proprietors and pedestrians were given a sentence of 30 days at the Franklin street institution. For several weeks youths have continued to congregate in front of the restaurant, where their conduct was most annoying to people who passed along the street as well as to the restaurant employes. Today A. E. Goodman, employed at the restaurant, made formal complaint to City Manager Holt because of the conduct of the young men and requested that the gang be broken up. Goodman said that he had made complaint to the police several times, and while officers dispersed the loiterers, the gang always returned, on the officer going to another part of his beat. Goodman now asks that the loitering in front of the restaurant be ended for once and all.

Patrolman Frank Philopena was unable to perform patrol duty last night, being confined to his home on Henry street, by illness.

Percy Rogers, of Niantic, was before Justice Earl Haynes, at Niantic last night charged with breach of the peace. Decision was reserved. Rogers was arrested yesterday afternoon by State Police Officer William MacKenzie upon complaint of Mrs. Rogers.

Thomas Blanchard, of North Stonington: Duane Steinberg, United States Coast Guard destroyer Cassin; Charles Noble, Waterford; Berna Smith, 115 Green street and Ellis P. Schofield, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Sabino Lucarilli, 79, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 138 Jefferson avenue, after a long illness. He was a laborer and is survived by his wife and four children.

DOUGLASS REED ILL— HAS FIRST CASE OF SMALLPOX

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 15—A case of smallpox developed in New London today. Douglass Reed, 19, colored, residing at 20 Jefferson avenue, is the patient. For a week cases of the disease have been reported among residents on the east side of the Thames river, more particularly in the vicinity of Noank. Through what source or carrier the malady reached here is not known. This afternoon Dr. Lamphere, of the state health department, Hartford, came to New London and is making an investigation of the situation. Reed's case is pronounced, for a distinct rash appears on his head, face and arms. He is quarantined at his home, together with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Baum.

Reed had been complaining a day or two and this morning when his condition did not improve, Dr. Charles Satti was summoned. When the physician made an examination of the patient, he immediately recognized the case to be one of smallpox. The health department was notified of the discovery of the disease and at once took steps to prevent contagion. Reed declares that he has not attended social affairs or been present where there was a group of adults and can give no information that might reveal the source of the carrier of the germ.

About 15 years ago this city had a smallpox scare when numerous cases existed outside the city limits and at that time all children were barred entrance to the city, officers being stationed on all roads leading to New London. The disease at that time did not break out here.

PROF ELLIOTT D. SMITH ON INDUSTRIAL SUCCESS

G. S. May, Connecticut Power Co., was re-elected president of the New London Foremen's and Executives' club at the annual meeting Monday evening in the supper rooms of the Y. M. C. A. Other officers elected were, vice president, Robert Paton, Palmer Brothers Co.; secretary, Herbert W. Hicks, associate secretary in charge of industrial work, Y. M. C. A.; treasurer, John G. Cook, Corticelli Silk Co., members-at-large of the executive committee, H. S. Bennet, Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing Co.; W. B. Watrous, Max Pollack & Co., and George A. Westie, Trady Co.

The treasurer's report showed a balance, whereas for the past reports had shown a few bills remaining unpaid. New members, Hans Hanaiker, Corticelli Silk Co.; J. M. Meade, Connecticut Power Co., and Joseph Congdon, New England Collapsible Tube Co., were voted into the club.

Secretary Hicks called attention of the members to two coming industrial conferences of interest to men of this section. June 29 and 30 the state industrial conference is to be held at Camp Hazen, Chester, and August 10 and 11 the industrial conference for Eastern Connecticut will be in session at the New London Y camp, Gardner Lake.

Elliott Dunlap Smith, professor of industrial engineering, Sheffield Scientific school, spoke on "What Makes Industrial Success?" He pointed out that one must be strictly honest in every dealing to go high in any line of endeavor. Brains alone will not put him on the top—he must be willing and able to apply himself to hard work to accomplish it. Again, he must have decent respect for those working with and under him. For lower executives a trade knowledge is imperative.

MRS. E. E. JUDD DETAINED— FORMER NORWICH PATIENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 15—A woman about 25, who claims she is Mrs. Edward E. Judd, of Terrace court, Noank is being detained at police headquarters tonight for she is undoubtedly of unsound mentality, although her condition and actions would not indicate that she was violent.

The police this evening received a telephone message from an official of the Providence, R. I. Aid society, that the woman was a passenger on the train that would arrive in New London at 7.41 o'clock and should be taken care of. Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith was at the station when the train arrived and from a description of the woman, which had been furnished, the woman was taken into custody for her own safety when she alighted. At police headquarters she was questioned at considerable length and stated that she was married and the mother of three children, one of whom, a boy, is in New York, with his father. The other two, she said, were at Noank. She also said that she had at one time been a patient at Norwich state hospital, but inquiry there did not bring the information that Mrs. Judd was wanted.

Mrs. Judd was in Newport, R. I., this afternoon and went to the Associated charities where she sought employment, giving the name of Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney of this city, as reference. In reality Captain Pinney is not acquainted with the woman. She did not succeed in securing work and took a train to Providence, where she sought assistance from the aid society. It was then discovered that the woman was apparently of unsound mentality and she was placed aboard the train for New London.

Police Sergeant John Courtney resumed his duties today after having his annual vacation of two weeks. Desk Sergeant Frank Howard started on his vacation today. During his absence from headquarters, his duties will be taken care of by Acting Sergeant Timothy Sullivan.

But few cases were booked at police headquarters tonight for hearings in the police court tomorrow. Three of these are: W. W. Foster, Quaker Hill; Barnet Friedman, 85 Savoy street, Bridgeport and Windsor Cushing, 21 Beardwalk, Ocean Beach, all charged with violation of the city's parking laws. The other is a man who was found intoxicated on North Bank street.

PARADE, CONCERT AND DANCE BY THE MUSICIANS' UNION

The musicians' union conducted a dance at Ocean Beach and the affair was attended by a large crowd of young diversion seekers. Prior to the opening of the dance hall a band, composed of 80 musicians, made a brief street parade and then proceeded to the beach by trolley car.

First Moonlight Sail

A hundred or more young ladies enjoyed a moonlight sail on the Thames river and Long Island sound tonight, the boat trip being the opening event of its kind this season. The launch left the pier of the Fishers Island Navigation company about 7.30 o'clock and returned about 11.

Breed Theatre

Tropical fruits, berries and plants of practically every known variety were cultivated to form the beautiful oasis which serves as a background for the final scenes in "Desert Nights," John Gilbert's latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature which will be at the Breed theatre next Sunday.

The beautiful date and fig palms are many years old and have been taken care of by the state for several years. Cactus, banana pears, pineapples and various other plants were transplanted in the oasis, the beauty of which will undoubtedly be preserved for future wanderers of the desert wastes.

The cool and refreshing pool which is first used as a source of drinking water and later utilized for bathing abounds with watercress and other edible water plants.

Broadway Theatre

The Greyhound Limited thunders along at full speed, tiny plumes of steam spurt out from beneath the great locomotive which pulls the train, switches clatter as the roaring cars trip lightly over them, the engine's great whistle screeches through the night, signals flash past, and drop back into the inky blackness, the cars sway and lurch under the stress of great speed. A crack passenger train—the very height of railroading— and in the engineer's cab sits Monte Blue.

Monte's latest picture is a Warner Bros. Vitaphone production, called "The Greyhound Limited," and as a locomotive engineer in this fast-moving melodrama he takes part in a swift succession of exciting adventures. As the story approaches its climax, Blue is feverishly involved in the dual endeavor of saving his train from destruction and saving his pal from the gallows.

Throughout the entire picture is heard the fascinating bustle of the trains, of great pulsating locomotives at rest in the round houses or careening madly along over the hills as well as the lingo of the players. And of course there is a girl—a waitress in a quick lunch restaurant— and a pal— and crooks— though Monte is forced to admit that a man never knows where his heart or his temper may lead him.

Supporting the star in "The Greyhound Limited" are Edna Murphy, Grant Withers, Lucy Beaumont, Ernie Shields and Lew Harvey. The story was written by Albert Howson, and adapted for the screen by Anthony Coldeway, Howard Bretherton directed.

Palace Theatre

The show that opens at the Palace Theatre today is one of outstanding merit consisting of the finest in vaudeville and screen entertainment, five acts of the finest vaudeville that is on tour. Opening this show is the high class offering Marley Cockatoos, an act of unusual merit with a bevy of birds that are as talented as most human beings, that will entertain you with something that you can think about. Ray Fontaine and his guitar will carry you back to the land of sun and music and his vocal offerings are unique and tempting.

Gus and Ann Ott in Laugh and the World Laughs With You with comedy that is perfect and lasting, comedy that you will not forget for a long time; two people that know how to put over the kind of hokum you are waiting for.

Whitneys Dolls, that will keep you guessing for the entire show but they are alive. There will be much speculation as to whether they are real but they are.

Kramer and Walsh in Happy Endings that will bring many happy endings to you for a long time in their musical offerings and the songs they sing are new and snappy, and Miss Boston will appear in person at each show during the remainder of the week, and the Miss Norwich contest will bring out many new names to the list of those already selected.

Universal's absorbing drama, "Scandal," starring Laura La Plante, has been booked by the Palace Theatre to start today.

Adapted for the screen from "The Haunted Lady," a magazine story by Adela Rogers St. Johns, "Scandal" is said to be one of the most unusual dramas of society filmed in many seasons. As a story it was widely commented upon, and as a picture it has attained a popular success.

Laura La Plante, in the starring role is the woman. Huntly Gordon is her handsome, polo-playing husband and John Boles is the suitor. Miss La Plante's performance is one of the finest of the season. Wesley Ruggles, the director, has made the picture a brilliant and piercing drama of a woman's heart and of millionaire society.

The cast includes Jane Winton, Nancy Dover, Julia Swayne Gordon and Eddie Phillips. Paul Schofield wrote the screen adaption and conwrote the screen adaptation and contitles.

Red Pimples on Neck and Arms Very Itchy. Healed by Cuticura.

"My neck and arms broke out with little red pimples that were very itchy and looked terrible. When I scratched them it caused the trouble to spread and the pimples scaled over. They looked so bad that I would not go out or let anybody see me. I lost much sleep.

"I tried other ointments and soaps but nothing seemed to help me and I was discouraged. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some, and after using two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Helen J. WESTON, FAMOUS WALKER, ONCE SPOKE IN CITY

There is considerable local interest attached to the death of Edward Payson Weston veteran hiker who died at Brooklyn, N. Y., Monday evening at the age of 90 years. In that he was in this city on Feb. 4, 1908, and addressed a large audience on the subject, "Vicissitudes of a Walker," at association hall under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association. His appearance in Norwich came after the celebrated trek from Portland, Me., to Chicago, Ill., made by the zealous walker from Oct. 29 to Nov. 27, 1907, at the age of 69 years, bettering by a day his previous walking time made 40 years previous to that time.

Mr. Payson, long known as one of the most famous of long-distance pedestrians, had this said about him "that he seemed to have legs and feet that never tired." Although only 22 when he took his first long walk, 448 miles, from Boston to Washington to attend the inauguration of President Lincoln, the most remarkable feats of his long career were accomplished after he had passed the three score and ten mark. He continued taking long distance hikes until his 84th year, in which he walked from Buffalo to New York city, completing the trip nearly two days ahead of his schedule.

His walk from Boston to Washington, covered in 208 hours attracted considerable attention and prompted Weston to start on a professional career as a pedestrian. His first feat as such was the walk from Portland, Me., to Chicago in 1867, covering 1,326 miles in 26 days. Forty years later he duplicated that trip and although he walked 19 more miles he bettered his previous record by 29 hours. In his second trek between the two cities Weston passed through this section of the state, going by way of Andover and Coventry. At the conclusion of this hike the veteran walker showed few effects from the long tramp and was pronounced by doctors as physically sound, the chief change noted being in the loss of 17 pounds in weight.

At the time Weston was in Norwich his only explanation for his unusual vigor of mind and body was "walking did it." Two years after his second Portland to Chicago walk in 1907, Weston performed what is regarded as his most remarkable feat. Then at the age of 70 he walked from New York to San Francisco over a route 3,895 miles in 104 days and seven hours. The next year, 1910, he made the return trip over a different route of 3,600 miles, which he covered in 76 days, 23 hours and 10 minutes.

Mrs. Dupuis remained on the trolley car, but when it had gone a short ways towards the city she complained of a pain in her hip and she returned to her home in Taftville where she was attended by a doctor.

With Two of Her Five Motors Crippled the German Dirigible is Slowly Cruising Homeward—The Airship Had Covered Nearly 1,000 Miles—It Was the First Time That the Graf Zeppelin Had Turned Back From Any of the Long Voyages Which Had Been Set For Her

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 16—(AP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin tonight slowly cruised homeward from the Mediterranean with two of her five motors crippled and eighteen disappointed passengers who had hoped that Lakehurst, N. J., would be their first stop.

The giant airship in its first twelve hours of flight had covered nearly 1,000 miles and had reached a point between the Balearic Islands in the Spanish Mediterranean and Gibraltar. From there she was to have pursued a course over the Azores, and probably Bermuda, to America.

Instead the motor trouble, apparently due to the crankshafts or connecting rods, caused her commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener, to swing the ship around and head for the home hangar here. His decision was reached at 6.35 p. m. (12.35 eastern standard time).

It was the first time that the Graf Zeppelin had turned back from any of the long voyages which had been set for her. The first voyage to America was accomplished despite storms which damaged and called for heroic repairs of her fabric. No hitch developed on other flights except on the second Mediterranean cruise when, it was said for the first time in mid-air, a propeller was removed and replaced while the ship hovered nearly motionless over Spain.

With only three motors instead of five that had kept her at an average speed of about 75 miles per hour on her outward voyage, the speed which the Graf Zeppelin would make through the night depended much on the prevailing winds. It seemed probable that she could not arrive till some time after daylight.

When Dr. Eckener reported by radio that he was returning here, he said the airship was about 20 nautical miles southeast of Cape De La Nao, between Valencia and Alicante, Spain.

The dirigible commander said he expected to reach Marseilles at about three a. m. and would follow approximately the same route up the Rhine river as was taken on the outward flight.

At this rate of progress the dirigible was not expected here before noon.

The message from Dr. Eckener said he could not assume responsibility for flying over the sea with two motors out of commission.

A garbled radio message, delayed in transmission, was received from Alexander Von Kryha, Ukrainian inventor who was special correspondent for The Associated Press on the voyage. "Just informed by Dr. Eckener," it read, "we unfortunately obliged to return to Friedrichshafen because of defect in machinery, namely two broken motor shafts. The passengers are disappointed but very calm, as is Mrs. Pierce."

Tomorrow noon was the earliest that the airship was expected but it was said that she might not appear over Lake Constance before 4 p. m.

Officials of the Zeppelin works denied emphatically rumors that the Zeppelin had met with a more serious mishap than the crippling of two of its five motors. It was said that radio communication was being steadily maintained.

MAKING SLOW HEADWAY AGAINST STRONG WIND

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 17—(AP)—The Zeppelin Works received word early this morning that the Graf Zeppelin, with two of its five motors out of commission, was making slow headway against a strong wind but was nearing the estuary of the Phone river.

The radio message received at 1:30 a. m. (7:30 p. m. eastern standard time, Thursday) said 30 miles south of the Rhone estuary. Can only proceed slowly owing to the mistral."

NO ACTION ON THE YOUNG REPARATIONS PROPOSAL

PARIS, May 16—(AP)— After four hours discussion this afternoon of the conditions under which Germany is willing to accept the reparations annuities proposed by Owen D. Young, allied delegates to the reparations conference adjourned their meeting tonight without having actual accepted or rejected outright any of them.

It was announced that discussion between the allies and the Americans would be continued tomorrow afternoon after further study of Sir Josiah Stamp's report and the German conditions embodied therein.

Study by the delegations separately will be carried on in the light of today's exchange of views.

This discussion revealed the fact that the German demand for lifting the lien on railroads and industries of the Reich, which guarantee payments under the Dawes plan, could not be satisfied. This lien could not be removed because it is part of the contract under which a loan of $800,000,000 had been floated to put the Reichsbank on its feet.

There were suggestions, however, of ways of administering the lien which might leave the means for Germany to utilize the railroad as a guarantee for other loans.

THOUGHT O'MALLEY WAS "TALKING THROUGH HIS HAT"

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP)—The financial interests of the International Paper and Power company, in newspapers in Boston and southeastern states, were delved into today by the federal trade commission in the examination of two vice presidents of the International, a former governor of Massachusetts, and the publisher of the Boston Post.

Richards Grozier, editor and publisher of the Post testified that a $20,000,000 cash offer for the purchase of his paper had been made last February by Charles O'Malley, a Boston advertising agent, who he said had represented himself as acting for the Insull power interests. Grozier declared that the offer was not considered "seriously" as he thought O'Malley was "talking through his hat."

MARTIN J. INSULL NEVER HEARD OF CHARLES O'MALLEY

CHICAGO, May 16—(AP)—Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities company and brother of Samuel Insull, who is in Europe, has never heard of the Charles O'Malley who was reported in testimony before the federal trade commission today to have made advances for the purchase of the Boston Post in behalf of the Insull power interests. This statement was obtained from Mr. Insull in Oklahoma today and made public here.

The statement added that Mr. Insull knew of no negotiations by his interests to buy the Boston Post or any other newspaper.

TARIFF ON SUGAR WAS DEBATED IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP)— Advocates of the proposed higher tariff of 2.40 cents a pound on Cuban sugar failed their innings today in the house as the first week of general debate on the republican tariff bill ended.

The measure is not expected to be taken up for amendment until next week.

Representatives Colton, of Utah, and Leavitt, of Montana, both republicans, contended the proposed increase of sixty four hundredths of a cent in the sugar duty was justified and contended that the principal agitation against it emanated from Cuban interests through their connection with the United States Sugar association.

Charges that the sugar beet growing states employed mostly Mexicans and had many Mexican children in the fields, were denied by Colton, who declared that foreign labor was hired only as a last resort. Utah was just as jealous of its child labor laws as any other state, he said, adding that statistical reports as to the employment of children in the beet fields had been disproved.

Leavitt argued that the increased sugar duty would have a tendency to stabilize prices to the consumer instead of increasing them.

During Colton's appearance, Representative Garner, of Texas, the minority leader declared the high sugar protectionists had better accept a compromise for they did not have the strength to put over the duty carried in the bill.

MAY DEDUCT GASOLINE TAX IN COMPUTING INCOME TAX

WASHINGTON, May 16. —(AP)—A ruling that the distributor of gasoline in Connecticut may deduct the state gasoline tax in computing his income tax and that the purchaser may not deduct the amount except as provided in section five of the Connecticut gasoline tax law, was announced today by the internal revenue bureau.

The bureau held that section four of the Connecticut law, placed the tax upon the distributor except that section five placed the tax upon the purchaser when gasoline was sold to be used for manufacturing purposes. In the latter case it was ruled that the purchaser could deduct the tax in returning his income tax. In both cases the tax may not be deducted as a separate item if it is made part of the business expense.

GENERAL MOTORS CORP. ENTERS AVIATION INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)— The General Motors corporation today announced its active participation in the aviation industry by the purchase of a block of 400,000 shares of common stock of the Fokker Aircraft company of America, representing a 40 per cent. interest in that concern.

This makes the third large automobile company to enter the airplane field. Ford already has organized the stout airplanes division, specializing in the manufacture of heavy tri-motored metal planes. The Packard Motor Car company has been experimenting for months with a Diesel oil burning airplane engine, the first successful flight of which was announced this week.

SEVERE STORM SWEPT OVER LAKE SUPERIOR

CALUMET, Mich., May 16.—(AP)—A storm that had all the fury of midwinter bitterness swept over Lake Superior and upper portions of Wisconsin and Michigan last night to cover the terrain with a foot of snow in some sections and smash one vessel on the rocks.

The Eagle Harbor Coast Guard braved heavy seas today to remove the crew of 31 men from the freighter Ralph Budd, bound from Duluth to Buffalo, which ran on the rocky shore off Keweena Point during a gale last night. Latest reports were that the vessel, carrying a $500,000 cargo of merchandise was being pounded to pieces. The Ralph Budd is owned by the Great Lakes Transportation company.

Another lake boat, the steamer Henry C. Frick of the Pittsburgh Steamship company, went aground in a mud flat near Sailor's Encampment in the lower St. Mary's river today. It was freed by a tug.

NO U. S. DRY AGENTS ON CANADIAN SIDE OF BORDER

OTTAWA, Ont., May 16.—(AP)—The Canadian government's offer to allow the United States to place officers on the Canadian side of the border to obtain information on liquor shipments intended for the states was not accepted, it was disclosed today when documents covering the January conference of officials of the two countries were tabled.

Instead the United States reiterated its view that the only effective method of dealing with the problem of liquor smuggling was denial of clearances by the dominion government.

The Canadian report points out that the dominion delegation took the ground "that difficulty as to liquor smuggling into the United States was, of course, not of Canada's making, but was incidental to the fact that the United States was following a different method of solving the proper control of intoxicating liquors. The United States had adopted a system of national prohibition, whereas seven of the nine provinces of Canada had adopted a system of legalized sale of beverage purposes under provincial government control.

MILITARY REINFORCEMENTS TO CURB STRIKE DISORDERS

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., May 16.—(AP)—Four additional companies of the Tennessee national guard were ordered here today to reinforce the four already on east Tennessee's disorderly strike. After a riotous day in which the town's water mains were dynamited, tear gas was used by the troops and about 100 strikers were arrested.

Tonight after a noisy court session all jails were filled to capacity and a number of others who could not make the $100 bond set were under guard of the troopers in the courthouse.

Some 5,000 employes of the American Bemberg Silk mill and the Glanzstoff corporation rayon plant have been on strike more than two weeks and for the last 10 days the two plants have been trying to operate with non-union labor.

The rioters were arrested this morning when stones and clubs were hurled at several bus loads of workers headed toward the mills and the guardsmen resorted to tear gas bombs to break up the demonstration. Those arrested were rounded up and marched to the courthouse under guard.

ARMIES ENGAGED IN SERIOUS BATTLE NEAR CANTON, CHINA

CANTON, China, May 16.—(AP)—Two well equipped armies totaling 170,000 men engaged in serious battle tonight on two fronts with this rich commercial city as the prize. The fighting went on both east and west of Canton but the reports tricking back did not indicate with whom the advantage lay.

The defending Kwangtung forces consisted of 70,000 men well equipped with modern rifles, hand grenades, light field artillery, Thompson submachine guns, German machine guns and automatic pistols. They had a tremendous advantage in possession of twenty airplanes of which their opponents have none. The Cantonese navy also is three times as large as the attacking fleet. Beside four modern gun boats there are 26 armed launches.

The attacking Kwangsi army advancing down the West and North rivers has 100,000 soldiers equally well equipped except for air and water fighting.

ACTRESS ALMA RUBENS SENT TO HOSPITAL FOR INSANE

LOS ANGELES, May 16—(AP)—Alma Rubens, motion picture actress, was removed today to the Southern California Hospital for the Insane at Patton on complaint of her mother, Mrs. Theresa Rubens, after another outburst which physicians attributed to her addiction to narcotics.

Miss Rubens' latest encounter with the authorities came this morning when her mother called sheriff's deputies to subdue the actress who had attacked her nurse and attempted to commit suicide.

Arriving at the home the officers were held off for three hours by Miss Rubens. She appeared on the porch brandishing a butcher knife and threatened to stab them if they approached. The officers hid in nearby bushes and later when Miss Rubens again appeared on the porch unarmed they overpowered her and took her to the psychopathic ward of the city hospital.

On the way to the hospital the actress tried to escape. She was strapped up and rendered harmless. It was after her daughter had arrived at the hospital that Mrs. Rubens decided to issue a formal complaint asking removal of the young woman to the state insane hospital.

Miss Rubens recently finished her latest picture but it has not been released. In private life the actress is the wife of Riccardo Cortez, also a motion picture star.

Her husband was instrumental in having her place in a hospital at Spadra recently for treatment for addiction to narcotics. She was later removed to her home and it was believed she might recover.

DAMAGE BY CLOUDBURST AND WIND AT PORTLAND, ME.

PORTLAND, Me., May 16—(AP)—One house and several smaller structures were wrecked, a third of the roof of the Marine hospital was torn away, trees were uprooted and light and telephone lines crippled by a cloudburst and wind of almost cyclonic proportions which swept over Portland late today.

A 12 foot section of heavy beam broke loose and dropped into the top of an automobile standing in the hospital grounds. Forty disabled veterans and 30 civilian patients were in the hospital but none was endangered and there was no alarm.

Conference Likely On Debenture Plan

The House Rules Committee Has Approved a Resolution to Send the Measure to Conference.

WASHINGTON, May 16—(AP)—The way was opened today for a conference between the house and the senate to smooth out the differences that have arisen over the insertion of the export debenture plan in the farm relief bill by the senate.

The house rules committee approved a resolution to send the measure to conference, but bearing a reminder that it believed there was a question as to whether the senate had infringed upon the rights of the house under the constitution to initiate revenue legislation.

Speaker Longworth said the resolution would be taken up in the house at the opening of tomorrow's session. Under the rules one hour's debate would be permitted on the adoption of the rule and it would be subject to a majority vote.

Representative Garner of Texas, the minority leader, said he was opposed to the adoption of the rule, preferring to see a straight vote on the incorporation of the debenture plan in the legislation.

The resolution from the house rules committee ended the arguments that have been heard during the last week or more over whether the house should send the bill back to the senate. Its approval marked the culmination of a disposition to arbitrate the differences in conference which has been growing for the past two days.

In deciding to prepare a rule, however, the republican leaders determined to make it clear to the senate that they considered there was doubt as to the right of the senate to initiate the debenture proposal. They also declared in the resolution that the action should not be considered as setting a precedent for the future.

The decision was reached at a meeting today of the unofficial republican steering committee of the house.

Some members of the house believed that this action would open a way to bridge the constitutional gap that has appeared between the two houses and still would leave the house free to assert its contention for the right to initiate revenue legislation in the future.

The determination to avoid an open breach was reached after various members of the farm group had appealed to the leaders to refrain from precipitating an argument which might lead to a long delay in the enactment of farm relief legislation.

Senate leaders also urged them to permit the differences to be ironed out in conference.

Three of the ranking republican members of the house agriculture committee attended the meeting tee committee attended the meeting of the steering committee today. They were Chairman Haugen and Representatives Purnell of Indiana and Williams of Illinois. They have expressed the belief that the debenture plan could be removed from the farm bill in conference.

Only rarely does the house resort to a rule to send a bill to conference. The usual procedure is to submit measures to conference committees for arbitration by unanimous consent. In this case, Speaker Longworth said he had been informed this consent would not be given and a rule would be necessary, even if there was no desire to give expression to the views of the house.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION CAUSED CLEVELAND BLAST

Death List Now Stands at 124—Fire Wardens Find That Heat From a Leaky Steam Pipe Caused the Flames That Released Clouds of Poisonous Gases in the Cleveland Clinic Building—After the Films Began to Burn the Entire Stock Exploded and Sent Clouds of Fumes Rolling Upward From the Basement.

CLEVELAND, O., May 16. —(AP)— Spontaneous combustion in an overheated store room caused the fire and explosions which wrecked the Cleveland Clinic building and took the lives of scores of patients, nurses and doctors, fire wardens reported today.

The heat came from a leaky steam pipe in the basement room, Deputy Wardens Max Gross and P. T. Ferrie, who made an investigation, reported.

It was the story of Bofferty Bogg, a plumber, who was sent to repair the pipe which led to the investigation and decision that the heat caused the flames which liberated clouds of poisonous gases and overcame many of the 300 occupants of the building.

As reports were received regularly of additional deaths, due to the insidious action of the fumes, the total mounted toward the 130 mark with indications that this number would be increased before tomorrow morning. The late afternoon list contained the names of 124 dead.

Bogg told the authorities he found the fire proof door to the vault open, and the place where the films were kept, full of steam, presumably from a leaky pipe. He was unable to find the leak, however, and finally noticed a brown sticky substance on the ceiling from which steam seemed to be issuing.

He used a fire extinguished with no effect and was overcome a few minutes later by the gas, as he was attempting to crawl out of the room, Bogg said, an explosion lifted him through the door and he eventually reached the outside, seeming to be none the worse for the experience.

The blistered vault door which was supposed to close automatically when the heat reached a sufficiently high degree to melt a link of metal, held the attention of some of the investigators. Had it been closed authorities agreed, the tragedy would have been averted. Fire Wardens Ferris and Gross made a minute examination of the door and decided definitely it was wide open when the explosion occurred, as Bogg related. They were in doubt, however, whether there had been sufficient heat in the room before the explosion to melt the fusible link which would have closed the door. Bogg was held in technical custody until further investigations have been completed.

In addition to the steam pipe theory, authorities began their investigations with two other ideas in mind as to how the films might have been ignited. Crossed wires on the x-ray machine might have provided the spark, they believed, or some one might have been burning rubbish in the nearby furnace and a spark had blown in.

After the films began to burn, it is believed, the entire stock exploded and sent clouds of fumes rolling upward through the stairways and ventilators, with the space between the roof and the ceiling of the upper rooms, and the ventilators full of the sickening yellowish-brown gas, the second and heaviest explosion occurred.

The structure was shaken from the top of its fourth floor to its foundations, medicine cases, mirrors, pictures were blown from the walls which were cracked. Part of the roof caved in and the skylight and windows blown out. Occupants of the third floor stampeded toward the elevator, attempting in vain to attract the operator.

Fireman found a heap of the bodies before the elevator door on that floor.

Scenes in the corridors and upper floors were heart breaking.

Men and women, suffocated by the gas, dropped in the hall ways while others dragged themselves toward windows and doors as the flames licked the wood work and shot toward the top floor. Many reached the stairways safely only to be crushed by the weight of falling bodies from behind.

Dr. A. J. Pearse, county coroner, announced that blood tests he made from three bodies indicated death was caused by inhalation of hydrocyanic acid gas and bromine gas, the blood showing heavy traces of both. Dr. B. S. Klein, of Mt. Sinai hospital also found the same gases in the blood of victims.

Eight doctors lost their lives, the last being Dr. John Phillips, internationally known specialist and one of the founders of the Cleveland clinic. He was in the building when the catastrophe occurred but walked home believing he had not been affected by the gas. He was taken ill toward evening and rushed to a hospital where a blood transfusion was made.

Men and women in the building at the time of the explosion, in addition to the doctors and nurses were there for examination. The building is one of a group of three and is known as the examination building.

Most of the patients who were caught yesterday morning had appeared for examination. Many of them were in waiting rooms, others were on examination tables and still others were disrobing preparatory to entering examination rooms. The clinic was famous for the work of its head, Dr. George W. Crile, and other specialists, many of whom lost

The state of Ohio was taken a hand in the investigation of the disaster. William T. Blake, state director of industrial relations, accompanied by Ross Hedges, chairman of the state industrial commission, left Columbus for Cleveland.

Governor Myers Cooper also instructed Captain I. L. Daniels, Cleveland branch manager of the department of industrial relations, to cooperate to the fullest extent with local officials in helping to cope with the situation here.

While any where from 7 to 20 deaths were expected among from the victims in hospitals it was explained tonight that many who thought they had escaped and who had not gone to the hospitals for treatment might be affected later.

FIGHT TO OBTAIN A VISA FOR HIS WIFE

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP) — Three questions were presented to the United States supreme court today in a petition filed by John Munsill Ulrich, of New Haven, Conn., asking for a review of a decision by the court of appeals of the District of Columbia, which had been adverse to the petitioner, one of these questions being as to the extent to which an offense involving moral turpitude shall bar the alien wife of an American citizen under the immigration laws.

Ulrich had instituted mandamus proceedings to compel issuance by the American consul at Berlin, Germany, of a visa to his wife, an alien. The proceedings alleged that the consul refused a visa on the ground that the alien applicant had been convicted of larceny and of abetting a forgery of documents. Proceedings in the lower court were dismissed and this action was affirmed on an appeal to the court of appeals of the district.

It is contended on behalf of the petitioner, that an alien wife of an American citizen is not an alien within meaning of immigration laws; also, that offenses of petit larceny and abetting forgery to not involve moral turpitude. There is also the question regarding alleged error committed by the court in refusing default of judgment in mandamus proceedings against an American consul stationed abroad.

GOV. LONG OF LOUSIANA RELEASED FROM CHARGES

BATON ROUGE, La., May 16—(AP)—Without one word of testimony being taken, the Louisiana senate court of impeachment today released Governor Huey P. Long from charges of high crimes and misdemeanors.

Just as the prosecution was ready to present its first witness Senator Philip H. Gilbert, lawyer and planter of Napoleonville and a Long supporter, presented to the court a written motion to dismiss signatures of 15 senators saying that regardless of the testimony they would adjourn sine die. The motion carried the vote to acquit the governor as they considered the impeachment proceedings illegal and unconstitutional.

Faced with a certain loss of their case as the 15 senators constituting more than the one third of the 39 membership, could prevent conviction, the prosecutors threw the senate into a recess and called a caucus of the remaining 24 senators. They emerged with a declaration signed by all 24 concurring in the motion to adjourn but deploring the attitude of the 15 Long supporters and expressing the opinion that it would be futile to proceed with the trial.

While the senate court was adjourning, Governor Long was holding a levee in his office on the floor below the senate chamber surrounded by friends and relatives. His young wife came in, threw her arms around his neck, and then telephoned the news to their children in Shreveport.

FIRE APPARATUS HELD UP AT GRADE CROSSING

NEW BRITAIN, May 16—(AP)—Because a crossing watchman employed by the New Haven road, refused to flag two trains on the Waterbury division on orders of Fire Chief William J. Noble late today, fire apparatus of three companies were held up for five minutes while a fire was raging in the home of James Renolds.

A high wind fanned the flames until the roof of the house was ablaze when the firemen arrived. Defective wiring was said to have been the cause of the blaze which did $5,000 damage. Chief Noble said the damage would have been slight if the apparatus had not been delayed. He said one train was a quarter mile away when the gates were lowered, while one headed the opposite direction was still standing at the station.

The principal loss was inflicted by the storm which reached gale proportions in Thompsonville where a number of tobacco sheds were blown down. The convention met in the auditorium of the First Congregational church today with Miss Emily Louise Plumley of Glenbrook in charge.

The time honored presidents' luncheon was held in the dining room of the Nathan Hale hotel this noon with a capacity attendance. Mrs. Lansing has recently returned from Roumania where she made a study of the customs of the people which she related in very interesting manner. The forenoon was devoted to discussion of federation problems. Miss Plumley called attention to the fact that the general federation is under-financed and is being maintained on a ten cent per capita tax assessment which is not sufficient to carry out a complete program. She then made suggestions relative to the proposed endowment fund as a foundation to a revised financing plan. The convention went on record as approving this foundation fund.

Favorable action was taken on a request from the Community club of Trumbull for admission into the state federation. It was voted to invite several clubs throughout the state to become affiliated with the federation.

Miss Florence L. Sutton of Greenwich reported that 161 accredited delegates had registered for the convention. Meriden had ten delegates while Torrington had 17 members present, five of whom were delegates.

STATE COMMISSIONER APPROVES PLANS OF SAVINGS INSTITUTE

(Speial to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 16—Announcement was made today that work on the remodeling of the building owned and occupied by the Willimantic Savings Institute will be started in the near future, the plans as recently approved by the directors and corporators having met with the requirements of the state banking commissioner. While the extensive work is underway the bank will occupy the large store formerly used as a store by Brick & Sullivan on Main street. The work is expected to extend over a period of about six months and it is with special credit to the institute that it was made known today that the cost of the new work will be met by profits realized from stock owned in one New York bank and that the institution's present surplus will not be disturbed.

In line with the contemplated changes the entire front of the building on Main street and Bank street sides are to be resurfaced in decorative limestone to the full height of the building. The entrance to the bank and offices on the upper floors will be through a vestibule on the center line between the street corners, all entrances being through a common vestibule.

The change in the stairway will offer room for an enlargement of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea company store now occupying the east portion of the lower floor. The interior of the store proper is to participate in the remodeling program and will be equipped with electrical refrigeration in show cases, show windows and supply rooms.

The banking quarters will be lowered to the street level. Directly at the left of the new entrance will be a railed section for the office of Sherwood B. Potter, treasurer. Adjacent to this will be an enclosed consulting room for the discussion of confidential matters. Next to the officers' space will be the banking counter and working space. The counter will have five wickets.

In the rear of these quarters will be placed a new security and safe deposit vault, which is the last word in engineering and construction. It will contain 30 safe deposit boxes guaranteed burglar and fire proof. The funds, collateral, etc., of the bank department will be deposited in the rear of this vault. The vault door weighs approximately ten tons and is absolutely solid steel. A special device is arranged so that sufficient air to keep alive and also communicate with the outside world can be secured by a person accidentally locked in the vault.

A study room in an old Colonial Connecticut home design will be provided next to the vault for patrons.

The wood work will be of walnut and the grille work of wrought iron. The floor will be covered with rubber tile and battleship linoleum. Locker rooms, storage vault and an oil burner will be placed in the basement.

The remodeled offices on the second floor will be modern in every detail and will be provided with hot and cold water. For the present the third floor will not be changed.

The bank was incorporated in 1842. Noah D. Webster was elected secretary and treasurer on June 17, 1889, filling these position until August 15, 1928 when Sherwood B. Potter was made vice-president and treasurer. Mr. Webster still actively remains at his post as secretary. At present the institute shows the flourishing total assets as of May 13, amounting to over $2,000,000, a gain of nearly $250,000. The surplus also stands at its highest peak and profits realized on securities held are so tremendous as to place the bank to the fore among mutual savings banks of the state. Highly satisfactory earnings are reported with the last dividend paid depositors on April 1st being at the rate of four and one-half per cent per annum with an extra dividend of one-fourth of one per cent, or two and one-half per cent for the six month period, or at the rate of five per cent for the year.

GALES FERRY

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HEARS OF CONDITIONS IN JAPAN

The Gales Ferry auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist church, met Tuesday afternoon at the home of the vice president, Mrs. John Harold, at the submarine base. Fifteen members and three visitors were present. The program opened with the hymn, Christ for the World We Sing, Mrs. Harold presiding. Mrs. Jerome Greer accompanied at the piano and the devotions were in charge of Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt. The minutes of the last meeting were given by the acting secretary, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins.

The matter of entertaining the district W. H. M. S. at the time of the annual meeting June 4, was discussed and arrangements were left with the committee in charge of the dinner, Mrs. Greer chairman. In the absence of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt, letters on the work of the society were read by Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt. A letter from Mrs. George H. Wright, president of the auxiliary, expressing appreciation to the members for their sympathy in her recent bereavement, and regret that her health requires her resignation from office with the auxiliary, was read by the recording secretary.

As the annual election comes at the June meeting, Mrs. R. I. Hurlbutt, Mrs. Nelson Parker and Mrs. Solon F. Chapman were appointed a nominating committee. A poem, Mite Box Opening, was read by the mite box secretary, Mrs. C. Alton Chapman. The annual opening of the mite boxes was held. The hymn, We've a Story to Tell to the Nations, preceded a reading, Field Workers, by Mrs. Courtland E. Colver.

Mrs. H. V. S. Peeke, a sister of Rev. Jerome Greer, who, with her husband, is home on a year's leave from the mission field in southern Japan, gave an interesting account of present day conditions on the island and told of experiences during their 36 years of service there.

The mite box secretary reported the receipt of $15.66 from the opening of the boxes, $2.10 being the largest amount contained in a single box. Mrs. Chapman also conducted the missions enigmas and presented bouquets with the numbers.

During the social hour the hostess served cake and jello, with strawberries and whipped cream. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Marie Cathcart, and Mrs. Colver.

"ATTRACTIVE CREDIT PLAN OFFERED AT TRACY-WOLMER'S."

Dear Friends of Windham, Tolland and New London Counties:

I want to tell you of a new and very attractive Service that is now offered you at Tracy and Wolmer's, Jewelers, at 688 Main street, Willimantic. As explained today by Ralph U. Wolmer, successor to this fine old jewelry concern, this service is to meet the trend of modern merchandising methods.

While it provides unusual inducements to the customer, the Service in itself is very simple. It is an Extended Charge Account in which Jewelry Purchases may be made from Income instead of Savings.

Now just consider what that means. You enjoy the use of the article from the moment of purchase, but you pay only such amounts and at such times as you of your own accord stipulate when making the purchase. This plan is offered Without financing charges, Without Interest on the balance due and Without any Increase whatsoever in the Price of the Article you Desire. In other words you buy what you want at the regular price and on the basis of that price you pay in terms convenient to yourself.

Prominent people today buy homes, automobiles, pianos, radios, Liberty bonds, and the like on term payments and through the courtesy of Tracy and Wolmer you are now cordially invited to purchase your jewelry the same way.

This extended Charge Account plan is offered to any responsible resident of the counties of Windham, Tolland and New London.

Certainly you will find it to your convenience and advantage to accept Tray and Wolmer's invitation, remembering all this time that you are doing business with a concern that has been soundly established for many years and commands a wide and faithful patronage throughout these counties.

Yours, JANE.

There Are So Many Ways Of Determining Values

You know, it isn't always so much what you pay, as what you get.
It is the easiest thing in the world to place any mark upon a price ticket, and also the easiest thing in the world to change the price, whether the original price was honest or merely placed there to be changed.

But the quality of the article cannot be changed; the quality is the same yesterday, today and tomorrow.

That is why we say: "It isn't so much what you pay, as what you get."
Don't be fooled by "former price" quotations; judge the value of the article wholly by its suitability for your use and by the price you are asked to pay, in connection with each other.

CLEVELAND'S DISASTER.

Cleveland has experienced one of those disasters which calls for, and will get nationwide sympathy. It is also evident that several investigations will be made for the purpose of definitely locating the cause and making provisions for the prevention of another such deplorable affair.

In that institution where were assembled so many specialists and a greater number of individuals, who had gone to consult them for the correction of human ills, it was the saving of human life rather than the taking of it that was sought. There was recognition of the danger connected with the room where the films were kept, but it had been supposed that the necessary safeguards had been taken. It was a situation, however, much like that in schoolhouses, where the heating plant in the cellar too often, through defect or otherwise, is responsible for the destruction of the building. Everything is all right until something goes wrong and then the worst kind of trouble can be expected.

Something at Cleveland's hospital caused an explosion of the films. Had that been all, the result would have been bad enough, but it would have been far less serious than it was. That explosion created gases which caused another explosion and the filling of the institution with poisonous gas which could not be escaped. Specialists and patients succumbed alike and with the fire that followed there was great confusion and helplessness.

With 130 deaths resulting therefrom, Cleveland has experienced a disaster which ought never to be repeated. As soon as it can be definitely determined what the cause was, provisions should be made for preventing anything of the kind in the future, through the use of non-inflammable films in connection with the X-ray work or the isolation of the building where they are kept, so that explosions will be minimized, of where such an important part of an institution would be affected in case there was an explosion.

The lesson is a frightful one. Adequate safeguards had been supposedly established, but results show to the contrary and the Cleveland experience should be sufficient to warn others to take additional steps for safety before being forced to it through personal demonstration.

THE ZEPPELIN'S FLIGHT.

Engine trouble will temporarily delay the second flight of the Graf Zeppelin to this country. It had gotten well on its way via the southern route when it was forced to turn back for repairs. When the next start will be made is probably indefinite, but what has happened is only what has caused the postponement of many airplane flights at the last moment. The decision to turn back, rather than to trust to the three engines which were functioning, was a wise one. There was no reason for taking any such chances. When the crossing of the ocean is attempted, with all its uncertain weather conditions, the big airship should be in its best condition with all engines functioning at their best.

On this flight the Graf Zeppelin was carrying freight as well as passengers. It was to demonstrate the service it could be as an express messenger, and thus lay the foundation for the establishment of a new transportation line over the Atlantic. In spite of the delay, that demonstration will unquestionably be made, although it must be apparent that engine trouble is one of the uncertainties involved in such a trip. Another is the weather, although on the previous trip to this country, the big ship stood the test of bad weather admirably.

The Graf Zeppelin has been giving a good account of itself in long flights. The size of the passenger list and the quantity of freight carried as it left Germany would have established a record in a flight across the Atlantic. The hope has been that it would be possible to establish a regular service of this character.

That such will be the development of the next few years is not improbable. It seems highly probable that it will be a dirigible service before there is an airplane service for getting from one side of the Atlantic to the other and for carrying goods that are needed in a hurry. That it will permanently have an advantage over the airplane cannot be as readily accepted in view of the developments which have taken place concerning the latter and those which are constantly being brought to light.

The Graf Zeppelin got away to a bad start, but it will take more than that to dash the hopes of its backers.

MISUSE OF PARKS.

Even though it may wonder what good it will do, New York is to have a special day for the purpose of making an example of those who show defiance to park regulations, who destroy shrubs and scatter litter. The police are going to lend their cooperation and the aim would seem to be to so impress those who are caught violating the rules that they will forever refrain from such conduct and their experiences will be such as to cause others to reform.

Such efforts never work out the way that is expected. This sudden effort to enforce the park rules is like all the periodic moves for enforcement in other directions. It will result in the arrest of many who have been encouraged to violate the rules because everyone else does it, and because the authorities have displayed a spirit of toleration. The idea that one day of enforcement is going to change the practice which goes on every other day in the year is preposterous. It has been delayed too long. Those who violate park rules are those who have been doing so day in and day out. They know no restrain and it will be a decided surprise party when they encounter the activities of Example day.

It is an unfortunate thing that there has been so much laxity in regard to park rules, but in trying to turn over a new leaf it should be kept there for more than one day. It is a gross injustice to park visitors to be arrested for doing on Example day what they did the day before or will be permitted to do the day after.

When park visitors are allowed to do as they please they quickly raise havoc. It is necessary that there should be rules and it is highly important that they should be lived up to at all times. Those who are so unmindful of their privileges so inconsiderate of the pleasure of others and so oblivious to the good appearance of parks as to uproot flowers, break down the shrubs and scatter rubbish about ought to be called to account, but it will not amount to much unless it is done more than once a year.

WOULD GRACE THE OFFICE.

In view of the admittance that the governor generalship of the Philippines has been offered to Dwight F. Davis, secretary of war in the Coolidge cabinet, there can be no question of his fitness for the office.

Mr. Davis has not been located in the islands, but he has been in close touch with affairs there from the fact that the islands are under the control of the war department of which he was the head. It was thus under his department that Governor Stimson was operating and naturally the policies he put into effect bore the sanction of Secretary Davis and the administration. Thus there would be reason for believing that should he be willing to accept the post he would be disposed to continue the good work that had been so well started by his predecessor.

The governor generalship of the Philippines is an important post. The common objection to it is the distance from home and yet the opportunity for service there is great. It means much to this country as to how that office is administered. General Wood recognized the great task before him in the islands and stuck steadfastly to it with commendable results. He brought to light conditions and effected changes that were of great importance. Governor Stimson was able to take up the burden, reconcile some of the differences which had prevailed with the politicians and establish an improved relationship.

It is the continuance of this good work that is desired. Except for one actually on the ground Mr. Davis holds inside knowledge of the situation and conditions, and the desire of the president to have him undertake that work is logical.

THE SOUTHERN STRIKES.

As developments continue it becomes apparent that the strikes in so many southern mills are not lacking in the same kind of fireworks that have featured similar disputes in the north. Because the south has been experiencing a great growth in manufacturing plants, and these plants have been favored by long hours of employment and unorganized workers, did not mean that it would continue forever.

It has not taken long for the southern workers to be aroused. Agitators have gotten in their work and they have not only withdrawn from factories, but they are resisting the right of others to take their place. In some places they have even blown up the water supply mains in order to create conditions which would bring about an acceptance of their demands.

Thus while the south has been attractive for textile plants in the past it is being made manifest that the time is aproaching, if it has not already arrived, when the advantage which is possessed by the south over the north is going to be greatly modified. Whatever the outcome of the present strikes it is being made evident that others will follow. There is an unwillingness to establish a precedent at this time that will be brought up in case of future trouble. Thus both sides are putting up a determined fight. The resulting conditions are not all that could be desired, but it will not be surprising if they have the effect of reducing the attractiveness of southern cities for textile plants. Present strikes are doing much toward breaking down that unfavorable competition, and it is being shown that if the start isn't made now it is only being delayed.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One thing is certain, no one has been rushing the straw hat season.

It wouldn't be a summer if someone wasn't planning an airplane flight to Rome.

The man on the corner says: All the tips these days are not from the asparagus bed.

Life is sweet but what a price Djilo Agha of Constantinople has paid for his alleged 160 years, when he attributes his longevity to cheese and garlic.

The guessers are getting as much of a kick out of fixing the time and place of the Lindbergh-Morrow wedding as they did in picking the president's cabinet.

There would be no ground for objecting to the idea of a congressional recess for the summer if congress would first clear up the business of the special session.

THESE WOMEN

It wasn't locusts droning in the trees at evening. It was just as rhythmic, but much louder.

It wasn't a savage council discussing war with a hostile tribe. It was just as guttural, but far more emphatic.

It wasn't children quarreling over their toys. It was just as noisy, but with greater dissonance.

It was Mrs. Weatherby's bridge party.

Up to the very last rubber there was no doubt as to who was going to win the prize. Mrs. Davis was high "man," but Mrs. Walker was rapidly catching up from behind. Mrs. Thomas, who was much in demand to adjust scores because she could add faster than anyone else, was so excited that she broke her pencil.

Mrs. Davis was apparently cool and collected, but if you looked closely you could see the color come and go. Mrs. Walker was frankly unnerved. She agitated her fan so nervously that she knocked down one of Mrs. Weatherby's precious lemonade glasses and broke it. Mrs. Weatherby said it "didn't matter"—so heartily that her tone rechilled the lemonade.

Mrs. Davis might well have been expected to be calm. She was always winning bridge prizes. She did it, she said, by a "system." Moreover, she had a good memory and knew which cards had been played. She also was a good judge of bad bridge players, which probably was an even greater help.

On the other hand, you couldn't expect Mrs. Walker to take the situation so phlegmatically. She hadn't won a prize this year.

The buzz-buzz-buzz increased. At last it was over. Mrs. Thomas, perspiring through her rouge, was adding scores like the very mischief. Mrs. Davis came out just two points behind Mrs. Walker, and when Mrs. Weatherby brought in the prize it was the cutest portable manicure set you ever saw in your life, all green enamel, which would just match Mrs. Walker's dresser set!

George Walker wasn't home yet. His wife slipped into a house dress and wearily superintended the preparation of his dinner. She herself couldn't eat a thing. She was too excited.

Would George never come? It was well past the usual hour when he returned from the office. She was just about to telephone to find out what was keeping him when he walked in. He was wearing golf togs.

"Why, George——" said Mrs. Walker.

"I guess I forgot to tell you," said George. "Today was the day of the tournament at the club."

"Supper," said Mrs. Walker, "is getting cold." George washed his hands, carved the roast, talking the while.

"You'll never guess who won the prize for low net," he said. Mrs. Walker, bursting with her news, had, of course, to guess.

"Wrong, wrong, and again wrong," said her husband. "Nobody else in the world won it but George Walker."

"Why, George, and isn't it a coincidence, I——"

"The score, Mabel, of course, you want to know the score. A round 99, which, with my handicap of 20, gave me a 79. I never dreamed that would take the prize. And was I in form? I'll say I was. Never topped a single drive. And you should have seen me play that water hole! In par, Mabel, in par. First I took my mashie niblick——"

Ten minutes later he was still going strong, when Mabel managed to ask if he wanted more dessert.

"If you please," said George. "But, say, I didn't show you my prize, did I? Wait a minute, here it is, all done up in tissue paper. See, a cigarette lighter——"

"But," said Mabel, "you already have three of them."

"Sure, Mabel, but not an enameled one like this. It'll just match the things on my desk!"

The telephone was the only thing that finally silenced George, Mabel answered. It was Mrs. Thomas. When Mabel turned to George after hanging up the receiver there were tears in her eyes.

"Oh, George, what do you think?" she said. "I won a prize at the bridge party this afternoon, at least I thought I did, and now Mrs. Thomas calls up to tell me that she made a mistake, and I didn't win it after all and will I please bring the prize over to Mrs. Davis' and——"

"Good gracious!" said George, "what is this bone of contention, anyway?"

"An enameled manicure set—and—" Mrs. Walker was perilously near to sobs.

"It beats me," said friend husband lighting a cigarette with his new lighter, "how seriously you women take these things."—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 16—Death and politics have combined to deprive the Pennsylvania delegation in the house of one record it held in double strength for years.

It no longer is challenged for congressional large family honors so proudly maintained by the late John Joseph Casey of Wilkes-Barre with his 11 children.

Nor can it fall back on John Morin of Pittsburgh with his tribe of 10, since Morin, after eight successive terms in the house, was not even a candidate in the primaries for election to the seventy-first congress.

Word of Casey's death in Panama came as a great shock to those who knew him. He seemed as robust and virile a man as ever figured on the rolls of either house or senate.

A big, muscular, red-headed man of abounding energy, not far past the half century mark, it was easy to think of him as some day gathering about him a huge family of grandchildren, for never was there a man more devoted to family ties.

He would talk to you by the hour of his children and beamingly exhibit their pictures.

Almost a Fixture

Morin, Philadelphia born and seven or eight years Casey's senior, seemed destined to remain in Washington more or less permanently. His 16 years in congress had rather cut him off from his home district.

Most Washington students of Pennsylvania politics ascribe the termination of his congressional career to that fact; to "absenteeism" at home. Seniority gave him the military committee chairmanship in the seventieth congress, but Frank James of Michigan, next ranking republican, was far more active in committee affairs and is slated for the chairmanship when the regular session rolls around in December and the house is fully organized.

Good Job, Anyway

By reason of his military chairmanship, Morin's friends sought for him the job of assistant secretary of war in the Hoover administration.

The entire Pennsylvania delegation urged him at the white house, but without success, as another man of Irish lineage but also of World war service overseas, Pat Hurley of Oklahoma, had the inside track. Morin landed, however, a berth on the federal employes' compensation commission, which will keep him in Washington.

With both Casey and Morin gone from "the hill," the Bystander does not know who in the senate or house takes over big family honors.

For one thing, the Congressional Directory for the special session has not been distributed as yet. Not that the autobiographers who supply the congressional who's-who data always include complete family information. Yet as a rule they do, particularly if they can show quite a progeny. It must be good politics to have big families.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Vacated Church Buildings

Mr. Editor: C. H. "Dad" Shaw, your venerable correspondent, wrote a letter a few days ago, in which he told of an automobile ride which he took out of Norwich. Of the impressions he received we noted one that quite puzzled him, namely the vacated church buildings in the country. He was unable to find a reason for this condition and left it an open question. It was evident that the above mentioned condition gave the friendly writer much concern. So far I have not seen any answer or explanation in your column and yet I feel that one should be given, especially by the clergy, who should be able to analyze and explain this condition. Although I myself am a newcomer I shall attempt to give an explanation which, although rather general in character, may satisfy "Dad" Shaw and those concerned about the situation for this condition is the same all over the country; in fact it may be more acute in the middle west than it is here.

Is the church losing her influence? Are people turning away from her in disappointment? Have they found something better to satisfy their hungry souls and give them spiritual stimulus? Are they finding solace and consolation in something else, or are churches filled only on funeral occasions? No! I would rather say that the church has a stronger hold on the people now than it formerly had. The people are now more religiously inclined than they ever were. Their church means more to them now than it did to former generations. They are more fair-minded now, they give five, yes ten times the amount for church support than they were giving a decade or two ago. They now build better and costlier church edifices.

We now hear of more people that are tithing (giving the tenth of their income for religious purposes) than we ever did before. Even secular magazines carry religious serials and the press discusses religious problems. The religious press is gaining in patronage and the church-colleges and theological seminaries are training more ministers and better church workers. It is now a mark of patriotism, prosperity and integrity to belong to and to be active in the church. Especially the native American is very friendly towards the church. He will not belittle her work or interfere with it even if he should not identify himself with the same, but he usually is a church member. It is true that about 45 per cent of our country's population are not church members, but few of these are actual infidels.

The church is certainly coming to her own in this wonderful land of ours. But why these empty church-buildings? Because of consolidation. Churches are continuously uniting and forming stronger organizations and doing away with wasteful competition between local churches as well as general bodies (synods), also doing more effective work, for in unity there is strength. Even the bee-keepers have come to realize this. They believe that they get more honey from a few strong colonies than they would from a great many weak ones, and so discourage swarming. Then we have the excellent highways and the swift automobiles. Why should the farmer worship in a little country church, listening to a tired preacher, who perhaps has a larger charge in the city and holds afternoon services out in the country, with little inspiration, with a sleepy group before him, without any choir or good organs. Why should such conditions be permitted to continue in our modern age, with our high-pressure methods, with our mode of transportation where swift and dependable automobiles bring the farmer into town in a few minutes, where he meets with a large circle of good people and where he can make new contacts and worship with more inspiration? The schools too are consolidating for greater efficiency, and for other similar reasons. Of course this will not explain everything, nor will this explanation excuse everybody. Much of this condition is due to indifference no doubt. These empty country churches could be restored and used for Sunday-schools, summer—or vacation Bible schools and other noble purposes, but we are still a materialistic generation and would rather live from hand to mouth, shift alone if no one leads or inspires. There are still too many that do not realize how much they owe to the church, they enjoy all the blessings of civilization and the protection of organized society without feeling the slightest obligation to the church that has brought all this about and made a life of such high order possible without making much adoo about it. They will find a multitude of excuses why they do not join the church or attend Divine services, but all such talk betrays lack of logic and sound judgment and has a tendency to pull down what loyal and faithful people have built up by hard labor and much sacrifice. At the same time these indifferent people would not care to move into or live in a churchless community, but they let the few loyal people carry the whole burden of building or maintaining churches. This is the reason for many dilapidated church-buildings and many shabby-looking and discouraged ministers.

Yours in every noble effort.

Jo's Wisdom.

Josephine, a two-year old miss, is an intelligent talker and recently surprised her parents proving she is also understanding. Father preparing to leave said: "Shall I bring ice cream?" spelling the last word.

"Yes, daddy, Jo wants ice cream," was the quick retort of the youngster.

Spare Ribs.

Betty, age six, came home from school one day recently, and told about hearing the teacher talk about feeding the birds during the cold, freezing weather. She was so much impressed that she said, "Mother, we just have to feed those little 'spare-rib' birds that come in our yard looking for something to eat."

MONTVILLE

Community Association Meeting—Contributions to Library—Personals.

At a meeting of the Montville Community association May 6, essays written by the school children on "Montville of Tomorrow" were read, and it was voted to appoint a committee of three judges and decide which of the papers should receive prizes. Prof. Gerard Jensen was named as one of the judges, with the power to select the other two. It was thought best, however, that the president confer with Mr. Hope as to the feasibility of the plan. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. G. Melcer, and in the absence of the secretary, Lloyd Keeney was appointed secretary, pro tem. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted, following which the chairman of the clean-up week committee, Miss Doris Johnson, gave a very interesting report, which brought forth a rising vote of thanks. No other reports could be heard because of the absence of the remaining officers. A motion was made and seconded that Miss Alice Ramage make provisions for the disposal of some refuse remaining over from clean-up week, at the expense of the association. Propositions for the regular disposal of garbage and other refuse were discussed, and a motion was made that Waterman Brown interview the owners of the corner stores as to the appropriate disposal of the same. A motion was made that the Community association wishes to thank all those who had so ably helped during clean-up week, and that the motion be published in the daily paper. It was also decided that letters of thanks be sent to the several firms and individuals for their help in making Montville clean and beautiful. A paper on the promotion of aviation with regard to identification of localities was read by Miss Ramage. The next meeting is to be held in June.

The solicitor for funds for the Montville Community library has recently received a check for $26 from the Robert Gair Co. of Uncasville, and a $10 check from the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. of Uncasville. This makes $85 of the $100 which is to be raised for the library this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole of New London spent Sunday with Mrs. Cole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Church of the Landphere place.

Mrs. Thomas Church of Maple avenue entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the Union Baptist church at her home Wednesday.

Mrs. Amy Lynch and Miss Mabel Browning of Cedar Hill were recent guests of Mrs. Lynch's daughter, Mrs. Samuel Bliven and family of Groton.

STORM OVER CENTRAL AND NORTHERN NEW ENGLAND

BOSTON, May 16—(AP)—One person was killed, several others were injured and considerable damage done by severe electrical and wind storms which swept over central and northern New England today.

Roofs were ripped off two school buildings and several other structures while falling trees endangering lives and property and blocked many roads.

A storm developed tornado violence in Maine, where it was reported to have swept the roof off the United States Marine hospital at East Deering, unroofed other buildings and destroyed power lines. A cloud burst accompanied the wind in Maine and the brief visit of both was felt throughout the state.

Robert Gillan of East Braintree, Mass., was killed when a crane he was operating at Quincy was blown into Fore river and submerged. Other workmen brought Gillan to shore almost immediately, but his back and legs had been broken in the fall.

CITY HIT BY SUDDEN BUT SHORT AFTERNOON STORM OF WIND AND RAIN

Norwich did not escape without its usual daily rain Thursday, but this time it came with wind of almost tornado force and a deluge of rain for about half an hour in the middle of the afternoon, that drove everyone to cover. Along about 3 o'clock the moderately warm and sunshiny day suddenly changed its character when big black clouds unexpectedly appeared from the southwest, darkening the day to almost twilight, rain began to fall in torrents and a gale of wind whipped trees back and forth and swept the streets clear of everything that was not fastened down. Several flashes of lightening with rolls of thunder accompanied the storm.

However, the city escaped with comparatively slight damage, although in parts of the western section of the state, places were struck by lightning, barns were unroofed and roads and fields were flooded.

A window on the elevator shaft at The Bulletin building was blown in in the midst of the storm and a Prospect street house owner had a window in his bathroom blown in.

A tree in a yard on Broad street near the corner of Cliff street, was split in two and Washington, Broad and other streets were littered with the limbs of trees that had been torn off. A number of catch basins at the foot of hilly streets were washed full of sand which made work for the street department in cleaning them out.

The storm arrived just in time to convert Broadway, from the top of the hill to the Soldiers' monument into a sticky mass of oily tar for motorists as the street department had been giving the highway a tarvia coating with sand on top during the day. One side of Washington street had been given the same treatment, but the clear side of the street left a clean space for motorists to use.

After the storm had passed the sun came out and the balance of the afternoon was pleasant, but towards evening the temperature dropped rapidly and about 9 o'clock another gale hit the city for a time. There was nothing springlike in the atmosphere for the rest of the night.

COLCHESTER COW CASE WAS BEFORE MERIDEN COURT

Dr. R. L. Smith of Hartford, federal inspector in charge of tubercular eradication work in Connecticut threatened to "sock" Prosecutor Henry Dryburgt "right on the nose" during a hearted verbal battle in police court Wednesday at Meriden. During the argument Dr. Smith loudly declared that he wasn't a crook and that it was "the first time in sixteen years of service that he had ever been accused of being crooked." The dispute arose when Prosecutor Dryburgt, resenting the inspector's defense of David Felden, 28, a Colchester butcher, intimated that they possibly were in "cahoots" together.

James M. Whittlesey, state commissioner of domestic animals, and Dr. R. L. Smith accompanied Felden when he appeared in court. Felden, arraigned on a charge of cruelty to animals, stated that both Commissioner Whittlesey and Inspector Smith were ready to testify in his behalf. Following his arrest in Meriden on Monday, Felden, who State Humane society agents claimed had packed four cows into a truck body designed to hold only three, notified Mr. Whittlesey and Dr. Smith and both men were present when the truck and its load of cows arrived in Colchester, and, as Felden alleged, saw nothing wrong in his method of packing the cows on the truck. The animals had reacted to a tuberculin test and were being taken from Watertown to Colchester to be slaughtered. "Dr. Smith has evidenced so much interest in the defendant that we might quote Milton when he asks 'Why stands Michael in the ranks of Moloch?'" was the prosecutor's last remark as he left the courtroom. Rev. Delmar B. Trout, president of the Meriden Ministers' association was present in the courtroom and expressed the opinion that conditions which exist relative to transporting cattle should be remedied. Felden had the charge against him nolled for $12.

MADE TEST PULL OF FIRE ALARM BOX 172

At 7.45 o'clock Thursday morning box 172 was pulled in for a test alarm. The alarm was sounded for the purpose of testing the accuracy of the fire bell in the tower of the Community house. The bell for sometime past has not been ringing the correct box number. During the past few days the bell has been readjusted and when the box was pulled Thursday morning it sounded the correct number. This was the second test alarm in two days, as box 18, was pulled in at 7.30 o'clock Wednesday night.

The new siren is expected to arrive in Norwich within the next day or two. It was shipped from Rochester, N. Y. last Friday. The siren, weighing 550 pounds, will be installed in the tower of the central fire station and will be operated by a 5 H. P. motor.

Three blasts on the siren, which carries a distance of seven miles, will summon all firemen off duty to their stations, in the case of bell alarms. Under the two platoon system, inaugurated recently in the local fire department, half of the firemen are off duty day and night. The sounding of the siren will summon the firemen off duty, in the event their services are needed.

As soon as the siren arrives it will be installed and given a tryout on approval. If it proves satisfactory it will probably become permanent. Within the past few days a traffic siren has been placed in front of the Martin house on lower Broadway, to warn traffic at the Shannon corner of the approach of the fire apparatus in answering alarms. The new traffic signal is proving most satisfactory.

LOCAL HAY FEVER SEASON IS MAKING APPROACH

About this time in the year or in the late summer when nature offers so many inducements for enjoyment out of doors, a rich crop of sneezes descends upon certain people and changes the complexion of life over night.

For this is the beginning of the hay fever season which with surprising regularity attacks certain people in nearly every community except in very high altitudes. From May to June the spring grasses are blossoming and forming pollens which, gathered up by the wind are scattered about sometimes over great distances even to the extent of a mile. There are many such grasses blooming now or if it is a cold rainy season will bloom later. These include:

Orchard grass which pollinates in May, found in meadows and waste places.

English plantain which pollinates from May to July, found in lawns and waste places.

Sweet vernal grass pollinates in May, found in meadows and wastes.

Blue grass also in May in meadows and along roadsides.

Pollinating in June are: red top in fields and roadsides, meadow fescue in lawns and fields, timothy in fields and roadside.

While in the fall pollinating from August until frost are the ragweeds which grow profusely in these same places and cause more cases of hay-fever because the pollens, being smaller and lighter, are carried farther by the wind (sometimes for many miles) and thus affect a greater number of people.

All these are grasses and weeds that grow in Connecticut and are a source of hay fever.

Some years ago the American Hay-fever Prevention association was formed with the base of their activities in New Orleans. Thanks to their tireless efforts in studying patients in various sections of the country the cause and treatment of hay-fever are now widely understood and practiced. By skin tests, using extracts of these different pollens, it is possible to find out which one is causing hayfever in each patient. Usually it is only one pollen causing the disease, but occasionally several. In some cases, too, patients are susceptible to the so-called perennial hay-fever which may be caused by dandruff protein of animals and horses (one person had to forego the pleasure of the horse show on this account); by dust of feathers (in some instances feather pillows cannot be used); dust of wool; skin dust of dogs, cats, or fur bearing animals (pets often have to be discarded); occasionally certain foods such as meat, fish, eggs, milk and cheese.

When the offending agent has been discovered through these skin tests a series of treatments preventive or curative can be given by physicians which will greatly relieve the symptoms if not actually prevent its occurrence. Preventive treatment is often more effective than the curative, but it must be started several weeks before the season of pollination of these plants begins.

ADDRESS PYTHIAN KNIGHTS IN DISTRICT MEETING

More than 200 members of the Knights of Pythias from various parts of the state listened to an address by Supreme Representative Harlan P. Knight of Somerville, Mass., at the district meeting which was held with Trumbull lodge, No. 48, as host, in Union lodge rooms at New London Wednesday night.

The subject of Mr. Knight's discourse was What Are the Vital Things that Make the Order of the Knights of Pythias Necessary in the Everyday Life of Its Members? By impressive illustrations he brought home to his listeners the full meaning of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence, the cardinal principles of the order.

The meeting was opened by Chancellor Commander William Cooper. After the singing of America, the gavel was turned over to Supreme Representative Thomas H. Troland, who introduced the speakers of the evening.

The first speaker was Grand Chancellor Louis A. Beehler of West Haven, who talked briefly about the progress of Pythianism in this domain.

At the conclusion of Mr. Beehler's address Mr. Knight was introduced.

Besides the speakers, several other distinguished guests were present. They were Supreme Representative Emmanuel Cave of Bridgeport, who was accompanied by Charles Andrews, also of that city; Edward E. Aspinwall of Hartford, grand keeper of records and seals; W. M. Potter of Willimantic, grand master of the exchequer; Herbert Evans of Waterbury, grand master at arms; Ernest C. Falk of Torrington, grand inner guard; Walter R. King of Willimantic, past grand chancellor, and Arthur F. Mitchell of New Britain.

Visitors were present from all over the state.

PLAINTIFF HAS HYSTERICS IN SUPERIOR COURT

Trial of the suit of Mrs. Carmella Barbetta of 561 West Main street against Frank Hertz of this city for $5,000 damages came to an unexpected end in the superior court here Thursday morning before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury when Mrs. Barbetta became hysterical and had to be taken to her home after being attended by two doctors.

The case was then settled out of court. It was understood a nominal sum was awarded to Mrs. Barbetta.

Before her spell of hysterics brought interruption to the court trial, Joseph Maggio, who resided at the Barbetta home, and Elmer E. Pitcher, the civil engineer, had testified, the latter explaining a plan of the location of the accident on West Main street. Near Dunham street Mrs. Barbetta sued for injuries she received when hit by a motor truck belonging to Mr. Hertz.

When Mrs. Barbetta's outburst disturbed the trial of the case she was warned several times to be quiet, but when she became hysterical Dr. J. J. Donohue and Dr. Louis T. Cassidy were called in to give her treatment.

WILL NAME DORMITORY AFTER MARCUS WHITE

A new dormitory at New Britain normal school, which is to be ready for occupancy in September, is to be named after Marcus White, a former teacher at the Norwich Free Academy who for two years, about 1892-1893 was in charge of the normal school department.

This announcement was made Thursday afternoon at the New Britain Teachers club, simultaneously with the announcement that Mr. White will retire at the close of the present school year from the principalship of the New Britain state normal school which he has held for 35 years. The new dormitory will be known as Marcus White hall.

More than 4,000 teachers have been graduated during the period of Mr. White's principalship, and he now holds the longest tenure record for New England and few normal school principals in the country can show equal length of service.

The new dormitory, to bear his name, is of red brick with white stone trimming. There will be accommodations for 108 girls. The school building, with which the dormitory harmonizes architecturally, was completed five years ago.

Mr. White was born in Blackstone, Mass., August 18, 1861. He attended the elementary and high schools of Grafton, Mass., spent one year at Worcester academy, and in 1882, after a two years course, was graduated from the Westfield, Mass., normal school. The following three years were spent as a teacher in the schools of Holden, Mass., and Enfield, Mass. Then Mr. White entered Wesleyan university at a sophomore, being graduated in the class of 1888. He led his class in scholarship in his senior year and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He was also a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon and Mystical Seven, honorary senior society. Participation in college activities included captaincy of the baseball team, and editorship of the Wesleyan Argus and he delivered the Washington's Birthday oration his senior year.

From 1888 to 1890 Mr. White taught English for two years in the William Penn Charter school of Philadelphia. The next year he was on the faculty of the state normal school in Millersville, Pa. A year of study in Paris and Heidelberg followed, and then for two years Mr. White was in charge of the normal training department at Norwich Free Academy. It was from this latter post that he came to the New Britain normal school to succeed the late Clarence F. Carroll.

Enrollment at the New Britain school is limited to about 325 in accordance with the teacher needs of the state and there are about fifty class rooms with more than 1,500 children in which the student teachers have practice work under expert supervision.

Much of Mr. White's thought and interest during the past eight years has been given to the planning for the group of new buildings. The school building, which is a quadrangle with a beautiful formal garden in the center, was provided for by a legislative appropriation of $750,000 in 1921. The dormitory, costing $350,000 was authorized by the 1927 legislature. Other appropriations for land purchase and plans and for roads and grading have also been made.

YONKERS K. OF C. ENTERS EIGHT RUNNERS FOR DUWELL 10-MILE ROAD RACE

A record entry for the fourth annual Duwell 10-mile road race to be run on the afternoon of Memorial day, May 30, was predicted last night by Duwell officials with the receipt of the first big batch of official entries, early in the day. Although the entry blanks for the event were sent out only a week ago, 28 are listed for race at this early date.

Another of the early entries, prominent in distance circles, is Russel Jackel of the New York A. C. Jackel it will be remembered placed third in the local run two years ago. Since then he has run a number of full distance marathons and placed well up among the leaders in each event. The committee in charge of this year's race are working to secure the entries of several of the men, that represented the U. S. at the Olympic games last summer and expect within a few days to be able to make some startling announcements. While discussing the prospective entries Duwell officials stated last night that they believe the field for the coming race will be by far the best that ever started in an event of its kind in Connecticut.

The guessing contest being conducted by the Duwells in connection with the coming race is creating considerable interest locally. As was previously announced prizes will be awarded individuals guessing the numbers of the first three men to place. Numbers from 1 to 100 will be allotted the runners two days before the race, the assignment to be done through a drawing so that no athlete will be favored with any particular number. In the meanwhile the entrants in the guessing contest are to pick the combination of numbers that they believe will finish first, second and third.

The persons picking the winning combination or the closest to the winner will be awarded suitable prizes. Contest blanks with rules and details governing the affair are being distributed at the present time.

BRAVES TAKE TWO GAMES FROM THE GIANTS

BOSTON, May 16—(AP)—Boston took both games from the Giants this afternoon, with a heavy wind and a thunder storm for an interlude. The scores were 4 to 3 over the routine distance and then 5 to 4 in ten innings.

The winning runs in the second contest came after the Giants apparently had won by scoring once in their half of the tenth on singles by O'Farrell and Roush, with Hubbell's infield out aiding. Two were gone in the last half of the tenth when Clark got a bad hop single through Jackson. He scored all the way from first on Joe Dugan's double to left center, his second double and fourth hit of the game. On the second pitch, Maguire combed Hubbell for a double to far right center and Dugan crossed the plate with the winning tally.

Dugan shared batting honors in the final game with Melvin Ott, Giant right fielder, who made a single, a double, a triple and a home run off Art Delaney. His four bagger came in the seventh with none on, and went higher into the old right field bleachers than any other homer on record in a National league game here. A high wind and bad hops complicated the game for both sides.

Bruce Cunningham, the Pacific Coast league recruit, pitched steady ball to shade Larry Benton and Bill Walker in the opener. He had one bad inning, but the Braves offset this with two rallies of their own. The score:

BACON ACADEMY TROUNCES N. F. A. SECOND VARSITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, May 16—The Bacon Academy baseball team defeated the Norwich Free Academy second team in a fast and well-played game on the Colchester Park ball diamond Thursday afternoon by a score of 9-6.

Good pitching and hitting were displayed in the fray. Fitzgerald, the N. F. A. star 3rd baseman and Harry Deitch, the "Bacon" star 1st baseman made sensational catches of foul flys. I. Levine and Geer were the feature hitters. Polakevich, the "Bacon" pitcher worked in top form. He was succeeded in the 8th by Stebbins who also made a good showing.

The "Bacon" boys feel much elated over their defeat of the last N. F. A. team because the N. F. A. second team defeated the Bulkeley second team of New London last Monday and the Bulkeley boys defeated the "Bacon" team in a fast game here on May 6. The Bacon Academy boys will play a return game with Bulkeley high school second team in New London next Monday and the Colchester team feels confident of victory. Under the direction of Coach J. W. Goodrich, the "Bacon" outfit played in fine form in Thursday's game and showed the result of the past few week's intensive training. Bacon Academy can boast of one of the best trained and strongest teams in the history of the school.

NEW HAVEN OFFICIALS WILL HANDLE BULK. ACAD. GAME

Officials from the New Haven Recreation board will handle the Academy-Bulkeley game at Mercer field, New London, Saturday, it was announced Thursday evening.

The Academy will enter Saturday's engagement as very large favorites. The Wildcats are now the only undefeated high school club in the state, having run up 11 straight victories. Bulkeley has played about .500 ball this year and has nowhere near the impressive record of the Red and White.

But the Whalers always put up a great fight against their ancient rivals and Saturday no doubt the followers expect them to stage just such a game. Neither starting pitcher has been announced yet and it will probably not be made known until just before game time.

The Academy held a batting drill Thursday afternoon and will polish up with another session this afternoon. The locals are guarding against overconfidence but still they believe they can annex their twelfth straight win of the year on Mercer field. No change in the local lineup is expected from that which appeared against Chapman Tech Wednesday.

Saturday's game, for the first time in years, will be a league engagement, Bulkeley having entered the league last September after several years' lapse.

COLLETT AND WETHERED TO MEET FOR TITLE TODAY

ST. ANDREWS, Scot., May 16—(AP)—Glenna Collett who tomorrow meets Joyce Wethered in the 36 hole final golf match for the British women's British golf championship title, is the first finalist the United States has provided in the 36 years play of this classic tournament.

The American girl today added two more victims to her list, making six straight victories this week. While Miss Collett was defeating, Mrs. J. B. Watson and Miss Doris Park, Miss Wethered continued her merciless play against Miss Molly Gourlay and Mrs. Edith Leitch Guedalla.

To British golfers the outcome of tomorrow's long match is a foregone conclusion. They do not believe any woman golfer can stand up against the powerful driving, accurate irons and putting of the 27 year old English girl who this week has been as unbeatable as she was during three championships she won before she retired in 1925.

While Glenna has not been sure of her play on the greens and has had to fight to the 16th or 16th greens in nearly all her matches, the former British champion has disposed of her opponents far from the clubhouse where a network of greens and fairways with several short holes often enable a player with a lead to clinch victory.

CROWDER HAS BETER OF PITCHING DUEL WITH MILLER

ST. LOUIS, May 16—(AP)—Alvin Crowder won a pitcher's duel with Walter Miller, and the St. Louis Browns shut out the Cleveland Indians today, 1 to 0 in the opener of a four game series. The winning run made in the ninth inning, on two singles and a walk, was the first run scored off Miller in twenty-seven innings.

Crowder, allowed the visitors only two hits and only twenty-eight men faced him. He struck out six Indians, including three in the sixth inning. The Browns made three double plays. The score:

Noted Golfers at Greenwich

GREENWICH, May 16—(AP)—Women golfers, several of national prominence including Miss Maureen Orcutt, women's metropolitan and eastern title holder, arrived here today for the intersectional match to be played tomorrow at the Greenwich Country club for the Golf Illustrated trophy. Fifteen matches will be played, scored on the Nassau system. There will be another match at the local club Monday.

Not much to write about today.

Say, folks, didja ever try to write about something when you ain't got nothing to write about. Well, that's the way I am now.

When you have to fill up your allotted space and there ain't an idea stirring in the old bean, it's some job. Guess the old vaccination must be working.

You see, folks, it's this way. There's a lotta people what want you to write about this and that but you can't do it without getting somebody sore. And I don't want to get anybody sore at me.

I could write about the high cost of parking in New London and how anybody would think them streets down there was gold filled, but I don't want them cops sore at me. I drive through there once in awhile.

Then I could ask some snappy questions about the fella what drives a car and starts blowing his horn at Laurel Hill bridge and keeps it going till he gets to Main street, all the time rubbering at a certain office window But I don't want to get that fella sore.

Politics is a good subject to write about if anybody can understand how politics is run in Norwich. I been trying to find out how they are run and I've come to the conclusion that they ain't run, they just happen.

I could remark on the two tickets but that's not such a strong subject either. It's best to let the candidates speak for themselves and the people form their own opinion.

I see where Mayor Robbins has got an invite to fly over Putnam today. The mayor ain't been up in the air much and keeps his feet, as well as his ear, pretty close to the ground.

Well, folks, you see there's quite a number of things I might say but I'm a peace-loving woman—that is outside the home. Of course we women have our martial squabbles and I ain't lost a decision yet.

I guess I gotta enough to fill the space so I'll quit and go to nursing that old vaccination.

So long, folks.

O'DOUL LEADS ATTACK AGAINST DAZZY VANCE

PHILADELPHIA, May 16—(AP)—Frank O'Doul led the Philadelphia attack against Dazzy Vance here today as the Baker boys routed the great Brooklyn right hander to win the opening game of the series by 7 to 4. The former Pacific coast boy smacked out two home runs at the expense of Vance, running his season's total to seven. Bill Rhiel and Johnny Frederick hit for the circuit in Brooklyn's half of the ninth.

The defeat was Vance's third of the season and Brooklyn's ninth in succession. The Dazzier gave way to a pinch batsman after all hope vanished, and Lou Koupal pitched the last two rounds.

Claude Willoughby pitched capital ball against his eminent opponent, but toward the end, either weakened or decided to move at an easier clip. The score:

TIGERS SQUEEZE OUT WIN OVER WHITE SOX

DETROIT, May 16—(AP)—Fighting to get within striking distance of the league leading Athletics and Yankees, the Detroit Tigers barely eked out a four to three victory today over the Chicago White Sox. The Browns also won, preserving their practical tie with Detroit, and together with the Tigers advanced into a virtual tie with the second place Yankees, half a game behind the Athletics. No actual change of position occurred in the first division, the Tigers remaining fourth by a scant margin in percentage points.

Both Owen Carroll and Alphonse Thomas pitched good ball but Carroll, holding the Sox to six hits, had a slight edge. Both had almost perfect control. Three errors made by Lena Blackburne's men spelled a large part of the difference in score. The score:

POWERMEN SWAMP MARTIN IN ONE-SIDED GAME

The Eastern Conn. Power Co. swamped the J. B. Martin Co. in a dusty league game played on the Uncasville diamond Thursday evening, the score being 20 to 1.

Tucker had a perfect day at bat with four hits in as many trips to the plate. Dugas and Morasky also hit hard and the latter was not forced to exert himself in the box, keeping the hits well scattered.

Hyduma also played a good game at first.

Hennessy Beats Wright

HAGEN IS ELIMINATED IN THOUSAND GUINEAS TOURNEY; DIEGEL NOW LEADS

MOORTOWN, Eng., May 16—(AP)—Walter Hagen fell today but Leo Diegel sprang forward to grasp the banner of leadership in the battle for international professional golf honors over the Moortown course.

Supreme in the medal play of the qualifying rounds, Hagen found a match play conqueror in his old rival, George Duncan, in the first elimination test of the Thousand Guineas tournament. It was the second time the famous American met defeat at the hands of the Briton over the same course within the month.

Today's reversal for "The Haig" was by the narrowest of margins and had nothing of the crushing force of the Ryder cup discomforture. Only superb golf gave Duncan a bitterly fought battle at the home hole.

On the heels of Hagen's compulsory retirement, Diegel was returned the winner in two matches, mowing down two of his own countrymen. In his afternoon round, Leo reached the heights of golfing efficiency when he played the first nine holes in a record breaking 30 strokes. The performance surpassed any nine holes ever played at Moortown and the news proved so startling to the followers of the game assembled here that those who did not see it refused to believe it.

Joe Turnesa shared with Diegel the honors of the day's twin conflicts in which five Americans were wiped out. Only Diegel and Turnesa remained to represent the United States in the surviving eight, who continue the battle in two rounds tomorrow.

Jose Jurado could not putt today and he fell with most of the North Americans. W. T. Twine, a British pro, literally entwined the little South American in a net of stymies.

Horton Smith disposed of his British opponent, T. Barber, in the morning but the Joplin youth fell a victim to an attack by Turnesa in the afternoon. He was down most of the way as the result of weak approaches and was finally eliminated at the sixteenth. Turnesa's most difficult task was beating Ernest Whitcombe in the first round, and he accomplished the feat at the 19th, a dry hole, however, where a birdie four finished it.

Dudley nosed out C. Sayner, a Britisher in the morning round and played even better golf in the afternoon but it was his misfortune to encounter Diegel, and no golfer could hope to head Leo in his winning mood today. Dudley was defeated 5 and 4.

Al Watrous fell a victim of Diegel's power in the first round but the pro champion then had not reached the top of his game and the Detroiter brought him to the home green, although trailing most of the way.

First Round

George Duncan defeated Walter Hagen, one up.

Joe Turnesa defeated Ernest Whitcombe, 19 holes.

Horton Smith defeated T. Barber, two up.

Ed Dudley defeated S. Sayner, three and two.

Leo Diegel defeated Al Watrous, one up.

Second Round

Diegel defeated Dudley, five and four.

Turnesa defeated Smith, three and two.

CARDS NOSE OUT PIRATES IN 10TH INNING RALLY

PITTSBURGH, May 16—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals achieved a ten to nine victory over Pittsburgh here today in ten innings largely through the heavy swatting of Jim Bottomley, first baseman, who made two homers early in the game and a double in the ninth that tied the score.

Holm scored the winning run in the tenth after reaching first on Adams' fumble. Gelbert sacrificed him to second and Wilson's double put the run in the bag with one out.

Johnson was the winning pitcher for the Cardinals, who took undisputed possession of first place by virtue of the victory, Chicago having been idle. Jess Haines started for St. Louis but was relieved by Haid in the third. Johnson worked the last three frames after Manager Billy Southworth batted for Haid in the eighth.

The Pirates used Petty, Brame, and Swetonic on the mound. The score:

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 16—The Quinebaug Indians slugged their way to a 5 to 2 win over the P. and A. team at Paco field tonight. Ashley showed his old time form by holding the curtain makers to two scattered hits and fanning nine. He took himself out of a hole in the second inning by striking out two men when after one out the P. and A. players filled the sacks on errors. Lambert, first sacker for Quinebaug, was the star hitter for the game, having made two hits, which accounted for three of the Indians five runs. A large crowd saw the second game of the twilight league and it looks as though the fight for the league leadership will be tight. The score:

CURTIS MORGAN'S CLERK ONE OF TWO SMALLPOX CASES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 16—There is no change in the smallpox situation here today and the only case that exists is that of Douglass Reed, 19, colored youth of 20 Jefferson avenue, who became ill yesterday. Every precaution is being taken by the health authorities to prevent spreading, and, if possible, to determine the source of the carrier of the germ.

City Manager William A. Holt today sent a communication to Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney and Chief Thomas Shipman of the fire department, suggesting that the members of the departments submit to vaccination. The police and firemen are constantly coming in contact with all classes of people and it is believed that vaccination will go a long way toward preventing the carrying of the germ. A physician was at police headquarters at 11:30 o'clock tonight when the third and last detail of patrolmen reported for duty, but none of the members were vaccinated. Whether the firemen will submit to vaccination remains to be seen. City Manager Holt also had all employes of the city advised that as a precautionary measure they should be vaccinated. This afternoon a physician was at the city clinic, Church street, where many children were vaccinated.

Two additional cases appeared in Groton during the day. Irene Norton, 23, employed in the law office in New London of G. Curtis Morgan, and William Anderson, employed by the New London Ship & Engine company, came down with the disease. Both Miss Norton and Anderson have suffered the malady in a mild form, but they were frequent, if not daily visitors to New London.

Boy Not Injured

An automobile driven by Ellwood R. Foster, 245 Jefferson avenue, struck an unidentified boy of 8, residing at 19 Rosemary street, this afternoon when the child was crossing the highway at the junction of Rosemary and Cole streets. After being knocked down the lad regained his feet and ran to his home. He declared that he was uninjured and the mother refused to permit Foster to take the boy to the office of a physician that the child might be examined.

COHANZIE SCHOOL BOYS ENROLL FOR SWIMMING

As a part of its program to serve men and boys of the surrounding towns the town and country branch, New London Y. M. C. A. got in touch with the Cohanzie school to enroll all the boys who are non-swimmers in a learn-to-swim class at the Central Branch Y. M. C. A. pool. These classes are being conducted Tuesday and Friday evenings for the next two weeks, and practically every boy who will attend the four classes will be able to secure the swimmers' button presented by the Y for being able to swim a distance of sixty feet. Herbert W. Hicks, executive secretary of the town and country Y. M. C. A. and Howard W. Corey of the central branch, are making a round of the schools throughout the section bordering on New London and enrolling the boys for the classes. A visit and talk to the non-swimmers amongst the boys of Cohanzie resulted in the following enrollments: John Sherman, Henry Hayes, Frank Johnson, Francis Bauer, Wallace Hobbs, John Petrowsky, Alexander Leiper, Norman Barrett, Rutherford Burdick, Robert Lavoie, William Danler, Edward Smith, Eugene Sang, Franklin Steward, John Dayton and Rudolph Grabner.

DRIVER HAS CLOSE CALL WHEN LIMB IS BLOWN DOWN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 16—During a high wind that prevailed late this afternoon the limb of a tree in front of 20 Richards street was blown down. The massive limb crashed on top of a commercial truck, owned by Frank Alanach, contractor, and driven by Henry Strickland, of Oakdale. Strickland, fortunately was not on the seat of the truck, for the limb pentrated the cab and had the driver been at his post he must have been injured. The accident was reported at the office of the department of public safety and laborers removed the limb from the point of traffic.

Trolley Ties Replaced

A force of track workers of the Connecticut company was engaged throughout last night and today reconditioning a section of track at the corner of State and Main streets. The part of the track that curves on the south bound main line, had become out of repair and work was started removing the old track and laying new rails shortly before 10 o'clock. As soon as the brick pavements and its foundation of bluestone had been removed by drills, the decayed ties were taken up and replaced by new ones, after which the tracks were laid. This work was accomplished before cars started running today, but the laying of a temporary road surface, comprising a composition of tarred stone and tarvia, was not finished until this afternoon. This surface will remain a year or more and until such time as the same work is performed on the north bound tracks, which will not be right away.

Mrs. Walker Recovering

The condition of Mrs. Frank B. Walker, wife of Manager Walker of the Hotel Mohican, who recently underwent an operation at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, is reported as improved, although the return of Mrs. Walker to her apartment at the hotel will not be for a week or two, or perhaps longer.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Probably one of the most significant factors in the present civilization, the modern skyscraper, forms the locale around which William Boyd's newest star film, "Skyscraper," is woven. The structure itself, its girders, battering riveters, swinging beams at dizzy heights, endangering the workers at every turn, forms the menace in this unusual photoplay which Howard Higgin directed at the De Mille studio for Pathe.

William Boyd and Alan Hale appear as rugged steel workers. Sue Carol, Alberta Vaughn and Wesley Barry are in the supporting cast. The story of "Skyscraper" which will be on view at the Breed theatre today and Saturday was written by Dudley Murphy. The director was Howard Higgin.

Broadway Theatre

What is believed to be a record breaker for variety of settings is established by Warner Brothers production, "The Greyhound Limited" starring Monte Blue at the Broadway theatre today.

"Never in my ten years experience in motion pictures have I taken part in a picture with so many locations," declared director Howard Bretherton. "There are eighty-three separate and distinct settings in "The Greyhound Limited," many of them exteriors.

Among the exteriors are the railroad station and yards of a large city —the station of a smaller town—an automobile race through city streets—an exciting chase through mountains between two automobiles—a head-on collision of trains—a back alley haunted by criminals—and two residences.

Interiors include a typical station lunchroom, two houses, a locomotive cab, a tailor shop, a drug store, a court room, the death cell and execution room of a penitentiary; a station, a ballroom and many other locations.

In this variety of scenes the tense melodrama of two pals and a girl is excitingly depicted. Grant Withers, Edna Murphy, Lucy Beaumont, Ernest Shield, and Lew Harvey head the supporting cast. The story is by Albert Howson, Anthony Coldeway did the scenario.

MARKET RALLIED TOWARD THE CLOSE DESPITE CONSIDERABLE REALIZING

NEW YORK, May 16. —(AP)—Erratic gyrations of the call loan rate, added to renewed Thursday uneasiness over the New York rediscount rate, caused a confusing flaring and flickering of speculative enthusiasm on the stock market today.

The market went into a sinking spell during the morning, with the posting of a 14 per cent. renewal rate for call loans, rallied briskly as the rate was successively decreased, finally reaching 8 per cent., but encountered considerable realizing near the close.

The extreme sensitiveness of the money market, with loans at 7 per cent. on Monday, 10 on Tuesday, 15 yesterday, and down to 8 today, has caused much dissatisfaction in Wall Street and sharp criticism of banking practice, and tended to discourage both public and professional operators from stock market participation. Total sales today again fell below 2,500,000 shares. Price indices indicated that the result of the price fluctuations was a small gain for the market as a whole.

As had been foreshadowed by the Bank of England's retention of its 5 1-2 per cent. rate this morning, the Federal Reserve directors made no change in the New York bank's rate this afternoon. With Sterling again approaching the incoming gold point, no change is expected in the New York rate until the London rate has been again revised upward. Also, it is believed in banking circles that reserve officials wish the San Francisco bank to bring its rate up to the 5 per cent. level before a rate higher than that is inaugurated in the east. There is a tendency to associate Governor Young's recent visit to the coast with this theory.

The Federal Reserve Brokerage loan compilation, while showing a negligible increase of $14,000,000, was rather discouraging to some speculative circles, as some of the larger commission houses had reported substantial decreases in loans with the recent liquidation. The upturn was attributed largely to new financing. Both New York and out of town banks decreased their loans a little, presumably in connection with mid-month settlements, but this was offset by an increase in the loans for "others." New York banks also decreased their borrowings at the federal reserve by $23,000,000 to a total of $166,000,000.

Outside of the credit situation, there was little in the day's news of market-wide influence, save, perhaps, the more optimistic reports from the reparations conference. The conference is being watched with especial interest in copper circles. Sinclair Refining increased the price of tank car gasoline in the east 1-2 of a cent a gallon, and there were indications that other refiners would follow its example.

An important development disclosed this evening was the definite entrance of General Motors into the aviation field with purchase of a 40 per cent. interest in Fokker. General Motors reported April sales to consumers of 223,303 cars, a gain of 13,936 over April, 1928.

Burroughs Adding Machine was a high flier, mounting nearly 15 points to a new high at 302 1-8 on proposal of a 5-for-1 split-up. Underwood Elliott Fisher was also strong on reports of record-breaking current earnings. Some of the automotive parts issues were again strong, Sparks Withington rising more than 8 points to a new peak, and Borg Warner selling up more than 4. Tobacco issues continued upward, Lorillard reaching a new high for the year at 29 3-4.

Motors generally moved in a narrow range, save Auburn, which was admitted to trading on this market today, and ranged between 231 and 236, closing at the top, a new high. The upturn in Packard appeared checked for the moment, and it closed off a fraction. Utilities closed fairly strong, North American reaching a new peak at 118, and Detroit Edison duplicating its previous high with a 7-point advance. Coppers were sharply depressed during the morning, but mostly closed higher. Anacondas dropped to 121, but rallied to 126 1-4, a net gain of nearly a point. Equitable Trust rose 15 points to 750 on announcement of consolidation with Seaboard National.

U. S. Steel and Radio sagged a couple of points, then rallied, the former closing higher. Motor products dropped 6 points in a small turnover, and Commonwealth Power and Commercial Solvents each lost 5. Union Carbide, Wright Aero, Simmons and By Products Coke were among issues losing 2 to 3 points.

Commodities were irregular, cotton mounting about $1 a bushel on bearish weather and crop reports, and corn eased a little.

Foreign exchanges were barely steady, with Sterling Cables again a shade lower at $4.85 1-16.

DANIELSON

QUOTE BIBLE TEXTS BUT STILL DRAWS FINE OF $7

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 16—A unique spectacle was attendant upon a hearing before Justice Bernier in court at Brooklyn this afternoon as John Ligeros, 25, a native of Greece, and claiming to have no home and Pehovah as a guide, and Tel Scouffas, 49, of 184 Seymour street, Hartford, were presented to plead to a charge that they had been guilty, jointly, of a breach of the peace. Each came to court possessed of a Bible and quoted texts therefrom in answer to queries made of them. They pleaded not guilty, were found guilty, fined $7 each and each was given a suspended jail sentence of ten days, provided they would leave Brooklyn and cease their activities there. They appealed from this finding, that their case may be heard later in the superior court, so their bonds were fixed at $200 each. Being unable to furnish this, they were committed to the county jail at Brooklyn. It was understood this afternoon that the organization, or group, with which they operate, is possessed of ample funds, and that the bail money would be produced in the immediate future and their release brought about.

Ligeros and Scouffas appeared here yesterday and began to make a person to person and house to house canvass in an effort to sell paper covered booklets published by the International Bible Students association. They were peddling them out at three for a quarter, and explaining to anyone who cared to listen that they were not religious works, which, truly enough, they are not in the sense that the average Christian understands and believes. Among the persons approached who made a purchase was Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, at the state police barracks. The books they sold him deal with what are called the last days, hell and judgment of the judges, of the preachers of nations, of politicians, of the peoples of the earth and what not. Much that is in them is contrary to Christian teaching and belief.

And with this explained, it may be set forth that Ligeros and Scouffas appeared at a Greek coffee house on Elm street, West Side, last evening offering their ways. Seated outside in conversation with another man was the Rev. Styllamos Klykas, pastor of the Greek Orthodox church on Water street. A book was offered to the Rev. Klykas, and he courteously declined to buy, whereupon the salesmen accused him, the charges were today, as a teacher of religion, to be an agent of the devil. That resulted in a complaint to the police and the arrest of the pair.

It will be recalled that the peddling of similar literature in Danielson on several Sundays last year resulted in other arrests being made by Chief John McFarland, for making sales on the Sabbath day. This case was appealed to the superior court and eventually dismissed.

Word has been received here of the sudden death in San Luis Obispo, Cal., yesterday about one o'clock of Frederick L. Butts, a native of this town. Mr. Butts became seriously ill with influenza last January and never had fully recovered, though he felt well enough recently to plan some outings. An unexpected turn for the worse in his state of health brought his death almost without warning. Mr. Butts, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Butts, lived here as a young man and worked at his trade, as a mason. About thirty years ago he located in California, and as a builder had constructed some of the finest buildings in that city. About a dozen years ago Mr. Butts came east and was united in marriage with Miss Sarah Burlingame, at that time resident on Spring street. In addition to Mrs. Butts, Mr. Butts is survived by three sisters, Mrs. J. Herbert Smith of Broad street, Danielson, Mrs. Phoebe Munroe and Mrs. Sadie Wilson, both of Providence. Mr. Butts was a member of the San Luis Obispo Presbyterian church, of the order of Elks and other fraternal bodies.

What promises to be an interesting operation, the assembling of the sections of a 100,000 gallon water tank and the erection of the big container, is scheduled for Friday on the grounds at the Main street plant of Powdrell and Alexander. The foundations for the tank, which will tower 147 feet in the air, were put in some time ago. The men who are to erect the tank are now here. The tank will be connected with the fire sprinkler system of the big plant.

At a session of the town court this morning, Judge W. Fenner Woodward presiding, Byron Wood of the town of Foster was fined $5 and costs for failure to grant the right of way to a machine operated by Attorney Irving H. Miron at Elmville last Saturday. A collision was narrowly averted. Mr. Wood, through his counsel, Attorney Harry E. Back, took an appeal from the decision to the superior court.

At another session of the town court this afternoon Miss Parmelia Billings, a Dayville young woman, was committed to the state farm for women at Niantic, for an indefinite period. With her went her infant, born April 21. Unmarried, this is the second time, the young woman has found herself in difficulty of this sort. State Officer Elton Nolan and a matron took her to Niantic.

Pierre Chabot of 262 Providence street, Putnam, was ordered to appear in court here by State Officer H. Theodore Strand after the car Chabot was operating was in collision at Attawaugan four corners this afternoon with another machine operated by J. Fregeau LaFrance of Central Village. Chabot will be charged in court with failure to give the proper signal. The LaFrance car was considerably damaged in the accident, but there were no personal injuries.

Secretary Burdette C. Hopkins of the Danielson Rotary club will leave here next Thursday en route to Dallas, Tex., to attend the International Rotary. He will travel with a New England delegation on a special train.

Charles Morton Arnold, 81, who for 51 years was clerk of the district court in that city, died at his home in Woonsocket. He was born in Moosup.

The flag pole that has stood on Davis park for years is to be taken down in the near future and replaced with a new one that is now at the park awaiting erection. The new pole, in two sections, comes from the Pacific coast and is a gift of a lumber concern to the borough through Burgess Louis E. Young.

Reports of violations of the dog quarantine regulations are coming in from some of the outlying sections of the town, and the assertion made that numbers of these dogs are at large every day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Witter are to be visitors with friends in Springfield on Friday.

Capt. A. P. Woodward, Charles Hale, L. S. Ingalls, Lieut. Ira A. Warren, Irving Knox and Herbert Hopkins will make up the rifle team of the Danielson Rod and Gun club that will take part in the tournament to be held at East Haven Sunday under the auspices of the Connecticut State Rifle association.

There will be many guests from Danielson, where numbers of members of the lodge are resident, at the annual ladies' night session of Putnam lodge of Elks at the home in Putnam next Thursday evening. S. P. Marland of Danielson is a member of the committee of arrangements, as is Joseph Berth of Dayville.

A debate between members of Brooklyn grange and members of Killingly grange is scheduled for the evening of May 28. The subject selected is Resolved, That the Country is a Better Place in Which to Live Than the City.

Arthur Barriard will be the marshal of the Memorial day parade here, and will name his aides later, appointing some from other patriotic organizations than the American Legion, of which he is a member.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)—Public neglect of the bond market caused investment obligations to drift today in a session that was marked chiefly by interest in the convertible issues. Even the stock privilege issues changed hands in smaller volume than in yesterday's session, and prices in this division were irregularly lower.

Demand for high grade bonds was limited, confined to buying by investors who saw opportunity to purchase desired securities at attractive figures. Aside from the convertibles, volume of business was comparatively light and transactions in even fair-sized blocks were few. The Associated Press averages showed a further decline, scaling down to 95.12 as compared with the year's low of 94.91, established on March 27.

In the stock option list, American I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s, American Telephone 4 1-2s, Atchison 4 1-2s, and Missouri-Pacific 5 1-2s finished the day at fractional declines. International Telephone 4 1-2s reflected a rise in the price of the stock by showing a net gain of 1-2 a point.

Inquiry for the best rail and industrial bonds was negligible, although buying was evident in some of the former at small advances. New York Central refunding 5s equalled the year's low at 103 3-4, the final quotation, while Atchison Adjustment 4s were off 2 3-4. Bethlehem Steel Consolidated 6s and 5 1-2s dipped on easy trading, the first named dropping more than a point.

Foreign Sugar Bonds were irregularly lower on small turnovers, with Cespedes 7 1-2s making a new low at 94. Cuba American and Cuba Dominican issues were steady at yesterday's closing prices.

Among the weaker obligations in the day's trading were Phillips Petroleum 5 1-4s, which equalled the year's low of 89 1-2 on fairly active selling, and New York State Railways 4 1-2s and New Orleans Terminal 4s, both of which went into new low ground.

The foreign list moved irregularly. Outstanding points of strength were Buenos Aires 6s, up 2, and British United Kingdom 4s, which advanced nearly a point. French Republic 7s were active within a narrow price range, closing fractionally lower.

United States Government Obligations continued irregular on small buying.

NORWICH MAYOR INVITED TO FLY OVER PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 16—C. Benedict Blank, general manager of the L. and H. Aircraft corporation of Hartford, tonight extended to Mayor Lee Roy Robbins of Norwich through the columns of The Bulletin an invitation to be present at Mantup field on Friday morning to fly with Lieut. Carl A. Dixon, nationally known flier, over the city in the air parade, the first event of the three day air circus to be held in the city on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Blank said the pressure of time caused him to be unable to personally greet Mayor Robbins as he did Mayor Richard and extends him an invitation to take part in the opening ceremonies. A similar invitation was issued to Warden C. Richard Bannigan of Danielson to be present Friday morning. Mr. Blank ardently hoped the two officials will accept the invitation.

Eight planes of the latest type of construction will arrive in Putnam early Friday morning to take part in the air meet. They will be piloted by nationally known army and commercial fliers. The opening event of the three day programme will be a parade of planes over the city. Two planes to lead the formation will have as passengers Mayor Charles A. Richard, Capt. of Police William J. Jarvis and Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston and the Norwich and Danielson executives should they be present. Several tests to ascertain the adaptability of Mantup field to landing and taking off were made this afternoon by Mr. Blank and two members of his staff.

Ted White, the world's youngest parachute jumper, who retains a license to practice his hazardous profession, will leap into space once each day, depending upon the silken parachute to land him safely. White commenced his air tactics two years ago in Chicago and since then has successfully completed 143 jumps. He is 18 years of age.

The events of the air circus are to be impressive and thrilling. Such stunts as races, stunt flying, "bombing Putnam" and forced landings will be done each day. Prizes of $100 and $75 are to be awarded to pilots, winning races in the 100 h. p. plane and 200 h. p. plane classes.

The people of Putnam and surrounding towns are cordially invited to visit the field during the three days. No admission charge will be made since the paramount object of the meet as explained by Mr. Blank is to impress upon the public America's need of becoming "air-minded."

A unique display of telephone apparatus now being manufactured for the Southern New England Telephone company is on exhibition in the windows of the W. J. Bartlett store on Main street and daily is attracting a number of spectators. A giant desk phone, five feet in height and mounted upon a base 12 inches in diameter, with an equally large receiver, three feet in length is the feature of the exhibit. About the window are a number of the newer types of instruments of communication, such as the dial phone, ordinary desk phone and the continental desk phone now being introduced by the telephone company. This design of phone is similar to the phones used through England and continental Europe, from whence it gets its name.

Wilkinson, state extension vegetable specialist of the Windham County Farmers association will be the chief speaker of the evening at a meeting of the Woodstock Community club of East Woodstock, to be held on Monday evening at seven o'clock eastern standard time. Mr. Wilkinson will address the agriculturalists on the subject of "Soils and Soil Fertility."

Charles Coleman of Providence will occupy his new $80,000 mansion on Pomfret street in Pomfret within a few weeks. The beautiful example of modern country architecture has been completed and made ready for occupancy.

The Pomfret Prep school is now constructing a new cottage on the street in Pomfret to be occupied by a member of its faculty.

General G. J. Carson, United States army retired, of New York, has leased one of the large estates in Pomfret and will make his home there during the summer months.

The weekly noon day meeting of the Putnam Rotary club was held Wednesday at the Putnam Inn. Due to the various committees making arrangements for the Rotary Loyalty parade, the attendance was small and no programme other than the luncheon and the executive session took place.

Scores of residents of Pomfret and vicinity visited Pomfret hall during Thursday afternoon and evening and viewed the work of the pupils of the Pomfret grammar schools at the art exhibit. Drawings, etchings, and other arts work of the students was nattily placated about the walls. Tableaux in which the pupils took part depicting the scenes and characters of the world's famous artists were well carried out. This work was under the supervision of Mrs. A. Etta Hanley of Pomfret, art supervisor of schools.

A death in Pomfret this morning was that of Mrs. Catherine C. McBrierty, wife of Thomas McBrierty. Mrs. McBrierty had been in ill health for a number of weeks, but her death was a shock to the members of the community this morning. Mrs. McBrierty was 64 years of age. She was a native of Scotland but has resided in Pomfret the greater part of her life. She was a member of the Holy Trinity church in Pomfret and was active in church social circles. Surviving her besides her husband are, three sons and two daughters.

The hook and ladder company of the central fire station and the Eagle Hose company of the North End station answered a four stroke alarm at 125 Battey street, shortly after noon today to extinguish a burning storage building at the Peloquin property. The blaze spread from a chimney to the roof of the structure. Chemical solution from the ladder truck proved of no avail and several feet of hose was laid before the fire was put out.

Mark Gallant of Church street left yesterday for an extended tour of New Brunswick. During his stay there Mr. Gallant will spend several days in Moncton and other cities in the province.

A report of Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett for the year ending March 31, 1928 and recently received in this city indicates that Attorney Irving H. Miron's record for the collection of all taxes to that date is 92.8 per cent. This mark is on par with any other community the size of Putnam in the state and is only a few points behind the records of the larger cities. The report also indicates that the total of points accumulated by Attorney Arcal Macdonald city tax collector is 32.9 per cent. The percentage mark attained by the town tax collector on the grand list of 1927 is 96.1 per cent. Like the first report the second mark of Attorney Miron is among the towns leading the list. The city collections are 94.3, a mark that is equally as high.

Corporals A. Lagune and H. Horowitz of the United States army recruiting service are in Windham county on a one week campaign in the interests of enlistment of men into the army. The two officers are making Putnam post office their headquarters during their stay in this city. Their portable enlistment station, a regulation United States army war time ambulance converted into a truck is plastered with inducing literature and posters. Until today no Putnam boys have signified their intentions of entering the service.

In the future there will be no arguments as to whether an accident occurred in the town of Putnam or Pomfret, because the town line has been ascertained and two very conspicuous signs have been placed on the line separating the townships.

About a month ago an accident occurred in the Gary district. An officer from the Danielson state police barracks after an investigation placed one of the operators under arrest when evidence to substantiate the fact that a violation of the motor vehicles laws had been obtained. The officer summoned the driver into court in Pomfret. The defendant was discharged when a justice ruled that the court had no jurisdiction over anything that criminally transpired in Putnam and so the case was thrown from court. The local prosecution authorities doubting the collision of the two vehicles had occurred in this city refused to prosecute, resulting in the case being dropped. It will be very easy for one to determine as to which town he is treading in, since the selectmen of both towns erected the new indicators.

Mrs. Irving H. Miron, wife of Attorney I. H. Miron of this city now a patient at the Day Kimball hospital is making a speedy recovery from a recent illness.

SUPT. J. E. FLOYD PRESIDES AT LISBON SCHOOL EVENTS

The town of Lisbon school board under direction of Supt. James E. Floyd arranged a health service demonstration in the Lisbon Central school, Wednesday evening. At six o'clock a baked bean and salad supper was served by the school board. After the supper Supt. Floyd spoke briefly, stating that the town of Lisbon had given much attention to the health of its children, and the idea of the program was to show what the teachers do every day to promote pupils' health. The morning inspection by the teacher was given with the help of several children. Jennie Wanegal gave a talk on Health and Good Citizenship; Ruth Nygren on Appreciation and Value of a Health Examination and Edgar LeRoux on Serums. The work of a dentist was demonstrated by Harold Helmboldt, who extracted a tooth for a patient and gave a descriptive talk from a chart. The school nurse, Mrs. Dorothy Fenton, examined the suspects, gave ear and eye tests, weighing and measuring, also gave a talk, including statistics of her work in the Lisbon schools. Dr. Thompson gave a boy a physical examination, and administered toxin-antitoxin, also vaccinated a girl, fully explaining all the reasons and methods, advising parents, and urging out-of-door games. Games, exercises, stunts and dances were given by the children, showing playground activities.

The second part of the program was a speaking contest. The contestants were Ruth Nygren, Irene Bromley, Betty Allen, Stanley Polonski, Stefan Rodowicz and Stella Frankoff. The judges were Mrs. John Peckham, of Sterling, Miss Young of Andover and Mrs. Waldo of Norwich. The first prize was awarded Stella Frankoff and the second to Stefan Rodowicz. The songs sung by the Lisbon Central school chorus were most harmonious. A special declamation was given by Walter Prokop of Lisbon. The young man is a senior in Norwich Free Academy, and by request, repeated the oration which won him the medal at the recent prize speaking contest at the academy. Lisbon is proud of him for he gives every evidence of unusual talent coupled with a marked dignity of appearance. He was accorded prolonged applause.

At the close Supt. Floyd announced that the receipts from the supper were fifty-four dollars. As the evening's events were for the purpose of helping pay for the school picture machine, he said an interested citizen had offered to donate twenty-five dollars, if another twenty-five could be raised. Within two minutes twenty-seven dollars was pledged, and the machine is paid for.

In the school rooms were exhibits of the work of the children done by the pupils of Lisbon Central school under direction of their teachers, Misses Mary Keenan, Gertrude Batten, Catherine Bergin and Helen Risley and the Learned school, by Mrs. Anna Terry and Miss Clara Sykes. The subject of health was shown in the posters made by the children entitled Soap Island, Milk Island, The Sun of Safety, Coffee Pot Island, Fear Island and Clean Teeth. Handiwork of all kinds was shown. The problem books were wonderfully instructive as were the maps and books of wars. The drawings on the blackboards of the first and second grades, done in some cases from memory after seeing a moving picture, were particularly noteworthy. Candy was sold by Tony Urick, Real and Edgar LeRoux, Elsie and Ruth Nygren and Irene Bromley. The bridge table cover made by one of the children was awarded Albert Bradlaw. The supper committee was Mrs. J. C. Phillips, Mrs. Adam Leipold, Mr and Mrs. George Weller, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Kanahan, Albert Bradlaw, Frank Mell, Mrs George Helmboldt, Mrs. Frank H. Hyde and Mrs. George Ross. Miss Clara Hyde was in charge of the dining room.

YOUNG DANE TO MARRY— CAN'T BRING BRIDE BACK

Gustave Mehlquist, florist at the Young greenhouses, sailed for his home in Denmark Thursday, after an absence of two years. He is to be married the day after his arrival but, on account of the immigration law, his wife cannot come to this country with him, when he returns. However, because she will have a husband in this country, she will be allowed to come over much sooner.

A Five-Minutes' Storm.

A lively thunder shower visited this section shortly after three p. m. Thursday. It was five minutes coming up from the west. It did a brisk business for five minutes. In another five minutes the sun was shining while water streamed down the gutters.

PIANIST AND VIOLINIST TO GIVE UNUSUAL RECITAL

A grand music recital is to be given here some time in June, as a benefit for St. Mary's school, and the new civic auditorium.

James Olson, skilled pianist, a pupil of Prof. Frank Farrell, and Peter Cooper of New York, until recently solo violinist at the Hippodrome, will be the artists. Both young men have achieved marked and flattering success in their chosen professions. Mr. Olson is a native of Jewett City, while Mr. Cooper is essentially a Griswold boy, as following his birth in Fitchburg, Mass., he came here with his parents when very young. Already much enthusiasm is manifested in the coming musicale, as much may be expected from these two masters of their art.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lariviere, Louis and Lena Paulhus of Willimantic spent Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Louis Masse's. Monday Miss Rose Caron of Moosup spent the afternoon there also visited her brother, Rev. Nicholas Caron.

To Repeat Play.

HOW DANIEL HEFLIN HARDENED HIS DOGS

None are alive today who actually remember Daniel Heflin, yet many are recalling the remarkable stories told by, and about him.

Thomas McBroome, when he was a young man, used to work for the late Moses Morse, and has heard about Uncle Daniel as a dog breeder in Griswold's early days. It is told that Mr. Heflin never sold a dog until the animal was properly hardened. This process he accomplished by leaving the animals tied out over night.

A customer came for a dog one winter morning. Daniel told the man he would find his purchase fastened to a tree behind the barn where he had been hardening. The mercury was well below zero. On going out to get the dog, there they found him "hardened", frozen stiff.

BACKUS HOSPITAL SCHOOL HAS GRADUATED 197 NURSES

William W. Backus hospital school of nursing will admit a new class of young women in September says the current issue of the Hospital News.

For enrollment in the school it is necessary that a young woman have three years of high school work. The course is a three years' one and the curriculum is based on recommendations of the national nursing authorities as well as on the Connecticut state nursing board.

The school of nursing has graduated 197 young women since its establishment. Last year there were ten members in the graduating class of 1928. At present, there are 41 young women in various stages of advancement towards the completion of their course.

The educational activities of the school of nursing are quite similar to those of any other women's school. There are lectures, classes, definite periods for study, recreation and for social activities. A feature of nursing education which is extremely important is the correlation of the laboratory work with theoretical instruction. In other words, the young women enrolled in the William W. Backus hospital school of nursing not only learn the theory of the subject, but later in the demonstration room, and still later in the hospital they actually carry out in a personal way the things that they learned.

During the course students have two vacations of three weeks each.

Like the vast majority of schools of nursing throughout the country, the school of nursing not only supplies student nurses with room and board, but in addition provides them with a monthly allowance. In this case it is $10 a month during the first year, and $12 a month for the last two years.

The school of nursing is an accredited school. It is extremely important that every young woman considering nursing enroll in an accredited school. Only graduates of such accredited schools are eligible to take the state board examination which is necessary before they may legally practice their profession.

TO BEGIN SERVICE FOR VEGETABLE GROWERS

Outstanding among the spring activities of the bureau of markets of the state department of agriculture will be the inauguration on June 1 of the cooperative vegetable marketing service. Director of Marketing Sidney A. Edwards explains that this service is designed to place the information available to vegetable growers on a par with that now enjoyed by other branches of agriculture. The service is extremely wide in scope and the first of its kind to be conducted by any state department of agriculture, although, it is explained, the basic principles underlying this service have long been practiced successfully by private cooperative marketing organizations.

"Realizing that such information, although of vital importance," says Director Edwards, "is beyond the reach of the individual and can only be secured through the combined efforts of the majority, we have evolved a plan which calls for a close organization between the department and growers—the object being to disseminate vital, up-to-the-minute vegetable marketing information that will enable each cooperating grower to get a clearer vision of the widely varying conditions of his market."

Each Monday throughout the local growing season the department plans to send each cooperating grower a digest of market conditions showing what he may expect to face during the week from both out of state and local competition.

Lewis, Mrs. Edward Adams, Mrs. Fred Tourtellotte and Mrs. William H. Baker.

BACKUS HOSPITAL USES NON-INFLAMMABLE FILMS

Non-inflammable films are used at the Backus hospital for the X-ray work there, declared Miss Lucy B. Abbott, the superintendent, when questioned Thursday evening, and on that account no such catastrophe as occurred at the hospital in Cleveland would be possible at the Norwich institution. This type of film has been in use at the hospital for the past two years. Protection is provided from films used before that time by keeping them all stored outside the building.

It was the burning of the X-ray films in Cleveland hospital that generated the deadly hydrocyanic acid gas and the brown bromine gas, so that with no possibility of this occurring at the Backus hospital, there is assurance of absolute safety for patients and members of the staff.

Hearts oft agree where wise heads differ.

The work is underway at the Backus hospital grounds in improving the entrance driveway from Washington street. By cutting down the bank in front of the nurses home somewhat and by some other changes it has been possible to widen the roadway, which will be laid in macadam. This will make a considerable improvement over the old dirt road.

Until the work is finished, the Washington street driveway is closed, but entrance for automobiles is from Lafayette street.

BILL PUTS TAXICABS IN COMMON CARRIER CLASS

Governor Trumbull signed on Thursday the bill making all persons, associations or corporations owning or operating taxicabs in Connecticut common carriers subject to the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission. Within sixty days all such operators or owners must have certificates from the commission in order to continue operations in this state. Motor vehicle department registration figures show there are now approximately 1,800 taxicabs in Connecticut.

The bill was senate No. 143, which caused considerable stir on the next to the last day of the 1929 session when it was found it had passed both houses without the amendments attached. It was recalled from the office of the engrossing clerk and passed with the amendments, which, among other things, define taxicab, place the supervision of such vehicles in the hands of the utilities issuing and revoking certificates to fix reasonable maximum rates and charges, prescribe adequate service and make and enforce "reasonable rules and regulations with respect to fares, service, operation and equipments said commission may deem necessary for the convenience, protection and safety of passengers and the public."

The bill stipulates that in cases of any taxicabs in continuous operation in the state on or before January 1, 1929, it shall be assumed they have been operating because public convenience and necessity required it. Such taxicab operators or owners must secure certificates of public convenience and necessity from the utilities commission within sixty days. Application must be made in writing to the commission and on proper blanks now being prepared by the commission. These will be ready within a few days, said Chairman Richard T. Higgins Thursday when notified of the approval of the bill in the governor's office.

Any taxicab owner or operator who has commenced business since the first of the year or who hereafter contemplates going into such business, must first make application for a certificate to the commission. As is the procedure in the case of jitney bus lines, the commission will then set a time for a public hearing on the application and give notice of the hearing to the mayor of the city, warden of the borough or first selectman of the town in which the business is to be conducted and to any taxicab owners or operators doing business in that city, borough or town. At the hearing the applicant must show public convenience and necessity warranting his receiving a certificate. If the commission grants the certificate, then the applicant must secure proper taxicab registration for his cab or cabs from the motor vehicle department. A memorandum of the certificate must be displayed in each cab.

One of the results of this bill will be the elimination to a large extent of the so-called "cruising" taxicabs, roaming at large over Connecticut.

The public utilities commission is rapidly making preparations to handle this new work. No additional help will be needed, Commissioner Higgins believes, although he asks that as soon as the application blanks are ready they be secured and returned properly filled out as soon as possible. The chief worry of the commission is the question of fixing reasonable rates for these taxicabs, many of which are now operating with rifferent rates in the same locality.

The trial of the case against Nelson D. Theroux, local salesman, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and driving while his operator's license was suspended, was continued until next Monday when the case was called in the city court Thursday morning. Theroux claimed that the injuries he received in the accident which resulted in his arrest, were such that he could not appear in court Thursday. FINED ON CHARGE OF PASSING STANDING TROLLEY

Miss Loretta Dugas, 20, of Jewett City, was presented in the city court Thursday morning on a charge of evading responsibility. She was found guilty on a substitute charge, passing a standing trolley car and a fine of $25 and costs was imposed. This amounted to $36.86.

Miss Dugas was arrested Wednesday by State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh after the machine she was driving had struck and injured Mrs. Duplus who was waiting to board a trolley car at Tafts station. Miss Dugas failed to stop and drove on to her home in Jewett City. She testified that she knew nothing of her machine striking the woman who was hit by the rear left fender of the auto.

NEW AERO CLUB IS ORGANIZED IN NORWICH

Clarence F. Lynds was elected president of the Norwich Aero club, which was formed Wednesday evening at a meeting held in Germania hall. The other officers elected are: Vice president, George W. Moore; secretary, Fred G. Seidel, and treasurer, Luther G. Andrews. The turnout for the meeting was very encouraging, and a drive for new members will soon be made. After the election of officers business requiring immediate attention was transacted.

Another meeting will be held in the very near future, at which a constitution and by-laws will be adopted, after which the club should progress rapidly. Many other clubs of a like nature have been formed throughout the country, and are now actively engaged in flying, and it is expected that the Norwich Aero club will have no trouble duplicating, or even bettering the performance of these clubs.

OWNERSHIP OF BROOK GIVES NO SPECIAL FISHING RIGHTS

The growing tendency toward private control of natural ponds and lakes in Connecticut, and the development of fish ponds by damming trout streams are problems now of the utmost concern to the state board of fisheries and game, and to the angling public, according to Superintendent John W. Titcomb of the state board. With these two major problems there are also constantly arising questions of trespassing, stocking and posting law and the ownership of fishes. The law in this state has been so interpreted that no natural body of water except in a few cases, may be regarded as public, yet the fish therein are the property of the state, and the "anomalous situation often rises" in which the public has not access to its own property. The development of fishing ponds has resulted in closing many waters formerly public fishing places and in doing considerable damage to the fish in many instances. Good spawning grounds have been destroyed, and hence harm done to public fishing.

Mr. Titcomb offers solutions for these two situations. To save the public those ponds yet remaining open he would recommend state ownership of shore property around these bodies of water and the maintenance of patrols to prevent vandalism and nuisances. To assist the developer of fish ponds and protect the public he would recommend clarification of state laws concerning such developments.

In viewing these present problems, Mr. Titcomb lays down "the common law proposition" that "fishes, so long as they remain unconfined in their natural element, are public property; not even the owner of the soil over which a stream flows owns the fishes therein; while they are in a state of freedom, fishes are the property of the state, for the benefit of all the people in common; as such, the state has the power to dictate how and by what methods they may be caught." Damming a stream on a private estate may increase the area of angling waters on that particular piece of property, but the fishes which have the run of the stream still remain as property of the state. Moreover, if any fishes are introduced into the pond which the dam creates, they become subject to the state laws in regard to the methods of and seasons for catching them. On the other hand, although the owner of land through which a stream flows is subject to state law as to when and how he may fish, he may, as owner of the bed of the brook, prevent people from fishing in it. To wade is to trespass. Each individual land owner abuting on a natural lake or pond may own to low-water mark, or he may own a pie-shaped piece running to the center of the pond. This gives the owner the right to prohibit trespassing on the portion of the land he owns. If a person owns the entire shore line around a pond or lake, he can, under the trespass law, prevent the public from access to it. If an individual landowner can invoke the powers of the trespass law to this exent, it follows that an association or corporation having similar ownership has similar powers.

Mr. Titcomb calls attention to "frequent complaints" made in regard to private control by individuals and associations of waters which have been until recently open to the angling public. The closing of Barses pond in Fairfield county led to establishing a state park on its shores to afford public access to the water. Green lake, in the town of Sherman is open to the public "by the grace of the town of Sherman which refuses to give up a long-established right of way to it. All of the shore property on this lake is owned, with the exception of this right of way, by one person. Many other natural lakes and ponds in Connecticut are accessible to the public merely by the consent of one or more individual landowners.

Although damming trout streams to make trout ponds increases the value of adjoining real estate, it often has the reverse effect on the water below, Mr. Titcomb finds. In some instances the damming destroys good spawning areas. "It is evident that some pond developments are not for the best good of the greatest number, and in view of the many problems which present themselves concerning the private pond, it is quite important that the laws of the states should be so clear that any one contemplating pond developments may know in advance of construction, just what are his or her rights concerning the fishes inhabiting the waters on the proposed development, or concerning the fishes which may be introduced by the owners of such developments. Such legislation would not only safeguard the public interests but in many instances be of direct benefit to persons interested in the development of fish ponds."

Self-confessed ignorance often indicates wisdom.

WESTMINISTER

SPECIAL OBSERVANCE OF MOTHER'S DAY SUNDAY

Mother's day was observed in connection with the Sunday morning service in Westminister church. The pastor, Rev. Harry E. Small, in his discourse referred to Motherhood and mother love and its influence in childhood and in later years. The church was lavishly decorated with apple blossoms, growing pansies roses and carnations, contributed by the community. The color scheme of pink, white, lavender and yellow, was admirably carried out by the flower committee: Mrs. Will Davis, Miss Frances Newton, Fred Oates, Lester Gardener and A. T. Macleod. Special music was arranged by Mrs. Charles Phillips, the organist. The quartette, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Charles Woodmansee, Fred Oates and George Ingles, sang several numbers. George Ingles was soloist. A trio very beautifully sang "When Mother Prayed." At the conclusion of the service Miss Beatrice Newton assisted by three little girls, Violet Helstrom, Katherine and Arline Green, distributed the carnations to the mothers. There followed Holy communion, administered by the pastor. The new individual communion service was used for the first time. At the C. E. society meeting in the evening, Miss Alice Bincham was leader. A visiting pastor, Edwin St. John, gave an interesting talk on the influence of mothers in combatting other influences in their children.

At Storrs Meeting

Burgess Bedtime Story

Peter Sees Some Great Diving
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The world admires things done well;
Is work or play, therefore, excel.
—Dipper the Grebe.

Peter sat on the bank of the Smiling Pool, staring with the most perplexed look on his face. A moment before Dipper the Grebe had been sitting right under Peter. Now he could not see Dipper anywhere. Of course, the Smiling Pool is not very big. Peter could see every inch of it. Anyway, he thought he could. But, though he looked and looked and looked, he saw no trace, not even a feather, of Dipper the Grebe. Grandfather Frog had told him that Dipper had gone down.

"What did you mean, Grandfather Frog, when you said that Dipper had gone down?" inquired Peter.

"Just that," replied Grandfather Frog. "He has done what I do when I am grightened."

"Oh!" exclaimed Peter. "You mean he has dived. Has he gone down into the mud the way you do?"

"No, I haven't gone down into the mud," said another voice. It seemed to come from among the lilypads behind Grandfather Frog.

Peter looked them over very carefully. Presently he discovered just a head. "I see you!" he cried.

"Are you standing on bottom?" he demanded

At this, the head began to move along between the lilypads and presently it appeared out in open water, right in front of Peter. Peter's eyes fairly stuck out. Yes, sir, they fairly stuck right out of his head. "Are you standing on bottom?" he demanded.

"Certainly not!" replied Dipper. "The water is deep here. Not even Longlegs the Heron could stand of bottom here."

"Then how do you manage to keep all but your head and neck under water?" demanded Peter. "Why don't you float on the surface like a Duck?"

"I can if I want to," replied Dipper the Grebe. No sooner were the words out of his mouth than he was floating on the surface of the water.

"Can you sink down and stop yourself where you want to?" asked Peter.

Dipper made no reply. Instead, he began to sink until just half his body was under water. Then he remained that way.

"Can you go down and leave only your head out of water?" inquired Peter.

Dipper began to sink. Soon the water was over his back. Then it was half way up his neck. Then it was up until only his eyes, bill and top of his head were out of water. He stopped sinking then.

"That's wonderful!" cried Peter. "I didn't suppose anyone could do anything like that. Would you be willing to dive for me, Mr. Grebe?"

Dipper suddenly popped up to the surface. Then, so quickly that Peter hardly saw how he did it, Dipper dived. Peter waited and waited, but Dipper did not come up again. At last Peter began to be worried. Then he remembered what had happened the first time he saw Dipper dive. He very carefully looked over thelilypads. He couldn't see Dipper's head among them anywhere. He loked and looked. By and by he noticed what he thought was the tip of a little stick projecting above the surface of the water. He gave it no thought until suddenly Dipper popped up right where that stick had been. It wasn't a stick, but Dipper's bill, that he had seen.

The next story: "Dipper Introduces Mrs. Grebe."

The winners among the women were: Mrs. Burke Hewitt, who won a glass tea set, Mrs. Mary Furber, a glass buffet set, Mrs. C. E. Chapman, a wicker serving table, Mrs. Louis Engler, a necklace, Mrs. John Hallisey, a bridge score pad, Mrs. Arthur Blaisdell, a china berry set, and Mrs. Harry Bogue, an iced drink set. The winners among the men were, Harry Bogue, a white shirt, Harry Bell, a blue shirt, Warren Bogue, a billfold, Alfred Gessner, a tie, Mr. Hallisey, a hassock, Mr. Bingham, two pairs silk socks, Mr. Engler, a large china cup and saucer.

Miss Ida Church of Uncasville was the guest of Miss Ruth Roseniund of Maple avenue, Saturday.

Mrs. Sarah Wilbur of Main street entertained over Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rathburn of Noank, William Street and daughter Marion of New London, Mrs. Annie Maynard and son Kenneth of New London, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Davis of New Haven.

Mrs. M. Miner and Miss Henrietta Gridley of Main street spent the week end at Cape Cod, Mass.

Your Dog

I ask you, Master, just as dog to man
(Explain it in our language, if you can),
Why Tabby, there, should have nine lives to live,
When I, your dog, have only one to give?

A cat! She's always greedy for her cream,
And cares for nothing but to doze and dream;
So smug and satisfied, she maddens me!
(She knows I hate her, sitting on your knee.)

You taught me, Master, everything I know.
Your friend is my friend—and your foe, my foe.
Can Tabby tell, or does she think she can,
How close a one-man dog lives to his man?

Once, when you lost your bearings in the fog,
Who was so keen to find you as your dog?
Did Tabby feel your danger, scent your track,
And leave your cozy hearth to bring you back?

When we came limping home, what did she do?
Just waked up long enough to yawn, "That you?"
Oh, yes, a cat may have nine lives to live,
But tell me, has she even one to give?

That stormy night you found me, picked me up—
A friendless, starving, vagrant little pup—
And brought me home, and named me, it was sweet
To lay my one life wholly at your feet!

It isn't that I'm jealous of the cat.
She may have nine, or ninety lives, at that.
But just to see her sitting on your knee,
Gosh, Master, let me run her up that tree!

—Elizabeth P. Horse.

CONNECTICUT BUSINESS BETTER IN APRIL

From a business standpoint Connecticut was in a better condition last month than it was in April 1928, according to the monthly business survey conducted jointly by leading local chambers of commerce and the Connecticut chamber of commerce. This improved condition is indicated by such factors as increases in number and value of building permits, electricity and gas consumption, post office receipts, bank deposits and bank insurance statistics.

In the building line, there were substantial increases in both number and value of permits issued. Norwich showed a 40 per cent. increase over April 1928 in value of building permits. This was due to the permit issued for a new hotel. New Haven showed an increase of 76 per cent and Torrington an increase of 50 per cent. The figure for Bridgeport represented practically one-third as much building as went on during the entire year of 1925 or of 1926.

The factories in many of the communities reported are running on full time or from 80-85 capacity. Retail conditions were not as satisfactory as in April 1928, a slack in spring trade being caused by constant rainy weather. The number of real estate sales on a whole was less than those of April 1928, but in many cases the value of transactions was greater.

There were increases in consumption of gas and electricity, in total postal receipts, in bank deposits and bank debits in every community reporting on these items.

MAPLE PARFAIT AND PHILADELPHIA WALNUT

"We are suggesting maple flavor because we still have with us the syrup and sugar made from the Spring flow of sap from the maple trees. The white Philadelphia walnut, flavored with vanilla and made without eggs, now gives a pleasing color contrast." —Alice Bradley.

And Fro-joy is always available in pint packages in vanilla or chocolate—or both combined—and in Neapolitan, which is vanilla, chocolate, and strawberry. An all-year favorite is vanilla, served with berries, chocolate sauce, or sliced fruits.

IS THE CLIMATE CHANGING

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

Is the climate changing? That is a question one is hearing almost as frequently as the banal "D'ja ever see such a spring?" up in my bishopric.

It isn't always asked by impatient youth, either. Quite as often the query comes from old farmers whose years bear testimony that they must have managed to secure some co-operation from the weather in the past, or they couldn't have survived so long. Yet they confess to being nonplussed, of late. "All signs fail in a dry time" has long been a favorite excuse for weather prophets to fall back on when their predictions failed. But the last few years have been wet rather than dry, and yet there's been no reckoning with them.

Climate is just chronic weather. If the weather goes off into erratic circumbobulations—and keeps on doing so—it's no wonder that puzzled humanity begins to ask if the climate isn't changing.

Well, there is nothing else about this earth which is absolutely changeless, and it wouldn't be quite reasonable to consider the weather or the climate as exceptional. Everything about which we can gather any substantial evidence seems to move in cycles. After the day comes the night; after the summer comes the winter; after the new moon comes the old moon; after every storm comes a clearing up.

Analogy makes it reasonable that the weather, i. e., the climate, should be as liable to change as other functions of nature. Scientific investigations corroborate this presumption. The evidence is so strong as to amount almost to a demonstration that, twenty or thirty thousand years ago, the whole of Connecticut, with adjoining territory, was buried from half a mile to five miles deep under a slowly moving sheet of glacial ice, pushed down from middle Canada and crunching its relentless way southeastward, to make a line of ice-cliffs along the ocean shore.

Not only is the proof of this glacial age almost irrefragably strong, but the peering geologists have discovered more or less convincing traces of at least three other glacial periods preceding the last.

It does not need that one be a trained geologist to understand that a mile thick glacier, grinding its slow way at the rate of perhaps a mile in a hundred years or so, can't help but greatly modify the surface over which it moves. It planes down hills and fills up valleys. It changes the course of rivers and scoops out beds for new lakes. It tears away huge rocks from pre-existing cliffs, carries them along on its back or in its depths for a hundred or perhaps a thousand miles, and drops them to make the 'boulder trains' which can still be followed across many New England landscapes. And, of course, it greatly disturbs what evidences preceding glaciers might have left of their existence.

Nevertheless, in spite of this additional difficulty, the patient geologists, digging here and prospecting there and testing, testing, testing, all the time, have uncovered sufficient evidence to make it practically certain that at least three glacial peerlods, and nobody knows how many more, preceded the one which is still referred to as "the" glacial age.

The evidence is quite as conclusive that, between these icy eras, intervened thousands, perhaps hundreds of thousands, of years of genial, even tropical, climate. Not only over New England but far to the extreme north. Out of a cliff overhanging Lady Franklin bay, only a few hundred miles this side of the North Pole, the explorers dig a good quality of coal, still preserving in its mass fossilized bamboos and similar vegetables of tropical growth. To develop such a flora, produce it in an amount sufficient to form a six foot thick coal seam, and gradually change it from wood to coal, must have required a wholly incomputable length of time during all which tropic conditions prevailed in the midst of what is now unthawing ice.

And then, after that equatorial forest had grown and fallen and been pressed and baked into coal, came at least one, probably four, and possibly many more ages in which the polar ice crept southward, not only over Lady Franklin bay, but over Canada and Maine and Connecticut and into the surges of the Atlantic.

From all of which it appears that the climate has changed in the past many times. It has changed from the steaming heat of the tropics, right over these Connecticut fields, to the ice-locked cold of a glacier-covered landscape, and then back again.

The glacier didn't date itself, nor did the polar bamboos. Their ages can only be estimated from attendant data, some of which are apparently contradictory and all of which are exceedingly complicated. It may have been 20,000, it may have been 50,000, years ago when the last continental glacier receded from Connecticut, slowly melting backwards toward its frozen fastnesses around the pole. Nor is there any greater certainty as to the length of the warm periods intervening between it and its predecessors. But the central fact seems to be established beyond reasonable doubt that this very area we call the state of Connecticut has known several tremendous changes of climate. There is equal reason to suppose that it will know several more.

To the question, "Is the climate changing?" there can be but one answer. Of course it is. The records of the rocks show that there has been no long-continued stability in our climate. It has swept back and forth, at as yet unmeasured intervals, between the extremes of tropical heat and of arctic frigidity. There is no reason for doubting that it will continue to do so, as long as the natural laws which have controlled it in the past remain active.

But

That doesn't mean that you or I will live long enough to appreciate, in our own persons, the sonic change. The lifetime of a man is too short, in comparison with the life of a world, to make such observation probable. Nor do even the geologists yet feel sure whether the present cosmic swing is toward arctic or tropic conditions.

There are certain minor evidences, however, which may have a bearing on the case.

For instance, when the viking adventurers discovered a new land up in the northern seas and west of Iceland, a thousand years ago, they named it Greenland, on account of its lush and verdant vegetation. They colonized it and for some centuries waxed fat from the raising of cattle on its teeming pastures. But gradually the northern ice crept over their green fields; the local summers shortened; life became more and more difficult, till, finally, the whole island-continent was abandoned to the Esquimaux and the walrus and the seals. It is, today, almost as completely buried under mile thick ice as Connecticut once was. Only in a few sheltered nooks along the shore do any civilized colonies remain to eke out a precarious existence from fishing and hunting. This change in the climate of a closely neighboring island has come about within historic times.

Those of us who have family traditions going back one or two hundred years will doubtless recall various changes in one or another agricultural condition in that comparatively short time.

For instance, Great-grandfather Farmer used to have a flourishing peach orchard, which was regarded as quite as much a matter of course as his apple orchard. One fruit was as easy to grow as the other. Today there aren't half a dozen bearing peach trees within 20 miles of his old orchard. They simply won't stand the climate any more. Even when the most pernickety care is taken of them they pine and die untimely deaths.

I note a somewhat similar tendency even in apple trees. When I was a very small boy some few of my great-grandfather's apple trees were still bearing. They must have been well on to 100 years old, with trunks three feet or more through and top limbs rising 60 feet above the ground. Now, in that same orchard, an appletree usually begins to die before it is 30 years old, or as much as 30 feet high. Neither spraying nor cultivation nor fertilization seems to make any difference. They are broken down old stumps at the time when the former trees were just entering their sturdiest and most productive stage.

Another instance: When that great-grandfather planted potatoes for family use he felt himself warranted in expecting a peck of useable tubers from the average hill. Some, of course, would yield less. But some would yield more, about making the average good. He used to plant his potato hills by count. If he wanted 80 bushels, he planted 320 hills; if he wanted 100 bushels, he planted 400 hills. And he seldom if ever ran short on his crop. Today, on those same fields, the most scientific fertilization and the most industrious cultivation and the most careful selection of seed won't average 40 bushels from 400 hills. Then, when bugs are completely exterminated and blight kept at bay, for the whole season.

Still another instance, involving even a shorter time: Seventy years ago the big Concord grapevine in what we still call "the grapeyard" used to ripen practically every year several barrels of luscious grapes. It still sets as full as then. But in the last 30 years it hasn't fully ripened a single crop. About every other year the frosts come before the grapes have begun to turn. Only rarely do we get as much as a dozen bushels which are really fit to eat.

Now it is of course possible that all these things may have happened from other causes. But, considering the records of the geologic past, the changes which have come to Greenland within historic times and various other items of evidence, I can't help wondering if the climate isn't, after all, changing towards the zero end; if these and similar occurrences don't portend the approach of another glacial era.

Even if they do, it need no more cause any panic than the finding by the astronomers that the sun will burn out in a few million or billion years and leave the globe in the cold and dark. We shall not be here, at that time. Nor when, if ever, the next glacier arrives. It really doesn't make much difference to us personally. We have simply got to take things as they are now, and let future generations take what the future brings. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

But it may make in some degree towards a becoming humility on our parts if we think occasionally on these things. Especially if we observe that, even in so comparatively small a matter as climate, we are utterly helpless either to accelerate its possible easements or stay its possible doom. What will be in the matter of climate will be, and we can affect it no more than a few flies on the rim can affect the movements of the gas waves in the Crossley coil.

Contrasting the opinions of themselves which most people seem to form, anything which seems to produce a little humility of thought or modesty of conduct must be reckoned at least salutary.

There are certainly some indications that the climate, which, as has been said, is simply weather become chronic, is slowly but irresistibly changing. If this be true, the sensible thing to do is just to accept the change and make the best of it.

What can't be cured must be endured.

UNION

THE LIBRARY RECEIVES AN UNUSUAL GIFT

The Union public library has received a gift from Warren E. Keith of Eastford which is of local interest and historical value. On Memorial day, 1889, Mr. Keith and his young wife attended the ceremony of decorating the soldiers graves in the East cemetery, near the birthplace and girlhood home of his bride, Mary E. Hindge. At that time D. P. Corbin post, G. A. R., went each Memorial day morning to the East cemetery, before placing flowers on the graves of comrades in Union Center. While at the East cemetery on the morning of May 30, 1888, Mr. Keith took a snapshot of D. P. Corbin post as the members and friends were grouped in front of the beautiful evergreen trees. He has had the snapshot enlarged (16x20) and attractively framed and, last Sunday, after the Mother's day service at the church in Union, Mr. Keith's gift was placed in the Union library in memory of his wife, Mrs. Mary Hindge Keith, who died many years ago and was, as her husband said, "one of Union's best girls." At the time the snapshot was secured, 41 years ago, Mr. Keith (Minos D. P. Corbin post numbered about 60 veterans. The late George W. Thayer was the last of those veterans. One other comrade of Mr. Thayer's regiment (the 22nd), also a Union boy, survived him. This comrade, Francis Cleveland, belonged to Robert O. Tyler post, G. A. R., of Hartford for many years and he died at his home in Hartford April 29. It is believed that Mr. Cleveland was the last survivor of the Civil war veterans who were born in Union or joined the army from here.

David Potter Corbin, for whom D. P. Corbin post was named, was active in raising Company G of the 22nd regiment from boys in Union and Suffield, largely. Later Mr. Corbin was captain of Company G. He died many years ago and his picture has been in the Union library for a long time. He was respected and loved by a large circle of friends in Union, his native town. He had been a very successful teacher in Union, Suffield, Willimantic and Hartford until his health failed.

SHOWS MARKETING PROCESS FOR FINE WOOLENS

"Marketing of Fine Woolens" was the topic of an interesting talk given this week by Albert Brand of the Glen in observance of Hospital week.

Mr. Brand delivered his interesting address at the business session held. He spoke as follows:

The term fancy woolen refers to any woolen fabric having a design which may be a stripe, check or a fancy weave pattern. Some outstanding examples are, cap goods, overcoatings, women's wear and men's wear suitings.

Since the war, competition has been very keen in the woolen industry. Some of the reasons for this competition are as follows: This country has more textile machinery than needed to fill its requirements. This surplus machinery was brought into existence during the war to fill war orders. An enormous quantity of woolen goods are imported each year. In the present age, the workingman finds so many ways of using his wages that he spends less money on clothes. Women do not wear as many woolen clothes now as formerly. The foregoing are only a few of the many reasons why such keen competition exists in the woolen industry.

Woolen fabrics supply a real need, and it seems that woolen manufacturers ought to get together and put on a national advertising campaign such as has proved successful in other lines. Such a campaign would undoubtedly create a larger demand for woolen goods.

Under present conditions only progressive, wide awake manufacturers can continue to exist. To meet the present day competition, the mill man must carefully analyze certain phases of his business, namely, the product the cost and the selling.

A fabric in order to sell must fill a demand, the price must be right and it must be well styled.

Where formerly a mill ran season after season on the same fabrics now the same mill seldom if ever, runs more than one season on any fabric. When a certain fabric does run more than one season it has probably been confined to only a few customers, each customer having his own distinctive designs in that particular fabric. This applies especially to cap goods, and to some extent to suitings and ladies' wear.

A few reasons why a fabric seldom lasts more than one season are as follows: Some other mill has copied the fabric and is selling it at a small profit or even at a loss. Some one has brought out a superior fabric at the same or less cost. Price cutting among the jobbers on the same fabric will eventually kill that fabric.

A successful manufacturer anticipates the needs of the market to the best of his ability. Before each selling season he sets out several new fabrics for which there will probably be a demand. As the season advances, he eliminates those that do not sell. He plays safe by getting out more fabrics than are actually needed. Should none of his fabrics sell he must be prepared to set out new samples at a moment's notice.

Besides developing new fabrics the progressive manufacturer must have an adequate cost system. Keen competition means small profits. The margin of profit sometimes is so small that a cost system is essential, in order that one may know whether one is operating at a profit or at a loss.

The manufacturer must also take steps to cut down his cost. He must have good men in charge of different department of his plant. He may have to pay salaries which seem exorbitant. But a good overseer saves his salary many times over, by cutting down waste, lowering the labor cost, increasing production keeping the machinery in good condition, making suggestions for improvements, and improving the quality of the work turned out. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. This applies to a large extent to the kind of a foreman employed in the plant.

It will also pay to investigate the office end of the business to see that no clerks are employed at unnecessary work.

The manufacturer must also make a very careful study of the raw material used in his fabrics to make certain that no costlier stock is being used than necessary. He should make experiments to try the effect of different kinds of stock. Such experiments usually result in a material saving to the mill. In making these experiments he must always bear in mind the important fact that the work must run good. The loss from bad work is always much greater than any saving in the stock cost.

Upon looking into the actual selling of the product he will find that the most successful mills are now selling direct, either from the mill or from their own office in New York city; formerly goods were sold through an outside selling agent. Selling direct means a material saving which in many cases doubles the profit for the mill. The main advantage however, is that it better enables the manufacturer to keep in touch with the trend of the market in style, price and demand.

In conclusion it may be said that the secret of success which will be attained by the present day manufacturer, in marketing his product at a profit, depends upon his progressiveness.

Mother's Day Services

"What is the Gospel," was the subject of the Sunday morning sermon at the Baptist church. Defining the word "Gospel" as "good news," Rev. Eliot B. Verney estimated that there were six out of every ten people in this state to whom the meaning of Christ's life and death were still a mystery and to whom the gospel was most decidedly "news."

Mother's day was observed at the Baptist church in the evening. Rev. Mr. Verney presented the messages in three parts: A Mother's Duty, A Child's Debt, and The Mothers of Tomorrow. Concerning the first he stressed the fact that most of the sins laid at the doors of youth today are due to failure of parents to appreciate the need of spiritual training in the home. Under the second head Mr. Verney pointed out the well recognized debts which most of us owe to our mothers and added the thought that even those unfortunate to have mothers unworthy of the name should forgive the failure.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

POULTRY LICE AND MITES

Poultry lice and mites may be found in small numbers on many poultry farms. They require only warm weather and a free hand to become troublesome, yet they can be easily controlled if taken in time. Lice and mites are entirely different in their feeding and living habits. Lice have biting mouth parts and live on scales of skin, spending their entire time on the birds' bodies; while red mites have sucking mouth parts and live on the birds' blood, but spend their time on the roosts and other woodwork in the house—except at night, when they crawl on to the birds for the purpose of feeding.

Lice sometimes become numerous at this time of year on flocks of poultry kept confined where there is little or no opportunity for dusting. They can be most easily treated by using Black Leaf Forty. This should be applied on top of the roosts, cross-arms or whatever objects the birds may roost on at night. Choose a still night and apply about one-half hour before the birds go to roost, as the fumes kill the lice. The material may be spread very thin with an oilcan or brush, as one pound or one pint will treat 200 feet of roosts. Individual birds may be treated by using equal parts of mercurial ointment and vaseline mixed together; or by using ointment of ammoniated mercury. Apply a piece about the size of a pea, rubbing well into the fluff feathers below the vent.

Red mites must be killed by contact, on the roosts, roost supports, drop-boards, nests, nest lighting boards, or wherever they may stay during the day. If all of the hens use the roosts at night, there should be no excuse for finding red mites elsewhere. Paint thoroughly with Carbolineum, Fyler's Red Mite Destroyer or other good red mite paint. A thorough job done once each year should be sufficient to control red mites. It is frequently worth while to paint the drop-boards also. This gives added protection and makes drop-board cleaning easier. Include all colony houses and summer shelters as well as laying houses in the red mite control program.—Roy E. Jones.

HINTS FOR THE FARM

Livestock diseases often get on to the farm because of poor fences. Woven wire makes the most practical hog-lot fence. Stock must be protected from intrusion of infected animals by fences. The durability of a wire fence depends more on the corner posts than anything else. They must be securely set if the wire is to be kept taut.

One of the big problems in "backyard" poultry keeping is to make sure the limited quarters are clean and free of contamination. If only mature stock is kept and no chicks raised the hens may be confined to the laying house throughout the year. They should not be overcrowded, the house should be well lighted and ventilated, cool in summer and open to direct sunlight.

Alfalfa for market should be cut when one-tenth to one-fourth in bloom, or when new growth starts from the crown irrespective of bloom. At this stage of maturity the leaves constitute from 45 to 55 per cent of the total weight of the plants and the stems have not become too hard or woody. Little, if any, increase of tonnage is gained by letting the crop stand longer.

Musty, spoiled or dirty feed may cause the horse to get "off feed" and become unfitted for work. Trash or dirt should be removed from the grain box before each meal and chaff and refuse cleaned from the manger before the night feeding of hay. At no time should spoiled feed be offered.

Time and labor in cultivating corn can be saved by using two, three and four-row cultivators now on the market for use with general purpose tractors. Nearly all such tractors now available are designed to facilitate short and quick turning at the ends of the rows without injury to the crop.

If the screw-worm fly makes wounds on livestock, an application of benzine, known commercially as benzol, is effective in killing the larvae and also has a septic action on the wound which makes it less attractive to the adult flies. Pine-tar oil of the commercial grade or one slightly heavier is the best and cheapest substance for repelling the flies and preventing reinfestation.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

PENDLETON HILL

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS MOTHER'S DAY MEMORIALS

Mother's day floral decorations at the Hill church were beautiful. Miss Cecele Palmer brought house plants, bezonias and geraniums covered with blooms and banked the altar. To this collection Miss Cottrell and sisters, Kittie and Cecele later added a large bouquet of swamp dragon for the communion table. Their flowers were in memory of their mother, Mrs. Mary Palmer. Mrs. Frank Brown of Ashaway brought another large bouquet of snap dragon which also adorned the communion table. Mrs. Robert Milne and Mrs. James Brooks sent beautiful bouquets of sweet peas, three in number, one of dragon, one of lavender and one of pink sweet peas in memory of their mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson. Their flowers were quince, clove, currant, and Japanese quince, daffodils and tulips.

Rev. E. P. Mathewson read for his morning scripture, Prov. XXXI, and took for his text the 28th verse of "Her children arose and call her blessed." It was a truly impressive Mother's day service.

Mr. Nielson North Stonington carpenter, is framing the garage on the so-called Spalding place, recently purchased by friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rae. It is understood that the old house is to be torn down later, and a new house erected. This house is not far from the Miner brothers' farm, located on a cross road.

Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Girard at Canonchet, R. I.

At Pomfret Meet.

Birdsey Cameron, Richard and Birdsey Palmer, Jr., accompanied by Paul Koestenen, attended the annual meet of the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' Association held on the beautiful estate of E. V. B. Cushman, of Pomfret, Saturday. The luncheon served at noon to the 500 or more present was the gift of Mr. Cushman and consisted of lamb sandwiches, fancy cakes and brick ice cream, among other good things.

Thomas E. Wheeler has 25 young turkeys hatched under three hens.

Captured Hummingbird.

One day last week a ruby throated humming bird lighted on the person of Mr. Wheeler and remained motionless while he placed him in a box. The bird was doubtless so chilled with the cold that it was numb, for it is seldom that a hummingbird is seen to alight. Mr. Wheeler released the bird after showing it to friends.

Purple finches have arrived.

Mrs. Charles Cottrell and sisters, Misses Kittie and Cecele Palmer have planted their large flower garden.

Mrs. George Palmer, Miss Hattie White and Misses Kittie and Sarah Palmer tramped the enticing wood's roads south of Miss White's home on Tuesday, calling on Mr. Dowd at the James Palmer place and Charles Allen at the Van Grey farm. Other places visited were the fine farm of Messrs. Palmer and Herbert Miner, the Peabody burying ground, to see the tombstone of Major F. S. Peabody, faithful horse, Sirley, the Spalding place and the Isaac Poor place, the last named now owned by Mail Carrier Clarence Palmer.

A wedding event of unusual interest will take place at the home of Representative S. G. Palmer, Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilmore and daughter, Evelyn, of Fall River and Pendleton Hill, spent Sunday at their Summer home here. Mrs. Palmer and daughter attended the Mother's day services.

PRESTON

NOVEL FEATURES AT PARTY GIVEN FOR MISS PENDLETON

A spring tonic birthday party of unusual interest was given by Mrs. Charles Pendleton in honor of her sister, Miss Florence Pendleton. The various rooms were men's ward, women's ward, contagious ward, etc. After the guests had arrived they were invited into Dr. Quack's (Charles C. Zabriskie) office. He was assisted by Miss Nurse-em-Better (Mrs. George Pendleton). Here the various ailments were treated in a humorous way by Dr. Quack and his assistant. Candy pills of varied forms, sizes and color comprised the medicines used. Games and contests pertaining to the nature of the party were enjoyed, after which there was a lunch of sandwiches, tea cakes and lemonade served in bottles labeled "Tonic." A large birthday cake with lighted candles was brought in and Miss Pendleton received many handsome and useful gifts.

Mrs. Charity Bentley is spending some time in Norwich, caring for her sister, Miss Charlotte Frink, who is ill.

Mother's Day Observance

Mother's day Sunday at the Baptist church during the service all mothers present were asked to come to the front of the church, where after a brief talk on "Mother" by the pastor they were presented three gladioli bulbs in white boxes specially made. The three oldest members of the church, Mrs. Harriet J. Fitch, who united with the church April 16, 1865, Mrs. Charity Bentley, who united May 21, 1865, Mrs. Jane Hallett, who united June 17, 1886, were presented potted plants, as was also Mrs. J. F. Richardson, organist, and Mrs. Fannie Parker, who has faithfully served as organist while Mrs. Richardson was in Florida. The church was very prettily decorated by members of the Unceasing Workers class. Special musical numbers included vocal solo, An Old-Fashioned Mother, Dorothy Bennett; duet, My Mother, Mrs. J. A. Smith and Dorothy Bennett; selection by the choir, My Mother's Bible. Poems were read by several younger members of the congregation.

This is used for missionary work. Two large tables were beautifully decorated with yellow jonquil baskets as place cards, made by the pastor's wife, Mrs. Clark. Cake, cookies, and cocoa were served. Over fifty were present. Mrs. Charles Geisthardt as cradle roll and junior leader planned this very pleasant May day event, which is looked forward to each year with enthusiasm.

During a stirring sermon on sin, a London (Ont.) preacher offered to give $10 to anyone in the congregation who could swear that he had never told a lie. A man calmly walked to the platform and claimed the money. When the preacher reached into his pocket he found that he did not have the $10 and was forced to defer payment.

Now a New Sandwich

In the Russian Style

You prepare it best with Wonder Bread, that delicious new bread widely urged by dietitians. Remember that.

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

Being a close-textured bread, it slices without crumbling. And because of its delicate flavor it vastly improves the taste of the sandwich itself. So be warned and use no other.

It offers, too, some amazing health advantages. It supplies, for instance, an abundance of calories. It provides many necessary proteins. The elements that build sturdy muscles.

Thus if eaten daily Wonder Bread promotes family health to a marked degree. It restores burned-up energy and it fosters growth.

To maintain its quality day after day, we go to great lengths.

We employ a large staff of food experts to test each batch of ingredients. We specify specially milled short patent flour. Only the heart of the wheat berry is used.

We use double the usual amount of milk. Every drop pasteurized.

We employ, too, a special method of baking. Slo-baking, it is called. A method that seals in the dietetic value of our ingredients and improves their flavor.

Hence when you get Wonder Bread you get the best. It knows no rival. Millions have found this to be so.

So please try it, to prove what it offers you and yours.

Note its dainty flavor. Its freshness. See how evenly it toasts. How easily it slices.

SEVEN QUICK FACTS About Wonder Bread

1. Slo-baked, seals in flavor, prolongs freshness.
2. Toasts quickly to an even golden brown.

"No boiling needed" says Mrs. Reynolds, 239 Broad St.

"I learned about Rinso from a neighbor. She found me scrubbing one day and said, 'You must enjoy scrubbing clothes, or else you'd let Rinso soak out the dirt.' I thought she was exaggerating, but I tried Rinso anyway—and my! what a surprise. All the dirt and stains seemed to float right off and my wash was the whitest ever! And it's great the way Rinso saves the clothes, now that they don't need to be scrubbed or boiled."

Thickest suds you ever saw!

Dirt soaks right out in creamy Rinso suds. Clothes rinse the whitest white imaginable.

Rinso is a compact, granulated soap. One cupful gives more suds—does more washing—than two cupfuls of lightweight, puffed-up soaps. The makers of 36 leading washers say, "Use Rinso." It's all you need—no bar soaps, chips or powders. Two sizes—most women buy the BIG package.

WESTERLY, R. I., May 16—Architect Arthur M. Thompson, of Norwich, Conn., has completed plans for a proposed enlargement of the Westerly Boat club. The proposed enlargement hinges on a possible consolidation of the Westerly Boat club and the Colonial club. The latter organization is being forced out of its present quarters on High street, as the building is to be razed to make way for a business block.

Discussion of the club consolidation occupied most of the annual meeting and met with general approval. Addison Archie was re-elected president and the following members to the board of governors: Frank A. Sullivan, Walter S. Price, Edwin B. Coy.

The boat club will hold a special meeting Monday night to discuss the consolidation project.

Players' Club Officers.

Mrs. Joel P. Sherman has been elected president of the Westerly Players' club. George P. Chapman of Pawcatuck, was reelected vice president. Mrs. Carroll Blackler was chosen secretary and Miss Ann E. Carr, treasurer.

ARGUMENTS FINISHED IN KENYON DAMAGE SUIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, May 16—Arguments in the $30,000 personal damages suit of Dr. Frances A. Kenyon of Woodville vs. The United Electric Railway company were completed late this afternoon in the Westerly session of superior court. Judge A. A. Capotosto will give his charge to the jury Friday morning. Att. Ralph Greenlaw summed up for the plaintiff and Atty. Earl P. Sweeney for the defense. The arguments required practically all the afternoon session. Dr. Kenyon claimed that she was injured Oct. 1926 while boarding a trolley in Weybosset street, Providence. The car started unexpectedly and badly wrenched her right arm and shoulder. Injuries were also suffered to her back and she is still unable to pursue her practice as physician and surgeon as fully as before the accident. Dr. Kenyon also claims that the U. E. R. led her to believe that it would settle the damages asked, but by various means succeeded in postponing said settlement until the legal time limit of two years had expired. She was then informed that her case had been outlawed.

The trolley company denies such deliberate evasion of settlement, has declared that plaintiff postponed settlement and finally contends that Dr. Kenyon attempted to board the trolley without signaling it and was injured in so doing. The trial has consumed four days.

The case of Matarese vs. Chesebro is scheduled for trial in superior court today (Friday). A new jury will be impanelled this morning.

English customs officials are determined to stop the smuggling of silk into Britain. Recently a London firm received a consignment of children's handkerchiefs. The handkerchiefs were described as cotton. So was the embroidered kitten in the corner of each. They were. The firm received a stern letter from the authorities warning them that they would be fined if the offense occurred again. An enterprising official had discovered that each cotton kitten was provided with four tiny silk whiskers.

THE GRAF ZEPPELIN HAS LANDED AT CUERS, FRANCE

Came Down at 2:35 p. m., E. S. T., Yesterday, After an All Day Struggle Against Storms—A Large Force of Soldiers, Sailors and Civilians Assisted the Crew in Working the Huge Dirigible Into the Cuers Hangar—The Airship Had Passed Over Other Airfields Where Troops Stood by Ready to Aid Her Landing—Dr. Eckener Had Wired Numerous Appeals, Saying That the Zeppelin Had Suffered Grave Damage.

CUERS, France, May 17—(AP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin was safe tonight in a hangar here while the diminishing mistral with which she had been in perilous struggle all day howled on overhead.

The crippled ship, only two of her five motors working with occasional help from a third, was drawn down to earth here, literally at the edge of the Mediterranean sea and beside the only landing mast in France. The 18 passengers and 40 members of the crew again set foot to the solid earth above which they had tossed in uncertainty throughout the day.

The landing was at 2.35 p. m. (2.35 p. m. eastern Standard time). More than 38 1-2 hours before, the dirigible had nosed into the air from Friedrichshafen and set her course for Lakehurst, N. J. Twelve hours later, after an unusually fine start, Dr. Hugo Eckener, confronted with the loss of two motors, headed his ship back home from the Spanish coast.

The battle to win passage up the Rhone valley against the near gale from the northwest failed and Dr. Eckener decided on a landing here. It was nearly dark when the ship appeared. Lieutenant Samon, commander of the airdrome had assembled soldiers, sailors and civilians hours before. They drew the ship down and within half an hour the passengers descended to the ground from short ladders raised to the cabin door.

The mayor and most of the doctors of this village of 3,000 inhabitants were at the field but the passengers needed no medical aid. Some of them said they had been rather badly shaken up during the last few hours but no one was hurt. Dr Hugo Eckener was the last to leave the car. He turned immediately to thank the French officials, who with others all up the Rhone valley, had stood by throughout the day to give him aid.

Even the female gorilla "Susi" was brought out of her compartment. The animal seemed to have suffered more than the human passengers.

Cuers-Pierrefeu is the center for air defense for the fortified city of Toulon, one of the great French naval bases, and has an aviation school with hangars for both airplanes and dirigibles. The commandant of the naval district, as soon as the distress of the Graf Zeppelin was apparent, ordered preparations for an emergency landing. Troops were rushed to the fields by motor trucks from Hyeres, Frejus and Toulon. The old hangar of the ill-fated French dirigible Dixmude was made ready.

The Dixmude, which in her time broke all records for distance and endurance, was lost in December 1922 with her crew of 52 in a violent storm encountered over the Mediterranean.

Troops from the Valence garrison, where the high wind earlier frustrated an attempted landing, pursued the wind-blown bag in motor trucks down the Rhone valley. The French government by radio offered Dr. Eckener his choice of landing places but called his attention to the exceptional facilities here.

The dirigible still was being buffeted now one way and now another when five airplanes left Le Bourget flying field near Paris to seek her. Later a German plane piloted by a night pilot of a commercial air route with a representative of the German embassy as passenger took the southward air trail.

While the Zeppelin was hovering over this town the French air ministry received a telegram from the management of the Zeppelin Society at Ludwigshafen saying "Thanks for your good service and help during the past hours."

TO REPLACE THE MOTORS DAMAGED ON ZEPPELIN

DETAILS OF STRUGGLE OF THE GRAF ZEPPELIN

The biz dirigible was safely brought to earth beside the only landing mast in France. It was the same which had served to moor the French dirigible Dixmude, lost in a storm over the Mediterranean sea nearly six years ago.

She concluded her perilous odyssey through the air after 38 and a half hours of flight, nine of which were spent in tenacious struggle with the famous mistral wind which blows down the Rhone valley intermittently.

The first danger signal came as she passed over Orange, between Avignon and Montelimar, at about 11:15 a. m. (5:15 a. m. E. S. T.) She was observed to be having a difficult fight against the mistral.

Over cities and towns and over airfields where troops stood ready to aid her landing, the Graf Zeppelin battled her way as far north as the suburbs of Valence.

Here, Dr. Eckener wireless numerous appeals to the air-field authorities at Bron, near Lyons, for permission to land at Valence and gave up his attempt to reach Bron.

He said the Zeppelin had suffered grave damage which threatened serious danger to the ship.

Here came the crux of her struggle with the wind.

For some time she hung over the suburbs of the town, her engines just keeping her head into the wind. A message written in German by Dr. Eckener was dropped over-board asking: "Please have the garrison at Valence designate best situated terrain for landing our dirigible."

Dr. Eckener made a vain effort to bring her down at the nearby airfield of Portes-Les-Valence, but the troops waiting below to help her to safety, saw her swept off southeast toward the rocky valley of the river Drome.

The big airship rolled about as she tried vainly to shake off the steady sweep of the wind, turning east and west alternately to find an escape.

From then on, no messages were received from Dr. Eckener and the Graf Zeppelin failed to answer her signal calls.

Over the Plain of Chabeuil, east of Valence, she hung nearly stationary for twenty minutes, but her motors gave her no headway. She gave up and turned southwards on the advice of the Le Bourget airfield authorities who sent a wireless to Dr. Eckener advising him to try to make the Cuers landing-mast.

There a new danger faced her. She was drifting into a pocket of the mountains in the valley of the Drome, hemmed in by the first ramparts of the Alps.

The airship passed successively over the village of Crest and the village of Saillans, apparently trying to fly over the mountains in a straight line south to Cuers.

But she failed to gain the altitude necessary to clear the Trois-Bec range and listing at an angle of 45 degrees, shifted back went toward Montelimar, over which she passed for the second time today.

It was thought that she might try to land at the Ancona air-field, 2 miles north of the city. But Dr. Eckener seemed to have confidence that his two motors would be sufficiently powerful to take the dirigible to Cuers and went on southwards.

As she passed over Avignon at 6:30 p. m. (12:30 p. m. E. S. T.) the wind had blown itself out somewhat. Dr. Eckener still was in difficulties with navigation of the now unwieldy craft, which sometimes swung almost sideways into the wind.

But the motors still functioned and he went over the biz Pujaut airdrome, three miles northwest of Avignon, without any signal to the waiting forces on the ground.

Then he headed on the last 90 mile lap to Cuers, east southeast over the low foothills of the Alpilles. In this region the force of the mistral is considerably diminished. The wind which follows a regular course, year in and year out, turns east in this direction from the mouth of Rhone and blows eastward toward the Riviera. Thus Dr. Eckener benefited by a wind astern to the very end of his flight from Valence.

TWO HARVARD STUDENTS LIQUOR LAW "INFORMERS"

BOSTON, May 17—(AP)—A new means by which ambitious students may earn money for college expenses came to light today when federal prohibition agents told a judge in federal court that two Harvard students had been employed as "informers" to secure evidence in liquor cases.

The agents said that one student had been in the pay of the government for three or four months and that another had been used in a similar capacity.

The employment of the students as decoys was revealed during a hearing on a government petition for the forfeiture of an automobile owned by a Revere man. Avent Dennis T. Lordan testified that he seized the automobile containing liquor, on information given him by a Harvard student. When questioned he said the student was in the employ of the prohibition department and, in addition to telling of the liquor-laden automobile, had also purchased liquor for use as evidence. He said another student aided the first in making the purchase.

Later, Major Henry E. Goodnough, assistant prohibition administrator in charge of law enforcement, said that Washington had authorized the use of special agents. He said that any person with information that would aid in the enforcement of the dry law would be paid $5 a day for his services. He added that this offer was open to college students.

Major Goodnough explained that the case on trial today was an old one, involving an offense committed in May 1928. He said that since that time no students had been engaged by his department.

Harry L. Barker, chief secret service agent, said more counterfeit money appeared to be in circulation than at any time in many years.

WHITE MAN LYNCHED BY A MOB NEAR LAKE CITY, FLA.

LAKE CITY, Fla., May 17.—(AP)—A white man, N. G. Romey, grocer, was lynched near here early today several hours after his wife had been fatally wounded in a gun battle with the chief of police.

A coroner's jury held an inquest in a ditch two miles from here where Romey's body was found. Its verdict was that Romey met death at the hands of parties unknown.

The jury also found that Chief of Police John F. Baker had acted in self-defense in shooting the woman five times after she had fired three shots at Baker, breaking his shoulder blade.

Romey's body, filled with bullet wounds and sitting upright in the ditch was found this morning. Authorities brought it here. Romey had been jailed last night.

Authorities said trouble started yesterday after Romey was notified to clean up some rubbish in front of his store here. He finally had agreed they said to take inside his store boxes which had been put on the sidewalk but afterwards removed them again to the sidewalk and telephoned Chief Baker to "try to make me move it back."

Baker went to the store and an argument ensued. Mrs. Romey was charged with having fired three shots at the chief who replied wounding her five times. She died at midnight.

Sheriff "Babe" Douglas said a mob forced the lock and bars on Romey's cell in jail and took him away. He had no knowledge as to the identity of those who constituted the mob.

Romey formerly lived at Valdosta, Ga., and came here three years ago after having been flogged by an band of masked men near Valdosta.

TO ATTEMPT NEW REFUELING ENDURANCE RECORD

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 17—(AP)—A man and a woman today announced plans for separate attempts to better the world's refueling endurance flight record of 150 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds established in January by the army plane Question Mark at Los Angeles.

Lieutenant H. B. Clark, former manager of Roosevelt Field, will command one plane and the other will be in charge of Viola Gentry, former holder of the solo endurance flight record for women.

Lieutenant Clarke will command the Three Musketeers, a Bellanca monoplane with a Wright whirlwind motor, which he said would take off at 8 a. m., Monday. He will be accompanied by Martin Jensen, holder of the present world's solo endurance flight record of 55 hours, 33 minutes and 21 seconds; and William Ulbrich, a young German pilot.

The Three Musketeers will be refueled by a recently perfected device, which will enable the plane to pick up cans of gasoline from the ground.

Miss Gentry's plane, a Cabinair biplane, with a Warner motor, will take off Tuesday morning. The biplane is named The Answer. Miss Gentry will be accompanied by Walter J. Carr, designer of the plane and designer for the Paramount Airplane corporation. Mr. Carr was a flying instructor in the army during the war.

Each plane will carry 100 gallons of gasoline on the take-off and will refuel every afternoon.

GLEE IN CHICAGO OVER IMPRISONMENT OF CAPONE

CHICAGO, May 17—(AP)—A loud laugh of gratification came from Chicago's law enforcement circles today at the news that "Big Shot," Alphonse Capone was behind the bars in Philadelphia with a year's jail sentence pinned to his lapel.

It was explained that a conviction for carrying concealed weapons such as obtained in Philadelphia was difficult in Chicago because of quirks in legal rulings.

The conviction, the first of its kind returned against "the big fellow" in nearly a decade of activity in racket land, was gleefully pointed to as the beginning of the end of his power in the underworld here.

There was little comment on the gunman's story of having effected a flanziand truce at Atlantic City. Capone has sued for peace, but there is no peace in gunman's land.

It was believed the champion booze runner had "taken the rap" smilingly, glad to evade for awhile rival gangsters who have been threatening his life.

"This is the beginning of the end of Al Capone's career," said the veteran prosecutor, Frank J. Loesch, who is president of Chicago's crime commission.

"I believe his idea has been for some time to get into a jail where he will be safe from rival gang vengeance in store for him." State's Attorney John A. Swanson grinned.

INVESTIGATION OF DEATH OF HUNTINGTON AT STANDSTILL

County Detective Edward J. Hickey spent the day in a routine check of clues and announced that nothing had been found to change his belief that the young Harvard student took his own life.

BELIEVES CAPONE WAS GLAD TO GET JAIL SENTENCE

PHILADELPHIA, May 17—(AP)—"Scarface Al" Capone, nationally known Chicago gangster and racketeer leader, is serving a jail term for the first time in his life.

After pleading guilty to toting a gun, Capone and his body guard, Frank Cline, also a Chicago gangster, were sentenced to a year in Moyamensing prison. The conviction was one of the swiftest ever to follow an arrest here. Within 17 hours of their arrest the two had been booked and assigned cells in the prison.

Before the gunmen were sent to the county prison, Director Lemuel Schofield, of the department of public safety, declared that the arrest and sentence of Capone was notice to the gang world that racketeers would not tolerated in Philadelphia if the police could help it.

Early in the day when he was "stood up" in front of the detective squad of Philadelphia, "Scarface Al" was asked whether he had ever done time, he proudly replied "not a minute."

When Judge John E. Walsh, of the criminal division of the municipal court, promptly announced "one year" after Capone and his pal pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon, Capone did not show the same pride and his face turned a dark red.

The arrest of Capone and his companion was made so easily and the wheels of justice moved so swiftly and smoothly that there were unconfirmed reports that Capone sought imprisonment to save his life. This was denied by police and by Capone's attorneys.

Attention was attracted to a published report that Mayor Harry A. Mackey had said he believed Capone was "glad to go to jail."

"It was no doubt good work on the part of the detectives in capturing the Chicago gang leader," the mayor was quoted as saying, "but I think he is really glad to be in jail. From reports I have received, Capone was running away from a gang out to kill him. If he wasn't glad to go to jail I think he would have fought the case to the last."

City Attorney Is Held In Bank Robbery Case

Ralph R. Reed of Pine Bluff, Ark., Charged With Being Accessory—Held in $25,000 Bail.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., May 17—(AP)—Ralph R. Reed, city attorney of Pine Bluff, was arrested and placed in the county jail late today in connection with the robbery of the People's Bank and Trust company of $20,000 on April 26. His bond was fixed at $25,000.

He was charged with being an accessory to the robbery and receiving stolen property.

County officials said they had evidence that Reed had conspired with the robbers and had received $10,000 of the stolen money.

Three negroes also were arrested. They were charged as accessories and $1,000 in travelers cheques said to have been stolen from the bank was recovered from them, police said.

MORE DEATHS FEARED IN CLEVELAND CLINIC TRAGEDY

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 17.—(AP)—More than 100 surviving victims of the Cleveland clinic disaster were waiting tonight for an unknown fate. For many of them, doctors feared, death loomed close at hand.

The disaster death toll stood at 125, but the element of what physicians called "delayed reaction" darkly menaced the other victims who still were living.

A few medical men said they believed the critical stage of the poisoning had passed, but the majority held the lives of the remaining will hang in delicate balance for three or four days longer.

A typical example of "delayed reaction" was given today when Ben Jones, a former professional football player died at his home in Grove City, Pa. Jones told friends after he was removed from the clinic following the explosion that he felt no ill effects from the "experience. He drove 150 miles from Cleveland to Grove City and said he felt "fine." A few hours later he collapsed and died.

One of the plainest statements of the possible delayed deaths from the poison gas was made by Harry L. Rockwood, city health commissioner.

The insidious part about the two gases that many breathed in the disaster, Rockwood said, "is that their fatal action is often delayed four to five hours and some times five to six days. Even then if they don't kill, the lungs of victims are so weakened they fall victim to pneumonia."

FIGHTING LEGAL BATTLE TO ESTABLISH BIRTHRIGHT

NEW YORK, May 17—(AP)—Mrs. Aimee Henry Morecroft, today won another point in her legal battle to establish her birthright as the daughter of Mrs. Mary Parker Taylor, of Boston, when the appellate division of the supreme court refused to allow Mrs. Taylor an appeal from its recent decision refusing to dismiss Mrs. Morecroft's suit.

The decision maintained that Mrs. Morecroft was within her rights in suing in the supreme court for a declaratory judgment that she was the daughter of Mrs. Taylor and for an order directing Mrs. Taylor to give her a birth certificate. On the establishment of Mrs. Morecroft's claim rests the question of her inheritance of a considerable fortune from the Parker family of Boston.

FARM RELIEF BILL SENT TO A CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

An Effort Will Be Made to Conciliate the Differences That Have Arisen in the Two Houses Over the Export Debenture Plan—House Leaders Expect That Their Conferees Will Be Able to Override the Objections of the Senate Members.

WASHINGTON, May 17—(AP)—The farm relief bill was sent into a neutral zone between the senate and house today for conciliation of the differences that have arisen between the two branches over the export debenture plan.

Temporarily laying aside whether the senate had infringed upon the rights of the house in originating the proposal, a huge majority of republicans and a handful of house democrats voted to lay the matter in the hands of a conference committee for arbitration. The vote was 249 to 119.

House leaders confidently expected that their conferees would be able to override the objections of the senate members of the conference committee and eliminate the debenture plan from the measure. However, from the senate there came predictions that the conference beginning Monday would be long drawn out.

The five house conferees, Chairman Haugen, and Representatives Purnell of Indiana, and Williams of Illinois, republicans, and Aswell of Louisiana, and Kincheloe of Kentucky, democrats, the ranking members of the house agriculture committee, all opposed the debenture plan at the time it was proposed to that group while it was drafting the house farm bill. None of the five has changed his position.

Of the five senators who will take part in the conference, Chairman McNary and Senator Capper, of Kansas, republicans and Ransdell, of Louisiana, democrat, opposed the debenture plan in the senate agriculture committee. The two others, Senators Norris of Nebraska, republican, and Smith of South Carolina, democrat, favored the plan in committee.

The senate conferees will be bound by the vote of that body to support the bill as it was passed there, however.

Consideration of the measure in conference might be complicated further by the house conferees being opposed to certain other provisions of the senate bill.

One of the features considered objectionable by some of the house conferees is a provision under which they hold the government would be so closely tied to stabilization corporations as to amount to government control of the agencies. In the house bill, the corporations would be set up at the instance of cooperative organizations and would be directed by them.

The vote of the house to send the bill to conference followed a heated argument in which Representative Garner of Texas, the minority leader, charged that the republican leaders had no right to waive the constitutional question if they believed the senate had infringed upon the rights of the house.

The Texan contended the move was designed to prevent a vote in the house on the export debenture plan.

The republicans argued that if there should be a disagreement of the conferees or if the debenture plan were retained by them in the bill, there still would be time to raise the constitutional question. They contended that because of the emergency nature of the legislation efforts to reach an agreement between the two houses should be made before precipitating an argument which they said might draw out for months.

The republicans voted almost solidly to send the bill to conference. Only four of them voted with the democrats, while fourteen democrats joined with the republicans. These democrats included Connery, Douglass, and McCormack of Massachusetts; and O'Connell of Rhode Island.

EFFORT TO CREATE THREE INSANE HOSPITAL DISTRICTS

HARTFORD, May 17—(AP)—Gov. Trumbull today took the first step toward the creation of three insane hospital districts in the state by ignoring five of the town counties in making his appointments to the board of trustees of the New Fairfield state hospital. The list of appointments is also signalized by the first woman to be named trustee of a hospital for the insane here, and reveals the first difficulty to come to light as the result of a legislative act consummated in the hectic closing days.

The trustees named, who will have charge of spending the $1,750,000 appropriated by the 1929 legislature to start the new plant, as well as operating the institution once it has been established, are:

Speaker Samuel A. Eddy, North Canaan; Edward G. Buckland, New Haven; Rodney P. Shepard, Newtown; Representative William C. Gilbert, Danbury, each for four years from June 1.

Representative Asabel W. Mitchell, Woodbury; Representative Harold S. Senior, Bethel; ex-Senator Matthew H. Kenealy, Stamford, each for two years from June 1.

FREED OF CHARGE OF CONTEMPT OF SENATE

PHILADELPHIA, May 17—(AP)—The United States circuit court of appeal today freed Thomas W. Cunningham, against whom an indictment had been returned by the federal grand jury in the District of Columbia charging him with contempt of the senate in connection with the Vare senatorial election case.

Cunningham was indicted after he had refused to tell the Reed senate committee the source of $50,000 he contributed to the Vare campaign in the senatorial contest of 1926.

After he was indicted, a warrant for his arrest was issued and the federal district court here dismissed a writ of habeas corpus applied for by Cunningham to prevent his removal to Washington. The circuit court today, by a 2 to 1 vote, reversed the action of the district court.

This line up of 2 to 1 is the same as taken by the circuit court in a similar action to have Cunningham appear before the senate on a contempt charge for the same alleged offense. This case is now before the United States supreme court.

REFUSED PERMIT TO RAISE THEIR REDISCOUNT RATES

CHICAGO, May 17—(AP)—The Chicago Tribune tomorrow will say that the New York and Chicago Federal Reserve banks were refused permission of the federal reserve board to raise their rediscount rates.

Directors of the Chicago bank, at their regular meeting today approved an advance from 5 to 6 per cent, and requested authorities from the federal reserve board to make the change, after similar action had been taken by the New York directors Thursday, the Tribune will say.

The story will add that such requests also were made by the Boston and Philadelphia Reserve banks with the same result. However, it will continue, the San Francisco bank was given authority to raise its rate from 4 1-2 per cent to 5 per cent, thus bringing it up to the level maintained by the other 11 institutions.

The requests, the paper will say, were presented to the federal reserve board at its meeting in Washington today, but in neither case was sanction forthcoming.

He had been a patient at the institution for two weeks. He was born in this city April 2, 1887, a son of the late Attorney Thomas J. and Helen Murray Kelley. He had spent practically all of his life in this city, attending the Natchaug grammar and Windham high schools. On every side he was regarded as a man of the highest character and principles and his genial disposition won him hundreds of friends who were grief stricken at the news of his death.

Mr. Kelley was employed in various businesses after leaving high school. At the time the fire department reorganized in June, 1917, he became a permanent member and was assigned to Engine Company No. 1. The following September he enlisted in the army and was one of the first quota from here to go to Camp Devens, Mass. He later went overseas with Ammunition Train 639, M. T. C., and saw considerable service for several months in France. He returned here in April, 1919 and in August of that year returned to the fire department. He was then assigned as lieutenant of Engine Company No. 1, with Wade U. Webster as chief and the late James J. Tighe as captain. Chief Webster resigned January 15, 1923 and Captain Tighe was promoted chief. The latter died June 11, 1925 and a short time later Kelley was appointed chief. He held that position with much credit until September 1, 1928 when he resigned on account of ill health. He was succeeded by Fire Chief Webster, who reentered the fire department service.

Former Fire Chief Kelley was a member of Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks and of James J. Shea Post, No. 19, American Legion. He is survived by two brothers, Attorney Arthur T. Kelley of this city and Robert E. Kelley of Elmsham, Ills., and one sister, Mrs. Helen Flannigan of New York city.

World's Flying Record Broken with MOTOR CAR GASOLINE

MARTIN JENSEN . . . . sets new mark for solo endurance flying with the same gasoline that you can buy at any TYDOL pump:

Hi-test TYDOL

Never before had a regular motor car gasoline been chosen by an aviator for a record flight.

Record flights had always been made with special aviation gas. Expensive. Extra powerful. "You can't win," they said, "with motor car gas. It just isn't good enough."

But Martin Jensen did win!...35 hours, 33 minutes, 20 seconds in the air! And he set this new world's record with exactly the same gasoline that you can, and should, put in the gas tank of your own car today.

No wonder the sales of Hi-Test TYDOL gasoline are mounting sky-high when aviators prove its quality in the clouds! No wonder motorists are turning from old-fashioned fuels when this regular gasoline can break world's records in airplanes!

Try this astonishing new green gasoline in your car today. Get super-power, high-test, anti-knock quality at no extra cost...It will set startling records for economy and performance in your motor. And it will set them as quickly as it proved its quality in the hardest test ever given a motor car gasoline...Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, Quaker Hill, New London, Conn., Telephone New London 4389.

The new VEEDOL Motor Oil also helped Jensen to smash this record

PUTNAM

AIR CIRCUS AT PUTNAM POSTPONED UNTIL TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 18—Some delay in getting started from the Hartford airport caused the eight expected planes which were to take part in the air meet to be sponsored by the L. and H. Aircraft company of Hartford to postpone the first day programme. Putnam waited in vain today for a glance of the great air parade of planes over the city but until a late hour this afternoon all that the craning necks witnessed the occasional passing of a small scout plane of the L. and H. company and the giant tri-motored Ford plane of the Colonial Transportation company winging its way to Boston or New York.

The plane which arrived in Putnam late Wednesday evening carrying Manager C. Benedict Blank, a pilot and a mechanic was kept busy today in taking aloft passengers for an aerial view of the city. Crowds flocked to Mantup field this afternoon expecting to witness the first day's events, but saw nothing but the small craft depart with passengers aboard.

The programme of air events as scheduled will officially open Saturday and will be repeated again on Sunday, it was said by an official at Mantup airport tonight.

Several trees and other growth in the rural districts suffered heavily yesterday from the terrific gale that accompanied the downpour of the afternoon. In the East Putnam section of the town a number of giant elms were up-rooted and much damage was caused growing crops.

The electric light and telephone lines throughout the city and rural districts weathered the storm. No electric power lines were hampered by the gales and service on only 15 telephone lines in the Putnam exchange was disrupted. According to a report tonight from the local office all disabled stations were re-serviced before dawn today.

The eighth grade of Putnam Junior high school and the eighth grade presentations of St. Mary's school in the Loyalty day parade held here on Wednesday were awarded prizes for their work. The fifth grade classes of the Israel Putnam and Smith street schools were winners in the race for the most unique and strangely dressed groups. Lauretta Mullan of St. Mary's parochial school took first honors for the best decorated scooter; Robert Mullan of St. Mary's parochial was the winner for the best adorned wagon and Raymond Wheaton of the Israel Putnam school won the blue ribbon award for the bicycle bearing the best assortment of colors. The decisions were announced today by Howard C. Bradford, Frederic Prince and Omer J. Milot, judges of the contest.

Fifty members of the Putnam chamber of commerce gathered Thursday evening at the Putnam Inn for the annual banquet and enjoyed the speeches of the "silver tongued" Tom Mulgrew and his gang from Providence.

A fine dinner was served and was followed by the annual election of officers. Walter N. King was reelected to head the commercial organization for another year. Mr. King's efforts during the past year as president of the chamber were seen in all reports of the various committees and led to his reappointment to the post. Other officers of the organization most of whom were re-elected are: First vice president, Earl S. Rogers; second vice president, Charles A. Richard; treasurer, Arthur E. Smith; secretary, Arthur Macdonald. The board of directors consists of Harvey Grinnell, Charles Dean, Warren S. Ames, Arthur Duvert and James F. Donahue.

The ladies of the Putnam Cosmos club were hosts to a large social gathering Thursday evening at the Putnam country club on the old lake road. The feature of the evening was a dance.

Burial services for Mrs. Walter F. Yorke, who died Tuesday at her home in Richmond, Long Island, following a prolonged illness were held at the Grove street cemetery this afternoon, following the arrival of the body from Richmond. Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Congregational church of this city of which Mrs. Yorke was formerly a member, officiated at the committal services.

Mrs. Yorke is the sister-in-law of Mrs. A. D. McIntyre of this city. She attended schools in Putnam and was well known to the older residents of the city.

Edwin Hall of New York, formerly of this city, is a week end visitor in Putnam. Mr. Hall is attached to the New York police department as a patrolman.

The success of a number of pout fishermen this week has encouraged several other local night anglers to try their luck in local ponds. One fisherman, who spent Wednesday evening on a pond in this vicinity, was rewarded with a catch of 20 fish of pout species, entire lot tipping the scales at twenty-one pounds.

The Putnam Parent-Teachers association on Friday evening presented to a capacity house at the Bradley theatre the season's best dramatic hit "The Hoodo." The mystery drama proved to be enjoyed by everyone who was present. The cast of characters consisted of talented Putnam amateur actors.

Health Officer Peter A. Gardner said this afternoon that he had received a report of one case of septic sore throat to be existing in the city. A doctor's verified report of the disease was to the effect that the case is of a mild nature and careful attention is being given the patient to prevent contagion. This is the first case of septic sore throat to be entered on the health records this year. The balance of the health report for the week indicated four cases of chicken pox to be existing within the city.

A four stroke fire alarm at 4:45 p. m. today was for a brush fire at 88 Woodstock avenue. The grass blaze aided by brisk winds burned rapidly over a wide acreage but caused no great amount of damage. Today's alarm was the third of the week. The members of the hook and ladder and the hose company at the Central fire station responded to the call.

PLAINFIELD

DUAL OBSERVANCE ON MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial day there are to be two separate observances in the town of Plainfield. The American Legion will hold its own exercises, as will also the Ladies of the G. A. R. The Legion plans are not yet complete. Richard W. Daggett is in charge of the L. of the G. A. R. The line of march will be as follows—8:30—Form at honor roll, Central Village. 9:00—Decorate graves of Moosup cemetery. 9:45—Packer cemetery. 10:15—Plainfield cemetery. 11:00—Evergreen cemetery, Central Village. 12:00—Lunch served in Central Village. At the bridge in Central Village, a brief service will be held immediately after the decoration of graves at Evergreen cemetery in honor of those who died at sea. Graves of veterans in Hammett and All Hallows' cemeteries on Green Hollow road will be decorated by a committee of the Ladies of the G. A. R. as in former years. Flags will be placed on all known graves of all known service men. The Boy Scouts of Plainfield and Wauregan, the Friendly Indians, of Moosup, the Girl Scouts, and the Camp Fire Girls of Plainfield, have been asked to assist in decorating the graves. The Plainfield band has been engaged. Transportation and other details are being arranged for.

JEWETT CITY

STREAM AND POND SURVEY INTERESTS FISHERMEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 17—Of interest to every fisherman locally is the survey of streams and ponds in New London county being conducted by the Game Warden service under County Warden Watson. This survey is being made preparatory to the stocking of streams by the state and when completed any fisherman can call up the nearest warden or write to the office of the State Bureau of Fisheries and Game and find out what streams or parts of streams are posted in New London county, and what streams are leased by private parties or clubs. All streams, and small feeder streams, that are leased by private parties, or clubs will not be stocked by the state as they have been in the past. So this survey will eliminate all haphazard methods of stocking that have been the rule heretofore. Also any fisherman applying to his nearest warden, will know what stream is open to fishermen, what part is closed, especially in territory with which he is unfamiliar, thus eliminating a drive of several miles only to find the stream closed upon his arrival.

SEASON'S BALL GAME SERIES HOLDS BIG PROMISE

Friday evening Tom Barnett and Ed Blake were working on the schedules of the series of ball games being arranged between the single men and the married men. Last season the benedicts got away with the series by a hair. This summer it is promised that such will absolutely not be the case. "Cozy" Dolan has finally booked up to do the mound job, with three dark horses in training for the back stop end. When Cozy gets into action on the delivery end, these three will be necessary. A grand street parade, surpassing in splendor the grand pageant of last year, is already in the making.

Over 1,000 people witnessed the opening game last June. (Watch this column for the most wonderful lineup ever known!)

ASHLAND MILL NOTES RECORD VARIOUS CHANGES

Ashland mill notes, for which P. W. Chase is authority, as printed in the A. C. C. O. Smile Friday:

New faces noted in the Ashland office are Miss Edith Marriott, William Aston and Clarence H. Butler. Miss Marriott is the daughter of Percey Marriott, one of the second hands in the weaving department. Aston lives in Norwich and has recently been connected with the Glasgo publishing company. Mr. Butler comes from New Bedford.

Another addition to the office force is Harold Tomlinson, promoted a few weeks ago from the position of silk clerk to that of cost accountant.

Miss Julia Sayles, who has been a member of the office force for a number of years, is now filling the position vacated by Miss Sangster as secretary to the manager.

Clarence H. Butler, who succeeds Howard A. Sherman as office manager at Ashland, has assumed his new duties. Mr. Butler comes from New Bedford and has been with the Gosnold Mills of that city. He has also been in Richmond, Long Island, with the Warwick mills at West Warwick, R. I., previous to coming here.

With all the necessary changes which have taken place, some of the older hands, in point of service, have benefited. Alcida St. John who for the past few years has been the capable second hand in the lower weave shop has been promoted to overseer of that department. There is every reason to believe that he will make good.

Hector Lafave, for several years a slasher tender and more recently general handy man in the warping department, has been promoted to second hand in the winding and warping room in the new mill.

Leodore L'Homme, for a number of years an inspector in the cloth room, has been advanced to inspector of cloth in the process of weaving in the weave shop.

If one is looking for brave men, it is well to point the periscope over towards Wauregan. Thursday evening, during the gale, with the quick at 50, exercising his legitimate prerogative, a sure bold man called on friends in the borough, doiled up in a 1928 straw.

The shopping public seem to be attracted to the new 5 cents to $1.00 store.

FIRE COMPANY CALLED FOR A BURNING COAT

During the blow that followed Thursday afternoon's storm the firemen were called out at 8 p. m. to station 32 Mechanic street. Engine No. 1 and Chemical No. 1 made a quick run only to find a smouldering coat in the street in front of the Marinella home. Somehow the coat became ignited in the house. People rushed about in great excitement, turned in an alarm, then chucked the coat out the door. The firemen are not especially pleased with unnecessary alarms.

Miss Doris Burr has been the guest of Mrs. Philip Kittridge, at Milford, N. H.

The mercury at 5 a. m. Friday, as reported from several sections of the borough, stood at 40 degrees. On Stone hill it dropped to 33, with the result that frost was showing as late as 8 a. m. Fred Tipton, who lives at the foot of Reservoir hill, noted frost in several places during an early drive to the borough.

Sunday, a considerable delegation of borough men is planning a trip to Boston to see the game, Boston vs. Philadelphia.

The "Trials of a Hostess," which met with favor both here and in Newent, is to be repeated in Plainfield.

NOTICE!

This is to give notice that on and after this date I will not be responsible for any bills contracted by my wife, Mrs. Florence Freniere.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Little out of the ordinary occurred in Norwich 50 years ago to mar the peace and quiet of the city. That week St. Patrick's church was lighted for the first time and presented, according to The Bulletin, a brilliant spectacle. The weather was much warmer that year than it is this year, as the thermometer registered 90 degrees.

Monday, May 12, 1879—While the workmen were at work in the gravel pit on Ripley's lot on Franklin street, Saturday, the bank caved in, completely burying Thomas Sparks, one of the laborers. Speedy assistance saved him from death.

Governor Andrews has appointed Dr. Leonard B. Almy of this city and Dr. G. W. Russell and Dr. George W. Avery of Hartford as commissioners to examine into the condition of several convicts at the state prison who are represented as insane.

The Pinafore and Uncas nines had a contest on the West Side Saturday afternoon, the Pinafores carrying off the honors by a score of 27 to 16.

There were several heavy frosts last week, but the sun will soon put a stop to crystallization.

If Norwich ever looks like a metropolis, it is on Saturday and Sunday evenings, when the thoroughfares are crowded and everything is moving.

Tuesday, May 13, 1879—The dog poisoners have been operating on Grove street. Mr. S. E. Higgins lost a valuable shepherd dog at the hands of one last Saturday night. He was a faithful, inoffensive animal, properly licensed and at peace with all the world. No decent excuse can be given for such an act.

The guardians of Preston bridge and the statute against driving over that structure faster than a walk have always done their duty and as a natural consequence it has been a long time since such an event occurred. But on Sunday last a team from the city passed over the bridge faster than the law allows. So a young and zealous constable of the good old town gave chas eand brought the offender to a halt. Had the offender not been quick witted, yesterday's sun would have seen him before a Preston justice, but upon being challenged for his name he gave it as Ernesti Pnokaloff, and all day yesterday, after the directories had been exhausted, the constable dwelt upon the deceitfulness of his fellow men.

The Powers Jubilee singers, composed of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Powers, Daniel Sanders, Mrs. Kate Jones, Mrs. Peter Young, Mr. Albert Peckham, Mr. Samuel Carter and Mr. John Brown, gave a concert of sacred music Sunday evening at Breed hall for the benefit of the pastor of the colored Baptist church.

Wednesday, May 14, 1879—The Gleaners had a large crowd at their entertainment at the Reform rooms last evening and their refreshments and other things met with a ready sale. Tonight the drama Bread Upon the Waters will be given, with instrumental music. The rooms are large, so fill them up, and thus encourage the young people.

Mr. Thomas Crary of Preston City died very suddenly on Tuesday morning. He retired in his usual health Monday night, and awoke about 12 o'clock, saying that he felt very much refreshed by his nap. About 4 o'clock he died. He was about 60 years of age. It is supposed that he died of heart disease.

The cobblestone pavement in front of the Allen block broke through last light to a depth of a foot or more, making a breach dangerous to horses. The break revealed an old plank-covered sewer. The street commissioner took proper precautions to guard the public against accidents.

Thursday, May 15, 1879—It is said that the steamer George R. Kelsey has been chartered for the projected new steamboat line between Bridgeport and New York. She is expected to go on the route by the 30th inst.

At the annual reunion of the soldiers who were confined in Andersonville and other rebel prisons held in New York Tuesday, Mr. Warren Lee Goss of this city was elected secretary.

The shad fishermen are making good catches of shad at the Greeneville dam, but down the Thames there are no reports of decent catches. As a whole, the fish are running very poor.

Friday, May 16, 1879—The burning of the two-story ell of the Poneman company's boarding house at Taftville early Wednesday morning damaged the property about $3,000 worth. There was a panic among the boarders, who numbered about 130, and it is a wonder that no one was seriously injured. Watchman Potter was the only person reported hurt. He was cut, while in the hall, quieting the frightened boarders, by a trunk thrown down the main stairway.

The legal voters of the West Chelsea school district held an exciting caucus last evening.

St. Patrick's church on Broadway was lighted for the first time last evening and presented a brilliant spectacle.

Thermometer seems determined to keep up—to 90 degrees.

"Old Probability" will never have the respect of the clerks if he does not show them more deference than to make Thursday nights stormy.

Saturday, May 17, 1879—Laurel Hill is to be the scene of considerable building this spring. Mr. George G. Bottom has a house nearing completion on River avenue and Mr. H. E. Haskell and Dr. G. G. Bishop are both about to erect residences on Laurel Hill on lots adjoining the property of Deacon Edward Ray.

The fire at Taftville, to which reference was made in our columns yesterday, originated in a wash house outside the boarding house, in the third story, and from the time the alarm was given it was just 22 minutes before the fire was extinguished.

The uniforms adopted by the First, Third and Fourth regiments are substantially alike, and are regarded as superior to that adopted by the Second. The Second has the prettiest uniform but it is not as serviceable as the others, not as convenient to get on or off, and is besides more old fashioned. An effort will probably be made to change it so as to somewhat resemble the others.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

With all the wealth of the French Renaissance, the gilded palaces of the Third Empire and the almost medieval luxury of a decadent dynasty as his background, D. W. Griffith has made one of the most noteworthy pictures of his career in "Lady of the Pavements," coming to the Broadway theatre Sunday for four days.

With the single exception of "Intolerance" with its acres of sets and thousands of "extras," the settings for "The Love Song" rival in magnitude and expense anything the pioneer producer of epics has done in recent years. One ballroom scene alone accommodates 500 dancers and rises to a height of 100 feet with huge swinging doors 20 feet high.

Griffith does not rely solely on "properties" to make his production an outstanding one. Ever an exponent of that school of directors who believe in "hand-picked" talent, he selected William Boyd to play a role for which he was congenitally and artistically suited—an idealist romanticist in Prussian uniform.

Jetta Goudal—she of the enigmatic countenance who is Hollywood's eternal maid of mystery—fits naturally into the environment of regal splendor of Napoleon's court. Lupe Velez whose talents turn to acting, dancing and singing is given the opportunity to display her mastery of the latter art in those sequences of the picture which are synchronized to her voice.

The rest of the cast includes such tried and true performers as George Fawcett, Albert Conti, William Bakewell (incidentally Bakewell does what Griffith considers one of the best bits of suave comedy in recent years), and Henry Armetta who lately rose to fame for his personation of the circus owner in "The Street Angel." "Lady of the Pavements" is released through United Artists.

Choral Society Concert.

The second annual concert of the Norwich Choral Society, Dr. J. Lawrence Erb, conductor, which will take place on Friday, May 24th, in Slater hall, is being looked forward to with the greatest interest and anticipation by the musical circles of Norwich.

The society, which made its initial bow to the Norwich music loving public exactly a year ago, has given such good account of itself in the preceding two concerts, that those interested know for a certainty that only the very best is going to be presented to them.

Dr. J. Lawrence Erb is a conductor of rare ability, intuition and enthusiasm. He knows how to draw out the very best there is in the singers, the result being always a masterful interpretation of the chosen works.

Of great additional interest is the fact that for the coming concert the committee has been able to secure the assistance of Arthur Hackett of New York, to take the tenor part in Coleridge Taylor's "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast."

Arthur Hackett hardly needs an introduction. He is so well known on both sides of the ocean. He is famous as "that highly qualified tenor" as the Musical Courier calls him, who has sung in recitals, music festivals, symphony orchestras and opera to hundreds of audiences. He has appeared with the Boston Symphony orchestra under such leaders as Dr. Muck and Koussewitzky, with oratorio societies east and west. Besides the tenor part in Hiawatha, Mr. Hackett will sing two groups of songs.

The other numbers are to be "Hail, Bright Abode," from Wagner's Tannhauser; "By Babylon's Waves," Gounod, and a group of wonderfully well selected choral compositions, which are certain to call forth the greatest interest among the audience.

Palace Theatre.

The show that comes to a close at the Palace theatre today is one of outstanding merit because each act is a real headliner and complete entertainment in itself, opening with the high class offering, Whitney's Dolls, a comedy oddity that will keep you in doubt as to whether they are alive or not but the way they put the act over convinces you that they are very much alive.

Merle's Cockatoos, the aristocrats of birdom, is as rare an offering as you've seen in a long time. This act is resplendent in georgeous settings, with birds that are almost human.

Gus and Ann Ott, in Laugh and the World Laughs With You is a sure cure for the blues, a comedy team that are alone in this line of amusement. They sing and dance you right out of your seats, and the hokum they offer is sure a treat.

Monte and Lyons, a pair of boys that can sing and they do sing just the songs you want to hear. Some new and some old and all perfect. They know their stuff and put it over right.

And Ray Fontaine and Company completes this very high grade bill in something that suits everybody. A high grade company of high grade artists. Miss Norwich will be selected at this theatre about 6 p. m., bringing to a close the Miss Norwich beauty contest. This young lady will represent this city at the Miss New England beauty contest to be held at Revere Beach, week of July 29, together with receiving the beautiful wardrobe that the merchants of Norwich have provided.

"Scandal," a tense drama of high society with Laura La Plante in the leading role, closes at the Palace theatre today.

The story, which was adapted from a Cosmopolitan Magazine story by Adela Rogers St. Johns, builds up to a tremendous climax. There were moments last night when the audience seemed to hold its breath, waiting for the final outcome of situations so convincingly real as to bring tears to the eyes of many.

The locale of the picture is Santa Barbara, Cal. Most of the filming was done in and around that city, with a group of millionaires and society "extras."

THE POISON GAS MENACE.

It is a distressing story which comes from Cleveland to the effect that there are fears that 80 per cent. of the surviving victims of the Cleveland clinic disaster will die from the effects of the gas. The situation there is already bad enough without any such addition, but it reveals the horrible menace of poison gas resulting from such an explosion and fire as occurred at Cleveland as well as from its use in connection with warfare.

Since the Cleveland horror attention has been called by the National Board of Fire Underwriters that rules have been set forth for the storage of the combustible films in order to prevent fires, but it has not always been successful in having them respected. The real protection lies in the use of the safety, or non-combustible films. If that is not done, properly constructed vaults and proper racks for the combustible films should be constructed and then kept so isolated that fire will be kept at a safe distance from them.

Cleveland has furnished a frightful picture of what can be expected if poison gas should be employed in time of war for the bombarding of cities. While such a use might be against all rules of war, it is well known that rules get none too much consideration when nations are striving for supremacy. It is a case of winning, no matter what the cost may be, and it would be decidedly effective for an enemy plane to so fill a city with poison gas that its people, though innocent non-combatants, would be wiped out, or so gassed that they would never be able to recover.

The Cleveland disaster tells all too well the reason why those who were gassed in the late war have so much difficulty in overcoming the effects of their experience, even though it was not enough to take their lives at the time.

Poison gas is something which should be banned in war, and the need of establishing conditions which will prevent a repetition of what happened in Cleveland in all other similar institutions is all too clearly shown. Its prevention in peace time is equally necessary to its use as a war weapon.

SERVING THE PUBLIC.

Serving the public has many angles. There are those who like to do it for what they can get out of it, but there are those who sincerely like to do it for the good they can do. Such seems to be the case in connection with George Welch of Grand Rapids, who has refused to accept a salary of $12,000 a year as the city manager but is going to fill the office as a dollar a year man.

The situation is such that Mr. Welch doesn't need the big salary. There might be others in the same position financially who would take a different view of the matter. In many instances it is no wild statement to say that that would be one of the best reasons that could be offered for refusing to be interested in such a job.

Being a city manager is different in some respects from holding some other political jobs, but here is an instance where there is a willingness to make a personal sacrifice in the interest of the community. In most instances the demand is for an increased salary instead of a job with no salary, and it is because of the contrast that Mr. Welch's proposition attracts so much attention and it is because of these terms that his administration will comb in for much attention and no small amount of publicity.

If there were more men of means, more men of recognized standing and business ability, who would take a greater interest in public affairs there would be much more satisfactory conditions and a much more businesslike handling of municipal affairs. Mr. Welch's act may serve as an inspiration to his fellow citizens.

FARM LEGISLATION.

Opinions differ in Washington as to whether the senate had a right to originate a farm bill carrying the debenture provisions. This is due to the fact that it is the undisputed right that the house should originate all legislation dealing with revenue, and the claim is made that the debenture proposition provides for the spending of revenue.

If the house has taken the stand on its rights as claimed, and refused to accept the bill from the senate, it would have been creating a situation which could easily be the cause of no legislation in behalf of farm relief. It is not the desire of the house leaders that such a situation should develop. There is a sincere desire for such legislation and it is desired that it be enacted at the special session.

It is remembered, of course, that it was the insistence upon the equalization fee or nothing that so tied up the last congress that legislation, which could and would have been adopted, failed. There is no desire for a repetition of such a situation, and there ought not to be. The action taken in the house is for the purpose of preventing it if that is possible.

By the course adopted and the sending of the matter to conference, it is expected that the debenture proposition will be eliminated. The house is opposed to it and is not disposed to compromise. The action taken should be the means of saving much time that might otherwise have been wasted in wrangling over the matter, although it cannot be believed that it gives the debenture plan any more favorable chances.

The senate supporters of the debenture have worked for the most part to put the administration in a hole. They have acted to see how much trouble they could cause and they know, or at least many of them do, that it is bad legislation and would hate to be identified with its adoption if they though it had a chance. Dependence is placed upon the conference committee, which will wrestle with the bills, or the veto of the president to correct the situation.

BIG STEAMSHIPS.

As steamships are made larger and the accommodations for them become more limited, talk increases about getting away from New York and establishing terminals elsewhere. Usually it is only talk for the improvements which are sought are invariably obtained after a certain amount of agitation and talk of going elsewhere.

The lengthening steamship, however, presents a real problem. The government is not favorable to any further extension of piers into the river and yet piers at the present time are not long enough to accommodate some of the ships which use them, and will be hopelessly handicapped when those German and French ships of 933 to 1000 feet are put into operation.

It is in anticipation of this demand that one plan has been developed of acquiring property along the New York water front for several blocks and excavating into the land in order to obtain the needed depth of piers. This means a costly undertaking, but it seems to be the only way out if the steamships are to be accommodated in New York piers.

It is quite natural that when such a situation is being discussed that the idea should be revived of taking away such big liners from New York. General Passenger Agent Woodward of the Long Island railroad was responsible for the prediction this week that Montauk would soon be a port of entry. Montauk has long been considered for such use. It is included among the points mentioned as the possible terminal of the four day liners on this side of the Atlantic, while it never fails to be mentioned in connection with the idea of establishing a terminal there for liners now running to New York but which are finding it more and more difficult to get the proper accommodations.

It can be safely said that New York will not witness the withdrawal of liners from that port if it is possible to meet their requirements. It doesn't take kindly to the idea of having the business shifted elsewhere, whether it be at Montauk, which would require that all the passenger and freight business would have to go through New York, or whether it be at some other Atlantic coast port where a good harbor and adequate accommodations would be available.

COWS THAT TRAVEL BY NIGHT.

Coming from California through the Associated Press is the story to the effect that the owner of a cow, which crossed the road at night without a light, was brought into court and given a $10 fine. Though it seems almost improbable there apparently exists in that locality a regulation which requires a light for animals in the highway at night.

From another state a few days ago decision was rendered to the effect that animals in the road had the right of way. This is usually conceded by careful drivers, but if they have that right of way and are allowed to go all over the road at night, as well as during the day, it is only fair that the other users of the highway should at least be furnished with some kind of warning during the night time.

The need has been frequently voiced of having lights for pedestrians as well as cattle. The purpose is to provide a warning and there is justification for it as motorists must be aware if they have done much driving at night. Whether it is an individual or an animal that is sauntering along the side of the road under the cover of darkness there are many times when a driver doesn't discern anything in the highway until he is right upon it. That is often too late to do anything, where if there was a lantern carried by the person accompanying cattle, or even when alone, there would be indications that some obstruction should be avoided. It is in such connection that the idea of wearing reflectors has been advocated and the thought is by no means a bad one for the proper protection of highway walkers at night.

California gives recognition to the danger to highway traffic that is created by the cattle that get out of bounds at night. It may not only mean a bad smashup for the cow but for the occupants of the motor vehicle.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Cheer up. Christmas will soon be here.

"Maine Girl Dreams of Flying Atlantic," says a headline. As long as she only dreams about it no harm can result.

It's too late to get aboard the Graf Zeppelin for its westward trip but you might book passage on the return flight.

Those who figured congress would get through by June reckoned on what congress ought to be, not what the senate is.

There doesn't appear to have been as great a degree of safety at that Cleveland hospital as such an institution calls for.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The other evening after reading the newspaper I cast it aside to get into another mental atmosphere, and I did so most completely by picking up Longfellow's "Outer Mer" at random. This choice bit of literature that is now nearly forgotten was written by the beloved poet just about 100 years ago. By mere chance I opened to the vivid essay entitled "The Baptism of Fire," the story of the hero-martyr Du Bourg, who was guilty of the awful crime of doing a little independent thinking that did not quite agree with the law of conformity which was then in vogue. His punishment, or as he called it in his exaltation, was the "baptism of fire." A cord was suspended to his waist and he was drawn up in the air, and then dropped into the flames, and raised again. Thus was he treated until his executioner could not stand it any longer, and then strangled the poor sufferer.

There were probably those who lived after the Inquisition had become nothing more than a horrible nightmare who sometimes referred to the "good old times," when things were being done that met their disapproval. Is it not generally true of all history that "the best times," everything considered, are the present times? There is a good reason for this. Every age learns something from the past. It has the opportunity of accepting the best that the past has to give, and also of discarding the worst. There never has been an age in all history that is not better than any that has preceded it. Bad as it was in the middle ages, even that was better than the cruel reign of the Roman empire. The condition of Great Britain when the Pilgrims went to Holland was better than the age of Charlemagne. Certainly ours has improved upon puritan America.

When Longfellow's "Outer Mer" was published in 1833 it was looked upon as a classic, not only because of its literary style but because of the vivid pictures it drew of European life. Before the advent of steam navigation very few, comparatively, of Americans went to Europe as tourists for sightseeing or pleasure. And when Longfellow returned and gave his fellow countrymen such a fine interpretation of the manifold life of the old world we can easily understand how widely his book was circulated and read. The same is also true of Washington Irving, the first literary man of America to receive general recognition throughout Europe. He interpreted America to the old world as no other man hitherto had done, and along many lines that Longfellow did somewhat later. Longfellow did more in informing Americans about Europe. The writings of both of these men were greatly needed after the Revolutionary war.

Much appears at the present time in public speech and the public press about democracy. That is exactly as it ought to be. After what we passed through in 1918, too much cannot be said and done to "make the world safe for democracy." But is there not a danger here of tabooing the idea of aristocracy altogether? One meaning of aristocracy is nobility, and many men are born aristocrats. As they are then nature's noblemen, they belong to the aristocracy, in the better sense of the term. Is there not such a thing as the aristocracy of decency, that is to be commended? A young college graduate once settled in a country town where the moral tone was depressing. In fact, the place was run by a bunch of rowdies. He not only refused to be silent amidst such conditions but bitterly denounced the conditions. He was sneeredat as an "aristocrat," but his courage plus a strong personality eventually won out.

One of the hardest things to bear is ingratitude. That anyone whom you have befriended should make use of this kindness to injure you for personal gain is almost inconceivable. But it is done so often as almost to tempt one to lose faith in his fellows. We can understand why ingratitude should be classed as one of the meanest of the vices. Victor Hugo has made this immortal in his great story "Les Miserables" when Jean Valjean robbed the kind-hearted bishop who had given him food and shelter. Such doings we associate with vipers, and perhaps it is because of this instinct that he whole snake family is abominated. No greater insult can be given to man than to liken him unto a snake. One of the most revolting stories that came out of the World war was the following: A wounded soldier in a very serious condition was tenderly nursed back to health by a rich woman in her fine chateau. When fully recovered he deliberately murdered that woman for her jewels. In the annals of infamy is there anything to beat that?

The above allusion to the World war, which happily is fading somewhat from our memories, we are reminded of some of the present day results of that awful strife. The ill effects are still with us, though they are of a less serious nature. As an instance of this, take the present status of the reparations matter from the moral standpoint. To the man on the street who believes in strict business honesty, payment of these debts owed to us by foreign countries can be made in one way, and one only, and that is the full full payment of honest bills. If one man owes another man a debt, if it is possible, he is morally bound to pay it. In this matter there is not one code of ethics for the individuals and another one entirely different for nations, which is simply individuals living together in organic form. If it takes a thousand years, let these debts be paid.

The most amazing as well as the most persistent feature of the human personality is the memory. It has been stated by experts in mental philosophy that when once an impression has been made upon the mental camera it is never wholly lost. While it is true that we are not always able to recall that mental picture, still it is there, and will be as long as we live. We may be for the time being unable to recall some person's name that we have not heard for years, then all at once when we are not expecting it the name will come to us suddenly, showing clearly that it has not been erased from the memory. Is it not also true that the older we grow that the mind is more inclined to revel in the distant past? Many of the things of the more recent past easily slip from our minds, but without effort not only are the names of those we knew in childhood easily recalled, but even the faces of those we haveknown long since and lost a while?

Can anyone keep in touch with the trend of the times without feeling that one of our greatest needs is stronger moral control? Every issue of the daily press brings before us a sickening array of suicides, homicides and other frightful crimes. Whether the number per thousand is greater today than a century ago does not change at all the seriousness of the situation. With greater wealth than ever before in all history, larger educational facilities, gospel ministrations, vastly more of those amenities that make life lovely and attractive than in any other generation of mankind, and with the blessings that have followed the most amazing discoveries and inventions along scientific lines, have our lives been swayed by the moral laws and purposes of God in a corresponding degree? Withall due respect to the greatness of the American people, and this is truly marvelous, yet we need to have the lessons of morality and godliness before us as much as the heathen nations.

OUR CLAIMS GROWING OUT OF THE WAR.

The world war, greatest conflict of the ages, lasted a little over four years. Ten years and over have passed since the armistice, and the nations which took part in the conflict are still engaged in trying to wipe the financial slate clear. If we are not represented officially in the Paris meetings of experts, we still figure in the attempts to reach a final settlement. And curiously enough, small, as it is, in comparison with those of other nations, our claims against Germany have loomed as one of the most important items in the recent discussions in Paris, and they have bulked large in the comments made by the press in such capitals as Paris and London.

The American delegates to the commission of experts do not represent this government officially, and in suggesting a scaling down of the bills of other powers, they were not in a position to recommend or pledge similar action by the United States. They did not do so, and failing to make such a recommendation, the so-called American or Young plan has come under a running attack from both sides of the English channel. Even though our share in the reparations payments is very small, measured in terms of the shares of certain other of Germany's creditors, our demand for payment has come in for a good deal of criticism.

What are the American claims against Germany, and what is their basis? The question is a timely one, for we have not in all likelihood heard the last of them. They fall into two classes: first, claims against the German government for indemnification on account of destruction and loss of life and property of American nationals subsequent to Aug. 1, 1914; and second, the reimbursements for the costs of the American army of occupation in our sector of the Rhineland.

When the proposed payments under the Dawes plan were under discussion, the state department forwarded to the American ambassador in London certain instructions. In those instructions, this government made it plain that we expected to share in the payments proposed by the experts. The American army costs amounted to about $225,000,000, and these were given a priority under the Wadsworth agreement. The basis for the claims for army costs was our participation in the war, the armistice agreement, our treaty with Germany, and the agreement of the allied and associated powers made May 25, 1923, for the payment of these sums. Article nine of the armistice agreement read as follows:

"The maintenance of the troops of occupation in the Rhineland shall be defrayed by the German government." Because of the payments which Germany made to the Allies, in the global sums paid over to them, of which no part went to the United States to pay our army of occupation costs, and because of the theory of our equitable right arising out of the service to the allies which our troops of occupation rendered, thereby making possible a reduction in their expenditures, the principal allied powers signed an agreement on May 25, 1923, for the adjustment and payment of these army costs.

By the agreement executed between the United States and Germany on Aug. 10, 1922, a mixed claims commission was established to sit in Washington to adjudicate the claims of American citizens for losses or damage to persons or property. The resolution declaring the war at an end, in our treaty with Germany, recognized the validity of our claims under the armistice agreement.

As ambassador to Great Britain, Frank B. Kellogg handed to the British foreign minister, in November, 1924, a memorandum setting forth our position on the subject.

"Aside from the legal right to participate in the payments by Germany to the bank under the Dawes' report, and the separate treaty of peace between the United States and Germany," Kellogg pointed out, "I believe the United States is entitled to participate on broad equitable grounds. It was the associated power in the war. It contributed very materially to the victory. It incurred large expense in the maintenance of its army of occupation, which has been recognized by the allied governments in the army cost agreement. It has just claims of reparation for damages to persons and property of its citizens, recognized and agreed to by the German government and ranking pari passu with the claims of the allied countries engaged in the war. I shall not enlarge on this point, as all the facts and circumstances are well known to His Majesty's government. But I submit that on technical legal grounds the right of the United States is incontestable. It is true that the United States did not sign the Versailles treaty. This can make no difference whatsoever so far as the cost of the army of occupation is concerned, as this is provided for by the armistice agreement, which was signed by the United States. Beyond this, the failure to ratify the treaty of Versailles did not take from the United States the right to indemnity from Germany for losses and damages suffered by its citizens, the same class of claims as those which are being collected by the allies. We believe the American claims for damages to persons and property should rank pari passu with the reparations claims of other countries."

Less than three weeks later, the British foreign office submitted a memorandum to Ambassador Kellogg, in which it took exception to some of the arguments put forward in the American memorandum. This is not the place to set forth in detail the British arguments. Suffice it to say, that the British government refused to accept our claim for a share in the Dawes annuities in respect of reparations. Kellogg then countered with another memorandum. "By reason of its relation to the war the United States," he reiterated, "certainly as a matter of justice, is entitled to receive payment of its claims pari passu with the other powers associated in the common victory. By its voluntary action in not pressing large categories of claims for general reparations, my government has greatly limited, to the benefit of the allied powers, the extent of its participation in Germany's payments. My government is unable to conceive that there would be any disposition on the part of his majesty's government to contest the equity of its participation in such payments to cover the limited classes of claims for which the United States seek recovery." The matter was the subject of several other communications between the two governments, and these two reveal the same clash in viewpoint.

It will thus be seen that our participation in the reparations annuities, even on a small scale, has aroused put little enthusiasm in British government circles. This may help to explain why now there is so much criticism of our apparent unwillingness to whittle down our bill still further.

France and Great Britain have both received about ninety per cent of their army costs of occupation. We have received about 30 per cent. The American Army claims amounted to 1,225,000,000 gold marks. On Aug. 31, last, there still remained to be paid $68,000,000 gold marks or well over $200,000,000.

Liquidation of the war remains therefore one of the most prolific causes of international disagreement. Not only is there a difference between the allied and associated powers and Germany, but there is a difference of viewpoint also between the allied and associated powers.—Oliver McKee Jr. in Boston Transcript.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Public Nuisance

Mr. Editor: In my daily drives through the country so many beautiful sights meet the eye at the present time; the fields have donned their dress of lovely green; fruit trees loaded with fragrant blossoms. Each lawn seems to vie with its neighbors in beauty. Your city is called the "Rose of New England." Some parts of it are entitled to such a name, but as there is "no rose without a thorn," this one is no exception and there is one spot you see as you are driving on the road to Westerly, that makes you think it were otherwise. After you leave Preston bridge, you see many pretty houses with well kept lawns and beds of bright hued flowers.

After leaving Fox hill the country itself is grand; hills covered with trees with leaves of many shades of green meet the eye, but here you see a grave yard of rubbish close by the fine state road; the odor from that is not like the "attar of roses"; neither are the papers that blow along the road from it like the petals of a rose, but those that have been dumped into this filthy bed of garbage and waste material, from no one knows where. They may have come from some place where smallpox, diphtheria or typhoid fever have been and now are a menace to the public and the many school children as well who have to pass by this place four times daily and liable to catch some disease from such a bed of filth. I should think your board of health might be asked to look after such a spot and have it attended to before the hot days of summer arrive.

Yours for health,
"A Passer-by."

Farm Relief

Mr. Editor: Mr. Hoover has made a move for farm-relief. It is a move for the relief of farmers in Canada. It is not a move for the relief for farmers in America. Mr. Hoover has marched boldly to the front and without fuss or feathers,—likewise without performance of political promises—, has increased the duty on milk one and one-quarter cents a gallon, which is a trifle over three mills on one quart. Perhaps Mr. Hoover thinks he has done something worth while for farm-relief in America. He hasn't.

And again Mr. Hoover strode to the front, almost in danger this time, on the matter of cream. With a tremendous heave and hoove he has jumped the duty on cream from 20 cents a gallon to 30 cents a gallon an increase of two and one-half cents a quart. It seems not venturesome to say that not one Canadian shipper will pause one instant over such a trifling increase. Then how, Mr. Editor, if you please, does Mr. Hoover's almost nothingness-increase in duty on these two items help America? Did Mr. Hoover ever really mean to promote the welfare of American agriculture? There's at least a little doubt it.

And the cream! It is perfectly easy to make a 40 per cent. cream in Canada. It is just as easy to get that 40 per cent. cream into Connecticut and to dilute it into 20 per cent. cream. Doing it that way makes one hand wash the other. It's something like making two blades of green grow where but one blade of grass grew before. In fact, Mr. Editor, it's easier done! Far more easily.

Then how has Mr. Hoover produced farm-relief for the American farmer? It looks to be the simple truth, Mr. Editor, that he hasn't. Moreover, it looks as though he did not mean to do so, either.

In Connecticut thousands of acres of land are dawdling. In Massachusetts thousands of acres of land are dawdling. In New York, all over the milk-shed, thousands of acres of land are dawdling. These thousands upon thousands of acres of American land would produce billions of gallons of milk and cream, if these same dawdling acres had protection. They don't have protection. Therefore they dawdle.

Three and three-quarters cents duty on a gallon of milk is no protection to anybody. Thirty cents duty on a gallon of cream, which may be readily diluted into two gallons of cream, is no protection to anybody. It is suspectable, Mr. Editor, that Mr. Hoover knows that already.

Mr. Hoover is not keeping his promises. His congress, made up of his own party, made up of men sometimes called statesmen, is not keeping its bawled-out promises. The American farm-market belongs first of all in the world to the American farmer. Mr. Hoover fails to assure it.

Sunday Morning Talk

What is the cost of friendliness? This is most difficult to determine.

What did Christ's friendliness to us cost Him? There is no one who can doubt that the real cost of the love that Christ had for us reached its climax on the cross of Calvary. That was not all of His love, but that was the crux of it.

'God commendeth His love toword us, in that Christ died for us." Christ died for us while we were yet enemies.

The cost of His friendship did not end in a mere physical death in our behalf. To understand the cost, we must understand the real anguish of the cross. There He died, the Just for the unjust; there He took our stripes; there He bore our sin.

The cross of Jesus Christ neither in its agonies nor in its far-reaching beneficence can ever be fathomed until we have been in Heaven untold millenniums. Every age in glory will reveal new and exceeding riches of His grace, all of which are made possible by the suffering of Calvary. J. H. Jowett said: "When I want to think of the love of God to thee and me, I do not reject the human ties. Nay, rather do I listen to their music all the more eagerly, and hear faint echoes of the wonderful love of God. No, the love of our Father in Heaven is not altogether unlike the love of good fathers on earth. It is very like and yet very unlike. So like as to be akin, so unlike that it fills us with adoring wonder and praise; so like, as the vast organ and the harmonium are akin, and can express the same tune; so unlike that, as with the organ and the harmonium, one overwhelms the other in range and capacity, in height and depth, in length and breadth of musical glory. God loves you and you have heard a bit of the tune in your father's love, in your mother's love, in the love of your husband, in the love of your wife, in the love of your little child. Human love may be only as a child's earliest broken song in comparison with the Hallelujah chorus but it is akin.

Heaven alone can tell what has been done by those who loved and served Him. Paul said: "Approving ourselves as the ministers of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distress, in stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labors, in watchings, in fastings." When we can say half of what Paul said, we may account ourselves as worth while friends of our Lord.

Christ can sympathize with us as none other. When President Edwards was dying, it is said that, after he had told all goodbye, he said: "Now where is Jesus of Nazareth, my true and never-failing Friend? Thank God for the One who never fails those who trust Him!"

Right to Adequate Education Claimed For Hard-of-Hearing.

By Alice G. Bryant M. D., Boston. From Gorgas Memorial Institute.

In the name of fair play, we ask that the hard-of-hearing child shall have the right to be adequately educated.

Instead of waiting for the hard-of-hearing children, we are beginning to wait on them, and thus the pre-school children who have been sadly neglected will come into their rightful share of education.

To investigate the conditions and training of the hard-of-hearing children in each school forms one of the fundamental features of their new education.

The spirit of the present day movement in education of hard-of-hearing children is to instruct them in lip-reading so that their time and energies may be directed into channels for efforts of betterment any one can see.

It would be well for us to bear this thought in mind that the hard-of-hearing child ought to be rescued from the red-tape disease of class-repeatings.

The hearing individual has lost the delicate touch with his environment when he impedes the educational progress of the hard-of-hearing.

We can not afford to spend time for non-constructive or unremunerative adventures in education, or for dor out-of-date methods but lip-reading for the hard of hearing is a world need, and it is in line with the modern trend of the higher standards of the right kind of education.

We can not turn a blind eye to the hard-of-hearing. We must understand clearly their problems, and what is more, apply these problems to their every day lives in order that they may obtain their rightful rewards.

We claim that every student should have a future outlook for his training. Then why do we place throttling hindrances to progress in the education of the hard-of-hearing children, leading them to lessened opportunities by denying them lip-reading?

It is true we cannot measure by a yard-stick the benefits to be derived from lip-reading for the hard-of-hearing, but the outcome of the movement is convincing and strong enough today for the hard-of-hearing to speed up lip-reading in order to turn their education to profit.

The rising generation of the hard-of-hearing and the teachers of lip-reading must be backed by the medical profession, by qualified well-wishers among the people, by understanding school boards and capable educational staffs to maintain the certainty of ample returns for the hard-of-hearing in years to come.

If we become interested in the every day and future interests of the hard-of-hearing we have the light within us to preach that lip-reading serves as a manual for the hard-of-hearing.

An envious person is likely to disparage everything, be it good or bad.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 17—The political fitness of things, successively observed by Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, seems to have pointed out the office of assistant secretary of war as a berth reserved for lieutenant colonels, overseas veterans of the World war.

All of the five men who have held it since 1921 have good battle records "over there" to back up their party influence at home.

A Precedent

It is not a bad idea, at that. Presumably the assistant secretary job can be converted into a sort of training school for future war secretaries.

It will be interesting to observe if political nature takes that course and the war portfolio ultimately becomes for a time the exclusive property of the citizen-soldier veterans of the World war.

By the accident of Secretary Weeks' death during the Coolidge administration it already has worked out that way once. Dwight Davis of Missouri, elevated from the assistant secreary-ship to the cabinet job then, had all the necessary veteran qualifications.

He was both a valor and distinguished service decoration holder, for his work overseas, and, back of that, a former national guardsman, and an American Legion big gun.

It is to be assumed, however, that the citizen-soldier war veterans with other political eligibilities are mostly as yet too young for cabinet assignments.

Regular army personnel held down the senior military jobs of the war and the select of the citizen-soldier group were younger chaps.

They were lieutenant colonels, majors and captains then for the most part. They are 11 years older now and approaching the time when the par portfolios probably will go to them as a more or less regular thing.

Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright, now a representative from New York, was President Harding's original appointee as assistant secretary of war. He had a double claim of veteranship, having served both as a volunteer in the Spanish war and in New York's own 27th national guard division in the World war.

Dwight Davis followed him and then Hanford McNider of Iowa, a wartime doughboy of the Ninth Infantry and the justly famous Second division. He also was a former national commander of the American Legion.

Next came Charles B. Robbins of Iowa, again a man with a good triple background of Spanish and World war service and American Legion prominence.

Another Veteran

Mr. Hoover's selection for this near cabinet seat specially reserved for citizen-soldier occupation is Patrick J. Hurley of Oklahoma, another overseas lieutenant colonel with a fine combat record.

That he is also by way of being a G. O. P. veteran of Oklahoma's post-war political strife just adds to his eligibility for Washington duty.

By a freak of circumstances, G. O. P. citizen-colonels have held the assistant secretary of war job ever since 1917. Benedict Crowell was a dyed-in-the-wool republican and a reserve lieutenant colonel of engineers already on active duty for the war when he was called to executive responsibility by the democratic war administration.

THADDEUS LEAHY REMAINS IN UNCONSCIOUS CONDITION

Thaddeus Leahy, cashier of the water department, was stricken with a cerebral hemmorrhage, in the bathroom at his home, No. 50 Colt street, about 7:45 o'clock Friday morning. At an early hour this (Saturday) morning he was in an unconscious condition at the W. W. Backus hospital where he is a patient and there has been little change in his condition.

Miss Ellen M. Leahy, his aunt, heard Mr. Leahy fall and going to the room found him unconscious on the floor. Dr. John W. Callahan and Dr. David A. Bussler were called and ordered Mr. Leahy taken to the hospital.

Mr. Leahy, at the time he was stricken, was preparing to leave the house for the water department office and was apparently in his usual good health when he arose Friday morning.

CAN VACCINATE CHILDREN AT THEIR SCHOOLS

According to an announcement made Friday by Dr. Harrison Gray, town health officer, all children in the schools of the city and town will soon have the opportunity of being vaccinated at their respective schools.

This might have been done before but for the reason that the younger children have been inoculated with toxin anti-toxin for the prevention of diphtheria and it requires a period of three weeks after that before any other treatment could be given.

PRIEST OBSERVES 40TH ANNIVERSARY OF ORDINATION

Sunday, May 12, Rev. C. T. McCann, formerly at Norwich Town, now pastor of St. Bridget's church, Manchester, Conn., celebrated the fortieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood on May 12, 1889, by Bishop McMahon. The day was observed quietly by Father McCann and his friends. In the morning at the high mass, Msgr. John Neale of St. Rose's church, Meriden, also formerly of Norwich, spoke to the assembled parishioners. In the evening visiting priests and personal friends were entertained at dinner in the rectory.

Father McCann himself spoke with considerable feeling at the end of the morning mass. He acknowledged a splendid purse from his parishioners, innumerable gifts of flowers, congratulatory telegrams and messages from friends at a distance and in his parish.

his eloquent sermon, referred to the work of Father McCann in the last forty years and the joy and the exultation there must be in heaven because of it. He said they had been friends for fifty years; they were classmates together, sat on the same bench at college and played on the same football team and then put away the things of boyhood and became priests. For forty years they had been associated in the ministry.

At one time Father McCann was curate at the Cathedral in Hartford. His first parish was Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town where he remained for eleven years, going to St. Bridget's church, Manchester, sixteen years ago last month.

In an editorial on Father McCann's anniversary the Manchester Herald says:

"Manchester people of all faiths join in extending sincere congratulations to Father McCann, on the completion of his fourth decade in the Catholic priesthood."

EVADING RESPONSIBILITY, NEW JERSEY DRIVER CAUGHT

WESTERLY, R. I., May 17—This evening a Chevrolet cabriolet driven by Byron Davis, 11 Washington street, Mystic, was hit by a passing car near the Packer Soap factory and knocked into the ditch. The auto proceeded without stopping but Davis pursued it in the machine of a friend, calling upon the driver to stop. At Stonington the speeding auto was almost overtaken when a temporary holdup occurred. Proceeding through Pawcatuck into Westerly, two traffic beacons were cut and the car dashed up High street. When Dixon square was reached Davis reported to Leroy H. Norman and the Hope Valley state barracks was called upon to stop a car with a New Jersey license. Just before midnight, Trooper Florence Harvey reported that the car had stopped and the driver, Frank Novack, 27, of 228 Palisades avenue, Garfield, N. J., was found to be without an operator's license. The car is owned by his father, Andrew Novack, who accompanied him with his wife and daughter. They told the state police that they were pursued by bootleggers. Officers at the Groton barracks called at the Hope Valley barracks to return with the party to Groton, the driver to be arraigned in Stonington town court charged with evading responsibility. A quart of wine was reported found in the automobile.

MASONS REACH HALFWAY GOAL IN SALE OF BONDS FOR NEW TEMPLE

Friday night's report on the week's campaign by the members of the Masonic fraternity in Norwich to sell $50,000 in bonds towards the cost of erecting the new Masonic temple brought a feeling of elation to the campaign leaders and workers when it was announced from the office of James L. Case, campaign manager, that the goal of $25,000, which was the minimum set for this week, had been reached. With the halfway point achieved, the workers will gather their energies to go on towards the completion of the effort.

The reports of the work since last Monday were assembled without bringing the teams together for a supper meeting as had been done earlier in the week. By the system on which the campaign is being conducted, Mr. Case was able to tabulate the results as the reports were made to his office and these showed that the sum of $25,000 could now be recorded as the total in sales and that this amount had been taken by 100 subscribers to the bonds.

There is quite a large proportion of the Masonic constituency which has not been reached yet in the campaign and the lists are now being revised so that the effort can be pushed next week when new assignments are given to the working teams. It is declared by the leaders in the campaign that every effort will be put forth to bring the campaign to a successful conclusion in as short a time as possible.

JUDGE LIBBY PROTECTS HIS FAMILY NAME

Judge Arthur F. Libby in the superior court here Friday lined up with the Cabots of Boston who some time ago protested against a Cabotski family changing its name to Cabot. The Norwich judge registered a similar protest on behalf of his family and himself when Harry Lebeshavsky of 28 Pearl street appeared in court and asked to have his name changed to Libby. Judge Allyn L. Brown listened to Judge Libby's protest and reserved decision, advising counsel in the case to see if they could not agree on a name.

Lebeshevsky, who is a cattle dealer and formerly resided in Hartford and New London, stated to the court that he has a wife and three children and has gone under the name of Libby while a resident of this city. He has been before Judge Libby in the city court several times relative to violation of the cattle laws. Mayor Lee Roy Robbins in his capacity as an attorney, was counsel for Lebeshevsky in the petition for change of name.

"The name of Libby is an old New England family name," said Judge Libby to Judge Brown in making his protest, "and we are descended from a Huguenot colony in France which came to New England and landed in Maine soon after the Puritans. It is an old respectable family name, no owner of which has ever been arrested for any criminal offense or even been an inmate of any prison or jail. Recently people who have only been in this country a few years have been adopting names of which they certainly are not entitled and we, as an old New England family of French Huguenot descent, do object to the use of the name Libby in this case. If he spells it Leby or Levy, which would be more appropriate, I have no objection."

Attorney Robbins inquired if there would be any objection to making the name Libbey. This brought the answer from Judge Libby that this would be equally objectionable as when he was in high school he used the name of Libby while his brother spelled his name Libbey.

Objections were raised to other names which were suggested and Judge Brown finally closed the hearing by taking the matter under advisement.

VACCINATION AT CLINIC MAINTAINS STEADY RATE

Friday 334 persons were vaccinated at the clinic at the court house. Since the clinic was first opened in April, 2,782 persons have been vaccinated with Dr. Paul F. Gadie in charge of the clinic, and four school nurses assisting. The clinic is to be open today (Saturday) from 11 a. m. to noon and from 4 to 5.30 p. m.

The town hall is now being used for the clinic instead of the small room of the health department which had been crowded to the doors ever since the clinic has been resumed this week.

In such restricted quarters, the work was particularly trying for the physician and the school nurses who were assisting him and they were a weary lot at the end of every day's work. Children and grown people arrived in droves for vaccination, crowded into the room and stood there for long waits for their turns. There were frequently crying children and impatient adults, the atmosphere of the small room became hot and stuffy and the general conditions must have been trying to tempers, whether of the nurses or doctors or the prospective patients.

Now in the large open space of the town hall, the vaccination programme proceeds along better and easier lines. Henry Gebeath, an inspector of the health department, who knows what a sore arm is from recent personal experience, is seated at the door of the town hall and directs all entering to go up to the desk and register so as to keep in turn. Dr. Gadie and the nurses assisting him are stationed at a table by one of the windows.

"Rolled up sleeves" is the order of the day for those who are to be vaccinated and as fast as the name is called the patient comes forward with bared and extended arm for the ministration of the doctor.

In some cases among the smallest children, the vaccination is not accomplished without a struggle in which the help of the nurse is needed to keep the little patient's arm still long enough for the doctor to reach it, but generally the children seem to understand what they are there for and find nothing to complain about in the practically painless method that is now in vogue. Those of an older generation, who remember the vaccination of their childhood days when several good strong diagonal scratches that drew blood were used, know that the operation has been robbed of all its terrors under the method that is in vogue now.

MAY ENLIST IN JUNE QUOTA FOR ANNAPOLIS

Special permission to enlist suitable candidates for the Naval academy in June and to apply the enlistments to the July quota in case the June quota is filled has been received from Lieut. Comm. W. Earl Miller, officer in charge of navy recruiting for the state by Chief Torpedoman J. J. Kenerleiber, head of the navy recruiting station in the post office, New London and Norwich.

In past years it has been found that several high school graduates with the ambition to gain admission to Annapolis by appointment from the navy, have enlisted too late in the year of service required by law to enter the Naval academy the following year. This one year of service must date from June 20, or prior to that date if the candidate for Annapolis wishes to gain admission to the academy for 1930.

Because of the fact that most high schools do not have their graduation exercises until late in June and because the enlistment quota of the state is usually filled up before the month is half over, special provision is being made in the case of likely candidates for the academy so that they can enlist in the latter part of June under the July quota. Thus they will be eligible if qualified and appointed to enter the naval academy in 1930.

EXHIBITED WORK OF HOME SERVICE UNIT

The Women's Federation of Park Congregational church held its May meeting Friday afternoon in the Osgood parish house, with a large attendance. Miss Hannah M. Crowell presided and led the devotional exercises.

In the absence of Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughan, unable to be present on account of illness, Miss Amy L. Cogswell was in charge of the afternoon's program which was most attractive.

Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., accompanied by Mrs. Harry Stebbins, sang in beautiful voice "The Trees are Bursting with Blossoms," "Youth and Spring," "In the Garden of My Heart," and "Thanks Be to God."

Mrs. Willis P. Austin charmed her audience reading two plays "The Brink of Silence," an unusual and extremely interesting sketch of four explorers met in a log house on an island far down in the Antarctic, and "Gretna Green," an amusing story of an elopement in 1772.

After a business meeting, tea was served by Mrs. E. E. Lincoln, assisted by Mrs. O. C. Wolfe, Miss Alice Cogswell and Miss Alexandrine Trumbull. Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson and Mrs. Howard J. Shaver poured.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the exhibit of the work of the home service unit, Mrs. Lee Roy Robbins, chairman.

The bride was charming in maize chiffon with a picture hat of horsehair and carried an arm bouquet of Talifar roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Louise Ouellet of New York city, was attractive in nile green chiffon with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses. Daniel E. Connors, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents. After a motor tour through the Shenandoah Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Connors will reside in Hartford.

RESERVED DECISION ON FAIRGROUNDS SALE APPROVAL

The matter of confirming the sale of the New London county fairgrounds at East Great Plain, which Attorney George Houghton Gilman and his brother, Francis Gilman, bought at auction for $15,750 above the $25,000 mortgage, came up before Judge Allyn L. Brown at the superior court short calendar session here Friday morning, together with approval of deed, on both of which Judge Brown reserved decision after hearing. Receiver Gilbert S. Raymond make a brief statement. No one appeared to make any objection in the matter.

The three cases against John A. Macdonald, state highway commissioner, in which appeals are made from the reestablishment of highway boundaries along the Boston Post road in Waterford, and in which there were motions for orders to frame pleadings, were all continued for two weeks.

Arthur H. Davis, A. Leverone and R. Leverone are the plaintiffs in the actions and all are represented by Geary, Davis & Keefe. Attorney General Alling was not presented in court but Raymond Johnson, assistant attorney general of the state, was in court and talked for the state, saying that it was his belief that the state would have to first present its case.

Attorney Thomas E. Troland of New London addressed the court saying that he spoke only as a friend of the court. He said he was interested in the nature of the case because there was pending in New London a similar situation in connection with the re-establishing of a state aid street there. This street is Ocean avenue.

Statutory continuance of three months was granted in the case of Richard C. Davidson against James Davidson and others.

Two months, one finding actual notice as to non-resident defendants and the other for default for failure to appear, were granted in the case of Hatfield, executor, against Perkins and others.

ACADEMY AND BULKELEY RENEW HOSTILITIES AT NEW LONDON TODAY

The Academy and Bulkeley are at it again. This afternoon at 3 o'clock at Mercer field, New London, the two-game annual series between these two oldest high school rivals in Connecticut will open with the Academy as very heavy favorites. Butsy Weisgraber and John Petroskey, rival right handers are the probable pitching selections.

If ever the Academy wanted a victory in this series it is today. The Wildcats enter the camp of their ancient rival with the best record of an high school club in the state, having run up eleven straight victories. The Red and White are the only undefeated team in Connecticut.

Bulkeley, on the other hand, has every thing to gain and little to lose. The Whalers haven't had a season that anyone would get excited about, having played about .500 ball. Bulkeley has shown plenty of power at times, winning from Stonington 14 to 4, Braintree (Mass.) high, Kingswood prep and Branford high among others, all by lop-sided scores. On the other hand Bulkeley has dropped decisions to Westerly, Stonington, Chapman Tech, Deep River and Warren Harding but all have been by close scores.

Bulkeley will be a dangerous foe for the powerful Wildcat team today. Overconfidence has ruined many a club in this series notably, a great Bulkeley team in 1925, which was humbled by an Academy team that didn't look strong at all and in 1926 when an undefeated Academy team entered New London only to be turned back 1 to 0 by Bulkeley and also the Bulkeley games of 1927 and 1928 when the Academy was top-heavy favorite to win, although only managed to pull out decisions by one or two runs.

A big crowd will be on hand and all the glamour that goes with a Bulkeley-Academy game will be in evidence. A large crowd will go from Norwich to back the Wildcat state champs. The game will be handled by officials from the New Haven Recreation board. This is a league game.

MASS. COMMISSION MAY BREAK RELATIONS WITH N. Y. BODY

BOSTON, May 17—(AP)— A breach between the Massachusetts and New York boxing commissions loomed today as a result of the latter body's refusal to permit Max Schmeling to engage in a Boston bout with Con O'Kelly before going through with his milk fund match with Paulino Uzcudun in New York on June 27.

Though the Massachusetts commission has not yet been officially notified of the action of its affiliated body, one of its members intimated that when such word was received, it would be regarded as a hostile act demanding an immediate severance of all relations.

"Where," he asked, "does any commission get its authority to attempt to dictate to the commission of another sovereign state?"

This commissioner, who declined to make any official comment pending the receipt of the New York commission's formal report, said that he and his associates assured Eddie Mack, Boston Garden boxing promoter, full support in pressing his claim for Schmeling's appearance against O'Kelly in Boston on June 3.

Mack told the boxing authorities that he intended to file an immediate protest with the New York body, accompanied by a certified copy of his contract with Schmeling, signed personally by the German heavyweight wherein he agreed to appear in Boston before boxing elsewhere.

MISS WETHERED WINS BRITISH WOMEN'S TITLE

ST. ANDREWS, Scot., May 17—(AP)—Glenna Collett today demonstrated to Great Britain that there are two great women golfers in the world. In the Anglo-American final of the British women's championship, the American was beaten three and one by Joyce Wethered, but set a course record of 34 strokes for the first nine holes at St. Andrews which is expected to hold for years.

By this spectacular start she gained a five hole lead on the English girl, a new experience for Joyce, never before had she been in such position in a championship golf match and only by a supreme effort was she able to wipe out this lead in the afternoon. She may remain the greatest woman golfer but judged on today's play the margin of her golfing genius over that of Glenna Collett is very slight.

The American proved herself a sturdy fighter and had the fates that control golf balls been just a little kinder, the American girl would have realized her ambition of winning the British title and taking it to her homeland for the first time.

"I am proud I was able to make it a good match," Miss Collett told the Associated Press tonight. "Joyce Wethered is as fine as Bobby Jones. She has the unruffled calm of Walter Hagen, the confidence of Gene Sarazen and the fighting spirit of Jess Sweetzer."

Miss Collett sat with her mother beside a great bouquet of red, white and blue flowers presented by American students of St. Andrews university, who in their flowing red robes followed the fortunes of the Providence girl in the championship play throughout the week.

"It was great fun and I enjoyed it," said Miss Wethered. "The crowds did not bother me although I thought the fairway never would be cleared when we were trying to play the 17th hole.

"Never have I seen better driving than that of Miss Collett. Our match was played in two bursts and was the most exciting I have ever taken part in. The long putt on the 33rd which gave me a half saved me and I was two up and three to play, instead of one and three, which makes a great deal of difference.

"I couldn't find my putting touch on the slow greens this morning but Miss Collett putted splendidly."

GIANTS NOSE OUT BRAVES IN TENTH

BOSTON, May 17—(AP)—Harper's triple and Clark's double with two out in the last of the ninth, gave the Braves one run needed to tie the Giants here today, but the New Yorkers put on a furious batting rally for four runs in their half of the tenth to defeat the home team by 9 to 5. In that orgy of slugging, Jackson and O'Farrell doubled and Fullis, Fitzsimmons, Roush and Lindstrom singled—all at the expense of John Cooney, the southpaw.

The Braves came from behind three times. In the first half of the game they hit Carl Mays savagely but with little effect so far as runs went. Errors by Richbourg in right field gave the Giants three runs.

Jackson made his sixth homer, a triple and a double. Roush helped his average with three singles, a double and a triple.

Jones pitched well but with inferior support, while Fitzsimmons did well as relief man for New York. The score:

MORRIS OUTPITCHES HOYT IN 12-INNING DUEL

NEW YORK, May 17—(AP)—Ed Morris outlasted Waite Hoyt in a brilliant, twelve inning pitching duel here today, and the Boston Red Sox defeated the Yankees by 5 to 3. It was the fifth successive defeat for the world champions.

Bill Regan, who drove in Boston's tieing run in the eighth with a single, broke up the game in the twelfth with a triple. Bigelow doubled with one out and Taitt drew an intentional pass. Reeves filed out, but Regan's three-base knock to center scored Bigelow and Taitt with the runs which decided the game.

Earl Combs starred at bat and in the field. Two catches on Todt with runners on base prevented the Red Sox from winning in nine rounds. Bill Carrigan, Boston manager, called on four shortstops. The score:

FERNANDEZ KNOCKS OUT SINGER THIRD ROUND OF SLASHING BOUT

NEW YORK, May 17—(AP)—Ignacius Fernandez, game little brown man from the Philippine Islands, scored a sensational knockout over Al Singer, New York featherweight idol in the third round of a feature ten round match in Madison Square Garden tonight. Fernandez finished his man with a right to the chin after being fouled several times in the second session.

The downfall of the local sensation came with surprising suddenness to the crowd of 10,000. Fernandez, badly hurt by five low punches in the second, flew from his corner, at the start of the third and smashed Singer before him.

He caught the New York boy at the ropes, sent him reeling with a left to the chin, and ended the engagement with a whistling right cross that stretched Singer senseless on the canvas. Singer could not budge at the ten count and was carried from the ring.

The crushing defeat came at a most inopportune time for Singer. His sensational work during the winter campaign had made him an outstanding New York favorite, slated for the richest plums of the outdoor campaign.

Gorilla Jones, Negro welterweight from Akron, Ohio, continued his winning streak in Madison Square Garden tonight by scoring a peculiar technical knockout over Izzy Grove, of New York, in the sixth round of a ten round match. Grove was temporarily blinded by a light blow, and staggered to his corner, refusing to continue.

The match was slow and uninteresting. There were no knockdowns. Grove weighed 153, Jones 158 1-2.

PLAINFIELD HIGH WINS LOOSE GAME FROM KILLINGLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 18.—Plainfield defeated Killingly in a ten-inning game today at Pace field, by a 8 to 1 score. After outhitting and outplaying Plainfield, Killingly gave their rivals the game in a comedy of errors. The game was a tight pitching duel between Stapinski and Burns, the former being the better by allowing only four scattered hits.

Waldron, Killingly's regular catcher, played center field because of a bad arm, and Kimball took the backstop position. Waldron made three hits out of four times at bat and also stared in center field. Hancks of Killingly completely baffled the spectators by four hard put-outs.

The game was lost to Killingly when Shipee hit, Solanski walked, and Derda hit a two bagger. The score:

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(AP) — Hadley held Philadelphia to five hits today but inability of Washington to group its seven bingles off of Grove gave the Athletics the opening game of the series 4 to 1.

WHITE SOX EVEN SERIEL WITH THE TIGERS

DETROIT, May 17—(AP)—With base hits rattling to every section of Navin field, the Chicago White Sox evened the series with Detroit today by a 6 to 2 score. Despite a well working curve which fanned seven Chicago batters, Earl Whitehill was touched for 14 hits.

Red Faber spitballed the Tigers into submission after the first inning, in which he was nicked for four hits which yielded the complete Detroit score. A double error by Roy Johnson in the ninth inning accounted for two of the Sox runs, Reynolds circling the bases on what technically was a double. Score:

ROBINS BEAT PHILLIES IN WIERD CONTEST

PHILADELPHIA, May 17—(AP)— The Robins just lasted to shade the Phillies by 14 to 13 in a wild game here this afternoon, the second clash of the series. George Susce, batting for Claude Willoughby in the ninth with two out and the bases filled, rolled a bounder to Gilbert, forcing Friberg at third and ending the game.

Roy Elliott, McGraw, Milligan, Holloway and Willoughby worked for the Phillies in a vain effort to halt the Robins, but they were only slightly less effective than Ferguson, Moss, Ballou and Clark for the visitors. Gilbert, Herman and Hendrick hit home runs for Brooklyn, while Chuck Klein hit his sixth of the season in the ninth with O'Doul on base.

Ballou was the winning pitcher and Milligan the loser. The score:

P. WANER'S DOUBLE IN 7TH WINS FOR PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 17—(AP)—A double by Paul Waner with the bases jammed in the seventh brought victory to the Pittsburgh Pirates in the second game of a series with St. Louis today.

The Buccaneers came back with another in the third, only to have the Cards deadlock the tally again in the fourth. The Pirate rally in the seventh netted four counters and the game.

VERDICT OF $19,000 FOR DR. KENYON IN TROLLEY SUIT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 17—Verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $19,000 was returned by a jury at 6:20 this evening in the Dr. Frances A. Kenyon damage suit which has been on trial the past week in Washington county superior court before Judge Antonia A. Capotosto and jury. The jury, Benjamin T. Gavitt, foreman, retired at 11:22. Judge Capotosto told them that their lunch would be supplied and their deliberations were to continue until they prepared to return a verdict.

Court opened Friday morning for the last day of trial of the suit for $20,000 brought by Dr. Kenyon of Woodville, R. I., vs. the United Electric Railway Company of Providence for alleged damages sustained by being thrown at Weybosset street, Providence, Oct. 22, 1926 at 8:30 a. m. when a Hope street electric car was stopped suddenly. The jury was charged by Judge Capotosto at 11:25 and His Honor concluded at 12:17. Attorney Greenlaw appeared for the railway company and Lawyer Sweeney for the plaintiff, the latter taking exceptions several times to Judge Capotosto's charge to the jury and his interpretation as to the two year statutory limitation of liability of the utility company.

Judge Capotosto announced that he had excused from the town of North Kingstown, as this Friday was "his busy day," a fish dealer, J. Irving L. Howes, but he was to report next Monday.

With Frederick D. Johnson, painter, of Peace Dale, South Kingstown, foreman, the following jury was impaneled to hear the suit of Lloyd H. Chaseborough of Wequetequock against Anielllo Matarese Westerly, to collect for ice sold respondent July 10, 11 and 12, 1923, from the ruins of his burned ice house: South Kingstown—Chester H. I MEAN YOU

Who are suffering from too much acid in your system.

Who are suffering from indigestion, sour stomach, gas and their results—restless sleep, weakness and rheumatism

Who are suffering from colds and sick headache.

Do you know that you can get permanent relief by taking ACIDINE daily? ACIDINE, a new discovery, contains the newest and best medicinal principles. ACIDINE is better than anything you have ever tried. Money back without a word if it doesn't help you. Your druggist has it, or write Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

ACIDINE

HOW YOU MAKE IT

Slices of bread (as many as needed). Toast one side only. Spread untoasted side with butter. Cover with sliced uncooked, skinned tomatoes. Arrange three strips uncooked bacon across sandwich. Place thin layer of cheese on top. Sprinkle with paprika. Set in hot baking oven till bacon curls and edges are browned. Serve at once.

These sandwiches may be cut in circles for more dainty service, or the crusts may be left on and the sandwich provide a hearty course.

Now a New Sandwich
In the Russian Style

You prepare it best with Wonder Bread, that delicious new bread widely urged by dietitians. Remember that.

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

Being a close-textured bread, it slices without crumbling. And because of its delicate flavor it vastly improves the taste of the sandwich itself. So be warned and use no other.

It offers, too, some amazing health advantages. It supplies, for instance, an abundance of calories. It provides many necessary proteins. The elements that build sturdy muscles.

Thus if eaten daily Wonder Bread promotes family health to a marked degree. It restores burned-up energy and it fosters growth.

To maintain its quality day after day, we go to great lengths.

We employ a large staff of food experts to test each batch of ingredients. We specify specially milled short patent flour. Only the heart of the wheat berry is used.

We use double the usual amount of milk. Every drop pasteurized.

We employ, too, a special method of baking. Slo-baking, it is called. A method that seals in the dietetic value of our ingredients and improves their flavor.

Hence when you get Wonder Bread you get the best. It knows no rival. Millions have found this to be so.

So please try it, to prove what it offers you and yours.

Note its dainty flavor. Its freshness. See how evenly it toasts. How easily it slices.

SEVEN QUICK FACTS
About Wonder Bread

Grandmothers—Then and New

My Grandmother's back was bent.
Her face was soft and wrinkled;
Her hair was white, her eyes were blue—
And my! how bright they twinkled!

My Grandmother dressed in black,
And a cap of dainty lace,
With plaitings full and ribbon bow,
Framed her kind old face.

My Grandmother never wore
Fine clothes, nor jewels rare;
Just her wedding ring, and a pin
That held her mother's hair.

My Grandmother used to tell
The best tales ever heard!
Of "the frog who would a-wooing go,"
And "the wond'rous talking bird."

The little children of today
Have no Grandmothers now;
The Fairies took them all away—
And shall I tell you now?

They smoothed the wrinkles from their brows,
And made their cheeks as fair
As those of rosy, blooming girls
And the gold stays in their hair.

When the little ones go "to Grandma's" now
There's very little chance
Of a cosy time and a story-hour—
Grandma's gone to a dance!

And the sweet old ladies of days gone by
Have given up their place
To fair young women, with youthful brows
And figures of girlish grace.

Ah, the Fairies may do lots of good.
But 'twas surely one sad day
For all the little folks when they took
The old Grandmothers away!

The Year Ahead

The year ahead leads on afar
To nature's wooded hills,
To verdant dells and welling bells,
To mountains' rushing rills.

The year ahead, in science fields,
Leads on in search of facts;
To delve in earth, to know its birth
By God's creative acts.

The year ahead leads on to peace,
To everlasting calm;
To peace of soul, a precious goal,
To Gilead's cherished balm.

The year ahead leads on to hope—
A bigger, brighter day;
A hope enlarged, a life surcharged
With Christ, the shining way.

The year ahead, at early dawn,
May presage heart's desire;
The Kingdom's place, the sign of grace
Brought down from Holy Fire.

The Mule and the Man

The mule—he is a gentle beast;
And so is man.
He's satisfied to be the least;
And so is man.
Like man he may be taught some tricks;
He does his work from eight to six;
The mule—when he gets mad, he kicks;
And so does man.

The mule—he has a load to pull;
And so does man.
He's happiest when he is full;
And so is man.
Like man he holds a patient poise;
And when his work is done will rejoice;
The mule—he likes to hear his voice;
And so does man.

The mule is sometimes kind and good;
And so is man.
He eats all kinds of breakfast food;
And so does man.
Like man he balks at gaudy dress,
And all outlandish foolishness;
The mule's accused of mulishness;
And so is man.

A Song for Winter

If a body meet the winter 'neath a sullan sky;
If the winter nip a body, need a body cry?
If the winter hurts a body, freezing hand and toes,
Needs body tell a body everywhere he goes?
Coming thro' the cold, poor body, coming thro' the rain;
Do not let your spirits languish—that will add to pain.
Smile a bit and jest a bit; sing a little song,
'Tis upon you, spiteful winter, spring-time won't be long!"
If a body meet with trouble, suffer for a spell,
Entertain a wintry season, need a body tell?
If a body notice sorrow waiting at the gate,
Cry aloud, "Joy's at my health, sir, you have come too late."

Six Optimists

"How's trade?" I asked a legless chap
Who does a juggling trick;
And he replied that things were slow,
But that he couldn't kick.

"How's trade?" a deaf man I besought
Who peddles plaster saints,
And who, I learned from his reply,
Had heard of no complaints.

I questioned next a one-armed wight
Who runs an apple stand,
And learned that he, he rarely thought,
Could use another hand.

"How's trade?"—this to a toothless dame
Who bears a peddler's bag;
And while she didn't boom a lot,
She didn't chew the rag.

"How' a trade?" I asked a blind galoot—
A knife and scissors whetter—
Who smiled and answered: "Out of sight!
Can't hope to see it better."

"How's trade?" I queried last a mute
Who tends a filling station;
And he had not a word to say
Against the situation.

BONNY ELOISE

The Belle of Mohawk Vale

O, sweet is the vale whose the Mohawk gently glides
Through its clear, winding way to the sea;
And dearer than all storied streams on earth besides
Is that bright, rolling river to me.
But sweeter, dearer, yes dearer far than those
Who charm where others all fail
Is blue-eyed, bonny, bonny Eloise,
The Belle of the Mohawk vale.

O, sweet are the scenes of my boyhood's sunny years
That bespangle the gay valley o'er
And dear are the friends seen thro' memory's fond tears
That have lived in the blest days of yore;
But sweeter, dearer, yes dearer far than these
Who charm where others all fail
Is blue-eyed, bonny, bonny Eloise,
The Belle of the Mohawk vale.

O, sweet are the moments when dreaming I roam
Thro' my loved haunts, now mossy and gray,
And dearer than all is my childhood's hallowed home
That is now crumbling slowly away.
But sweeter, dearer, yes, dearer far than those
Who charm where others all fail,
Is blue-eyed, bonny, bonny Eloise,
The Belle of the Mohawk vale.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

May 21—Club No. 6 meets in Episcopal church parlors at Westerly.
May 22—Club No. 2 meets at Baptist church in Lebanon.

NICE TIME AT CLUB MEETING

Dear Corner Friends: The call of the springtime is claiming our attention and every minute is devoted to the duties that are constantly before us and which seem to multiply as each day comes. Black-eyed Susie's tribute to mother in her letter was wonderful—so true. There is no love so deep and unselfish as mother love.

The last meeting in the hall, till fall, was very well attended, by about sixty. The tables were prettily decorated with flowers and gay May baskets, which later were filledand sent to the shut-ins of the club. The dinner of salmon loaf, beans, salads, variety of nice home-made pies and cakes, fruit, pickles, candy, etc., was most excellent. The musical program was much enjoyed, as the old-time songs are always favorites.

Our genial hostess, Wisteria, with her helpers, October, Anona, April Flowers, Sis of Windham, Mary France, Maisie and Taxi, are to be commended for the pleasant time they gave us.

I was surprised to see the notice of Rural Delivery's death. His letters will be missed from the Corner page, as he had been a faithful contributor from the very first. To the writer that wanted to root hardy shrubs, will tell of an experience of mine. When planting my flower bed, I broke off some shoots of deutzia, to mark the rows, and imagine my surprise to find them rooted and growing later on. Think most any shrub could be easily propagated by starting in early spring and procuring the slip as White Chrysanthemum has directed, as that makes a dig difference. I have not done much gardening yet. It's been so chilly to work out. I wonder if any Corner sister has a red, dark red, hardy phlox, or a pink one, to exchange for a white with pink eye, or lavender shades, or any other hardy flower they would like that I have.

I have iris, columbines, clove pink, etc.

Jennie: Has the windmill survived the gales of the winter?

Diana: We seldom see a leter from you nowadays.

Wisteria and Mary France: Brave was much pleased with the May basket and sends thanks. She is getting better slowly.

Sympathy to all in sorrow or trouble.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: How time moves on! How cold it is, with the thermometer reaching the freezing point. I will try and write a few words this beautiful afternoon, as I am alone. I am getting interested in Dad Shaw's letters which I find in The Norwich Bulletin. I am wondering if he can look back far enough to remember when a calf's head and pluck could be bought for 15c? Now we must pay 90c per pound for calves' liver. I can remember when I used to come home from school mother would have a large platter of this particular meat all ready to eat. How good it was! How we children enjoyed it! She used to take out the brains and soak them a while in cold water; then boil them in salted water, ready to be served with the gravy.

I remember my father used to get up Sunday mornings and take his pole and fishing tackle and go out and catch a nice meal of trout for his breakfast. Well, on this particular Sunday our minister was to exchange pulpits with the Eastford pastor and on his way overtook father and preached about it on that day as doing a wicked act, etc., but the first time he had occasion to meet this gentleman preacher father exchanged pulpits with him, and don't you forget it. Now my father was a man that always wanted to mind his own affairs and never cared what his neighbors were doing. Yet he was "Not what the world called a Christian;

No creed did he ever profess,
Yet he lived a life that was blameless,
His deeds were of righteousness.

"Yet not what the world called a Christian,"
No wrong did he ever do man
For honest, upright in his dealings,
He followed the Infinite's plan.

"To do unto others as he would have others treat him in return,
Tho not what the world called a Christian',
Yet Christians his goodness might learn.

"Tho not what the world calls a Christian,
Yet his heart was as pure as a child's,
He surely has entered the kingdom
Prepared for the pure, undefiled."

FIGHTING THE PESTS

Dear Social Corner Members: I know others are as much interested as I am in gardening, but it sometimes seems as if each season brought new kinds of bugs to plague the gardener. Each season seems reasonably certain to bring back the old ones. The battle against the bugs may start at any time one can get into the garden. Start the clean-up now. If any old stalks of vegetables were left in the garden. Usually there are plenty of them that are missed in the fall clean-up, which is sometimes made impossible by bad weather.

Go over the garden any bright day and clean off all old stalks and gather them up and burn old cabbage stumps, bean vines and the like. They furnish winter shelter for the eggs and cocoons of myriads of insects. Every one destroyed may be counted as destroying some form of life hostile to plants.

Rake the old leaves and grass off the garden at the first opportunity and stack it on the compost heap.

While attending in leisurely fashion to cleaning up during the winter months, be sure to include a liberal supply of insecticides along with the seed order. Nothing like having them in the house. If you treasure a few plants in the house over winter they are likely to need tobacco in some form for plant lice, whale oil soap for scales and mealy bugs.

Powdered tobacco sprinkled about the roots of plants has been found to be a preventive of many insect pests. A handful on top of the delphiniums checks the deadly "blacks", which it is now known is caused by a mite that dislikes tobacco. Destroy any cocoons found in fences or bushes about the garden. The insect hibernating inside may be ready to break forth and lay the eggs of many devouring "worms" as soon as warm weather arrives.

Start the war on insect pests before the ground is in shape for planting. It will give a decided advantage in the annual battle. Kale, which stands out all winter for use, often harbors aphides or plant lice which stand low temperature and survive. See that all the kale is removed from the garden if not used before spring arrives.

GEORGETTE'S STORY LETTER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Did you enjoy yourselves? I'm sorry so many found it impossible to stay.

I want to thank Lahleet, Red Rose, Gypsy, Smudgie and Libby for helping me out with Rocking Chair Row. Sorry Mawb couldn't have been with us, but Libby did splendid and she didn't have a single rehearsal.

I have had several requests for my little story-letter, so I am sending it in. Some filings you see are not just seasonal, because you don't find Black-eyed Susies and yellow bells blosoming at the same time, but please overlook such errors because I wanted to get them all in.

Scottie: Glad to have seen you there.

Sister Ready: Sorry you couldn't come, but I understand how it is.

Now let's see what was going on back in 1926 when some of my friends went visiting. Now do you know where Chelsea is up in the Bay State? Well, that's where Aunt Mary Jane lives, so Marietta, Hope and Evelyn Burr all took a trip up to see her.

Her estate is in the suburbs and goes under the name of Seven Gables. It sits on the top of a hill open to the Four Winds. It sure was a pretty sight. So many Wild Flowers growing along the road and all along the stone wall leading up to the side house was a border of Golden Glow, while over the doorstep and door was an arbor of Crimson Rambler that was humming with Bumblebees and occasionally you would see a Daddy Longlegs stepping along.

Aunt Mary Jane spied them coming, so was at the door to meet them, as was Papa's Boy. Hope spied the Ann Tenna and got all excited trying to find which window it went in at, but lost track of it and soon lost Patience, but Marietta said she should B Natural and Try Again.

When they went inside they found Ravena, Gerilda, Palla and Kochia all ready for a trip to the woods. So Hope trailed along and later came back with a bunch of Black-eyed Susies, Hepatica, Yellow Bells and Sumac. They all enjoyed their trip, but Gerilda's Red Georgette dress looked a little the worse for the trip.

In the afternoon they drove over to River View to a lawn party some 32 of them were having. Marietta said she was a Stranger in the City so let Evelyn Burr take the wheel. Aunt Mary Jane pointed out the big Flat Rock where they went to see the Eclipse at the sign of Aries. A little further along they passed Charter Oak park. They thought of all the Nonesopretty as this one with lovely Calla Lilies and White Chrysanthemums and Canterbury Bells of the True Blue color. Hope said she thought there must be about 30 different kinds of flowers around the entrance but Evelyn said she guessed there were Twice Twenty.

When they got there they found out they had been so Slow the affair was nearly over, but they met several friends they knew. Among them were Aunt Sarah and her Country Sister and Country Cousin. You see, Aunt Sarah was our Rural Aunty and had just received a Rural Delivery letter that morning saying they might come over to call on her. There were Olga, Nellie Bly, Milly, Necia, Aunt Jerusha and little Rosalind dressed up like little Bo-Peep and Dorinda, who Gusta said was Just a Nut. Over at the refreshment table they saw Andy and his lady friend, Daisy Dean, drinking Beers served by Sister Ready. Of course it was root beers. They say Andy is getting to be quite a Commuter in the direction of River View. He's there nearly every evening to see his Bricktop. At one side of the large lawn there were a few lovely peonies for the delight of the children; one was named Velvie, another Trottie. Still others were Silver Locks, Scottie and Smudgie. Now weren't the kiddies enjoying the rides!

Of course they had to visit the Gypsy tent which was under a big tree with these initials carved in the trunk: E. L. M. and I. J. B., also U. C. E. Norma said she thought the tree must have been there since the days of Adam and Eve, it was so big. The gypsy said she was from Caro, but she came nearer coming from Christiana, so Jennie thought. You see, she was quite an Optimist.

Dorothy Bradford and her friend, Bonnie Bell, as they called him, were kind of in doubt about some of the things she told them. But still the other girls went in to find out their futures, and oh, such tales of joy and warnings and sorrows.

Then came the Indian maid, Lahleet, who was selling beautiful trinkets made by members of her tribe. Another maid was called the funniest name, Prairie Chicken. Alta said she was some Biddy. Prairie Chicken called her baby Blue Baby, a cheerful name to have until she goes to the happy hunting grounds.

They took a look at the garden before going and got some Balsam Fir and Cosmos, also some Catnip for Ma of Greene Gables' little kitten Mawb. There were row after row of Kentucky Wonder beans and a beautiful Strawberry bed. They went over to see the lovely Cactus Blossom and then bade everyone farewell because Thelma, Betsy Bobbett, or Marjory by right, and Libby were going to drive with them as far as Mayfair inn with a book called Wurdy Belle that they wanted Joan and Ellie M. to read and to get a book from them called The Gingham Lady.

COME TO CLUB NO. 6 MEETING

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Club No. 6 meets May 21 in the vestry of the Episcopal church, corner Broad and Elm streets, Westerly. There are no stairs to climb, plenty of room and tables for all. Bring dishes and food. I hope to see a good crowd.

Necia: I saw you sitting by the window when we came by Saturday night. Come down and stay all night Tuesday, so to go to grange meeting.

Miss Farmer: How are the chickens? I shall look for you Tuesday.

PROGRESS IN RURAL SCHOOLROOMS

Dear Cornerites: Whatever views we may hold as to the present day methods of teaching compared with those of olden days, certainly we must agree that much progress has been made in making the rural schoolroom attractive and in giving the teacher better equipment with which to work.

It happened that in our particular district the old style sloping desks which were placed around three sides of the room, once painted black, but worn with age to a peculiar shiny greenish hue and well indented "with many a jackknife's scarred initial," were still in use when I first went to school. The benches were unpainted and had no backs. We faced the walls of the room, but when we recited or as a special privilege we turned about face.

Two little low benches, one on each side of the old box stove, were for the "little kids," as we who had outgrown might have been preserved, that our them disparagingly expressed it. We wish that some of these old desks little daughter when she is older might see what they were like.

We had no shades for the windows, but newspapers over the upper sash were put up to keep out some of the glare.

Not until I was 13 or 14 did we have any pictures. At that time the teacher purchased 15 or 20 Perry pictures and pinned them about the walls, which had in the meantime been papered as a change from the bare plaster. What a thrill it was to help her put them up and with what pleasure did we contemplate our finished work.

Then the books. Of course we purchased our own text books and the town purchased occasionally a little supplementary reading material. "Grandfather's Chair" was one of these sets and though pupils now may consider it dull reading we know our class read them through several times and felt quite on speaking terms with all the characters. Finally one of our teachers got up a social and using the money raised and a grant from the state purchased the nucleus of a school library.

How we did devour those books and how the incentive of being able to go up to the shelf and get a "library book" when our work was completed did lighten the day's study.

The blackboard was just as its name implies, a board painted black, or worse yet, in some cases, just the plaster wall painted black. When they were newly painted it wasn't so bad, but after they had gotten worn there wasn't much fun in using them.

The floors of splintery white pine had a generous crack between each board. What clouds of dust arose when the broom was too vigorously applied—dust that entered one's nose and set one to sneezing and made one's throat feel sore and scratchy for some time. Now oiling of floors is required by state law, and one bane of the teacher's existence removed.

Had we space we might mention other things—cupboards for books and nature collections, drinking fountains and individual cups, bulletin boards to display school work, etc.

Let us teach our children to appreciate these things and to take care that this town property is not abused.

BO-PEEP.

THE SHORTCAKE SEASON

Dear Corner Sisters: At this season I am sending a popular recipe and I know you will like it:

Shortcake: One can use anyfilling desired, fruit cooked or uncooked, or a mixture of fruits; strawberries make a filling that is generally liked, and peaches are a close second, as are oranges. I have made a delicious rhubarb-and-raisin filling; pruneaare nice, cooked soft and sifted, and there are other good fillings. I always try to make a little change in them, but never vary my rule for the cake itself. It is far better without either sweetening or eggs. Many make a regular cake, as for layer-cake, or cottage pudding; but the old fashioned shortcake was simply like nice baking-powder biscuits, and nothing surpasses it: Sift together two cups of pastry flour, two teaspoons of baking powder and a half teaspoon of salt; add butter the size of an egg, cutting in bits and rubbing in, and about one-half cup of cold milk, or as much as needed to make a soft dough, mixing with a knife. It should be handled lightly and as little as possible. Pat it out a half inch thick on a floured board. If you make individual cakes—and these are nicest, I think—cut with a large biscuit-cutter, place on buttered baking tins and bake in a hot oven so they will be brown and crisp. A cake to be cut like a pie on in squares may have two layers, one on the other, buttered between, or be baked in the same way and split, like the individual cakes. Butter each half lightly, cover the lower half with crushed strawberries or sliced fruit, well sweetened, put on the top part and spread with sweetened, whipped cream, flavored with a little vanilla, if liked, and dot with whole ripe strawberries or mix with a little crushed fruit. Try this, and you will never make shortcake any other way, although you may use your own favorite recipe for the biscuits.

Gingerbread: One-half cup each of sugar, molasses and milk, one egg, three tablespoons of butter and one and one-half cups of flour sifted with one teaspoon each of soda and cinnamon, and one and one-eighth teaspoons of ginger, and one-eighth teaspoon of salt; beat thoroughly, pour into a well buttered shallow pan, and bake in a moderate oven 30 to 40 minutes, or until done.

MAJESTIC.

CARE OF CHICKS

Dear Editor and All the Friends: Some weather we are having. I think there is snow on the way. There are quite a few having chickens now. Well, it is all right if one knows how to care for them. Chicks have a habit of huddling together, so have a pine rack about three inches high and they will get on this and the air gets under it so they are not so apt to smother, which they sometimes do on the floor. Don't give young chicks meat at first; give them rolled oats for a few days. Then give them two-thirds bran and one-third meal. I scald it with boiling water; then it is swelled before the chicks get it in their crops. If mixed with cold water it swells in the crop and often kills the chick. I have seen them die with feed like that.

If you don't have a drinking fountain, take a deep pie tin, put in some fine stone, then fill it with water. The pebbles keep them from drowning. If one has milk, that is fine for them. If you cannot let them run, put dirt and gravel in the coop. Some say they want all one kind of chicks, but I prefer mixed breeds, as they are better layers. I experimented with hens for 15 years and I am telling you from experience and not from book knowledge. I had 69, and got a good place for them, either. I got twice as many eggs all winter as a neighbor that had 500 and a fine place in the pines facing the south. He gave his hens all kinds of stuff. I gave mine whole corn once a week, a hot wet mash of meal and bran, with salt, cayenne pepper, chopped onions and a heaping mixing spoon of Pratt's poultry food.

I had eggs all winter and my brown Leghorn laid all through moulting—the only hen I ever saw do that. I had her 13 years. They told me she was an old hen. She ducked one night. I was going to set her the next day. In the morning she came and met me. She was singing at the top of her voice, as much as to say, "Now I have fooled you this time." The only time while I had her.

Keeping hens is all right if you know how to care for them. Learn it for yourself; let book learning go, it doesn't amount to much.

Ann Tenna: I hope you are much improved.

Ma of Greene Gables: If you wish to know who I am, just address a letter to Nonesopretty, East Killingly, and I will surely answer it. I am glad you are much better.

Butterfly: Oh, that rat! He has eaten half a pound of plaster of Paris and a lot of my meal and sugar, yet he is playing golf over me nights. My but it is dark!

I hope all the sick are better. May God bless them and keep them is my heart's best wishes.

NONESOPRETTY (Club No. 4).

TRY THIS ON YOUR PARLOR CARPET

Dear Corner Folks: I see by Saturday's paper that our club is coming to life again, so am reminded I still have not written that long promised letter. I still consider myself a Cornerite, although for some time past have not been a very active member. I hope the good member who sends us calendars has a very broad insight toward human nature and realizes our laxity in sending thanks is not because we do not appreciate them but because we are more or less at times sort of "been-puttin'-it-offs." At this late day I summon up courage to say Thanks! that it is fine to be so remembered each year.

Now I will send you something for your scrap books that I found in my home town paper:

A husband was asked to take down a radio recipt. This is what he heard and copied:

"Hands on hips, place on cup of flour on shoulders. Raise knees and depress toes and wash thoroughly in one-half cup of milk.

"In four counts raise both legs and mash two hard-boiled eggs in a seive. Repeat six times. Inhale one teaspoon of baking powder and one cup of flour; breathe through nose and exhale and sift.

"Attention! Jump to a stride, stand and bend the white of an egg backward and forward overhead, and in four counts make stiff dough that will stretch at the waist. Lie flat on the floor and roll into a marble the size of a walnut.

"Hop backward and forward in boiling water but do not boil into a stationary hop afterwards. In ten minutes remove from fire and dry with a towel. Breathe deeply. Put on a bath robe and serve with a fish soup."

I won't guarantee this recipe but if any of you want to try it out come to our Corner meeting the 22d at Lebanon Baptist church and we'll help you try it out.

Aunt Sarah: Are you satisfied now?

I should like to add in closing that anyone who is good at entertaining will be called upon to contribute something at the meeting.

DON'T WORRY.

THE FLOWERS FOR PEGGY ALDER

Dear Social Corner Friends: For fear Nonesopretty's letter may make a wrong impression, I am writing an explanation. The flowers given to Peggy Alder were just from East Killingly members of the Social Corner and not from the whole of Club 4. No one was asked to contribute except the members living right here in our little village. We only asked for a small contribution, so all could have a share in the flowers. Am happy to say nearly everyone responded; there were two or three that we didn't see, and all expressed their pleasure in being given a chance to help, and so glad someone thought of it. Of course, the flowers were of no use to our sister, but it expressed our appreciation of her and our sympathy for the family.

Good idea, Twice Twenty. I had been thinking of asking Try Again to send that piece to The Bulletin so we could all have it, but one needs to hear Try Again read it to thoroughly enjoy it.

My brain is not working today, so I'll just send this and hope to have some ideas some time. Keziah is in the same boat in regard to ideas.

BIG ATTENDANCE WANTED

Dear Social Corner Members: As Aunt Sarah is trying to revive Club No. 3, and is coming from Hartford to work for the meeting, I hope as many members of Club No. 3 as can possibly do so will be present; also members of other clubs and friends who do not belong are all welcome at the chapel of the Baptist church on Wednesday, May 22. Please bring dishes and something for the dinner; also if anyone has anything for the entertainment, it will help.

Must tell the sisters how I had my kitchen floor fixed over. It was a hardwood floor and had been varnished, but the varnish had worn off in spots. So my husband painted it two coats of light yellow paint, then over that put a coat of shellac. Now it looks as good as when new. Then I wove a rug out of old bedticking, which makes a nice heavy rug for a kitchen, and one that will wash well.

Hope both Bo-Peep No. 1 and No. 2 can be present the 22nd. The hostesses will be Aunt Sarah, Neighbor, Don't Worry and DORINDA.

THANKS FOR THE MAY BASKET

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Last Wednesday morning I was glad to see the sun shining, as it was gathering day for Club No. 1. Although I could not attend, I know you all had a fine time, and it was lovely and very thoughtful to send us the pretty May basket filled with good things. Betsy Bray and I say thank you, very, very much; it surely is nice to be remembered. Mary France kindly delivered it. She has indeed been a sister to me during my time of hard luck. Am getting along nicely and hope to continue so. I hope all will enjoy the coming warm days and those who have had things hard I hope they will find things pleasanter for them.

MARIGOLD.

DID YOU LAUGH, TOO?

Dear Social Corner Members: I think all who read my letter last week must have had a good laugh over the lady driving a car that looked like Black-eyed Susie. It was the lady and not the car that looked like her. What fine tributes were paid to mothers in both prose and poetry, in the pulpits, magazines and over the radio. There surely is no one like mother. Hope to see a large number at Club 8 meeting next Tuesday, the 21st, in the Episcopal church parlors at Westerly. Bears is hostess and Bonny Belle has charge of the program. Everybody bring dishes and some kind of food.

E. L. M.

David and Garrett Johnson were working on their farm at Gallatin, Mo., as usual, when a neighbor came along and asked them if they did not know that they were working on the Sabbath day. They were astonished to learn that they were one day ahead of time and hastened to the house and donned their Sunday clothing. David said he was going to quit taking the daily papers, for they were two days late.

SPIRITED RECOVERY IN STOCK PRICES IN QUIET SESSION OF THE EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, May 17—(AP)—Prices recovered in spirited fashion in a rather quiet session on the stock exchange today. While professional traders took advantage of comparatively cheap call money to drive shorts to cover, continued uncertainty in the credit outlook discouraged large scale operations, and the day's transactions totalled but 3,833,640 shares.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent and was soon shaded to 6, but this was not very convincing, in view of the fact that money dropped to 6 last Friday, only to reach 15 a few days later. One theory expressed in banking circles was that money was being made cheap in order to induce the withdrawal of interior funds attracted by the recent high rates.

The rediscount situation remained highly perplexing. The Chicago Reserve bank retained its 5 per cent rate, as the New York bank did yesterday, but it was understood that in both cases the directors had favored a higher rate, only to have the proposals vetoed by the reserve officials in Washington. While some traders regarded retention of the 5 per cent rate here as a bullish development, a number of both brokers and bankers have come to the conclusion that a rate in keeping with the open market rates would make for a healthy credit situation generally.

The day's news was again largely favorable. The weekly trade and business reviews pointed out that continued unseasonable weather in many sections still retarded retail trade, but that the high rate of activity in most basic industries was remarkably well maintained. Standard Oil of Indiana raised gasoline prices a full cent a gallon. Standard of New Jersey reported 1928 earnings of $4.43 a share, in contrast to only $1.53 in 1927, and President Teagle expressed optimism over the prospect of controlling production. Montgomery Ward estimated that 1929 sales will exceed $300,000,000 a gain of about 40 per cent over 1928.

Some of the high priced issues soared from 10 to 18 points, and a wide assortment of shares mounted from 2 to 5 points. Considerable profit taking had to be absorbed, however, and rather heavy selling just before the close, representing week end realizing, and uneasiness over the Chicago bank rate, reduced gains materially.

General Electric was again buoyant, reflecting continued rumors of a split up and possible distribution of its holdings of radio. It mounted about 14 points to a record price at 295, and closed at 289 1-2. Auburn Auto again surged ahead with a gain of 18 points, taking it to a new peak at 254. The company reported record April sales, and Wall street unconfirmed gossip has it that the company is experimenting with an aviation motor and a new automobile chassis of radical design.

Burroughs Adding Machine continued to soar as result of the proposed split up, mounting about 17 points to a new top at 319. Sparks Withington mounted more than 12, and Otis Elevator 17 points. Marlin Rockwell reached a new high on reports of a merger with Timken Roller Bearing. Strombergs Carburetor also reached new high ground. Phillips Jones reached a new peak on rumors of a higher dividend and good earning.

Utilities made marked headway. American Water Works rising 6 points and Detroit Edison 4 to record levels. Coppers improved. Anaconda selling up about 4 points at one time. Oils were firm, with Standard of Indiana, Atlantic Refining, Houston and Beacon selling up a point or two.

Among the soft spots were Goodyear and International Telephone, which fell back more than 3 points, and Air Reduction, which dropped 5.

Commodities were featured by another break in wheat of 2 1-2 to 3 cents a bushel. Selling was prompted by excellent weather and small export demand, and stop loss orders were caught. Corn lost about 2 cents. Cotton moved up in sympathy with an upturn at Liverpool, but ran into profit taking and closed slightly lower.

Foreign exchanges were dull, with the gradual sag in sterling toward the gold point still apparent. Sterling cables touched $4.85 1-32.

Life of Paul by Stereopticon.

At 4 o'clock tomorrow (Sunday) at the Y. M. C. A. building, the life of the great Apostle Paul will be portrayed by some forty stereopticon slides, and the public generally is cordially invited.

These pictures are very true to the recorded life story of this wonderful man, who at first was strong in his opposition to the people who espoused the cause of the Christ, after his very unusual experience on the Damascus road when he was struck down to the earth, he became the most valiant champion of the Christian religion the world has ever known. This one great life has perhaps wielded a greater influence for good than any other life save that of the Master himself. The study of such a life, especially in connection with the stereopticon pictures has a definite tendency to appeal to the heroic in human nature.

A brief talk in line with the pictures will be given, and some illustrated songs will be used in the service.

The divorce was granted on the grounds of intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1923. The couple was married June 29, 1907. Judge Arthur F. Libby was counsel for the petitioner.

Helen Izbicki Davignon of this city secured divorce from Arthur Davignon of Sprague and custody of a seven year old son. The marriage of the couple took place on July 9, 1919 and the divorce was granted on the grounds of cruelty since Aug. 1, 1922.
